The sun, which was yesterday 169 days old, is hiding behind a dark cloud today. But, the sun will come out tomorrow. And, if you don't remember that, there's no help for it.

As president of the town for the last 16 years, Bachelor says he has a lot of friends. But, he's not sure if they all like him. It's a tough life being president of SLO. But, the job is important.

Bachelor is a man of few words. He's not one to mince his words or sugarcoat his thoughts. He speaks his mind, and that's the way he likes it. He's not one to be fooled by soft words or empty promises.

Bachelor is a man of action. He's always on the move. He's never one to sit still. He's always looking for ways to improve the town. He's not one to be satisfied with the status quo.

Bachelor is a man of integrity. He's always honest and straightforward. He's not one to be fooled by a smooth-talking politician. He's always looking for the truth and not afraid to speak it.

Bachelor is a man of passion. He's always passionate about his work. He's not one to be satisfied with the status quo. He's always looking for ways to improve the town.

Bachelor is a man of honor. He's always true to his word. He's not one to be fooled by a smooth-talking politician. He's always looking for the truth and not afraid to speak it.

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Deflation follows elation

Poly Royal is finally over, and most of us are glad to get back to some normalcy. The blocks have been taken down and the houses are议 again going up. We can all now get back to our regular routines.

But for a few who were lucky enough to get in, there are some new opportunities and you will have to adapt to the new situation. The dorms are now open and you will have to adjust to the new rules.

There are some new people in the dorms, and you will have to get to know them. You will have to learn to live with them and get along with them.

Some of the people in the dorms are the same as before, and you will have to adjust to their new behavior.

The dorms are now back to normal, and you will have to get used to the new rules.

We all have to get used to the new normal, and we all have to adjust to the new rules.

Pneumonia outbreak affects students

By LAURA CHRISTMAN

There has been a recent outbreak of pneumonia on campus. According to Dr. Lee Ondrcek, a staff physician at the Health Center, there have been over 150 cases of pneumonia in the past month. This is after the beginning of winter break, when students are more likely to be sick.

Pneumonia is a serious illness that can be caused by a variety of bacteria or viruses. Symptoms may include fever, coughing, chest pain, and shortness of breath.

In some cases, pneumonia can be deadly. It is important for students to watch for these symptoms and seek medical attention if necessary.

Well written and sharp techniques in interviewing brought the top positions in the job market to the students who went to an interview, according to students of the Placement Office. Handwritten notes are important, the office said, because they show that the student has made a personal effort to seek the position.

The Placement Office said that personal letters sent to the company make a difference in the interview. The office also said that students who called the company after the interview were more likely to be asked to interview.

Gary Martin— the man behind the plate

By GAIL STEEDER
Daily News Writer

Gary Martin pays so
for his black mask and black ear protection, in his heart he loves baseball.

His job is to convince players and fans that he's confident, knowledgeable and full of surprises. The California Interscholastic Federation has certified him as such.

Martin, it seems, has picked up about 200
unofficials for baseball,
softball and basketball.
A former Woodland
high school baseball
coach, he scheduled his teachers to have his assistants and umpires.

This is a key to
overcoming a bad-umpire
day as a coach, and it’s an interview. I tell my boys that means,
"If you're in Ben Lomond, don't do this, and so on. I have never been known to have you hear you.

This is a key to
overcoming a bad-umpire
day as an umpire for city and youth leagues. His first as a CIF-certified umpire for high school baseball. His CIF territory runs from Burbank to Lompoc. He raises effort, knowledge,
and mechanics and mechanical as the most notable aspect of umpiring.

"Once you can do all
done things, you can work
to get the calls right," he said.

Martin's experience has determined how to get every official in the right place. "The number one thing that is most obvious is knowledge. You can't talk to umpires. You have to have your questions answered from the stands." He used to umpire at a high school, and the umpires made him a coach. "I love the rules," he said. "But I learned to do it at Lompoc High School.

A base hit, two outs,
and the last batter at the disk. Martin began the tale by saying, "The key is to know the rules. If time, you have to get the call right." He said.

Volunteers In Service To America

The Associated Students Film Committee presented a film on naval aviation to the Poly students on May 5. The film was titled "The Sky's the Limit in Naval Aviation" and was presented at the Chumash Auditorium. The event was organized by the ASI Films Committee. The film aimed to provide an insight into the opportunities available in naval aviation and the role volunteers can play in this field. The event offered unlimited opportunities to Poly students interested in pursuing a career in naval aviation.
