United Front Split

In the campaign to promote nuclear power, the nuclear power industry has relied heavily on presenting a solid front to the public and government maintaining nuclear power's public image and control. It was difficult to dispute this claim because they had had to do so. But what they were doing.

However, three of those experts have come to the conclusion the industry doesn't know what it is doing. Dale C. Bridenbaugh, Richard G. Hunt and Gregory C. Minor quit their $80,000 to $40,000 jobs with General Electric, a builder of nuclear power plants, because they have the strength of conviction to publicly say nuclear power is too risky.

The Los Angeles Times said the three have a total of 47 years experience in designing and building nuclear reactors.

The engineers also sold the Times "continuing developments of nuclear power would lead inevitably to a catastrophic accident." The three have not found new jobs. In addition, they plan to campaign for the California Nuclear Safeguards Initiative.

The Times added the resignations are the first by high ranking nuclear employees with nuclear power as an issue.

Truth is stranger than fiction, and it's a lot more unnerving. The three engineers plan to campaign for the California Nuclear Safeguards Initiative and to appear to be advocating denial of full redress.

The government and certainly the Nuclear Regulatory Commission is too susceptible to political pressure to control the utilities that build nuclear plants. The California voters must take the issue into their hands rather than continue to be manipulated.

A Painful Crisis

The Lancet, a British medical journal, in its report on the impact of nuclear power, said the doctors themselves are disunited. Many quickly reacted with hostility to the Brown administration's rush of nuclear reactor permits.

Meanwhile, one conceivable answer is receiving increased attention. It is simplicity itself. Don't carry any malpractice insurance, quotes one such as explaining that he no longer does.

The complexities of the situation are too numerous that to contemplate them seriously is to fall almost into despair. No wonder all parties concerned are so emotional.

As for the doctors, they can be forgiven for asking a certain grim pleasure in the fact that lawyers, whom they blame mostly for their plight, are themselves facing an increase in malpractice premiums of 83 per cent, while insurance companies continue to wait the financial blues.

Policy Clarification

Mustang Daily would like to emphasize that it welcomes letters from the editor-providing the letters follow the provisions in our letter policy below.

Subject matter of the letters is open, but a response to a response of another letter reads like "Days of Our Lives" rather than a brief opinion.

The paper is always looking for constructive criticism and would appreciate any comments in that area.

Traditionally, letters are one of the most-read parts of the paper-so keep 'em coming.

Variable clouds with chance of light showers. Rain likely tonight and Thursday. Lows in the high 30's and low 40's with highs in mid-50's.

A Wild, Zany, New Show On Censorship—Six Acts Of Pure X-Stacy

by STEVEN CHURM

The scenario is almost complete. The play is entitled "The Saga of X-rated Llamalacho.

The plot focuses on an X-rated film censorship crisis at Cal Poly. This time, the crisis is kicked off by a screening of the French x-rated porn flick Emmanuelle.

The leading man in the six-act drama is Cal Poly Pres. Robert Kennedy. The supporting cast in the order of appearance: ASI Films Committee Chairman Jim Fauaet; Film Committee Advisor Sam Spoden; Director of Activities Planning John Lawson; Executive Dean of Students Everett chair; Jim Fauaet, introducing, the new Film Committee Director of Activities Planning John Lawson; ASI Films Committee Members; and students.

And now the final act—Act 6: Feb. 4; Review Board's recommendations resting on Kennedy's desk awaiting his decision on the x-rated Emmanuelle controversy.

And now the final act—Act 6: Feb. 4; Review Board's recommendations resting on Kennedy's desk awaiting his decision on the x-rated Emmanuelle controversy.

The latest version of the six-act censorship saga is making its third run at Cal Poly. Two previous attempts at showing a "Blue" film in Chumash have ended in x-rated ones.

In 1972 ASI Films Committee voted the moral foundation of Cal Poly and the x-rated Emmanuelle. The film was shown, but the five-point rating of the film was mopped up by the Film Planning Director. The film must be thoroughly reviewed and justified for showing the film. The Film Planning Director's decision is final.

In March, 1972, directive from the desk of John Lawson, Activities Planning Director, the five step procedure for showing an X-rated film was mapped out. The film must be throughly reviewed and justified for showing the film. The Film Planning Director's decision is final.

The plot thickens with cornucopias of action, especially Kennedy's x-rated Emmanuelle...Kennedy turns from his walnut desk, paces over his kingdom and ponders the moral question before him.

But the Chumash Auditorium screen is empty and alive with the controversy. x-rated Emmanuelle or should he be the film review for lacks of "social redeeming value.

This is the least sceney of the X-rated film to be played in the drama that has drugged on for three months. All the characters, who have spent hundreds of hours of work planning out their fate, are gasping for air. Kennedy's decision is to show or to not show—Emmanuelle.

Kennedy, of course, is his own director. He knows for sure what he will decide. He's poised to allow the film to be shown on campus, but many expect a decision sooner, possibly by this morning. The decision must be considered in the policy that was developined to review other X-rated proposals.

The significant thing about this first attempt to show an X-rated film, not that the film was shown, but the five-point rating of the film was mopped up by the Film Planning Director. The film must be throughly reviewed and justified for showing the film. The Film Planning Director's decision is final.

The Clocks Tick When They Should Tock

by KATIE KEELY

Daily Staff Writer

Some of the ugliest lulls at Cal Poly get the most attention. Without them, students would wonder, much confusion would reign.

They are the clocks. There are more than 600 clocks on campus, all over the building. One student who passed along a message said: "Is it time to get up?"

Clocks are a real problem. Without them, teaching and learning would be impossible. Keeping them all synchronized is the responsibility of Business Affairs here.

Most clocks on campus are controlled by a master clock system based in the Administration building. Keeping them all in place and running at the proper time, according to James R. Landreth, Director of Business Affairs here.

Some clocks on campus do not follow the master system. According to Supervising Electrician, Robert Tauxe, "The clocks which run separate of the master clock system are those in the Administration building and the old library wing. These clocks have their own master system."

Tauxe feels the docks using the master system give the most trouble. The main problem, he says, is with the electrical devices which isolate voltage into individual clocks.

"The master clock trips these relays, which in turn distribute voltage to the clocks. If the relays become corroded, we have to send a crew to clean them."

Another reason clocks may not function is that the master system is often more than a few seconds off, and when they are, they can be reset. The chimes start ringing about fifteen seconds before the hour, according to Gold, and the first stroke of the chime is the time.

The only thing in common are the clocks, according to Supervising Electrician, Robert Tauxe, "The clocks which run separate of the master clock system are those in the Administration building and the old library wing. These clocks have their own master system."

"We have to maintain 3,000 motors, as well as fire alarm systems, lighting and power, and an emergency lighting system. It will take about a week to clean all the clocks and I just can't open anyone now."

Number Two Ranked Team To Invade Poly Thursday

How good is Iowa State, the Cyclones seem to hint Cal Poly is a Thursday night dual meet featuring two of the top 15 collegiate teams. Well, Coach Harold Nichols at work will put a little more spin on the meet that has a collective record of 188-30-2. And if his star 148-pounder Kelly Ward can make weight the combined individual records of the Cyclones will be 208-30-2.

Coach Vaughan Hitchcock's own Cal Poly wrestled No. 7 in the nation in NCAA Division I. The Mustangs, who bring a 12-1 dual record into the meet with Iowa State, compete in the same wrestling division as the perennial national power from Iowa.

Competition goes under way at 8 p.m. A crowd in excess of 2,000 is in prospect and the figure could go as high as 4,000.

Iowa State has lured over the past 15 years has placed no lower than fourth in the national tournament save for one year. The Cyclones have earned five NCAA championships since 1969. They have been second on seven occasions, third on four others and placed fourth in both 1974 and 1975.

Coach Nichols is calling this year's Iowa State team "perhaps my best ever."

Evidence of that may be seen in the Cyclones' 27-11 dismantling of Oklahoma State, the No. 6 ranked team in the country. The win came only two days after the Cowboys had toppled Cal Poly 27-4 at Stillwater.

"We'll have in fight for eight minutes in every match to be competitive," Coach Hitchcock advised.

Iowa State flies to the West Coast with a 18-1 dual record and will wrestle at UCLA on Wednesday before meeting Cal Poly on Thursday.

Cyclone talent is such this year that Coach Nichols is redimensioning two NCAA place winners — 118-pounder Bob Holland and 118-pounder Mike Land.

Still Iowa State's lineup is populated with three NCAA place winners — Bob Antonacci, fifth twice at 185, Pete Galea, fourth at 150, and Willie Gadson, third at 177.

"We welcome the opportunity to wrestle a team such as Iowa State," commented Coach Hitchcock. "The only way to be up there with the best teams in the nation is to meet that caliber competition. Expect the Mustangs to rally for the challenge and put forth a supreme effort."

"I'd like to meet teams such as Iowa State in every match all year long. It's too bad there are not more teams the caliber of Iowa State."

One of the feature matches figures to be at 177 where Mustang co-captain Sybille Thompson will meet the Cyclones' Willie Gadson in a rematch. Last year in Ames the two battled to a 5-4 draw.

Thompson's record this season is 17-1 while Gadson is 15-1.

The action is always rugged when two wrestling teams tangle. This Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Men's Gym two of the best wrestling teams in the nation will be in action when Cal Poly plays host to number two ranked Iowa State.

Spikers Pick Up Wins

The Cal Poly volleyball team picked up a pair of easy wins over the weekend to improve its conference record to 16-4.

Last Friday the Mustangs were handed a victim from Cal State Dominguez Hills. Daminous was forced to forfeit when it could not find adequate gym to play in.

The next night Poly had shown as easy a time in disposing of Pomona, 16-11, 15-3, and 15-7. Coach Ken Preston was pleased with the team's play. "It was played without one of our top players in Thom Mahon, who was ill, and we still had an easy time" said Preston.

Preston used everybody in all positions and he said they all played well. "Steve Monat came out after a two week layoff and that really helped" said Preston. "We also received excellent play from all three of our other setters, Greg Kelley, Dave Gowri and Steve Baearder".

Preston said he received fine offensive play from Nat Raline and Lindon Crow. "All and all, it was a rather fun little road trip" said Preston.

Mustangs Seventh In Pomona Swim Relays

Coach Dick Anderson's team won many records in its season opening dual win on the weekend after a long layoff. The Mustangs captured the Pomona dual and finished seventh in a field of nineteen teams.

Fresno State University hosted first place honored Coach Nordbrude defending NCAA and NCAA District II swimming champs.

Mike Ongatato, Gal Poly's record-breaking baserunner, will be in action this weekend when the Mustangs host an alumni team this Saturday at noon.

The Gal Poly volleyball team picked up a pair of easy wins over the weekend to improve its record to 18-0.

The action is always rugged when two wrestling teams tangle. This Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Men's Gym two of the best wrestling teams in the nation will be in action when Cal Poly plays host to number two ranked Iowa State.
