City buses: alternative in travel

By JANET FAYE

Most people are probably unfamiliar with a system that drive through the University Coliseum area every day.

The Blue Bus is a service that operates on a daily basis to transport people between Cal Poly and the University Center. The Blue Bus is a convenient, reliable alternative form of transportation.

For $5,000 each, the buses will be provided with air-conditioning and will be able to seat 60 passengers. The buses will also have restrooms and will be equipped with safety features such as seatbelts and fire extinguishers.

The Blue Bus operates on a fixed route and schedule, allowing passengers to plan their trips accordingly. The buses leave from the University Coliseum at 7 a.m. and 2 p.m. and return to the same location at 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The cost of using the bus is $5,000 per day, which is relatively inexpensive compared to other forms of transportation. The buses are also environmentally friendly, emitting less pollution than cars.

The Blue Bus is a great option for students who need to commute between the University Coliseum and the main Cal Poly campus. It is also a great option for faculty and staff members who need to travel between the two locations.

The Blue Bus is managed by the Transportation Services Department, which is responsible for ensuring that the buses are maintained and are in good working order.

Overall, the Blue Bus is an excellent option for those who need to travel between the University Coliseum and the main Cal Poly campus. It is convenient, reliable, and affordable, making it a great option for anyone who needs to commute between the two locations.

He makes the ride ‘nice’

By JANET FAYE

Riding the Blue Bus to work or school can become a real adventure when one rides with Jim Everett, the bus driver.

Everett appears to thoroughly enjoy his work. A veteran driver for the Yellow Cab Company from 1967 to 1991, when the city purchased the buses, Everett says, “I have been driving a truck for the past 30 years. I have a couple of kids and I enjoy my work.”

Everett is always friendly and polite, and he enjoys his work. He says, “I have been driving a truck for the past 30 years. I have a couple of kids and I enjoy my work.”

He says, “I have been driving a truck for the past 30 years. I have a couple of kids and I enjoy my work.”

When asked what the customers thought about the ride, Everett replied, “We are all happy. We try to do our best to make sure that everyone is happy.”

He says, “I have been driving a truck for the past 30 years. I have a couple of kids and I enjoy my work.”

And he’s right. Passengers say that the ride is always enjoyable and that Everett is always friendly and polite. They say, “I have been driving a truck for the past 30 years. I have a couple of kids and I enjoy my work.”

Professors debate space life's value

By BANDY MAX
Daily Staff Writer
Two Poly professors offered opposing views on the issue of future space colonization in a lecture to students and faculty on campus yesterday.

Dr. David George, political science professor, opposed space colonization.

"We are not yet ready to live in space because we will not be able to explore black holes and go into something unknown," he said.

Morgan, one of 20 scientists selected worldwide by NASA in 1978 to design a space settlement capable of supporting 10,000 people, said: "I'm committed to the idea of living in space and it is an individual as being there now."

"Soviet cosmonauts are already temporarily living in space and permanent settlements will soon be reality," he said.

"We have the know how to live in space and we will get to the point of terraforming and we will go into something unknown," Morgan said.

"Space will provide the solution with the ability to advance technology and produce materials never developed on earth," Morgan added.

"In four years, I think we have the technology to produce a habitat that is completely feasible," Morgan said.

"The world will consist of a large planet-like structure, where the development of space will be destroyed without destruction, humanity might still be able to settle there and kill and destroy," Morgan said.

"I think the low bid will be accepted," said Gerard. "Probably within two months, we will begin construction and then they have the job." Gerard said he expects a contract to be signed within 40 days and the work to begin soon after.

"I am very happy with the bid," said Douglas Gerard, executive director, facilities planning. "I would have been happy with any of the bids because they were all below the estimated cost.

"The estimated cost of the new building, planned by the North American Architecture of Los Angeles, which was told to Morgan, was $10.000,000. Morgan said he is happy with the low bid and will see that everything will function smoothly.

Low bid is for Poly's new faculty office building

By SCOTT CRAYEN
Daily Staff Writer
Low bid for a new faculty office building at Cal Poly is more than $200,000 lower than the estimated cost, it was announced Wednesday.

Bussell Construction Company of San Luis Obispo submitted the low bid of $4,500,000. Tuesday for the project, which includes offices for 160 faculty members.

Other bids were from Tumbling Co. of Berkeley, $4,610,000; Robert E. Talcott, Inc., Los Angeles, $4,797,000; and Don Greene Construction, Inc., Santa Barbara, $4,795,000.

"I am very happy with the bid," said Douglas Gerard, executive director, facilities planning. "I would have been happy with any of the bids because they were all below the estimated cost." The estimated cost of the new building, planned by the North American Architecture of Los Angeles, which was told to Morgan, was $10.000,000. Morgan said he is happy with the low bid and will see that everything will function smoothly.

State Senate sinks canal plans

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A bill authorizing construction of the Peripheral Canal and three major California reservoirs, which was approved by the Legislature last April, has been ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. The court said the bill, which would have cost about $1 billion, violated constitutional provisions on the power of the Legislature to pass legislation.

End to coal strike may be near

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—The United Mine Workers and the operators association yesterday agreed to a 51-hour strike beginning this afternoon. The strike, which follows a 50-hour walkout last week, is expected to last for at least a week. The strike is the result of a dispute over the workers’ demands for higher wages and better benefits.

Patty Hearst files final appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorneys for San Francisco heiress Patty Hearst filed a new petition before the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals Thursday to reverse her conviction for robbing a San Francisco bank. Hearst, 17, was convicted and sentenced to 57 years in prison for robbing a San Francisco bank in 1974. The court had previously overturned her conviction, but Hearst’s attorneys said they expected to win this appeal.

Poly holds off Warriors, shoot better in 79-71 win

By JOHN KELLY

Said the Daily

Behind a Cal Poly lead of 16 points, the Stanford State Warrior basketball team cleared within six points, before the Mustangs scored four out the last 11 minutes Wednesday night.

Making a free throw within 30 seconds, center guard Lewie Cohen's 16 points led the Mustangs to victory before a sparse crowd of 69 fans.

Although both teams combined to turn over the ball 16 times, both teams played error-free basketball. In both, the Mustangs scored one of every eight shots.

The win ensures Mustangs' 25-game high of 24 points and 10 rebounds. Stanford clinched the gap to four points. Cohen scored the victory by winning his 11th and 12th free throws from beyond the line, less than one minute remaining.

Against an aggressive Stanford State, Warrior center center only four field goals in the first half of the final period.

Cohen scored 16 points, including one of the Mustangs out of the double minutem lane in the third minute.
