Honey and hives in the early morning

This past week, a class of various majors in the Agriculture Department came early to class. They were enthusiastic and eager.

Larry Vondrak gets up at 5 a.m. for his 8 a.m. Crop Science class. It's the only class he takes, so he'll be getting up for a few more weeks. Creel and Vondrak, a crop science major, is the bookend class on the second floor.

"I've been up early and have just not been getting any sleep."

During one of the 8 a.m. classes, Dr. Ralph M. Vondrak gave a lecture to one of the classes grouped by the room. He went over the entire course and morning and the birds were very interested. "I don't believe it's a good morning to go into the field," said Vondrak. "Too early in the morning."

Vondrak demonstrated how bees move when they are allowed to fly out of the hive and feed on pollen and nectar from a metal can out of the hive.

The bees have managed to a canopy of myrtle and a bush, he said. The bees then walked or flew in the field. The queen was in a box on the other side of the field. Vondrak explained the process of beekeeping and milk secrets. He replaced the queen in a new strip of wax instead of removing the queen from the hive.

"I'm sure you're not going to see a queen," said Vondrak.

"It's kind of hard to see them." According to the queen, the bees have been working to 60 each.

Some students added white paint to the hive after the queen was taken out. Trish Power, a student, explained the process. "They're going to be used in the following week."

Power and a classmate, a daily newspaper major, plan to have in Hawaii accessory. The queen is the group of bees that is moved into the hive.

"This is part of the course," said Vondrak. "It's an ornamental and it's really good for bees."

As an ornamental woman, Vondrak said, "It's really good for the bees."

The bee work ended and students were asked to be out of the class. A student explained the process. "The bees have been a new experience."

Dog eat dog life

I went my first few weeks in New York City collaborating with the university's sports team. I wrote about the exploits of a dog eating a cat. It was a minor event, but it captured the attention of the local media.

This proved to be a lucky experience,

The hunt for a place to rent will always be a major part of the student experience. I can't say that I was lucky in this regard. I was forced to look for a place to rent after the dog ate the cat. The situation was dramatically different. I was no longer an(above the law. The difference cannot be overstated. I had to find a place to live and pay rent.

The housing office, of course, was set up to find housing for students. I spent hours searching, day after day, looking through the rental listings.

The result of this search was a rental apartment in a building managed by a management company organized by a rental agent.

I was there, my friends were there,
my girlfriend was there, and I was there. Unbeknownst to me, our landlord was there as well. I was about to be evicted.

A twist: Looking for Ms. Goodbar

I'm in New York, and another match is taking place. This time, I know what I want. I want a partner. But first, I want to find a place to live. Mr. Goodbar is at the head of the line. He's a businessman, and I'm confident he'll be ready.

I've got to find a seat, but this place is tight. Or, if I can't find somewhere you're with a date at a bar, you run into everybody you know. But when you're looking for a place to live, you need to make sure you like it. He's a partner, and I want him to like me.

I suspect
there is a way of automating
the

(1) Go to the nearest office in the inquire about the procedure.

(2) Take the completed form to

(3) Take the transcript back to the

(4) Continue this process
for as long as you

Poly Royal Previews
Queen gains insight from Poly Royal

I think my favorite quote is "If you have a great idea, get into Poly Royal!" -- Anthony Corden, a Poly Royal member. He's not only a member of Poly Royal, but also a member of the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA). His favorite quote is "Life is what happens when you're busy making other plans." -- John Lennon.

The contest this year will be on April 19, starting at 2 p.m. in the Great Hall.

Deity Show
Dairy Science 131 is not only a class in which students are trained in the Poly Royal, but also a class in which students are trained in the Poly Royal.

The contest will be held on April 19, starting at 2 p.m. in the Great Hall.

Math context
Taking a look at mathematics, there is a favorite activity of high school students and teachers: Poly Royal. Poly Royal is a national contest that takes place in many high school locations and is open to any high school student.

The contest will be held on April 19, starting at 2 p.m. in the Great Hall.

Good music at Cuesta's jazz concert

The Thad Jones and Mel Lewis Jazz Orchestra performed at Cuesta College at the Broadcast Auditorium last Friday night. The audience and the band were drawn to this audiovisual extravaganza from the full house. The band was something missing.

The orchestra, under the direction of Jack Daniels and Joe Cuesta, did not disappoint the audience. When the orchestra started, the audience erupted in applause. The orchestra played with such precision and energy that they had the audience on their feet, standing and clapping along with the music. The audience was mesmerized by the performance. In fact, there were no signs of the usual college jazz concert.

This unique sound of the jazz orchestra hit the central coast for the fifth time in ten years. They performed with it an appreciative, well-mannered audience and the razzle of a group of students. In what was the culmination of the week's events, the band sent a warm and enthusiastic message to all. The students and faculty were overjoyed at the event.

Residents sue over canal treaty

SAN DIEGO (AP)—San Diego County residents are suing President Carter and San Diego'sClipper-National on the grounds that Carter's treaty with Nicaragua will cost them $90,000 in damages. The treaty, which was announced on June 20, would allow Nicaragua to build a dam on the Tijuana River that would cause flooding along the border. The residents claim that the treaty was signed without their consent and that it violates international law.

Outbreak of botulism reported

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of the largest outbreaks of botulism in the United States in the last 10 years has broken out in a Columbus restaurant, authorities said today. The outbreak was reported to the health department by a group of diners who became sick after eating at the restaurant. The health department is investigating the cause of the outbreak and has advised the public to avoid eating at the restaurant until more information is available.

West coast possible VW site

DRETTO (AP)—Volkswagen is looking at the West Coast as a possible site for a new assembly plant. The company is considering the area because of its proximity to the Pacific Northwest market and the availability of skilled labor. The company is expected to make a decision on the site in the next few months.

Treasury compromise reached?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Panamanian government will accept a new compromise proposal on U.S. intervention rights under the Panama Canal treaty, Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd said today. The new proposal, which was presented by the Panamanian government, would allow the United States to have a say in the canal's operation, but would not give it control over the canal.

Three inmates die of overdose

SAN LUIS OBISPO (AP)—Three inmates at the California Men's Colony died after drinking illegal doses of a drug they obtained from a fellow inmate, authorities said today. The inmates, all of whom were serving sentences for drug-related offenses, were found dead in their cells on November 10. The cause of death was confirmed by coroners.

Body theft a matter of religion

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Charlie Chaplin's body was stolen from his home last month but not for ransom, because he was Jewish—and his name was probably saved when the body had been taken, the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner reported today.

James Baxan, a Hollywood reporter for the newspaper, quoted a source close to the Chaplin family as saying, "The theft of Charlie's body is no mere robbery. It is a matter of religion and nothing else. No ransom was demanded and the body had been taken to a place where he could find the body no one could identify it as his, and there was no one who could say it was a body he would knowystery is yet to be explained."
Poly nine just can’t seem to get ahead

Cal Poly’s baseball team travels to Santa Barbara tomorrow to take on the Gauchos of UCSB in a noon doubleheader. The frustrated Mustangs, having dropped five of their last six contests, are looking to end the string of losses after snapping a five-game losing streak from visiting UC Santa Barbara Nordtveit, 9-4, Friday evening at the Civic Stadium.

Friday’s battle began in the bottom of the first inning when the Mustangs scored their first run of the ballgame. The Mustang offense came back with two runs in the top of the third inning. The Mustangs’ hitting was the story of the game when hard-hitting Matt Milliner singled, shortstop Scott Gast, sacrificed, designated hitter Scott Painter doubled and Oleary hit a run-scoring single.

Harper and troops rebuild for ’78

Cal Poly has opened its 15th spring training practice period under Coach Jerry Harper, and the problems are familiar. Starting up the defense, adding players to replace a pair of All-Time standouts on offense, converting some bench pals and making strides in the area of developing adequate depth are the goals.

Thirty-five letter winners are back for the spring work, and with the addition of incoming freshmen Bill Trueman and transferred receiver Jimmy Childs down the starting lineup for his junior year. Starting hitting at the plate, Trueman had a four-year career last fall at the school’s all-time/longest record holder with 180 hits in 1,113 games. Former Chico State player has 17 career starts with 61 runs scored and 17 RBIs for 1.493 batting average. 151 hits and in Tim.

Coach Harper expects Cal Poly to be one of the中央 points of the 1978 season. The 1977 team won the Western Athletic Conference and was runner-up in the NCAA playoffs.

In 1973 it was Trueman who established the school record with a 51-game hitting streak with a 1.045 batting average and 16 stolen bases. The streak carried him into the professional Miami (Florida) Marlins.

The prospects to take over the starting lineup in 1974 are senior right fielder Scott Painter, who batted .343 last fall and is a powerful number two hitter. Painter takes over at third base from his junior season position at first base, where he hit .292 last season.

Graduation claimed Don Brennan, who handled the catching duties for the last two years, and Mike Polis, who added the punting duties to his responsibilities.

Mike Bailey figures to be in the lineup at the offensive line, and he is a returning runner and 200-yard club member. After playing outside last fall, Bailey figures to return to his usual position at center this season.

“We’re very excited about the running game. We haven’t had a running back in the last couple of years, but we think we’ve got a good one this fall. We’ll play well in the area of running the ball.”

Spikers go undefeated in CCVC

BY BILL VERMEER, Sports Writer

The Cal Poly volleyball team went undefeated en route to the title of the Central California Valley Conference (CCVC) last weekend.

The Mustangs finished the regular season tied for first place with a 16-2 conference record. They then went on to win the CCVC tournament with a 3-0 sweep of San Jose State.

The team's success is a testament to the hard work and dedication of the players and coaching staff. The Mustangs' 16-2 record is a significant accomplishment, especially considering the challenges they faced throughout the season.

The team's victory in the CCVC tournament solidified their place as one of the top teams in the region. Their performance in the tournament showcased their talent and ability to perform under pressure.

The Mustangs' success is a credit to their coaches and support staff, who work tirelessly to support and guide the team. Their dedication to the sport and to their players is evident in their success.

The team's success is also a testament to the strength of the Central California Valley Conference. The conference is known for its competitive and high-level play, and the Mustangs' success this season is a reflection of that.

Overall, the Mustangs' undefeated season and CCVC title are a credit to the hard work and dedication of the team. Their success is a source of pride for the school and a testament to the strength of the program.

Continued from page 3 "Night Fever" comes on, and everyone is Transcendentalizing. If I get any sleep at all tonight, I don’t think I’ll be able to get up in the morning.

I’m not being too critical now. I’ve cut down Max and his friends, Marcus, everyone at the club, and the rest of the dorms who are sleeping. It has nothing to do with the fact that I’m getting more work done than they are and I can stay up late and still always have ideas. Max is a mean student.

I don’t do this to be negative. It’s just that I think the dorms are overreacting.

"The problem," Max says, "is that my drink and the lights don’t go off on time. Look at how late it is now and how much work I still have to do."
