Poly joins Cuesta
with discount cards

Cal Poly and Cuesta College student bodies will join forces in a discount card program next September.

The Student Affairs Council here unanimously decided Wednesday night to accept Cuesta's offer to coordinate efforts with Poly in the venture.

Both student bodies now operate discount card programs. Holders of the cards receive discounts on purchases made at businesses which agree to join the program.

Farm merchants offer discounts through t.e. Cuesta card. Over 50 are signed up with Cal Poly. The Associated Students Inc. here sells the cards to students for $1. Cuesta's cards are given free to students when they buy their $10 student body card.

Next year, however, there will be only one card. Printing costs will be shared by both schools. Cuesta and Poly also will share the task of soliciting merchants for the program.

Chairman of Cuesta's ad hoc discount card committee, Mike Brady, told SAC that combining forces would make things easier for the businesses involved with the program.

Dymally gives speech

by MARK GROHNI
California's lieutenant governor
Wednesday night blamed both farmers and state government for a rising consumer grain bill.

Before a packed house in Chumath Auditorium, Mervyn M. Dymally spoke in what appeared to be a final warning to Forrester Farmers of the American (FFA) from all over the state. Over 1,000 FFA members, who were in attendance for the organization's 5th annual Banquet and Program, gave him a standing ovation.

Dymally, amid the occasional clinking of silverware and rustling of programs, said the government had not done its share in land preservation for agriculture.

There are many laws, rules and regulations designed to make the needs of the state to preserve lands for agricultural purposes. These laws are observed more in the breach than in the observance.

"Neither the legislature nor local governments are diligently or vigorously complying with the dictates of the constitution."

The lieutenant governor said urban sprawl robbed the farmer of a lot of good land. He said 1.9 million acres—about the size of Delaware—is removed from the food production category and used for highways, airports and other purposes.

"The random gobbling up of agricultural lands pushes up the cost of food production," Dymally said.

He conceded that California may have reached the end of its land frontier. Dymally called for the FFA to work with the representatives of both the private and public sector to see proper planning of land for agricultural use.

But, he also pointed the finger at farmers. "The farming industry has become so energy-consuming that the emphasis on processing—that efficiency has actually decreased. Today it takes 10 times as much energy to produce the same amount of food as we did in 1910.

"Fifty-seven thousand tons of nitrogen fertilizers were required in 1968 merely to produce the same crop yield per acre in 1910 that 11,000 tons had produced in 1968."

Dymally said a view of the rising cost of energy in today's society. Dymally challenged the FFA to find less energy-intensive systems of farming.

"We must begin to explore alternative forms of energy which may be put to use so that we can ease our dependence upon oil and its related products," he said.

"We do not find new alternative, farmers will have to look forward to ever-increasing prices for needed pesticides and fertilizers and consumers will have to cope with ever-increasing food prices."

At a press conference held earlier Wednesday, Dymally talked of the energy problem and one alternative: "I think we need more offshore drilling. We need it to become more independent of foreign oil producers."

"I think we should move cautiously on nuclear power. But I don't think the utility companies are doing enough to explore nuclear energy."

Bike theft

Editor: On Tuesday, May 6th, at about 6:30 p.m., I returned from my class to find that my bike had been stolen from the bike rack between Science B-80 and the Electrical Engineering building. I suppose most people would simply write this type of occurrence off as a common event on today’s college campuses, but my feelings about this incident go deeper than that and I would like to share them with you.

I came to Cal Poly and one half year ago with the strong belief this campus and its student body had a basic decency and respect for others somehow unique from most other college campuses. I’m sorry to say now that my feelings towards Cal Poly have changed. I realize that it is unfair to judge the entire campus on the basis of this one occurrence, but my feelings towards such immaturity and disrespect for individual property do not dictate otherwise.

To make a plea now for the return of my bike would seem futilitous to most, but I will end by saying this. If the person or persons who stole my bike are reading this, and if it is possible that they are in my class, please make an effort to return my bike. Please call 544-7147, no questions asked. I don’t want my bike back. I just want to see that any decency it left within me return. Please call 544-7147, no questions asked.

Bad job

Editor: I was very disappointed to read the editorial in which you disposed of your opinion on the qualifications of the ASI election. It concerned an attitude which I felt to be very unhealthy. The value judgments, which you made, were primarily concerned with instilling an effect regardless whether the reader would concur if he had the same information, which you claimed to have, to base his own opinion independently. In my judgment, this was cheap. What you expressed was not to me an obvious opinion, which you seemed too seriously campaign of some very fine people.

I believe that it is fair to say responsibility tends to have an intoxicating effect upon its bearers. This damage is done but I hope that you will act more soberly in the future.

Bicentennial programs set

by DAVID BICH

The last three lectures in a series sponsored by the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities commemorating the Bicentennial will be presented next week.

It will also be the last week to view two Smithsonian-sponsored exhibits titled "Manuscripts of the American Revolution" and "The Hand of Man on America."

President Robert E. Kennedy said of Cal Poly's commemoration of the Bicentennial:

"As the University's share in the celebration of our nation's 200th birthday, we will look back to see the past for a better understanding of our values and how they were formed and to the future for increased insight into the directions America is traveling.

Jon Ericson, dean of the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities, said of the series:

"The exhibits, together with the film and the lectures, introduce the Bicentennial theme to be developed through 1975 and 1976. A past to remember - a future to mold."

May 12: 7:30 p.m., in Agricultural Engineering Room 115, attorney Harry Woolpert will lecture on the "First Amendment Freedoms."

Woolpert, former instructor at College of the Desert, Cuesta College and Cal Poly, is an attorney in San Luis Obispo. He has degrees in both law and political science from the university of California at Los Angeles.

Dr. Paul Smith will lecture on May 14 and May 15. On May 14 at 7:30 p.m., he will speak in the Cal Poly Theatre on "Jefferson and Revolution." Dr. Smith will speak on "The American Revolution as a People's Movement" at 11:10 a.m. in the University Union Room 220.

Dr. Smith is the author of numerous books including "James Wilson", "Founding Father" and "Daughter of the

There has been speculation that SAC may decide to also give the card away for free next year according to several of the representatives.

Track and field events to test super strength

"Super Team Competition" with events of track, weight lifting, cycling, swimming and obstacle courses will be run at Cuesta College's new track and field complex.

The competition, which has been scheduled for May 20, will be held at Cuesta College's new track and field complex. The competition will be run on May 20.

There's no tomorrow

by JIM SWEENEY

Instead of looking down on the rest of the California Collegiate Athletic Association, the Mustangs now find themselves looking up at the rest of the league.

Facing the final weekend of league competition, coach Harry Harr's crew needed no less than a sweep of five-setter Northridge plus some assistance from Cal Poly Pomona.

The Mustangs will host the Mustangs in a three-game set this weekend.

Cal Poly's sister school didn't quite make the Mustangs like one of the family last weekend, taking two of three. They need to grip the Hind even lower in the league standings.

For the third straight weekend, Poly lost two of three in a league series. After jumping out in front early and trailing the CCAA two weeks into the season, the Mustangs now find themselves in fourth place, a single game from the depths of the league basement.

The tiny circuit itself under the lights a major face-lift last weekend.

While the Mustangs stayed close to 3-8 and Pomona upset theirs to 8-8, previous move to Riverside was swept by the red-hot Mustangs, who belted back the lead with the 8-5 mark. The Mustangs moved down to second place at 8-7. Northridge and Pomona, a raised-out doubleheader to make up.

After five weeks of conference play, the league crown is still waiting to be claimed and all four schools have a shot.

Harry echoes this and relays it as "Historically they've never played very well here. I've seen better teams than this one come up here and drop two of three."

Although Harr is puzzled by the slump, he has his explanation.

"The league is very tough. We have a very young team, and we don't place competitiveness of the conference to no more than 15 of the younger players. They're not used to the intensity of league play," explained Harr.

The Mustangs will start senior Bud Paganelli and junior Dave Dobbins in the opening game Friday at 2:30. Freshman Bertolucci (4-0, 0.94) will start the nine-inning Saturday competition followed by Santa Solis (4-2, 2.01) on the final bout.

Mike Dvorak's Gemut Heurwerk will be unavailable to Birdy's bunch this weekend, however. Heurwerk was struck on the kneecap by a line drive in the 6-3 victory over Cal State Fullerton Tuesday.

The Mustangs need a sweep for any hope of the league title as an assured trip to the Western Regional Championship. To finish in second place, because of both Utah and Nevada, there is a strong chance they will be

SLO- Town trackmen will compete in annual relays

Coach Steve Simmons plans to call upon a maneuver which he found successful in the West Valley Conference. The Mustangs' coach plans to insert sprinter spring star Clancy Edwards in the mile relay in an effort to come down next week as he should be.

Edwards ran the second leg on Poly's third place team when the Mustangs won their section of the Open mile relay with the third fastest time in the even of the NCAA and the D.C. hurdlers. The Mustangs mark was 8:31.5 and Simmons still has three of those runners on hand--Edwards, Kerry Gold and Curtis Bynum.

Arroyo Grande's Kevin McNamara is a likely leadoff runner for the Mustangs with Edwards running No. 3 followed by Gold and Bynum. In relays, Edwards will be replacing Gill Proctor and Mike Barlett who have shared the leadoff position.

The Mustangs' mile and 440-yard relay teams will compete in open meets each Saturday, starting next week. Edwards returned in the open 100. Edwards who has a legal 9.5 100 and 20.5 400 won wind-aided 9.9 and 20.9 respectively.

"We should get some indication of how well we do in the conference meet out of our performances at Fresno this week," Simmons commented. "The West Coast Relays are very good preparation for both the CCAA and NCAA meets."
