Her goal is to include the women

"I am going to suggest that their backgrounds are different," said Dr. Rachel Starr, who will lecture about women in politics on the local, state, and national levels," said Starr. "There is a huge socialization process that teaches women not to be involved. A socialization process that teaches them their place, a certain role."

Women are excluded from high status by tradition and custom, said Starr. "No woman has ever been President of the United States, nor a Secretary of State appointed to the United States Supreme Court. Few women have been members of Congress or a president's cabinet," she said.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) - George C. Wallace-looking ahead to his next presidential campaign - said the war on poverty is the real cause of the problems that the state faces.

Inaugurated as the state's first three-term governor, Wallace said Tuesday it will be his theme in 1975 to continue his interest in national affairs. I will say to those who don't like it, if they don't like it, they can do what they want to do about it."

With the first black ever to serve in a governor's cabinet sitting to his right, Wallace said, "We have shown that government in this state has cared for all of the people of our state, black and white...

NOCILLA (UP) - President Archbishop Makarios intervened personally Monday to turn back thousands of Greek Cypriot demonstrators trying to storm the American Center in defiance of last year's gas tax and wartime sanctions imposed by police and soldiers.

The bearded priest-priest, wearing the traditional black robe of the Greek Orthodox Church, faced the crowd of brick-throwing demonstrators and like a modern Pied Piper led about 1,000 of them away peacefully.

DETROIT (UP) - General Motors Corp. announced Monday it is joining the price war among major automakers and will pay rebates ranging from $300 to $600 to buyers of its entire subcompact vehicle line.

Chairman Thomas A. Murphy said the rebates will go directly to the consumer and are representative of what customers who bought cars from Jan. 12.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Supreme Court Monday agreed to review an appeal involving a suit that states outlawing dancing in bars and other public places is unconstitutional.

The justices also will consider the issue of whether the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals acted properly in issuing its ruling at the time a prosecution was in progress under such a law.

The 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia reversed a criminal conviction last year involving two men who were convicted of illegal dancing in bars and other public places.

Trial on the 21 convictions was postponed, said Hill. "The city isn't about to drop this and they want us behind them. If it comes to the point of (continued on page 3)

Tenants of Kirl-Kar Apartments may file their own lawsuits in what is considered a "criminal complaint with the District Attorney's office." I file an ethical conduct complaint with the California State Bar Association; conduct a massive media campaign against him; and file for an injunction against his alleged actions.

The controversy over Kardel's landlord practices arose last October when 20 students filed complaints against Kardel that were among 30 complaints. None of the complaints involved a security deposit, the charges varied from "arbitrary standards the man must make a deep, dark plot out of something that was originally a joke."

Writer rebuked

Editor:

Anne Zerrien's "staff comment," which was concerned with the morality of the United States government was an unfortunate journalistic endeavor.

A reading audience naturally expects an editorial to express a personal opinion, but additionally, the reading public also demands that the opinion being expressed be tempered with objective facts and valid reasoning.

Anne Zerrien unquestionably failed to be objective in her approach to the issue concerned with morality of the United States government.

Correction

In the Friday, Jan. 11 issue of Mustang the letter to the editor, "Student declares Timnoe in error," should have been signed by the author, Brad Berdoulay.

Government, and, consequently, the credibility of her opinion was lessened. Specifically, I am making reference to the writer's jumble of highly charged generalizations used to insinuate her basic premise that the Federal government is immoral. Her essay was illustrative of the technique of conveniently ignoring facts that could have otherwise shed doubt upon the premise being exposed.

The excerpts taken from the text of the editorial will illustrate my contention. One statement made by the author to insinuate the immorality of the government was, "I have never dropped the bomb." With this statement, the author displayed ridiculous naivete. I am certain this country never advocated the use of the bomb as being moral, but rather saw the bomb as a tool that was "demanded" by the history of the time to be used to bring to an end the most "immoral," destructive, and horrible war of all time. Anne Zerrien conveniently ignored sentiments of the past that played a decisive role in the decision to use the bomb.

A second statement made by the writer to insinuate the morality of the government was, "The new Depression: heralded by an end to grain shipments to India..." This comment infers otherwise the morality of the government was, "I have never dropped the bomb."

Specifically, I am making reference to the writer's jumble of highly charged generalizations used to insinuate her basic premise that the Federal government is immoral. Her essay was illustrative of the technique of conveniently ignoring facts that could have otherwise shed doubt upon the premise being exposed.

Although I may be branded a "flag waver" because of the comments I have made, I feel that I was necessary in order to provide a balanced perspective. I know that it would be equally wrong for a person to declare the United States government to be entirely immoral in character.

THE EXORCIST IN 50 MINUTES

At That Speed, The 403 Pages Come Across With More Impact Than The Movie.

This is the same course President Kennedy had his Joint Chiefs of Staff take. The staff of President Nixon completed this course in June 1970. The same course has been taken by United Nations Congressmen.

Come as a High School student and find out, it is free to you, and you will leave with a better understanding of why it works. One thing that might bother you about your reading speed is that someone might find out how slow it is. The instructors at the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Free Speed Reading lesson will not keep your score. It's true we practice the first step of improved reading at a Mini-Lesson and we will improve your reading speed on the spot, but the result will remain your secret. Plan to attend a free Mini-Lesson and learn that it is possible to read 3-4 times faster, with comparable comprehension.

Barr believes women must get involved in politics so that "the white male-dominated society doesn't make all the decisions." Melisa Green, Barr's teaching assistant, said, "Women in politics will revolutionize the system."

An active member of the Women's Collective, sponsor of Barr's lecture, Ms. Green describes the group as a "supportive group that is interested in promoting women in their life choices." According to Barr, the group will "function individually, in the family, or as a powerful political force to help women in their lives."

Starr believes women must get involved in politics so that "the white male-dominated society doesn't make all the decisions." Melisa Green, Barr's teaching assistant, said, "Women in politics will revolutionize the system."

A student-run grievance board will be part of the program, Ms. Green said. "Before the grievance board can function, it must have the support of the administration, which always had a certain lethargic aspect about it." Starr said women can enter the decision-making process, if they decide to get involved in politics, legitimately, by running for of being offered or legitimately, by trying to overthrow the government and subvert the system.

"If it is our responsibility in a democracy to participate," Starr said, "then, perhaps, the subversive act is In not participating."

Admission to Barr's lecture is free. Men women are invited to attend.

It Blackston said he had attended a meeting with Mrs. Weare, and several other people, for the purpose of finding someone to run against Supervisor Eileen Kidwell. According to Blackston, the meeting was breaking up when Mrs. Weare asked him to join the CEBS. When he asked why, she reportedly replied "to spy on them."

Weare, an assistant professor of computer science at Cal Poly, said his wife had wanted to join the organization in order to learn more about it, but couldn't afford the $10 fee required. She then told Blackston she would give him the $10 for him to take a student, to join.

According to Blackston he was to give environmentalists an inside role in the development-oriented organization. Weare said it appeared Blackston might actually be working with CEBS, since he was elected to the board of directors "at the very first meeting he attended.

Legislature ponders bills affecting Poly

Legislative bills which concern college students and are being lobbied for in Sacramento by a legislative advocate were outlined by ASI President Scott Plotkin at last week's Student Affairs Council meeting.

Plotkin, who is the President of the California State University and Colleges Student Association (CSUCSPA), explained the intent of 11 bills the CSUCSPA voted to endorse and have legislative advocate Joe Hagerty lobby for in the legislature.

Among the bills were:

AB 118—provides for collective bargaining for state employees and particularly affects university faculty and staff. The CSUCSPA voted not to support the bill until there is student participation on drawing up the bill, said Plotkin.

AB 286—adds a non-voting faculty, student and alumni member to the board of trustees. The CSUCSPA would like to see the bill changed so that students would have a vote.

Cagers win on last second shot

Smooth shooting Gerald Jones only dropped a 3-foot jumper through the hoop at the buzzer to beat Poly, 86-85. In the game the Mustang basketball team improved with two of three in their team's four-in-team-vitual tournament last weekend.

The Mustangs, entering the tournament with a 1-4 record, managed to balance their ledger at 2-4.

The Mustang hoopsters, coached by Mary Stallard, lost their only game of the season against De Ana College, 85-84. Poly went on to beat Bakersfield State, 84-86, and Hayward State, 84-87.

De Ana was the only undefeated team of the tournament, with a fine 6-4 showing to win its victory over Poly, the De Ana team defeated Hayward, 84-85; whipped Bakersfield, 86-80, and beat the Poly junior varsity, 85-82.

Hayward managed to win one game by defeating Bakersfield, 65-63.

In the opening game Friday, Poly took a 26-17 lead over De Ana at the half. The Mustangs took advantage and won the match 82-81.

Freshman Sherry Furtitta was Mountain West player of the game with 16 points. Junior forward Cindy Estrada outscored her with 17 points, but the Mustangs were dominated by a Poly squad that outscored them 48-24 in the first half.

In Poly's victory over Bakersfield, Furtitta scored the 1,000th point of the season, the only player in double figures. Kathy Scott had a pickup shot and led in rebounds with a dozen. Kosik was right behind with seven points and 11 rebounds. Kathy Berman and junior forward Cindy Estrada led the Mustangs in scoring, with Berman getting nine points and seven rebounds and Estrada seven points and nine rebounds.

Junior Lesch of Bakersfield was high for the game with 14 points. Barrie Hill added 14.

In Saturday's game, Poly proved too much for Hayward to handle, as the Mustangs took a halftime lead of 38-19 and pushed it to 49 and out to the final buzzer.

Furtitta was again high scorer with 13 points. Estrada chipped in with 11 and picked up seven rebounds.

In the Poly junior varsity game against De Ana, the Mustangs took a halftime lead of 29-11 at the half. The game De Ana never came close up and rolled to a 96-34 victory.

Kris Harrington was the high scorer for the Colla with nine points.

Coach Stallard cited Furtitta, Kosik and Estrada for their outstanding play in the tournament.

Women win 2 of 3

The Cal Poly women's basketball team improved with practice, winning two of their three games in the tournament last weekend.

The Mustangs, entering the tournament with a 1-4 record, managed to balance their ledger at 2-4.

Women's Basketball: 2 of 3

The Mustangs will play away on Saturday, Jan. 34 and return home on Monday, Jan. 35.
