Over 100,000 show for royal event

Between 80,000 and 100,000 persons attended the annual Poly Royal on Friday and Saturday, a Cal Poly official said.

The estimate is based on a vehicle count, said Don McGahn, public information officer. The figure is on the conservative side, he said.

Departments and instructionally-related clubs were helped within their schools, and first place winners were announced Friday. First place winners were judged Saturday in four overall categories: sweepstakes, educational value, theme and originality.

Home Economics Department won the sweepstakes award for its display, "Eat, Eat, Learn All About It." Home Economics is in the School of Human Development and Human Environments.

Graphic Communications' exhibit, "Making the Printed Page," was judged to be the most educational and the best example of this year's theme, "Our Planet the Action." Graphic Communications is in the School of Commmunications Arts and Humanities.

Landscape Architecture's display won the award for originality. Landscape Architecture is in the School of Architecture and Environmental Design. Other first place winners for exhibits within the university were:

School of Business: Accounting Club, "Accounting Facts and Figures;" School of Science and Math: Biology, Beta Beta Beta, "Biology in Action;" School of Engineering and Technology: Industrial Technology Society, "Where the Action Is." School of Agriculture and Natural Resources: Crop Club, "Grade A Pulp; What Does It Take?" Divisions of Social Sciences: Political Action Club, "Housing Display;" For other results, see page 4. Results from other competitions will appear in later issues.

Quiet weekend for police

By JOHN BERNMAN
Daily Staff Writer

Policing in the city of Bakersfield was quiet and uneventful, according to Bakersfield police department spokesman Larry Whittman. The city's streets were not as busy as usual, and there were no major incidents reported.

Despite the calm, Whittman said the Bakersfield Police Department was ready for any unexpected situations. "We're always prepared," he said. "We don't want anything to happen, but we're ready to respond if it does."

Sial Sial runs-100 in 10.16, finishes 2nd

By JIM ALVERMAN

It’s back to the future for a few of the Cal Poly track team, as Coach Dave Miller’s Mustangs have had one strong perfor­ mation after another.

At the weekend’s San Jose National Invitational, two Mustangs broke personal highs, one of which could be a west coast record.

With the conference meet next weekend, Miller is hoping for more.
‘The conference meet is right around the corner. We can’t afford to go into it with our high scores. If we do we’ll have a beak of a time,” said Miller.

We want to get our act together for the conference meet which is the key to our success,” Miller added.

One Mustang who has big plans for the conference meet is Joe Sial Sial. The Mustang finished third in the 100 meter dash Saturday which is the second fastest time in the conference. Sial Sial placed second in the 200 meter dash in 21.64 while running third in the 110 meter hurdles.

The Mustangs scored a personal best and qualified for the national meet with a leave of 300 feet in the 300 meter hurdles.

Sial Sial’s mother, Mrs. Sam Sial, was in the stands cheering as her son, along with another Mustang, pulled off the personal best.

Sial Sial, who came to Cal Poly last September, said he had been running for three years.

The Mustangs clean up at rodeo

Cal Poly’s rodeo team scored a narrow victory at the Poly Rodeo on April 12.

The team scored 1,340 points, which was the highest score in the region.

The team scored a narrow victory over the University of Arizona, which scored 1,230 points.

Cal Poly’s best team member was John Brown, who scored 13 points.

The Mustangs scored 35 points in the team’s second consecutive win.

Spikers wrap up season

The Cal Poly volleyball program was able to score a berth in the Division I Western Regional tournament which is the first time in 10 years.

The team scored 2-1, 15-8, 15-3, 15-2 against Pepperdine University.

The Mustangs played a 5-0 match against Pepperdine in the regional match Saturday.

It was the first win for Poly in 10 years.

The Mustangs were the first team to score 15-2 in the history of the program.

The Mustangs scored 2-1 in the West Coast Conference.

The Mustangs scored 15-8 in the team’s second consecutive win.
