Students blamed for failure

Stadium renovation

However, Director of Public Affairs, Donald MacDonald said Monday that he doesn't understand why Kennedy felt it was necessary to put the project on hold. "I don't have a clue. I can't talk to him (Kennedy) after he made those statements and I don't want to put my phone number on it," he said.

MacDonald said the students received a public announcement of Kennedy's comments and the university said the students were not involved in any public plans for the project.

"I have never heard of anything negative about the students," MacDonald said. "I think they are great people for their efforts."
Cohabitation hassles

Roommates can be your best friends or they can make your life miserable. The people you live with can be just your type, or they can be as different as night and day. Problems with roommates are very normal and many students can relate to this. It is true that no relationship can be totally stress-free, especially since living situations shouldn't have to be.

Roommates gripe can be as trivial as a roommate not doing a chore, or they can be as serious as a roommate who is a constant liar or a thief.

Roommates with different personality habits can produce some conflict. Even though they may respect each other's space, the problem can arise when both roommates have different ideas of how things should be handled. Think about the other side of the coin.

Animals are nice to have around, but sometimes their noise and smell can be a hassle. This is especially true if you're living in a house or apartment when you're living with someone else.

Unhappy roommates can drive a person crazy. It's hard to stay calm when you're being interrupted by someone you can't stand. Your roommates are supposed to share the responsibilities of living in the house, but if the responsibilities aren't shared, then the roommates might check the front door and drive you crazy.

Campus board strives for fairness

By BILL MOREM

Editor, Daily Rider

Dr. Menninger, chairman of the board of trustees, in his recent address to the student body of the University of Southern California, said that the board was striving for fairness. This statement was in response to a recent survey of student opinion, conducted by the university's student government organization.

The survey revealed that students were concerned about several issues, including the fairness of grading, the quality of teaching, and the availability of resources. The students were also concerned about the lack of diversity in the curriculum and the difficulties they faced in finding affordable housing.

The board has taken steps to address these concerns. For example, they have implemented a new grading system that provides more feedback to students, and they have increased the number of courses offered in various fields, including the humanities and social sciences.

The board has also increased the amount of financial aid available to students, and they have worked to improve the university's housing facilities. These efforts have been met with mixed reactions from students, who have praised the board for its efforts, but also expressed concern about the financial impact of these changes.

In his address, Dr. Menninger emphasized the importance of fairness in the university's operations. He noted that the board had a mandate to serve the interests of all members of the university community, and that they would continue to strive for fairness in all their decisions.

In a statement, she said: "I am sad to leave my position as lobbyist for the university, but I am confident that the university will continue to move in the right direction." She also thanked her colleagues for their support during her time at the university.

Birkenstock.

Foot in the sand makes imprints.

Foot in Birkenstock is imprinted on the very same thing. The Birkenstock footbed is hard and pressure sensitive, so molded to your foot, and becomes your footprint. So walking in Birkenstock is a lot like walking barefoot in the sand, with one very convenient difference.

If you can walk in Birkenstock all your legs.

Let your feet make choices for Birkenstock.

SPORTS

A sporting view

Pulling the strings of a champion

Bringing out of its corner of controversy, the World Boxing Council dealt a substantial knockout to Len Spilman by upgrading him to heavyweight champion.

Spilman was appointed Ken Norton to the defending crown. It was a just decision. According to Joe Valvano, WBC president, the decision was based on the grounds that Spilman was avoiding the top-ranked challenger, Norton, and therefore, he was declared to be the defending heavyweight world champion.

At the convention in Madrid in the last week of November, the WBC ruled that the winner must sign with a promoter of his choice by March 17 to fight Norton by July 1.

Since determining all some six weeks ago, Spilman has turned into a pitiful package of a champion (he is still regarded as such by WBC, the World Boxing Association.)

The promoter has been Bob Arum, chairman of Top Rank, Inc., the sports business manager for Norton.

Ozzie and the big league life

By Janet Kristoff

The Padres' Ozzie Smith has made the big time.

Before Alvin Dark was signed to the Padres, he was a 77 rookie sensation. A padres second baseman made room for him.

Dark's signing made a lot of people wonder what happened. Dark, who hit a .274 average in AAA this season, has been wanted for a long time.

Before Ozzie got to the Padres, he was going to be a major leaguer.

 INNER TUBE WATER POLO SIGNS

The world's first water polo sign was made by the inner tube company, Ozzie Smith's favorite team. The sign was made to advertise the inner tube company and Smith's new team.

The All American Drug

To many college students today, beer signifies a time to relax after finals, a time to gather in front of the tube to watch the Super Bowl, or maybe time for the next T.G.I. to get rolling. But what most young Americans don't realize, is that alcohol is America's number one drug problem. Whether it's with beer, wine, or hard liquor; an occasional good time can become a bad experience.

Look at yourself. Do you sit down everyday to a beer or two for lunch? Do you suds after school, and maybe a couple of "freebies" in the evening? You may be oblivious to the fact that you are dependent upon or abusing the rather one drug in the country to keep you going. Most college students don't realize that depending upon beer is just like being hooked on any other kind of drug.

Beach can also result in just as many interpersonal, social, academic and financial problems as other drugs even if there is no addiction. If this story is any familiar one to you, you should step to analyze your problem. Alcohol has become a serious problem in the Old Poly community. For counseling or more information, contact the Health Center Student Health Services.
Poly takes two from Cal

The women's softball team showed an overwhelming display of power Monday as the Mustangs annihilated UC Santa Barbara 13-4 and 10-2.

The team's record is 6-1. The only loss coming from Utah State when the Mustangs were defeated by a close 1-0 score.

Pitchers Lori Eide and Stacie Langrock were the heroes in Monday's game. Poly is fighting a young team this season with one starting being filled by "Everyone is really doing now. I'm really pleased with the way things are going," said Coach Val Pika.

Tennis today

Tennis coach Ken Pelt expects no trouble in defeating Chabot Junior College when the Mustangs host the Gladiators at 3:30 p.m. today.

The Mustangs will be playing for their 8th win against one loss. Poly will travel to Fresno on Monday to face the Bulldogs.
