WIND, SAILS AND SPRAY

The breeze comes in, buffeting the waves that rolled out of the Baja and into the Bay of California. The helm of the boat swings to the starboard side, and the bow of the boat rises out of the water. The man on the foredeck, dressed in a yellow life jacket and a blue cap, reaches for the tiller and pulls it back. The jibe is executed, and the boat continues its journey through the waves.

As a precautionary measure, Kurtz said that he would like all interested students to come to the club on one of the sailing trips. He got to the point that the club is not for the sole enjoyment of a small group, but rather for the enjoyment of a small group and all interested students who may want to get involved. The club has a large group of active members, and is always looking for new members.

Kurtz, a freshman Computer Science major, said that the club has its roots in a love of the ocean and sailing. He said that he enjoys the challenge of sailing, and that it is a fun and rewarding experience.

The club is open to all students, and has a strong tradition of friendly competition. The club is always looking for new members, and is always welcoming new students.

As the boat settles into a calm rhythm, the man on the foredeck reaches for the tiller again. The jibe is executed, and the boat continues its journey through the waves, with the breeze and the spray providing a constant companion.

'Holocaust' mind-boggling

Last week's television broadcast of 'Holocaust' was one of the most moving, most profound experiences I have ever had.

The graphic portrayal of the Nazi concentration camps, unmitigated evil of the Holocaust, is a reminder of the inhumanity that man is capable of. One wonders how it was possible for the Nazi's to have designed and carried out their atrocities.

Yet, history shows the blame lies not with Germany, but with the Western civilizations. The Allies failures (and 'Ibby's help), the reparations imposed on Germany, are the root causes of the problem.

Yet, 'Holocaust' made a point of stating that an ideal racial attitude towards the Jews is England, France and even America. It makes it possible for the extermination to be carried out.

Some of the leaders felt strongly enough about this, the destruction, the extermination, and death could have been drastically reduced.

Fascism was instigated against the Jews, and, in effect, reduced a group of people to a form of life that could not exist and a mass-murdering venture. Yet that was 1930s.

For, those of us who are alive during that time, that realization makes us feel that such outrage can only be tolerated. There is no power for us to express our hatred and acceptance is what we do. We know that to express these feelings, in the past, has been at least partially, if not wholly, illegal.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter written by El Corral Broadcasting Manager, was the last letter that this in the Daily April 17.

Dear Charles Abraham,

The business does not have a policy of not replying to letters that we print. However, I do not think that we should print letters that are similar to letters that have been printed before.

We appreciate the constructive criticism of our editors. However, we feel that the letter that was printed in the Daily April 17 was not very constructive.

Sincerely,

Cal Poly secretaries are miracle workers

By Virginia BURNETT

Daily Poly

Cal Poly's secretaries are miracle workers. According to Marilyn Brooks, the acting manager of the clerical department, they deal with the paperwork involved in the daily operation of the university. The secretaries are responsible for the various clerical positions, including answering the phones, handling mail, and managing the department's budget.

In addition to their regular duties, the secretaries also serve as a liaison between the faculty and the administration. They are often the first point of contact for students and faculty, and they are responsible for ensuring that all paperwork is processed accurately and efficiently.

The secretaries at Cal Poly are highly trained and knowledgeable about their jobs. They are responsible for keeping track of student records, and they are often the first to notice if a student is having difficulty with their coursework.

The secretaries at Cal Poly are also responsible for maintaining the department's budget. They are responsible for keeping track of all expenses, and they are responsible for ensuring that the department is operating within its budget.

If you are interested in working as a secretary at Cal Poly, you should contact the clerical department. They are always looking for new employees, and they offer opportunities for career advancement.

Rain or not, Poly Royal will go on

Poly Royal may be dampened but not dismantled if rain falls this weekend.

"Poly Royal will be, rain or shine," said Rodney Hall, Poly Royal Executive Board faculty advisor. "The only event the rain would trouble are the outdoor activities that are to occur at specified times. The day-long activities can wait out the rain," he said. If the opening ceremony is moved out it will be moved to Chapman Auditorium. The rides will continue regardless of the weather. It has not been decided what will happen if the barbecue is rained out.

The basic events such as music events and school displays according to Hall, are inside.

"The outside activities will have to decide whether they want to go on in the rain and whether there are people there to watch," said Hall. "The food booths have no roofs and the workers will likely have to go to a store to find shelter," he added.

Science and math events planned

Students in the School of Science and Mathematics are taking time off from their normal pursuits to put on the biggest science show of their year for Poly Royal.

Chemistry students are busy preparing a chemical magic show, a display of DNA research findings, and a glass-blowing booth. In addition to these exhibits, they are sponsoring displays on radioactive decay, the best contest of wood, and deterministic games with a display of models made by Kent, the computer's inside.

The Association for Computing Machinery is planning a variety of activities such as computer device exhibitions, computer simulation, artificial intelligence demonstrations, and a Cal Poly careers display.

Exhibits from the Astronomy and Biology Sciences Department will be on display.

Department will be responsible for an illustration contest and building a display on "It's Your Life," which will illustrate your interactions with and impact on the environment.

The Military Science Department is preparing a regaling demonstration in addition to Exhibits on the national bench, national observatory devices, and a field bridge. Computing devices, communications devices, and a field communication booth are planned.

The Geosciences Department will be sponsoring the 50th Poly Royal Mathematics Congress, which will include a poster session by students from high schools and local universities.

Students are also scheduled to participate in the Chemistry Club will conduct experiments in the Chemistry Lab. The Poly Royal staff and faculty will be on hand to answer questions and provide further information.

People mover to be used for Poly Royal

Special transportation to and from a house is provided by a grant from the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation. It is a battery-driven shuttle that will pick up and drop off people in wheelchairs.

After Poly Royal, the shuttle will begin a regular schedule for students, staff, and faculty of the campus community who are permanently or temporarily disabled.

Robert Boudreau, coordinator of Disability Student Services at Cal Poly, said there are approximately 64 disabled people on campus, including many with disabilities that require them to use wheelchairs, canes, braces, and other supportive devices.

Closed parking lots

During Poly Royal, on-campus transportation will be limited. The Poly Royal people mover will be available in the grassy area of the student union. A shuttle bus will be available to transport students to other locations on campus.

The Grand Avenue structure will be decorated with a large display. The Spring Drive sign will be placed on the Grand Avenue structure of the Spring Drive structure at the Student Union Center.

The OH flower display

A flower show sponsored by the Student Flower Show was held at the Cal Poly flower display on Saturday, April 21. The show is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. The show is sponsored by the Student Flower Show and is open to the public.

Mustangs take three games

The softball team picked up three more victories over the weekend in bringing its season record to 18-4.

The Mustangs swept a doubleheader from the Chapman College Panthers on Friday 9-3 and 8-2.

Warren Davis' two-run home run in the first game and Lori DeLine came in in the seventh to finish the game. Both then returned in the second game to wrap up another victory for the Mustangs. Davis hit a single and stole home to aid Poly in the win. The Mustangs had eight hits in each game.

On Saturday, the team traveled to Long Beach to take on the dorms and even though the Mustangs could only muster four hits they still came out on top 4-0.

The men had their share of problems as they committed four errors.

Long Beach came on again in pinch and scored out five and the win brought her season record to 6-5.

Poly will host Pomona in its last regular season game of the year on Saturday at 11:45.

Poly wins two out of three

In a battle between two teams going nowhere, the Cal Poly Pomona Broncos and Cal Poly Mustangs split a doubleheader Saturday. The Mustangs took the first contest, 5-3, while the Broncos won the nightcap, 6-5.

In the first game, San Luis Obispo plated up 14 hits and was led by two Pomona errors. First baseman Ben Martinez picked up his fourth win.

In the second contest, Cal Poly plated up 15 hits and scored the winning run in the tenth inning as Poly pitcher Tony Carter held Pomona to four hits. The Mustangs find themselves in last place in league competition. Poly is 3-1-1 in league play and 8-16 overall while Pomona is 2-2-1 overall and 8-4 in league.

Cal Poly baseball will be队伍建设 a part of this year's Poly Royal festivities.

This Mustangs' defeated Santa Clara and U.C. Riverside 9-1 and took out Loyola 9-0. Netters really played up the competition which the team won, said Coach Fred Pace.

Pace says the weeks to ready for the California Collegiate Athletic Association Championships in May. He says the team will be set to Cal Baptist and Cal State Bakersfield.
