Affirmative Action group finishing plan

An official Cal Poly Affirmative Action plan is nearing completion, and should be ready to submit to the Chancellor's office by Feb. 14. All Vice-President Mike Hurtado informed the Student Affairs Council Wednesday night.

Hurtado, a member of the Administrative Council, based a status report from the university's Affirmative Action Compliance Committee and Affirmative Action advisor, Shirley Williams.

The Council was told that the plan, which was first asked for back in 1973, is being submitted to the Chancellor's office and then forwarded to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The plan was to be sent back to the campus for final action, said Hurtado.

The objective of Affirmative Action is the creation of a welcoming and safe environment for minority students and employees. It is accomplished by increased recruiting of minority students, increased hiring of minority staff, and increased minority representation in academic and administrative positions.

The university has a target goal of hiring 20% minority staff, and 10% minority students. However, the hiring of minority staff has been below the goal, and the hiring of minority students has been above the goal.

The Affirmative Action plan is currently under review by the Chancellor's office and the California Department of Education. The plan will be submitted to the Chancellor's office and then forwarded to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The plan will be sent back to the campus for final action.

should be signed by both the tenant and the landlord. Before moving out, the landlord and tenant should inspect the premises again to determine how much of the deposit is to be returned. It is also a good idea to have a witness present at both inspections. This hopefully will ensure that the landlord makes a just assessment of the premises. A witness is helpful in court actions against landlords.

In court actions to get a deposit back, it is necessary to prove that the landlord intentionally or maliciously withheld a deposit. Claims against the landlord should be filed in a Small Claims Court. The tenant may be awarded up to $200 in positive damages in such court actions.

The tenant deposits are protected by Section 1081 of the Civil Code. This statute governs all such deposits to the landlord.

1. Landlord may claim only such amounts as are reasonably necessary to remedy tenant defaults (cleaning, repairing, etc.). The rest of the deposit must be returned to the tenant within two weeks.

2. Bad faith retention by landlord of payment or deposit may subject landlord to $200 worth of damages (maximum) plus any actual damages.

Art course

A life drawing course will be taught by Richard Yaco, a Cal Poly instructor in the School of Architecture for a 10-week period beginning Feb. 6. The class, sponsored by the San Luis Obispo Art Association, will be held Thursdays from 7 until 10 p.m. Interested persons can register at the Art Center, 1010 Broad St., San Luis Obispo, during gallery hours, 12 noon to 5 p.m. daily except Mondays. The fee is $60.
"The Klansman," a tale of bigotry in its blackest, most pervaded and violent form, is an explosive piece of melodrama centered in a small Alabama town.

Director Teresa Young's film (at the Madonna Theatre) is lifted with the kind of red-neck logic you love to hate. Even the town preacher is a card-carrying Klans member who stands idly by while a fellow Klansman rapes a black woman.

The movie opens with a political sign saying, "You Are Hazarding Wallace Country." It ends with a frightening hill-top shoot-out with an army of the white-hooded cross burners. In between, it is filled with two rapes, one attempted rape, three murders and various hostilities.

Loosely revolved around an impending black voter registration demonstration initiated by "a bunch of outside agitators," the film unwinds in a series of violent episodes.

"The Klansman" contains some poorly written and mostly absurd moments, most notably a scene in a church where a white woman who has been raped by a black man is treated like a leper and told by the preacher, "If you have any Christian decency in you, you leave!"

Young's portrayal of small-town bigotry is a totally dark and violent picture lacking in any redeeming values.

Lee Marvin plays the local sheriff, who, for purposes of re-election, chooses to play along with the Klan. The white-hooded actor plays the part with studied coolness, which, in the end, breaks forth in a familiar burst of Marvin Corps toughness, proving he hasn't aged a bit.

Richard Burton, sporting a southern accent and a game leg, is the town's whiskey-salted liberal who defines the Klan philosophy. The talent that was Burton is very evident. In spot, he seems bent on doing a muddling impression of Marlon Brando in "In Search of Named Desire." But years of wine, women and Las Vegas take their toll on the best of men.

O.J. Simpson, one of the latest players to join the motion pictures, may be the most life-like welcome to acting, the film seems bent on doing a muddling impression of Marlon Brando in "In Search of Named Desire." But years of wine, women and Las Vegas take their toll on the best of men.

Like "Death Wish" in which audiences rooted for Charles Bronson in seeking revenge for the murder and rape of his wife and daughter, "The Klansman," to a lesser degree, makes the audience root for Simpson.

Veterans who were discharged undesirably may be eligible for educational benefits. Some paperwork is involved and the final decision is in the hands of the Veterans Administration.

One possibility is upgrading the discharge. A complicated process, a bill is before the Senate which would simplify the procedure.

A deciding factor in upgrading a discharge is a personal appearance before regional boards, to be established under the bill. The bill is sponsored by Senators Cranston and Stafford, of California and Vermont.

County Veterans Service Officers John A. Ellis announced changes in the pension program for children of deceased veterans. Students receiving payments of $44.00 monthly and who have been denied benefits this year because of excessive income may be eligible now. The income limitation has been increased to $900.00 by amendment to the pension program by Congress in December 1974.

Come to a Mini-Lesson and find out! It is free to you and you will learn with a better understanding of why it works. One thing that might bother you about your reading speed is that someone might find out how slow is it. The instructors at the Butler West Reading Dynamics Free Speed Reading lesson will let you keep your secret. It's true! We practice the first step to improved reading as a Mini-Lesson and we will increase your reading speed on the spot, but the results will remain your secret. Plans to attend a free Mini-Lesson and learn that it is possible to read 2-4 times faster with comparative comprehension.
