The Melodrama sets the stage

Back in the "good old days" virtue triumphed over evil everywhere. At the Great American Melodrama in Ocean, it still does.

The melodrama, the first professional theatre in town, is a hit. The audience is very much impressed with the performances.

"It's wonderful that we do serve two functions," she said. "Because the people think they already know us when the show starts.

Another member of the all-american cast, Don Fettner, also praised the musical atmosphere of the Ocean theatre. Fettner, who played the part of the lead in the play, said that he enjoyed the performance of "You're a Good Woman, Charlie Brown," because he knows the basic plot of a melodrama is as well

This album is put together fairly well, but the shallower side in style and mood will probably turn off many fans. Nothing here is quite as good as the previous two albums, but the group should be taken seriously as a contender for the number one spot next year.
Drama stages the ‘good old days’

The play, which explores the themes of love, loss, and the passage of time, is set in a small American town in the 1940s and 1950s. It follows the lives of several characters as they navigate the challenges of war, family, and personal relationships. The production features a cast of seasoned actors and a talented crew of stagehands and technicians. The show is directed by Tom Reynolds, who has been involved in theater productions for over 20 years.

“People are always asking me why we’re doing this play,” said Reynolds. “But I think it’s important to remember the past. It’s a way to connect with our history and understand where we come from.”

The play runs from Friday, October 6th to Sunday, October 29th. Tickets are available online or at the box office located on Main Street. For more information, visit www.DramaTheatertown.com.

By DICK KROGERMA

Daily Staff Writer

Associated Students, Inc. (ASI) President Paul Curtis told the Student Affairs Council (SAC) Wednesday night that the university would not be covering the insurance costs for any student clubs. Last year the club insurance policies were paid for in part by the Associated Student fees. Curtis said he had asked an insurance agent earlier in the year who told him that the insurance for the club would cost anywhere from $100 to $200 per game.

SAC last year provided ASI with $750 for insuring campus clubs still less than the groups uninsured.

Curtis said he reviewed an opinion from the chancellor's local staff Wednesday morning which said, in effect, that club riders could be held liable in case of accident.

SAC last year allowed ASI to pay for insurance per for insuring campus clubs still less than the groups uninsured.

However, Thursday morning, it was learned that SAC would be covered under the ASI's insurance plans since SAC made the mistake of changing insurance provisions last year.

Miller asked if the ASI would handle the cost of insurance since SAC made the mistake of changing insurance provisions last year.

Larry Robinson, ASI vice-president, said he thought the council did not have enough information to make a decision on the matter.

Poly meal lines multiply

By SCOTT CRAVEN
Daily Associate Editor

The enrollment rise at Cal Poly has increased the number of students owning campus meal plans.

The number of meal plans at Cal Poly has risen from 65,000 last spring to 165,000 this fall, an increase of 100,000. Students and administrators expect the figures to reach 2,000,000 in the next five years.

One of the reasons for the increase is the mandatory meal plan for all dorm residents initiated last spring. The result has been an increase in meal lines at the Beach Bar, Vista Grande and the Poly Plant, and students have been quick to voice complaints.

CSUC questions funding

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California University and Colleges system is expected to announce a privately funded scholarship program for minority students. A spokesman for the program said that the number of students for the program was not yet determined.

The system's lawyers believe the scholarship is not a federal aid program and not subject to the requirements of the Higher Education Act. The program is expected to be announced this month.

Grid opener hosts long time rivals

By JIM ALVBRNAZ

Tomorrow's 1:10 p.m. football game against Fresno State will mark the first time this annual contest between major agricultural schools has taken place.

For the first 20 years of the rivalry, which as one of the oldest in the state, most of the blood had been the Mustangs. Between 1922 and 1942, the Mustangs ran up a comfortable 26-4-1 edge. Since then, however, the Mustangs have come out on top with a 5-1-1 record including a closely fought 10-10 victory in Fresno last year.

Cal Poly coach Joe Harper has called the Mustangs "one of the finest, if not the best, teams we will face all year." Although Fresno's 3-6-1 record might not seem too impressive in comparison to Cal Poly's 6-2-2 mark, a closer look at both these teams shows that the numbers are a bit deceptive.

The Mustangs lead their opening game at the southwestern Louisiana site, improved against State's 4-0-1, and then led a tough game to last year's division two national championship Montana State 5-0. Pioneers have been the Mustangs' main threat. They committed 11 against southwestern Louisiana alone.

The Mustangs will be led by senior quarterback Dean Jones, 5-11, 170, who took up running in both rushing and passing. He was chosen Pacific Coast Athletic Association Player-of-the-Week for gaining 94 yards in total offense for a school record against Montana State.

Fresno, on the other hand, is led by sophomore quarterback Dean Jones, 5-11, 170, who took up running in both rushing and passing. He was chosen Pacific Coast Athletic Association Player-of-the-Week for gaining 94 yards in total offense for a school record against Montana State.
