Plan will give HEP
a new lease on life

by BOB COX

Written off as too small by some people, the High School Equivalency Program (HEP) could be given a new lease on life tonight.

A plan to keep the program from being terminated by moving it to Cuesta College will be presented to the Campus Board of Trustees for approval by Cal Poly President Robert E. Kennedy.

The plan essentially will enable Cal Poly to retain control over the operation of the program while using facilities at Cuesta College. It is hoped this plan will overcome the objections of the Department of Labor, which decreed the program be shut down rather than moved to another campus.

In a meeting Thursday afternoon with Dale Andrews, executive vice president, D. Douglas Gerard, executive dean, facilities planning, Al Amaro, executive director, Cal Poly Foundation, Tony Garcia, HEP director, Lach Mc Donald, director of public af­fairs and Mclnty Davidson, Kennedy announced the proposal he will make tonight.

Cuesta College will sublease, at no cost, excess classroom space for the use of the HEP program. Cal Poly will continue to oversee all operations of the program including housing the students to attend Cuesta College.

Kennedy stressed the only change under the plan would be that the program be held at Cuesta. Garcia, the rest of the staff and students will remain with the program Students will continue to be housed and fed at Cal Poly, although some plans will have to be worked out to provide more adequate rental space at Cuesta.

Approval of the plan by trustees would still leave one more hurdle to clear before the program would be given the green light again.

The Department of Labor, which funds the program, could give its approval and budget the necessary money. Garcia and Amaro will have to submit a proposed budget to Labor, which will undoubtedly ask for an increase in funds to finance the students to attend from Cuesta.

The administration is now looking into various means of busing the students to and from Cuesta. Garcia said mov­ing with the city schools to have their buses take care of the transportation before and after regular campus hours.

Kennedy is confident the plan will be approved by the trustees. "I have talked to the Eisenhower (Dr. Merlin E. Eisen­hower, Cal Poly President) and he will approve the plan if it is presented tonight."

Compulsory tickets may lead to arrests

by MIKE CONWAY

Those stacks of unpaid parking tickets will be collector items for a fortunate few this summer as the Department of Labor, which was against the recently defeated bill, said it would have to be made on campus.

"I've been a public employee for 50 years and I've never had to deal with," said Nimmo. He also expressed his opposition to the bill since it would provide for binding ar­bitration which would involve a third party who has no responsi­bility to anyone and who can set the tax rate structure by setting the level of salaries.

On the recently passed bill which legalised any sexual acts between consenting adults, Nimmo said he backed the bill even though many of his constituents were against it. "I think many people here in San Luis Obispo do not know what was involved in it," explained Nimmo.

Nimmo explained his vote against the recently defeated bill which would have learned the penalties for use and possession of marijuana.

"I sensed that the feeling, based on letters and phone calls from the community, was that it was a majority, the overwhelming mi­nority," the former councilman said.

Vote for Phil Bishop May 14 and 15.

Editor:

As a result of the ASI elections, I feel compelled and obliged to write this letter. This election has offered no "new" alternatives except in the vice-presidential race. I feel Phil Bishop tremendously refreshing. His record is impressive. He has worked closely with Steve Flotkin. He knows the ASI both from the inside as a working representative and as a student. He worked on the President’s Administrative Cabinets. He was chairman of the study group on collective bargaining in higher education (in which he directed the writing of a position paper on faculty unionization). He has served on the U.I. Board of Governors, and as student representative to the Academic Senate.

Phil’s altitude is his most impressive attribute. He is decisive and positive. He sets goals and works to achieve them. He is not one to stand up an obvious necessity, he meets it head on and deals with it. I have never known Phil to turn away from a challenging situation, and indeed, chairman of SAC in 1975 and 1976 is not going to be easy. Phil has a tremendous gift of personal and effective communication. He speaks openly, simply, honestly, and deals with people on their level. SAC as it is now, is a confused body. With Phil Bishop as chairman, I am sure we will turn toward responsibility, effectiveness and open communication.

Ray of hope for HEP

Kennedy said the state would not provide the trailers if it could be shown that extra space was being taken up by HEP. Therefore it was necessary to try and find somewhere else for HEP to go.

Amaral notified the Department of Labor in November of the problem and asked them to help facilitate moving the program to one of the other campuses which had shown interest in having it. On Feb. 6, Robert J. McCsonnon, director, Office of National Programs, Department of Labor, Manpower Administration, advised Amaral in a letter the program could not be moved to another campus.

The letter said, in part: "We are not in a position to consider the transfer of the program to another institution in higher learning. We, therefore, must allow the project to come to an orderly close."

With a strong success record going for it, Kennedy and the administration began efforts to keep the program alive. Last year HEP had over 50 per cent of its students enter college.

Several colleges and universities began to show interest in the program in the meantime. Cal State, University of San Francisco, Chico and Sonoma, the University of California, Santa Barbara and Bakersfield Community College all made firm expressions of interest.

This fact was communicated to McCsonnon by Kennedy in early April. In addition the president began an extensive letter writing campaign to various senators and representatives in Washington, seeking their support in keeping the HEP program in California.

Glenn S. Dumke, Chancellor of the State University and Colleges, and Lieutenant Gov. Marion Dynally, wrote McCsonnon expressing their support for the program. Dumke offered to help facilitate transfer of the program to another campus in the state system.

On April 21, Amaral received a phone call from McCsonnon reaffirming Labor's decision not to transfer the program and so discontinue it at Cal Poly could not accommodate it after July 1. At this time Kennedy got in contact with Dr. Eisenbise at Chico and Earl Cornwall, county superintendent of schools, explaining the problem and inquiring whether they had facilities available that could be used for HEP.

On April 24, Amaral wrote McCsonnon again, advising him of alternate plans being explored to keep the program at Cal Poly. On May 2 Andrews reported to Kennedy, that in a meeting with Eisenbise and Jim Duerr, Chico business manager, Eisenbise had given his support to the plan but it would have to be approved by the university.

Eisenbise is able to make space available at Cal Poly since it was never taken up by HEP."

The letter said, in part, "Each of these has a responsibility and it is trying to work towards that responsibility." Landreth said, "I have a commitment from the county that they will present the warrant," added Landreth. The new parking program is ready to go into effect but is being held off until May 15.

From now until the 15th it will be a "grace period" for those who had no time to fill out tickets or their mailboxes. "We're not trying to catch people off guard," said Landreth.

HEP may be saved currently does not use at Camp San Luis Obispo, which it has been leasing for the past 11 years. The addition of new facilities at the community college has led to the development of other buildings that may open opportunities for other HEPP interventions. The city is exploring the possibility of developing a larger space at Caruso.

"It's important to note that we don't know of a better solution to the problem. The city is exploring ways to better accommodate the needs of the HEPP residents and ensure their safety and well-being."

"I appreciate the commitment President Kennedy has shown to the HEPP residents," said a city spokesperson. "We believe this is the first step in a larger plan to address the issues faced by the HEPP community."

So now HEP, which only a few years ago seemed like a promising solution, has at least a good chance of survival. The city and the HEPP have been meeting to discuss the future of the program and ways to improve it. "This is a good step," said a HEPP resident. "We hope to see it continue and improve for the future."

Matadors cinch title eliminate Mustangs

by JON HAS TINGS

The Mustangs finally tasted defeat in Saturday's game, as the Matadors took the lead in the third inning to give the Matadors a 4-3 lead. Wilson then hit a two run home run that brought the crowd to their feet. The Mustangs went into the ninth inning with a 1-1 lead.

“Helmsbeier got into some trouble in the ninth inning,” said Mustang pitcher Dick Adams. “I’m not sure what happened, but he allowed six hits in nine full innings.”

The big lefthander retired the Mustangs in the ninth, and Freeberg picked up a save. "Northridge starter, Adams want to have a good year," said Mustang manager Jim Fish. "I just hope we can salvage something from him this year."

The Mustangs, who have a record of 77-7-9, are a team that has fought hard throughout the season to get to this point. "We’ve been working hard all year," said Mustang manager Jeff Gilbert. "We’ve had some rough moments, but we’re still here."

Despite being down, the Mustangs fought back in the ninth inning, but it was too little too late. "We’re just not good enough," said Mustang manager Jeff Gilbert. "We’ve had some good moments, but we’ve also had some bad moments."
