Funs is philosophy at Craft Center

By JACK SCHEMNER
Daily Staff Writer

The University Union’s Craft Center offers pottery wheels and kilns, sewing machines and work gloves, dark rooms and a variety of hands-on workshops, all under a stress-free atmosphere for the Cal Poly student.

“Our philosophy is fun,” said Sam Spoden, Craft Center advisor and Activities Planning Center program counselor. She said the workshops are for recreation and no course credit is involved.

Lisa Verhovek, one of the Craft Center’s six supervisors, said most students think they have to be enrolled in a workshop to use the center. They don’t.

The center is a free service area where students can work at their own pace, on their own projects, with equipment and tools available upon request.

Tools can be checked out from the Craft Center desk with a Cal Poly I.D. However, a permit is needed to use the dark room and certain other machinery. Permits are issued after passing a test given by the Craft Center.

PATCHWORK, quilting, jewelry, stained glass, woodworking, auto body and tile repair, ceramic, silk screening and weaving were among the workshops offered at the center this quarter.

All workshops are taught by Cal Poly students and subjects range in price from $7.95 to $30.00. Students interested in teaching a particular craft can submit applications and examples of their wares for evaluation by the Craft Center Committee.

The Craft Center has three funding sources: Associated Students, Inc., finds money for the student teacher salaries and the education programs; student fees cover the costs of materials, and the University Union pays the utilities and maintenance costs.

If the Craft Center makes any profit, Spoden said, “we will return it to the students.”

Earnings from the Christmas and Poly Royal sales, and any additional profits, go into the kiln account. Spoden said, “Since the kiln has already been purchased, the account is a savings for any new equipment needed.

Located in room 111 of the University Union’s lower level, the Craft Center is open Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Sunday 12 noon to 10 p.m.

Rain is expected to continue through Friday, with personal problems the beginning of their new year.

The Chinese officially began year 4676 on Wednesday, February 7, according to President Sabas Choy. The celebration included a dragon of Roast Duck, a fashion show of garments worn from the Dynasty Era to the present, a display of martial arts, and a special show known as the Lion Dance, portrayed by a San Francisco international dance troupe.

Choy says the Lion Dance is an ancient custom used mainly as part of the legendary ceremony bringing in the new year. According to legend, the Lion used to be the protector of the people. At one point in the dance, the Lion is fed some sort of greenery, lettuce for example, and the symbolic act of chewing the lettuce is a token of good luck.

According to Treasurer Jain Fong, the Chinese Student’s Association has their own Lion Dance team which tours around California performing at various universities and is the Association’s major activity of inter-collegiate recognition.

Occasionally, when a new business opens down-town the Chinese community will request the Lion Dance Team to perform the ceremony and scare away bad spirits from the fledgling business.

Fong said the Association was founded in part by Stella and Young Louis in 1964 as an orientation for foreign-burgh Chinese students. For the past twelve years the Association has had its headquarters in the March Apartments at 1000 Marshall Street, where many Chinese students lived before they were moving out. “We’d like to find a house needed to start a fraternity,” President Choy said. “It would have to be a large house,” he said. “It would have to be between two and four hundred Chinese students on campus.”

The Lion Dance Team has not had the time to look into it yet.

In addition to sponsoring the Chinese New Year celebration each year, the Association’s main concern, according to Choy, is to promote the Chinese culture for the University and the city of San Luis Obispo.

We give talks to classes and clubs both on and off campus; everything from Chinese Heritage to job opportunities,” Choy said.

“One of our main concerns,” Fong added, “is to attempt to break stereotypes and prejudice towards the Chinese people and culture, and we are often concerned with personal problems the students face relating to prejudice especially if it deals with jobs.”

Rain drenches SLO County

By LAURA CHRISTMAN
Daily Staff Writer

Don’t abandon those umbrellas and rain coats yet! The state Weather Bureau reported there is more rain on the way.

Rain is expected to continue through Friday.

Cal Poly Security reported 3.84 inches of rain fell from seven o’clock Wednesday morning until noon Thursday. That brings the season total to 30.66 inches. According to Cal Poly Security last year there was no rain in February until the 22 and then the season total was 11.37.

Along with moisture, the rain has brought some trouble. Flash flood warnings were issued on Thursday for San Luis Obispo County and northern Santa Barbara County. The state Highway Patrol reported that Highways 41 and 46 were closed to San Joaquin Indefinitely. There are two feet of water on those roads.

Cal Poly also had its share of troubles due to the rain. Thursday at 9:30 a.m. a short in a circuit buried underground caused the loss of power to the University Union, Vista Grande restaurant, and Uptowne and Sierra Madre residence halls. According to Dick Tartaglia, chief of Plant Operations, the shortage was caused by excessive moisture. He said power was expected to be restored by 4:30 p.m.

Campus radio station KCPR received a call at about 1 a.m. Thursday. The caller was calling classes for Thursday would be cancelled. According to Randy Kerdoon, station manager, the call was later determined to be a hoax and KCPR then made announcements that classes would go on as scheduled.

The report of no classes created a rash of calls to administration authorities.

MacDonald said a decision to close classes would be based on considerations such as how severe rains were, electrical problems, and if county roads were possible. He said consultation would take place between such officials as the president, academic vice president and the business affairs director.

The actual decision to close classes would have to come from the president or someone acting in his place. Pres. Kennedy said the rains and conditions would have to be more severe than they were on Thursday morning to warrant cancellation of classes.

Steel-jawed cruelty

Few people ever think about it, but it is legal to torture wild animals.

Each year in California, thousands of bears, raccoons, skunks, weasels, martens, minks, muskrats, and other fur-bearing animals die before the season is over. The number of wild animals killed for their pelts is staggering. The Department of Fish and Game estimates that over 20,000 animals are killed each year in the state.

The time has come at last in 1978, when we must act. We must act to save the future. The use of the steel-jawed trap must stop.

Cruelty, in this raw form, has no place in the world. We must act to stop the animal massacre.

Four hundred thousand signatures are required to get an initiative on the ballot. If you are a registered voter in San Luis Obispo County your signature is needed. For further information contact Brian Kohl, 355-1974.

One reader wrote about the Cruelty of the steel-jawed trap.

I object to the inhumanity and cruelty of the steel-jawed trap used on wild and fur-bearing animals.

I have seen this trap in operation and I believe that it is cruel and inhumane. I urge all California voters to support the initiative to ban the use of the steel-jawed trap.

Editor: I must respond to John Sherman's letter regarding atheism versus the paranormal. There are two camps of people, the believers and the skeptics. There is a great divide between the two, and it is only through discussion and debate that we can hope to bridge the gap.

Atheists believe that there is no God and that everything is explained by natural causes. They argue that if there were a God, then why would He allow suffering and evil to exist? They believe that the universe is a cold, indifferent place where nothing matters.

Believers, on the other hand, believe that there is a God who created the universe and that He cares about us. They believe that the universe is a place of wonder and beauty, and that we are His creation.

Many people believe that science can explain everything, but I believe that there are aspects of the universe that are beyond our understanding. For example, the existence of strange particles and forces that we cannot observe or measure. These are mysteries that we may never fully understand.

I believe that the universe is a place of marvels and mysteries, and that we are fortunate to be able to observe and study it. We should not be afraid to ask questions and to explore the unknown.

I hope that we can find common ground and that we can work together to understand the universe.

Resident adviser protests forced resignation

Galina Pospelova

("I believe I acted in a manner consistent with the job," said Kennedy. "I am very serious about this..."")

Kennedy received a letter from Secretary of the board of trustees on March 30, 1977. The letter informed him that the university had received a complaint from a student who alleged that Kennedy had sexually harassed them. The complaint was investigated by the university's Title IX office, which found merit in the complaint. The university then offered Kennedy two options: resign or be administratively terminated. Kennedy chose to resign, effective immediately.

Kennedy said he was surprised by the university's decision and that he had not been given a hearing. He said he had not had the opportunity to respond to the allegations against him.

Kennedy said he was disappointed that the university had not allowed him to have a hearing before his resignation was forced. He said he had been accused of harassment and had denied the charges.

Kennedy said he had been a resident advisor in the past and had not had any prior problems with his job. He said he had been recommended for the position by the university and had been chosen by the department.

Kennedy said he was not surprised that the university had decided to force his resignation. He said he had expected that the university would take action against him after the complaint was filed.

Kennedy said he did not know what he would do next. He said he did not want to return to university life, but he did not know what he would do.

Kennedy said he did not plan to pursue further action against the university.

Kennedy said he had no plans to return to school and was not interested in going back to the university.

Funding approved for women's shelter

By JANET KRIETEMEYER

Daily sports Editor

In a unanimous decision, the San Luis Obispo County Commission on the Status of Women voted Tuesday to fund Woman's Crisis House, the county shelter for battered women.

The shelter, which opened August 1977, has been operating on donations from county health agencies and the community. The commission expects that Senate Bill 51, the domestic violence bill, will be passed by April. The bill would allocate $1,000,000 to be divided up between four or five shelters in the state.

"It sounds like a lot but actually it isn't," said commissioner Ann Crulkshanks. "It's what they really need — something to get us started." Crulkshanks reported that the six women who have volunteered to run the shelter have agreed to stay for another six months. "Our aim is to be much more active through April," she said. "But the question is how. There is no money available through county sources. The chapter of the AAUW (American Association of University Women) has considered taking on part of the finances," she said.

The San Antonio Spurs charge a dollar more to stand than to sit. The figure is $4 for their lowest priced tickets—which includes a seat. But when the races are added, the NBA team charges $6 for the privilege of standing.

NEW YORK (AP)—Martin Luther was one of the early devotees but there is doubt that he will challenge Hank Marino, Don Carter and Dick Weber for a niche in the protected National Bowling Hall of Fame and Museum.

"Bowling was once a religious ritual—back in the Middle Ages," said Bruce Plunkthorn, author of the latest book, and Rodman Sampson.条件和风使它成为纽约市男子体育史上的最新记录。

"Every year parishes would trek to the monasteries to toss a rounded stone at a pin called a ‘heide.’

"Without the participation of others who are casual bowlers, the registered bowlers will contribute two dollars."

"At Coopersburg, a visitor with a $2,000 bet on the Packers' victory over the Bears in the World Series will be able to bet as small as $10 on such a game, "Plunkthorn said.

"If you are the biggest participant sports person in the country," said Plunkthorn, "then be sure to watch the game and cheer on your team."

"Record show that Lutther was a German theologian, and was an early convert to the movement to end the heide tradition."

"Luther was a great writer and preacher, known for his passion for bowling and his love of the game."

RILEYS university square
PORTLAND, Or. Lape—He was winning, as usual, in the Portland Masters day when David Braha Baita of Portland, Or., got up in his head room.

"It's a trying game," he told his college. "That really is my game."

Without a doubt Wednesday was one of the biggest days in the life of David Braha Baita, who has been dead since birth.

Although he can't hear it has been the talk of the University of Oregon, taking the lead in the junior men's competition after the first event, the compulsory figure skating exercise.

"I don't believe this. I don't believe this is happening to me," said Braha, unsuccessfully fighting the tears that accompanied the realization. The first place in the competition was the first place by 5 of the 7 judges.

Baseball games cancelled

The baseball team's six game homestand this week has been cancelled because of the rain. The university sheriff was to be in town for a game today and a double header tomorrow. Sacramento State was also scheduled for three games.

We don't know whether the games will be rescheduled.

Chemical warfare officers, the Boatmen, who make sure that the Coast Guard is ready to perform its mission, have to be physically fit and able to handle the stress of combat. They need to be able to make split-second decisions under pressure. And they need to be able to lead others.

The Job.

The Coast Guard's involved in things like saving lives, fighting pollution, enforcing the law, and maintaining navigational systems. They're Big Jobs and they're important Jobs. To the country and to the people who do them. And you could be involved in one of them after just 18 weeks in Officer Candidate School in Yorktown, Va.

The Coast Guard is a unique organization. It's a military service, but it's also a law enforcement agency. It's a foreign service, but it's also a civilian service. It's a law enforcement agency, but it's also a military service.

The Pay & Benefits.

As an Ensign in the Coast Guard, your starting salary will be over $10,000 a year. During your first 3 years, normal promotion and seniority will increase your salary by over 40%. Along with that come generous living allowances and benefits. Your medical and dental care is free. If you get married, your family also receives medical coverage. If you make the Coast Guard and your career, you can apply for post-graduate training. And if you're selected, we'll pay your tuition plus keep you on full salary while you're attending school.

There's also a generous retirement plan if you stay with us for at least 20 years. That's something you won't find with many private companies.

The Opportunities.

The jobs the Coast Guard does are anything but ordinary. Which means that doing those jobs will pay off in training and experience that is anything but ordinary. You'll develop skills in management and leadership that will be invaluable to you and your career. Skills you can use whether you stay in the Coast Guard or not.

And you'll be able to travel. A Coast Guard Officer doesn't stay put. Your assignment could be in any of a variety of locations around the country or overseas.

The Future.

As with any job you're interested in now, the future has got to be an important consideration. Where's the job going to lead you? In the Coast Guard your future is to say the least, expandable. Whether you make it a career or not, the experience and skills you'll develop will be hard to match anywhere else. The most important of which will be the skill of handling yourself in a management situation. Because that's what you'll be involved in on the first day of your job as a Coast Guard Officer. And when you've got that kind of experience, you can use it anywhere.
Jensen resignation

Fairly certain in the decision and I have no reason to intervene into the matter on a decision-making level," said Timone. "As Rich, head resident of Student Lucas Hall, had given Jensen permission to enter the dorm during break (immediately after the trip) and pick up belongings to take home, Jensen claims Rich agreed.

"I gave Greg permission to enter the dormitory after the trip of concern at the meeting.

"I have to agree because I work with those people," said Rich.

Because letters were sent to Kennedy and two legislators recently, Jensen said he does not expect replies for a few days. He is, however, attempting to secure an appointment with Kennedy to discuss the issue, he said.

Poly grad chosen for NASA program

A 1969 Cal Poly graduate was chosen for the NASA space shuttle program, it was announced yesterday.

Robert Gibson, a graduate of aerodynamics and engineering, was one of 15 persons chosen for the space shuttle program by NASA. NASA secrecy around the program before now minutes it down to the final list. Gibson was chosen as a pilot astronaut.

Gibson is currently serving as a lieutenant at Paxpaxur Naval Air Station, Maryland.

After he graduated Poly, Gibson enlisted in the Naval Aviation Officers Candidate program. He graduated in October, 1969, at the top of his class.

He then completed jet aircraft flight training in Corpus Christi, Texas. He was named distinguished naval aviator, the only one in a class of 66.

He was also a regular commission in the Navy and was F-4 Phantom. Vietnam Gibson was awarded three air medals.

After the war, he was allowed to attend the Navy test pilot school and completed his training August, 1977.

He was named outstanding student.
