Poly joins Cuesta with discount cards

Cal Poly and Cuesta College student bodies will join forces in a discount card program next semester.

The Student Affairs Council here unanimously decided Wednesday night to accept Cuesta's offer to coordinate efforts with Poly in the venture.

Both student bodies now spend substantial amounts of money on purchases in businesses which agree to join the program.

Farm merchants offer discounts through the Cuesta card. Over 50 are signed on with Cal Poly.

The Associated Students Inc. here sells the cards to students for $1. Cuesta's cards are given free to students when they buy their $10 student body card.

Next year, however, there will be only one card. Printing costs will be shared by both schools. Cuesta and Poly also will share the task of soliciting merchants for the program.

Chairman of Cuesta's ad hoc discount card committee, Mike Brady, told SAC that combining forces would make things easier for the businesses involved in the program.

Dymally gives speech

by MARK GROSH

California's lieutenant governor Wednesday night blamed both farmers and state governments for a rising consumer grocery bill.

Before a packed house in Chumash Auditorium, Mervyn M. Dymally spoke in well-chosen phrases to Fortune Farmers of the organization's 4th annual Banquet and Program, gave him a standing ovation.

Dymally, amid the occasional clinking of silverware and clinking of glasses, said the government had not done its share in land preservation for agriculture.

There are many laws, rules and regulations designed to make the needs of the state to preserve lands for agricultural purposes.

These laws are observed more in the breach than in the enforcement.

"Neither the legislature nor local governments are diligently or vigorously complying with the dictates of the constitution," he said.

The lieutenant governor said urban sprawl robbed the farmer of a lot of good land. He said 1.8 million acres—about the size of Delaware—is removed from the food production category and used for highways, airports and other purposes.

"The random gobbling up of agricultural land pushes up the cost of food production," Dymally said.

He conceded that California may have reached the end of its land frontier. Dymally called for the FFA to work with the representatives of both the private and public sector to secure proper planning of land for agricultural use.

But, he also pointed the finger at farmers. "The farming industry has become so energy-consuming, so equipped and processing that efficiency has actually decreased. Today it takes 10 times as much energy to produce the same amount of food as we did in 1910.

"Fifty-five thousand tons of nitrogen fertilizers were required in 1946 merely to produce the same crop yield per acre in 1975 that 11,000 tons had produced in 1968."

"View of the rising cost of energy in today's society. Dymally challenged the FFA to find less energy-intensive systems of farming.

He said, "We must begin to explore alternative forms of energy which may be put to use so that we can ease our dependence upon oil and its related products."

"If we do not find new alternative, future farmers will have to look forward to ever-increasing prices for needed pesticides and fertilizers and consumers will have to cope with ever increasing food prices."

At a press conference held earlier Wednesday, Dymally talked of the energy problem and one alternative: "I think we need more offshore drilling. We need it to become more independent of foreign oil producers."

"I think we should move cautiously on nuclear power. But I don't think the utility companies are doing enough to explore nuclear energy."

Dymally, a teacher and former LL day candidate for governor, said the candidates for the office he currently holds, but added that it would be in the form of a letter to the editor of the paper—probably to be published on Sunday of next week.

Kevin O'Connor was not present Thursday night in the University Union when the runoff candidates were announced and it is unknown whether or not he will endorse Chappell or Hurtado either of them.

Concert to be given by symphonic band

The Cal Poly Symphonic Band will present its Annual Spring Concert in Chumash Auditorium of the University Union May 17 at 8:15 p.m.

William V. Johnson, conductor of the band, said that because of the band's extra work and practice, the band will perform a concert unlike any of its previous performances.

Tickets for the concert are $1 for General Admission and $1 for students. Tickets are available at the door, but the supply is limited. Advance tickets can be purchased at the University Union information desk and at off-campus locations.

Dr. David Whitwell, of Califormia State University Northridge, has announced that the Whitwell has conducted major professional orchestras in the United States, Europe, and South America.

Mike Hurtado and Rob Chappell will face each other in a runoff election for ASI president, it was announced last Thursday night.

SAC Chairman Hurtado collected 1581 votes (58.8 percent) while the second-place Chappell came up with 868 votes or 21.7 percent of the vote cast in the ASI voting this week.

Failing to make the runoff election were Kevin O'Connor (655), Greg Fowler (440) and Doug Jorgensen (407). There were a total of 3510 votes cast, including write-in candidates.

Hurtado's running mate, Roland Hill, led the vice-presidential candidates with a total of 1029 votes. Running Hill in the runoff election for vice-president will be Phil Bishop, who ran second with 724 votes.

With the announcement of the two finalists for the presidential race, the losers of the race were already making announcements of their own.

Fowler said he would endorse Chappell for the office of president while Jorgensen said he would toss his support to Hurtado. According to the present chief justice:

"I'm just not unhappy. But Rob and I don't have to continue running. I give my support unconditionally."

And as for Jorgensen: "I deeply support Mike Hurtado. He will be the only one to save the general student. I will not be involved with the ASI next year if Chappell is elected."

Present ASI president Scott Plotkin said he would endorse one of the candidates for the office he currently holds, but added that it would be in the form of a letter to the editor of the paper—probably to be published on Tuesday of next week.

Bicycle theft

Editor: On Tuesday, May 6th, at about 6:30 p.m., I returned from my class and was surprised to find that my bike had been stolen from the bike rack between Science B and the Electrical Engineering building. I suppose most people would simply write off this type of occurrence as common and continue on their way. However, I felt very differently about the situation and I would like to share my feelings with you.

I came to Cal Poly and one and a half years ago with the strong belief that this campus and its students had a basic decency and respect for others whether or not they were from the same college campuses. I'm sorry to say now that my feelings towards Cal Poly have changed. I realize that it is unfair to judge the entire campus on the basis of this one occurrence, but my feelings towards such impropriety and disrespect for individual property do not dictate otherwise.

To make a plea now for the return of my bike would seem fruitless to most, but I will end by saying this. If the person or persons who stole my bike are reading this, and if it is possible to return my bike to campus, please make an effort to return my bike. Please call 544-7147 for questions asked. If for nothing else it is for the sake of restoring one person's faith in humanity and give me the opportunity to one day leave Cal Poly with the same type of respect I had for it when I came here two and one-half years ago. Give but a guy a little peace of mind.

Good job

Editor:

I was very disappointed to read the editorial in which you expressed your opinion on the qualifications of the ASI executive. It seemed an attitude which I find to be very unhealthy. The value judgments, which you and I were primarily concerned with initiating an effect regardless whether the reader would continue if he had the same information, which you implied to have, to base your own opinion independently. In my judgment, this was cheap. What you expressed was to me an obvious bearer. The damage is done but I hope that you will act more soberly in the future.

Bicentennial programs set

by DAVID RICH

The last three lectures in a series sponsored by the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities commemorating the Bicentennial will be presented next week.

It will also be the last week to view two Smithsonian sponsored exhibits titled "Manuscripts of the American Revolution" and "The Hand of Man on America." President Robert E. Kennedy said of Cal Poly's commemoration of the Bicentennial:

"As the University's share in the celebration of our nation's 200th birthday, we will look back to the past for a better understanding of our values and how they were formed and to the future for increased insight into the directions America is traveling to.

"At the same time, I hope that our activities will stimulate an interest in the humanities among everyone and contribute to a greater awareness of the contributions of the humanities to society."

Dr. Jon Ericson, dean of the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities, said of the series:

"The exhibits, together with the film and the lectures, introduce the Bicentennial theme to be developed throughout 1975 and 1976. A past to remember - A future to mold."

Mustang nine hosts Northridge

by JIM SWEENEY

Instead of looking down on the rest of the California Collegiate Athletic Association, the Mustangs now find themselves looking up at the rest of the league.

Entering the final weekend of league competition, coach Barry Hart's crew needs no less than a sweep of pace-setter Northridge plus some assistance from Cal Poly.

The Mustangs will host the Mustangs in a three-game set this weekend.

Cal Poly's sister school didn't quite have the Mustangs like one of the family last weekend, taking two of three from the team to drop the Hens even lower in the league standings.

For the third straight weekend, Poly lost two of three in a league series. After jumping out in front early and leading the CCAA two weeks into the season, the Mustangs now find themselves in the middle of a single game from the depths of the league basement. The tiny circuit itself isn't a major facet-left last weekend.

While the Mustangs' slates slipped to 2-8 and Pomona upped theirs to 5-8, previous measures unto Riverside was swept by the red-hot Mustangs, who belted into the lead with an 8-5 mark. The Highlanders moved down to second place at 8-7, Northridge and Pomona, with a raised-out doubleheader to make up.

After five weeks of conference play, the league crown is still waiting to be claimed and all four schools have a shot.

Hart echoes this and feels it's almost a whole new race. Except that after this weekend, there is no explanation.

"It was the first weekend we would be satisfied with two of three. But because of the situation, we need to approach it differently. We have to have those wins. We have to approach it with a very positive attitude." It's a difficult assignment.

The Mustangs are on a roll.

After occupying the CCAA cellar two weeks into the season with an 0-4 mark, the Mustangs have been 8-1, losing the single game to the Mustangs. They have won straight CCAA contests and took a seven-game win over the Mustangs.

But Hart isn't scared.

"Historically they've never played very well here. I've seen better teams than this one come up here and drop two of three." Although Hart is puzzled by the slump, he has his explanation.

"The league is very tough. We have a very young team. This is the competitive nature of the conference is new to many of the younger players. They're not used to the intensity of league play," explained Hart.

The Mustangs will start senior Bud Pupadakis (4-14) on the opening game Friday at 7:30. Freshman Tyrell Davis (5-6, 0.9) will start the nine-minute Saturday contest followed by Saris Collins (4-2, 0.31) in the final bout.

Coach George Hume will be unavailable to Hart's bunch in the two last games, as Hume is at the University of California, Los Angeles, Tuesday.

The Mustangs need a sweep for any hope of the league title. After an assured trip to the Western Regional, however, both teams are still alive. They finish in second place, because of the league's new format. Whether the Mustangs win or lose, there is a strong chance they will be in any event.

SLO- Town trackmen will compete in annual relays

Coach Steve Simmons plans to call upon a maneuver which he found successful in the West Coast Relays a year ago.

The Mustangs' coach plans to insert sophomore sprinter Clancy Edwards in the mile relay in an effort to have one come down next where it should be.

Edwards ran the second leg on Poly's mile last weekend when the Mustangs won their section of the Open mile relay with the third fastest time in the event for the U.C.S.C. and the D.C. headers. The Mustangs' mark was 8:13.3 and Simmons still has three of those runners on hand--Edwards, Kelly Gold and Curtiss Bye.

Arroyo Grande's Kevin McNamara is a likely leadoff runner for the Mustangs' with Edwards running No. 3 followed by Gold and Bye. In relays, Edwards will be replacing Gil Proctor and Mike Barletti who have shared the leadoff position.

The Mustangs' mile and 440-yard relays teams will compete in open events on Saturday with sights set on an Open mile relay hold captured in the open 100. Edwards who has a legal 9.9 100 and 20.7 220 ran wind-aided 22.9 and 23.3 times last weekend at the San Jose Relays.

A year ago the Mustangs placed eighth in the 21-team College section with points with Cal Base Northridge, which went on to win the California Collegiate Athletic Association title the next week, giving West Coast honors.

Freshman Jim Shancher placed the Cal Poly school's mile record in 4:28.2 in finishing third in the San Jose Invitational. The old record of 4:26.5 was set by Dale Horner in 1972.

Junior pole vaulter Ken Haagen who placed fourth last year with a 16-6 effort, cleared 16-0 for the second time this season last week. He'll be joined by Bob Drotsch in the vaulting competition.

Fraser Sumpter, soph from Monrovia, who has a wind-aided 10.0 in the 100 and will join Edwards in the College 100. Senior Russ Grimes is another possibility.

Sumpter will run the leadoff leg of the Mustangs' with Arroyo Grande's Kevin McNamara handling the other carriers. The quarter has a season's best of 41.1 on April 19 but the Mustangs mentor is expecting the team to run under 41 flat this week.

The Mustangs' will enter a distance medley team consisting of Mike Bartletti (440), Mike Lamb (880), Dave Marlow (1920) and either Randy Myslivec or John Beason (mile).
