Funds unclaimed
due to force

Some students continue through school unaware they are eligible for a multitude of scholarships, grants and other financial assistance through college.

Partly through ignorance, confusion and perhaps shyness, thousands of scholarships and other financial assistance go unclaimed each year.

Primarily, colleges, states, federal and local governments issue out scholarships, private organizations, churches, fraternities, sororities and similar relief organizations give their annual distributions.

It is possible to get scholarships through the Kiwanis Club, Unions, ROTC, Employee Assistance Program, American Legion, and other organizations.

In the case of ROTC, a one to four year scholarship, tuition, lab fees, books, and $100 per month while through the ROTC program.

Note, however, that are able to get out of college.

It is possible to get scholarships through the ROTC program.

Social Security will provide funds for sons and daughters of disabled or deceased workers. The same applies to children of railroad workers under the Railroad Retirement Act.

The National Scholarship Service will award up to $1,000 per year to students attending any college.

The American Legion, Order of Eastern Star, Catholic Association, and a number of other organizations offer to the child of deceased veterans, children of electric workers, Boston newsboys, farmers' daughters at Curleinn, but my personal development.

There are scholarships for people and children of railroad workers, the National Federation of Area Railroad Unions, Railroad Retirement, and the Railroad Retirement Board.

It is easier ways of finding the scholarships than tracking them down yourself.

The National Scholarship Service in New York has an impressive list of scholarship offerings to students.

Cal Poly has over 70 scholarships and awards available to students. All forms and information to such awards are available at the Financial Aid Office, Rm. 107 of the Administration Building.

My vote goes for industriousness, experience, achievement and integrity—my vote goes to Kevin O'Connor.

O'Connor provides solutions. Others speak of the housing crisis, but as the ASI representative for City Council affairs, O'Connor stood up to the City Council until they accepted his plan for a city housing task force.

Others talk of building communications between students and ASI government. O'Connor has made a proposal to provide a line of communications between students and ASI government by means of specific office hours for those involved in government.

Also Kevin O'Connor has shown the ability throughout his campaign, to stand on the issues, not the myriad deficiencies of his opponents.

A vote for Kevin O'Connor is a vote for a candidate most willing and able to do what is required to fulfill his position as ASI president for the benefit of the whole student body.

As member of the University Union Board of Governors, Finance Committee and at SAC meetings I have been able to see how four of the five presidential candidates function as student leaders.

I know Doug Jorgensen and Kevin O'Connor personally. Both have been members of the Board of Governors, Rob Chappell through Finance Committee and Mike Hurtado through Finance and SAC committees. After reviewing each of these candidates I feel that Doug Jorgensen would be the most effective ASI president. I judge each candidate on the following criteria: Ability to work with other student leaders, 2) Respect of people in the Administration and Staff, 3) Interest in representing the students, 4) Experience in student government, 5) Ability to reorganize people into workable task forces, and 6) Ability to formulate and express ideas and to take constructive action on problems or ideas that arise.

Doug has served as the Chair of the University Union Board of Governors for the past year. The board has representatives from the Foundation, the students, the administration, the Patalsky and Staff and Alumni—a wide range of pressure groups. Doug has gained respect and cooperation from all of the elements of the board. He is a force through the University Union's leadership, who addresses a problem or idea head on, formulates an opinion and takes action.

Doug is experienced in ASI program board, Student Ex-MenuItem Cabinet, ASI Ad- ministrative cabinet and the University Union Board of Government.

Although he has been active in these groups it is hard to label Doug as appealing to any one segment of the student population. I believe of the four candidates mentioned Doug would represent the ideal student body. He is able to bring together different groups and is neither very conservative nor liberal. He is definitely not "blah" middle of the road. The best term to describe Doug is open-minded.

I realize that the other candidates which I have worked with are also well qualified in some of the areas I have judged important; however I feel that Doug best exemplifies the ideals of an excellent student president.

For the majority of this school year I was representative to Student Affairs Committee from the School of Communications and Arts and Humanities. During that time I had the pleasure of working with a hard-working, sincere individual who always took her position as a representative of her school and constituents seriously. She was an individual who always found extra time of her own, to work vigorously on a wide range of committees—Housing, AB 922, etc.

This person is Sue Stevenson. She is really a dedicated and enthusiastic individual. Vote for this sincere person who will work hard for you.

Off all the ASI vice-presidential candidates, one candidate has qualifications far superior to any of his opponents. Tim Hayes is this candidate. His record of experience is impeccable. This year, as SAC rep for the School of Engineering and Technology, he was appointed vice-chairman of SAC and in the absence of the chairman, Tim presided over some of the SAC meetings. This greatly surpasses his opponents who have not even been a member of SAC, let alone presided over it.

Tim's dedication and interest in student affairs is further emphasized in the fact that he has been chairman of the ASI Foods Committee, the Committee for SAG and AB 922 Finance Committee.

While working on these committees and in the capacity of SAC vice-chairman, Tim has acquired invaluable first hand knowledge on the idiosyncrasies of the system with which the ASI vice president deals. Also, while we elect a vice-president we want him to be able to act immediately and not have to learn where the pencil sharpener is.

Experience, dedication and ability in student affairs are qualities which I look for in a candidate. Tim Hayes surpasses his opponents unquestioningly in every aspect. So, get out and vote on May 7 and give Tim Hayes as your ASI vice-president.

Election time is here and the students are once again confronted with the opportunity to select the officers they most desire to lead their student government. Last year the students elected an administration that promised a lot and accomplished very little.

Some of these officers saw themselves as "champions of student rights" and set goals which were, to say the least, very idealistic.

Last year there was one candidate who represented the average student. But due to the underestimating of just a couple special interest groups, he was not elected. This is why it has been so difficult for the average student to be heard the past year. Before he was recognized he had to fight his way through these few barriers.

Well, I believe it is time for a change. It is time for the ASI to recognize the views of the average student, whether or not he belongs to a special interest group. It is time for every student to be given a real voice in matters pertaining to on and off-campus activities on the city, county and state levels.

Of the five candidates running, only one represents the "average student." He is Rob Chappell. Chappell pledges himself to represent every student, not just one any special interest group but rather pledge himself to represent all students with special interest groups. He approaches the ASI in a realistic manner and will not lock horns with administration over tasks that cannot be won. His solution to conflict is calm, reasoning, not bad, irrational shouting and name calling.

Rob Chappell has proven himself as a dedicated student leader, serving on Finance Committee for the past three years and Student Affairs Committee for one year. He has worked closely with the last three ASI administrations and has served in an advisory capacity for both ASI representatives. He has taken a strong stand on how administration, the school Board of trustees and Social Sciences.

Thank You
John Ronca

Story catches mind

Centennial
by James Michener
$10.95
(Available at El Carroll)

by LIL CURRY

Every once in a while, it is possible to come across a book so fantastic that your mind is totally caught up in the story. When you are done with it, you want to go back to it. I wish you could start the book all over again. Centennial is like that.

The book, by the author of Hawaii and The Brides, lives up to his previous excellent works. It is the story of the creation of the world, of one city in particular (Centennial, Colorado) and the people who write it.

Michener begins his tale in the present, with a narrator, an historian who takes on the job of writing the history of Centennial. The rest of the book is the "story."

He starts with the physical creation of the planet earth, moves through the dawn of dinosaurs, the coming of the human race to America, and finally tells of the first men to arrive on earth. He then skips to the Indians on the Plains, and the story really begins.

He talks of many tribes, but one in particular. He describes that tribe's dreams and their despair when the first white men came to settle in their homes.

The Indians first greet the first white man with friendship, but when they are tricked and cheated and their food is killed off by the new settlers, they finally rebel. And then war breaks out and the Indians are destroyed.

The story is told from the view of each of the characters sympathies with the Indians and is shunned by his fellow settlers.

There are so many different people telling various stories that it is impossible to describe them all, but they each involve the reader totally. Surprisingly, all the different people end up relating in some way, and by the end of the tale, we have a better look at the birth process, the making of this country.

The photographs in the book manage to tell of this country. But through the present, all the various problems and we have enough of those as it is. We have an entirely different culture here. They will have a hard time adjusting to it. They should get right back on that ship and go back where they came from. Then we'll all be a lot better off," said another local citizen.

The administration put out the welcome mat for the refugees from England, many of whom were originally from Holland. Chief Wigg, Wam promised the settlers would be aided to help them rebuild their broken lives.

This aid would include corn seed, planting and growing information, help with building land for farming and building shelter. Foodstuffs would be provided to feed the newcomers until they can harvest crops of their own. Some local government officials, however, echoed the sentiments of their constituents. One official explained his reasoning: "They'll probably cause a great deal of harm to our way of life. After all these aren't farmers and hunters by nature, they're city people. There are only a few now but there will be more and I can envision them banding together and forming large cities."

"Many of them are sick, elderly, or too young to contribute anything to society. And we already have enough people of our own in those categories. They'll have to be fed, clothed and given medical attention. Our medicine man is overworked as it is and we haven't got any good food surplus from the last couple of years."

"Besides, coming from their strange environments, they may bring some rare diseases with them that could harm our population." Another low ranking government official, who like the others asked to remain anonymous, painted a horrible picture of events that he foresakes taking place.

"These people will come in and take over like like this. They'll cut down all the forests and kill the game. They'll wear out the good croplands and then move on. They'll cause more violence, more of that happens breeds disease and war."

Despite explanations for resistance to the refugees a key reason for the natives reaction appears to be racism. Communique medicine man is worried about it and is and even more of them will come.

"There will be large concentrations of people. They'll foul the air and water. And when that happens it breeds disease and war."

For the child, semi-darkness is more natural atmosphere than bright lights after the darkness of the womb. It also makes delivery easier for the mother.

"The baby will not have to adjust so long before birth... that of love. This is expressed by touching the newborn infant. Gentle, understanding hands, naturally those of the mother, communicate love to an infant in a way nothing else can. There is no feeling of love in gripping, slapping hands and cold metal objects.

For the child, semi-darkness is more natural atmosphere than bright lights after the darkness of the womb. It also makes delivery easier for the mother.

Reading Birth Without Violence helps you see the infant as a sensitive being from conception until after the first breath is taken.

The photographs in the book help express the feelings of the newborn and show the difference between a violent birth and a peaceful birth without violence.

Scruby, figurine in the country, Scruby producer of war gaming in Visalia to The Soldier Shop in temperate Cambria. His reputation followed along however.

“I guess it's like hunting Wyatt Earp at the draw.” Scruby said. “So many of them came hell-bent on out lighting me that I had to give up taking all collectibles for a while.”

There is an ever growing market for the war gaming miniatures of Scruby and his competitors because when the battling relax. If you lose it hurts bad. Very bad,” he said.

The best.

As one of the top three producers of war gaming figurines in the country, Scruby felt successful enough to relocate his mail order business recently from “that damned valley hole” of Visalia to The Soldier Shop in temperate Cambria. His reputation followed along however.

“War gaming doesn’t hurt but it’s a great outlet. There is no wife, no boss, no boss-ress, nobody telling you what to do. If you win it’s bug bites - it bites hard. “Nothing is better than being a general and not having anybody tell you what to do.” said the old pro. “I can see how power drunkenness can happen.”

What to do if you sight a Mountain Fresh Rainier

If you are something that you cannot explain, what should you do?

Well, the Rainier Brewing Company's advice is first to see common sense. Think about it for a while. Often when you first realize what you saw had a rational explanation.

If you are convinced that you have seen a Mountain Fresh Rainier, you can report it to the manager of any local supermarket or grocery store. Each store should have at least one employee who is assigned to investigate phenomena. If there is no grocery in your near vicinity, you can give your report to any bartender or to a state law enforcement officer.

The best thing to do is report your sighting to the Rainier Brewery. Below is a reproduction of the official Questionnaire that is given to persons who report a sighting. If you are an MPR, fill out the form carefully, and send it to The President, Rainier Brewing Company, 300 Airport Way West, Seattle, Washington 98134. Your cooperation is greatly appreciated, and for each completed questionnaire, we will send you an official MPR-sponsor sticker by return mail.

Getting foods together

by STUART WATTS

In India the overweight person is considered to be an honored man with close connections with God. In the United States it's a disease that leads to death in various forms. The number of overweight people is strikingly large, because Americans tend to eat too much of the wrong foods.

We have the opportunity to eat the right foods but our ability to choose the right combination is at fault. The major cause is consuming too many calories and not burning up the energy. The body takes the extra calories that you consume and uses them to build fatty tissues in the body for later use.

There are weight control pills that are habit forming and probably more dangerous than no weight control pill at all. Vitamins will ensure proper diet with plenty of exercise.

 Karnataka, a state in South India, has 25% of its population overweight. The overweight person is considered a symbol of health and happiness, and the state government has set a target to reduce this percentage. The government has launched a program called "Healthy Karnataka" which aims to reduce the number of overweight people in the state.

The Health Center has many diets for the overweight individual to choose from. The diet will provide a low calorie count, with adequate amounts of protein, carbohydrates, fats and plenty of minerals and vitamins. A proper diet helps in the process of exercise.

A diet is not something you go on for a few days to lose weight, but rather a modification in eating habits. It's a lifetime commitment in order to maintain the desired appearance.

For those who like clean eating but hate thinking while those pounds fall away, dip into a different salad for every day of the week before you start this dip into that ap. pool on Saturday.

Start out Monday...with a bowlful of crunchy vegetables:
1 hard boiled egg
1/4 cup grated mustard
1 cup grated cheese
1 small onion
1 pint sour cream

Mix up well and chill, 1« the high calorie foods like candy and ice cream, chew your food well (count 20 bites, wait between mouthfuls), and eat a lot of vegetables and carrots (these contain a lot of nutrients and have few calories).

Remember that extra pat of butter or ice cream that wouldn't hurt? It did.

Ted Bailey: ‘Last year just a memory’

by LARRY LAFOLETTE

One year ago Ted Bailey was watching from the stands as the Mustang baseball team was finishing their 1974 season up on a dismal note. Bailey hurt his ankle in the fifth game of the young campaign and had to sit out the year after getting off to a fine start.

This year Bailey is back in his usual position, first base and the disappointment of last year is now just a memory.

I’m fully recovered from the injury of last year and it hasn’t hampered my playing ability at all this year,” Bailey said.

Bailey has a steady stand-out on this year’s diamond squad.

He is one of the leading hitters on the Mustangs with six home runs and defensively around the bag he has the smooth easy flowing footwork of a hitter in the peak of his form.

Bailey came to Cal Poly on a printing scholarship with the idea of becoming a baseball player at the same time.

He was more or less a walk-on to the baseball program even though Coach Buddy Harr had some idea of the potential Bailey had.

“I really like playing the infield. I don’t have a strong arm for the outfield and I seem to have found a home at first base.”

Ted is one of the few players that has the added responsibility outside of baseball, in that he is married.

“I find it very difficult to study after playing baseball and coming home after practice. My wife keeps me going with my studies and tries to make as many games as she can.”

Bailey went on to add, “This year’s team is a little better balanced compared to last year. We don’t have the home run hitters like last year so we play for one or two runs and hope our pitching can hold down the opposition.”

The Mustangs are currently 7-8 in conference play two games behind league leading Cal State Northridge.

Playing their home games at Poly Field is a big advantage for left-hand hitters because the right field fence is only 285 feet from home plate.

“Bailey who switch hit this commented, “I enjoy hitting the right field fences better because I usually bat from the left side but surely princesly, I have hit three homers at home and three on the road. Teams come in to Poly Field and think they’ll be popping them out and usually end up hitting pop-ups all afternoon.”

The Mustangs play in a four team conference along with Riverside, Northridge and Cal State Pomona.

“The league is really evenly balanced this year. On any given weekend anyone could beat anybody else and nobody is going to runaway and hide with the conference title.”

Bailey assessing the team’s performance since their impressive mid-season sweep of the defending Collegiate baseball champions USC added, “The way we have been hitting lately if our pitching failures we have ended up on the losing end. We have stayed at a steady plateau ever since the wins over USC and if anything has sagged off in has been our hitting.”

Bailey doesn’t think he is major league material even though he would like a chance at the big time. Being married and pursuing a career in printing are the reasons why Bailey feels a big league career is doubtful.

The unpleasant experience received through injury last year seems to be a thing of the past for the man with the golden glove.

Truly the year 1975 will be one that Mustang followers will say belong to the first baseman, Ted Bailey.

Prep grid stars

Steve Lake

Serve Lake, an all-around athlete at Lemon High School, has signed a scholarship agreement to attend Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo.

The 6-1, 175 pound quarterback was named South Bay County’s Player of the Year in the Pioneer League last fall his statistics were compiled 30 per cent of his passes—103 of 366—for over 1,000 yards and 14 touchdowns.

Other honors earned by the Lemon high three-sport athlete in football were: All CIF 2-A, All Centinela Valley-South Bay, All Pioneer League.

Lake lettered three years each in football, basketball and baseball.

“Steve has an excellent arm, very good speed and potential to be an outstanding college quarterback,” commented Bobbie Lane, the Cal Poly assistant coach who recruited young Lake. In one game last fall Lake passed for more than 500 yards against Leuzinger High School.

Mike Bianchi

Mike Bianchi

The Central Coast outstanding lineman of the year, Mike Bianchi has signed a national letter of intent to attend Cal Poly next fall.

Bainchi, who led Santa Maria to a second place finish in the Northern league and a berth in the CIF playoffs has been an All Northern league lineman for two years running.

D. Harper

DeVallon Harper of Alhambra high school in Martinez, regarded as one of the top athletes in the Bay Area, has signed a national letter of intent to come to Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo next fall.

He will be attending Cal Poly on a combination football and baseball scholarship.

The 6-1, 190-pounder is a football quarterback and a baseball pitcher. Professional baseball scouts rate Harper as one of the two best high school pitchers in California. He has been asked to pitch in the North-South All-Star baseball game this summer as well as a quarterback for Contra County in the Alameda-Contra Costa All-Star football game in August.

“De-Vallon is the best athlete I have had in my 10 years of coaching football at Alhambra high school,” asserts Charlie Youville, an Oregon trimate of Cal Poly assistant football coach Dave Gross.

“He has one of the strongest arms I have ever seen and possesses a lot of potential as a college quarterback,” Gross commented. The Poly offensive backfield coach himself was a Pac 8 quarterback at Oregon.

“De-Vallon has exceptional running ability and we expect him to start very well for a varsity position as a freshman. In watching him on film he reminds me of former Mustang quarterback Don Milan now of the Los Angeles Rams. He throws with a great deal of velocity.”

SLO-Town slogan explained

Over the past few weeks, and perhaps even the past few months there has been a continuous race of air time by some of the respective administrators that this may concern. "The idea was to get the students involved," one of the respective administrators that this may concern. and a few students over just administrator that hit may concern and who came up with the SLO-Town Track slogan.

The SLO-Town trackmen slogan refers to the Cal Poly Spikers, Cinderella, and Mustangs as all those words put in a different way. For those who have guessed their feathers ruffled, you may recall them for a while, but their names because your views aren't the only ones around here.

Do you realize that when referenc-ing the SLO-Town track team as the Spikers, Cinderella, and Mustangs just as all those words put in a different way? The origin of the slogan SLO-Town Trackmen can be traced back to 1969 when sophomores Mike Stone and Pauline Stone first thought of the idea. It wasn't again until 1974 when Mike Stone and then Coach Bill McCadden, Mike Stone that the slogan was adopted by the team.

To clear up some of the misunderstanding and because of names referring to the Cal Poly track team as Spikers it can be confused with the Cal Poly track team as Spikers, it can be confused misunderstand and mistuse of names referring to the Cal Poly track team as Spikers and Mystical, and the coaches that team could place high in the scoring, and that brings a winning tone among the team that has never ceased to stop, because they knew that they had to be together because together is a necessary ingredient that makes winners.

One day while everyone was taking a walk trying to relax and not worry about the final day of competition, they discussed wearing T-shirts that could be made to any specification. Coach Stone had proposed on them his SLO-Town Track slogan and since then there has been a protective shield that has brought the team together as a unit and fortified enough strength for a third place finish in the NCAA College Division II Championships in 1974.

Who has the SLO-Town Track slogan continued for 1975:

1. Because it ensures that the Cal Poly Mustangs track team isn't confused with Cal Poly Fencers.

2. Because it has brought to the track team more fans that have complemented them on their T-shirts and performances, because they "the fans" thought it was an ingenious idea, even though they don't know the personal background of the team behind the slogan.

3. Because the Cal Poly track team likes the idea, and they know it provides togetherness among the team which is going to be the most important factor for the NCCA College Division II Championships in 1975.

4. Because they themselves paid the $3 per T-shirt that says SLO-Town Trackmen.

5. Because we the team members on the SLO-Town Track Team feel it shows a thought of class.

In my article I realize that it may have looked as though the Cal Poly track team may have been the San Luis Obispo Town Trackmen, and I realize that Cal Poly does pay out bills.

However, we are representing Cal Poly in the finest fashion within our power, and you the administrators, the ones with the ruffled feathers are the only ones who have seemed to have thought otherwise.

However we passed out $3 for the T-shirts, and we put in 12 and one-half hours per week, plus Fridays and Saturdays out of our working hours, and we are very sorry, and that's why we are still in the SLO-Town Trackmen, and that's why we are still in that same team, and in a look at what is going on across the cloth of our green and gold running shoes.

I'm more certain that it will read Cal Poly!
