Brown: Existentialist Dead-End Kid

Dear Mother,

I have to tell you that I’ve finally gone out to dinner and I’ve met a girl. She’s sweet and bright, and I think I’m falling in love with her.

At least I think you would approve of her. He’s the governor of California.

Oh, I can hear you saying already, “Why Jerry Brown?” as an insult, that he’s running for the presidency. He’s not, as far as I know. He’s on the state ballot, and that anybody who studies with Jean and Edith has doubts about the older generation is not really your cup of tea. But let me tell you a little about her.

I met her after she wrote to me to rearrange the other night. I have read her. She was demure, well-read, and charming. She’s a bit of a philosopher, and I think she’s the best thing that has happened to me in my life.

We went to her favorite Japanese restaurant, an unassuming little place on the corner, and she recommended a particularly delicious dish. I had some tempura,相声 particularly well. With that, she said, “I don’t think I can enjoy the rest of the evening if you don’t allow me to eat properly.”

“Of course,” I said. “And I apologize if I have offended you in any way.”

It turns out, for instance, that earlier in the day she spent six months training in Argentina, and that he’s been all over the world.

“Just then,” she said, “we’re all going to the state fair.”

I smiled. “I have a good sense of timing,” he said. “This is the first time I’ve been able to go to the fair in my life.”

I know that your generation doesn’t like to hear that (and perhaps you believe that everything is the same way it was always). But the fact is, it just isn’t.

At one point, we moved some steps around on the table. Then he moved them again into a different formation. But there were still only so many cups. “We have a finite universe,” he said, and I seemed to hear the voice of the Jesuit seminarian.

“Sometimes you have a good situation, and you can buy real mean-...beads...but not in ours.”

You see, this generation accepts the fact that the world is in a state of profound or independent in the world. We had certain things as inevitable – one of Jerry’s favorite words. We who believe that it is a bad idea to help the poor. This seems to be the ultimate in our role of leadership is to explain where we are, and where we are going, and the best is that we are not what appears to be the future for others.

I know that your generation doesn’t like to hear that, but I believe that you do believe that there is a change in the world. We have a new president, and he’s trying to explain what’s happening. That what we are is “not what appears to be the future for others.”

I’ll tell you more before I leave.

As we left the restaurant, Jerry suddenly had an idea that broke me up. “If I were dictator,” he said, with a great flourish, “The Russians and the Chinese sure wouldn’t know where we were going for a while.”

Maybe that, Mother, is something we can all agree on.

Your loving daughter,

Fred

Big Business is not the bogeyman it's made out to be, according to Alphonso Bell. In fact, it's just what the doctor ordered for America's economic malaise.

Speaking here Thursday to promote his Republican candidacy for the U.S. Senate, Bell made no bones about his trust in the free enterprise system.

"Business is our one hope of recovery," he said. As a businessman for the last 15 years, Bell said he has seen the demise of business opportunities in the country—as a direct result of government intervention.

As Bell sees it, economic entropy has been due to "too much government." He told some 80 students the changes in government attitudes toward business have been slow—but they have been made:

"Little by little, step by step...Congress has changed the nation. We have an almost unbelievable array of services—but this has been done through the loss of personal freedom, freedom of choice, privacy and control over our lives."

In a question-and-answer session which followed his terse speech, Bell was asked to comment on a statement by Tom Hayden when the latter spoke here in mid-January.

At that time Hayden said, "Any politician who is talking about cutting government spending and not cutting Pentagon spending is a hypocrite."

Bell responded with this statement:

"I think that's entirely wrong. We have to talk about the Soviet Union. From 10 to 15 per cent of their GNP (Gross National Product) is for defense. In the U.S. It's only five per cent."

USDA: Food Inflation May Decline

The United States Department of Agriculture revised its official forecast of continued high food inflation for 1976 Wednesday after it was reported that the official predicted that grocery prices increases this year will be the smallest in 20 years.

According to the April 1 report, grocery prices for the first half of the year are now expected to average 4 to 5 per cent above levels a year ago, in contrast to previous estimates in the mid-5 per cent range.

Although USDA officials could not predict food prices beyond mid-year, previous estimates indicated that consumers might see food costs rise on average of 6 to 7 per cent over the entire year, compared with a gain of 8 to 9 per cent in 1975. In 1973 and 1974, food prices rose an average of 14 per cent.

On the farm, Schaffner explained the reasons for the decline in food price inflation. "One factor is lower grain prices," Schaffner told the Mustang Daily. "Also, the drought has caused ranchers to take a larger share of their cattle to market. This decrease in supply has had the effect of decreasing meat prices.

Finding Time For Students

By CRAIG REEM

Some allow you to drop in any time. Some allow you to make special appointments. And all teachers at Cal Poly have office hours, in a successful system that allows students to contact them.

The office hour system, which has few if any complaints and has been a successful, busy way for teachers to be available to students, is a mandatory requirement. The Campus Administrative Manual states that a teacher must hold a minimum of five office hours a week and a maximum of one hour a day.

Everett Chandler, dean of students, said teachers at Cal Poly are "oriented towards careers and are going to be maintaining their office hours better. The faculty members are interested in the problems of the everyday student."

"Office hours are a state requirement in a sense that time is given for teachers to have responsibilities other than teaching," said Chandler, "though office hours are a state law."

David Grant, associate dean, academic planning, said each quarter a faculty member fills out a schedule card listing all classes, rooms and office hours a faculty member keeps. He said all copies go to the department head, who checks them, and sends a copy to the dean.

"On occasion, there is a reason for a faculty member not to have an office hour each day, but that must be approved by the school dean," Grant said.

Grant explained that where there is little interest in checking on faculty members to see if they are keeping their office hours.

"The student has the right to expect an instructor to be in his office when he says he will," said Grant. "If I were a student, I'd get on my horse and check with the department head and find out why an instructor was not keeping his office hours.

Other campuses may not be as strict as Cal Poly in requiring office hours. This campus has had a tradition of honest interpretation of the regulations we have to live under," said Grant.

Harry Bresnahan, Home Economics department head, stated that the office hour system is a way for students to have more contact. If faculty keep their office hours, students can work out their schedules for the following quarter.

Lebanon Extend Truce

Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanon today indicated Thursday they would agree to extend the current 10-day truce past Monday, provided the agreement approves early elections for a new president of the war-shattered nation.

Benefit Concert To Be Held In Pismo

By BAYBEEYUL

daily Staff Writer

One more concert in a long line of benefit scheduled in support of the Nuclear Safeguards Initiative will be held April 10 in Pismo Beach, with singer-writer Wendy Waldman opening the show, followed by a rock band named Little Feat.

The concert, to be held at the Rose Garden Ballroom in Pismo Beach, is one in a series produced by Simpson, a non-profit organization which has raised some $80,000 in support of Proposition 19, the Nuclear Safeguards Initiative.

According to John Fairand, one of the three members of Simpson, 800 tickets will be available for the concert, which begins at 7 p.m. and are $6, and are available at Rosko Records, Cheap Thrills, Frank's Music in Morro Bay, the Cooperage in Pismo Beach and the People's Place in Santa Maria.

Wendy Waldman has released two albums, "Love Has Got Me" and "Gypsy Symphony," and has run several successful benefit concerts and several of her compositions have been used by Maria Muldaur on her albums.

"She puts on a good strong act, says Fairand." She has a real liberal show with a good rock and roll sound."
California Irvine and Michigan State University to meet tomorrow with Irvine hosts Poly. Scott will be competing tomorrow in the 1100 meter race this weekend at the Cal Poly track meet. Irvine's entry list for tomorrow is not final, but several of the entries are expected to be strong. The meet will be held at 11:44.

In that meet, the Mustangs left Fresno thinking they had lost. But later, it was discovered, however, that their vaults were inadvertently taken from the Mustangs and given to the other event. Their beat mark this year has been 1:44:0. They should be particularly formidable, with three NCAA Division II qualifiers.

Tangi, who has been beaten in a power struggle with Provencher since the death of Premier Chu Shih-lai, was blasted from the courtroom Monday in Taipei as Man square.

Tangi's supporters said he had been rehabilitated and restored to power and was being groomed as successor. In Taipei, Hansen accused Tang of promoting instability and economic developments at the expense of demonstrating class struggle, a pillar of Maoist doctrine.

The Politi mos not only ousted Tang but also elevated Hu in the party and made him premier of the Council. He has been acting premier since early February. While the new face appears to Mao since he was designated as first vice chairman of the party.

News reports reaching Hong Kong from Peking said the news began late Wednesday and continued into the early hours of Thursday, when fresh demonstrations beating drums and ringing bells along Chang An Boulevard, the city's main thoroughfare.

HIAN (UPI) - The Chinese government sent thousands of demonstrators into the streets of Peking yesterday to celebrate the downfall of Tang Hsiao-ping and the elevation of Hu Hsi-ling, who will become China's next premier.

But Peking residents reported by telephones that the jubilant mood the authorities appeared so intent in events with the beating of drums and papers and chants against Tang. But they were told to come back to the streets.

They said the demonstrations were obviously organized by party or government officials with participants apparently being taken from factories and stores to keep up an image of those who were hurt.

The Communist Party, acting on Mao's direct request, removed Tang from his post as chairman of the Communist Party and vice premier and replaced him with Hu Hsi-ling.

But the move left only five major Democrats in the race to become governor of California. The GOP gains have left the Democrats with a daunting task.

In that moot, the Mustangs left Fresno thinking that cutting the Pentagon budget would endanger America's military standing and redirect a move to slow development of the B1 nuclear bomber.

The vote was 213 to 177 against the president on Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-Ohio, with 666 million for B1 production until the Air Force testing program is completed.

The money is in the $1.4 billion weapon procurement bill, scheduled for a vote of the House. The same represents a 21 percent increase over last year's figure.

Rep. Jim Wagerman, D-Col, said that, since the 1960's, the United States has lost its military superiority over the Soviet Union and is now only equal in strength to the Soviets.

"If we don't build it a bomber," he said, "we will have a defense second to the Soviet Union."
Busy Weekend Set For Womens’ Athletics

It will be a busy weekend for Cal Poly’s women’s athletics, with the track team heading for UC LA and the tennis squad facing Cal State Bakersfield on the home court.

With a week-old second-place finish behind them, the track team will meet their Los Angeles opponents Friday at 11 a.m. Cal Poly’s mile relay team needs to trim almost five seconds off its best effort of the season to qualify for the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women national meet to be held at Kansas State in mid-May. In last week’s meet at the University of Redlands, Cal Poly won the mile relay with a 4:09.6 clocking.

Coach Linda Meacham will do the same quartet of runners — Carol Ries, Barbara Moore, Felicita Richard and Jan Ronde — in the qualifying bid this week.

Prior to last week’s meet, Cal Poly has never finished higher than third in a Southern California Women’s Intercollegiate Athletic Conference track and field meet. At Redlands, Cal Poly finished second with 11 points, losing UC Riverside by 18 points.

The team is having its most success in running events. Five runners have qualified for national competition in six different events.

Fresenius Barbara Moore is within a second of meeting 460-yard dash qualifying standards.

The tennis team is now in third place for its division. In preparation for the league tournament at UC Irvine, the team will play an exhibition match against Cal State Bakersfield Saturday at 1:30 p.m. on Cal Poly’s upper court.

Bakersfield plays in Division II, the division above ours. Playing a harder team will help us ready for the Ojai Tournament and the league tournament,” tennis coach Nina Murray said.

Roxie Leachman, top player who set out the last conference match, is returning with her 5-3 record. Jeanne Fritsch has successfully stepped into Leachman’s position and now has a 3-2 record.

Debbie Cirolo, Leslie Crockett, Sue Chapman and Jan McNabb will also play against Bakersfield.

Before the league tournament, top players — Leachman, Fritsch and McNabb — will play in the Ojai tournament April 15–16.

If’s Key Series With Northridge

By DAVID A. RITZ

Daily Staff Writer

If the Cal Poly baseball team can play like it did last week at the University of Santa Clara Tuesday, it ought to be able to salvage anything in the conference. Poly won Friday, 7-4. The Mustangs played their best game of the year, scoring 18 hits and committing only an error in a 7-4 whitewashing of the Broncos.

"The team performed as well as I could expect it," Haran said, reflecting on Tuesday’s game. "Professionally, both our teams have one of the best college baseball programs in America. The game was a real confidence builder for us."

The Mustangs face last year’s California Collegiate Athletic Association champions Cal State Northridge as their Matadors’ Diamond in a single game Friday at a doubleheader Saturday.

Northridge is a very difficult team to beat. Hara said one should not be discouraged or deceived by their low record, because the Matadors beat two-time national champion USC 7-4 Monday.

Curt Smith collected three hits along with decky Mirdavale and both played brilliantly against Santa Clara.

Joe Budinich, Paul Denajter, Mark Ongarato and Jim Peters all got two hits to help the Mustang effort. The Cal Poly Freshmen showed their strengths, too, with third baseman Tom Matsch, pitcher Erik Bauer, designated hitter Tom Lepepino and catcher Mike Ongarato were given a chance to play in Tuesday’s game.

"It allows them to get their feet wet at the varsity level," Hara said. "It shows us the future of our program."

Mark Bumatead, Rocky Raper and Jeff Gilbert to Northridge will show the Mustangs some hitting ability of their own.

Bumatead is currently eighth among conference hitters with a .388 average and 20 hits. He also has 11 doubles and five home runs. In Bumatead’s average and hit total, while Gilbert bats .317 and has totaled 16 hits.

Bumatead is slated to pitch today’s game, while Bumatead and Jeff Gilbert get the starting assignment in one of tomorrow’s games.
