Editor:

I am writing in concern of the environment. I feel the Mustang Daily staff and some of its readers are not doing their job in protecting and cleaning up our environment from waste.

I have a friend who is a janitor in the Graphic Arts Building. He works there every morning. Besides doing his regular cleaning duties, he must also clean up after the printers and the printing room. Every morning the printers are at least one garbage bin filled with freshly printed Mustang Daily’s and sometimes the Outpost. Much of this paper is simply waste that does not have to be. A lot of it being newpaper unreadable that are always thrown away when printing these two papers.

These papers don’t have to be thrown away, they can easily be recycled. For the last couple of months my janitor friend and I have been stacking these papers and recycling them every Saturday on our own time.

But what concerns me most are the 8,000 or so papers distributed every day on campus and off. What do most people do with the paper after reading it? My guess is that most of you throw it away without thinking. If all 8,000 people reading this newspaper thought the same way, it is easy to conceive the waste problem. Try and picture a stack of 8,000 papers in a garbage bin. There is absolutely no reason for this.

I found it extremely ironic that Fred Vulin (editor of Mustang Daily) wrote an article on November 5, 1975 about how to conceive the waste problem. Try and picture a stack of 8,000 papers in a garbage bin. There is absolutely no reason for this. The misleading stated figure would suggest a total weekly time expenditure of 50,000 hours, instead of the actual 68 hours spent each week. Reduced to 100 hours, instead of the actual 68 hours spent each week. A misleading quote as this is what causes our problems and introduces lies into argument. Let’s get it straight.

Elvin Bishop
To Play Two Shows Here

Elvin Bishop, the ska-musician who colors his notability sound with a strong influence of R&B, will perform in Chumash Auditorium, Saturday at 7 and 10 p.m.

Student tickets for the Bishop show are $4.50 in advance and $5 at the door. General admission is $5 in advance and $6.50 at the door. Seating will be "relaxed style," so under no circumstances are guests asked to bring a pillow.

Tickets are on sale now at the University Union ticket office and the usual off-campus locations. The Pablo Cruise Band will be the opening act at both shows, according to Concert Committee Chairman Ken Gordon.

Bishop, a native of Tulsa, Okla., got his biggest musical break playing with the Paul Butterfield Blues Band in the '60s. When the band broke up, Bishop began performing as a solo artist. He has released two albums, "Let It Flow" and "Juke Joint Jump." A third album, "Swingin' My Stuff," is due out early next month.

The Concert Committee will ride high on the success of the Stephen Stills and Tower of Power concerts of last quarter, also has booked The Pointer Sisters for a show in early March.

Guthrie Concert

The Arlo Guthrie-Holy Face benefit concert at the Rex Garden in Pismo Beach has been rescheduled for February, Jan. 31.

Tickets for the 7:30 p.m. show are $3.50 each and can be purchased at Rex Box Office and the Record Exchange in San Luis Obispo.

The benefit for the Sierra Club's Coastal Task Force was originally set for Dec. 9.

Doing The Registration Runaround

Busted wondering how their wallets and hopes for a diverse schedule could be emptied at the same time.

Administrators worrying that this may be the quarter that the student population bomb exceeds its limits of warming and sound explodes, claiming who knows who as a casualty.

Lines of human bodies— in the bookstore, in the bank, outside the gym, everywhere imaginable—winding and winding and winding, out down, in circles, out sidewalks. You have to wait in line to get in the line which is waiting to get in the line which is waiting to order to Big Macs so it can move into the line to wait to pick up the two all beef pasties, special sauce, lettuce, cheese, pickles, onions on a sesame seed bun.

It's registration time. The students are back in San Luis. Monday and Tuesday students practiced for the uperight one how to put up being provoked and pushed like an animal they can pull class cards and become an Educated Being.

The Administration is still not sure how many registered this quarter. The hope, of course, is that the self-imposed momentum cruelly survived the rush this quarter unlike last when it was shortened by about 500 students.

But whatever the count, those who registered Tuesday morning will realize there were quite a few students who knew them.

Lines were as wide to these unlucky students as women did to the poor, underpaid fools who attended Cal Poly when it was an all-male institution decades ago.

Yes, it was a typical registration: A time to stress in the new results brought, a time for man and dogs to set friends and fill them in on the last three weeks of your life: easy picking for the ones who register early: slim pickings for those who get stuck in the 4 p.m. slot on Tuesday afternoon.

And if the registration gods didn't treat you right, there were always grade reports to brighten your day:

"How could that athlete give me a no-credit in a class like The History of Women in The Marital Arts?"

But, what the heck? Grab what you can and add the rest.

Pin the dues—yes, $5 higher this quarter thanks to a boost in the University Union fee—and pick up a $1.00-0.50 pack supply of "Lucky" and get in the final workshops before that sure dastardly deal comes down: 8 a.m. Wednesday classes.

Hoffa Not In Dump?

DETROIT (UPI) - Federal sources said Tuesday that the FBI is abandoning its plans to search in a New Jersey dump for the body of missing Teamster chief James R. Hoffa. One source said the FBI no longer suspects his body was buried there.

Federal authorities in Detroit refused to comment.

'That's interesting," said U.S. Attorney Ralph G. Guy Jr., when told of the report. "But I can't comment on that one."

The dump, a 47-acre site near Jersey City, became the focus of the Hoffa case last month after a government informant allegedly said the former Teamster boss was buried there.

The FBI obtained a warrant to search the sprawling dump and has since obtained three extensions. The warrant will expire Sunday unless the FBI asks another extension.

Hoffa vanished last July 30 as he stood outside a suburban Detroit restaurant. An intensive investigation has failed to turn up any trace of him, but federal investigators say they believe he was abducted and slain.

Cagers Return Home After Long Road Trip; Face Hayward Saturday

by JON HASTINGS
Daily Sports Editor

After jumping off to the finest start in Cal Poly basketball history, Ernie Wheeler's Mustangs have hit some rough water.

Poly went into six of the season's first seven games with losses in each of its last four. The Mustangs have not played a home game since Dec. 6 and the long road trip obviously has had something to do with recent results.

Wheeler says the team is still playing well but being on the road so long has definitely hurt. "We are playing good basketball, but as late we are shooting rather poorly," said Wheeler.

"Shooting in foreign gyms for so long hasn't helped as any either," said Wheeler.

The Mustangs won the Aggie Invitational over a month ago and then departed for Tennessee on Christmas Day for a tour of major college powers Memphis State and Middle Tennessee. Poly was thrashed by Memphis 97-64 and then dropped a close 68-64 decision to Middle Tennessee. Poly was outdone by four with two minutes to go in the first half and then the Tiger's superior talents took over.

Wheeler said he has been receiving excellent play from junior guard Gerald Jones. Jones has been the team's most consistent scorer and the Mustangs are going to need every bit of his 17 points per game when CCAA season begins.

The Mustangs returned to the "Golden State" and improved their California record to 7-0 when they knocked off San Francisco State in the Gauchos' home gym last Saturday.

Last Monday night the Mustangs beat 72-68 UC Davis in one of the longest road trips in Cal Poly basketball history. Poly had defeated Davis earlier in the year at home. Wheeler said Davis wanted that game badly and they played an excellent game.

"They were up and the place was packed. I wish we had that kind of support," said Wheeler.

The Mustangs will play Hayward this Saturday in the Men's Gym. Poly currently is 7-4 and Wheeler thinks the record can prove to 11-5 by the time conference season begins. "We can be 11-5 when we wake up in the CCAA season," said Wheeler.

The Mustangs are healthy with the exception of point guard O'Flaherty. O'Flaherty sprained his left ankle in San Francisco State and he did not play Monday night against Davis. Wheeler said he expects him to "play Saturday against Hayward. The important thing is we get healthy for league," said Wheeler.

O'Flaherty is currently being replaced by sophomore Bob Nicholson.

Boston Teachers Cancel Protest

BOSTON (UPI) - Teachers at South Boston High School decided Tuesday to cancel their plans to demonstrate against federal controls imposed on the school.

The teachers voted in a morning meeting not to hold a demonstration at the federal courthouse, which was cancelled Dec. 28 because of a heavy snow storm. The consensus among the teachers was that they did not want to embarrass newly appointed headmaster James Carcadden.

The teachers boycotted and direct criticism of their work by U.S. District Judge William Arthur Garrity Jr., when he ordered the school into federal receivership in early December.

John Cunningham, president of the faculty senate, said 80 teachers who asked for transfers in protest of Garrity's order remained adamantly, but it was unlikely the administration would approve the requests.

Garrity said his desegregation program, now in its second year, was not being carried out at the school, and criticized the quality of education there. Although almost 18,000 students are bused throughout the city, most reported troubles this year have been at South Boston.

Most Boston students get another vacation Tuesday, after being back only one day from a two-week Christmas break. The heating system in the school's main building was knocked out by an electrical failure Saturday night.

Federal receiver Joseph McDouagh decided to close the school for the day when repairs for Boston Edison said they could not repair the system until about noon.

"The lights are on, but there is no power to run the boilers," he said, "so there is no heat," he said.

Students from the main building were sent home before classes started. About one-quarter of the student body attended classes at two annexes he said.

They were up and the place was packed. I wish we had that kind of support," said Wheeler.

Wrestlers To Host Drake Tonight

The Cal Poly wrestling team will host Drake University tonight at 8 p.m. in the Mustang Gym. The Mustangs are unbeaten in dual meets this season.

Over the Christmas break, Mustang wrestlers scored an eighth place victory in the Hawkeye Invitational Tournament in Cedar Rapids. The Mustangs had four champions and seven of the nine men that made the trip were in the finals.

Cal Poly had the most points to second place BYU's 56. Wyoming and Boise State were third and fourth with 48 and 44 points respectively.

Grant Arnold was the first Mustang champ as he defeated Wes Himes of Wyoming at 184. Steve Hitchcock defeated Dave Young of Utah on a referee's decision at 150 to give the Mustangs their second champ.

Byrnes Thompson remained unbeaten at 177 as he had an easy 16-4 win over Brad Hansen of BYU in the finals. Mike Blau defeated Dave Harris of Boise State in the Heavyweight division to round out Poly's champs.

Roger Flick at 128, Kim Waack at 187 and Chris Hays at 190 all registered second place finishers. Araya lost on a default in the finals. He was injured midway through the match.

At 142 Ron McKinney captured a third place for the Mustangs. Freshman Robert Kiddy was fourth at 158.

In tonight's match Drake will be facing off a 48-0 back-to-backing of Cal Lutheran, Mustangs its second champ.

Sydnor Thompson remained undefeated at 177 as he had an easy 10-4 win over Brad Hansen of BYU in the finals. Hays won on a referee's decision over Ed Ritz of Boise State in the Heavyweight division to round out Poly's champs.
