Comments on the Bakke decision

The Reason—"I basically feel it's devastating. I feel that a trend of our country going in the right more than it traditionally has been.

Steve Barrett—"I don't know anything about it."

Jane Whidley—by request—"I don't like it because I want to go to dental school and it might affect me, would change my name if there were two.

Shannon Crystal—"I just got a letter from Revelle and I'm kind of out of touch with things."

Dave Davidson—"It's regressive. It's going to be tough for people out of the very good school. Bakke would say it's a visceral, it's peripheral reason, but he doesn't want to go to school. Nobody's going to."

Helen Blevins—"My feelings are mixed. I would say I have gone to court, I could have prepared a better case."

Carl Edwards—"That's life."

Handy Jeye—"I think it's great. I feel as though I'm going to be a minority in this country."

Mona Davis—"I couldn't give you a good answer on the reverse discrimination aspect, but because there was a quota system at Davis what shouldn't have been my hands over him putting in, it shouldn't be drawn any lines out other, which it doesn't."

Johns Murray—"It was a hard decision, but I think they were right in allowing him to be admitted. For something like medical school, I think academic achievement should take precedence over equal opportunity and a quota system."

Bakke case: A landmark decision?

By a vote of 5-4 the Supremes Court decided June 25 that Allen Bakke had not been denied admission to UC Davis medical school because of race.

The case represented the biggest civil rights issue before the Supremes Court since school desegregation cases of 1954.

Bakke challenged the constitutionality of granting minority status to UC Davis medical school which prevented him from being admitted and if sucesso achieved in reverse discrimination.

Bakke: Two equitable decisions

The U.S. Supreme Court's ruling in the Bakke case is an important victory for those who oppose discrimination in higher education. The Court's decision will help to ensure that minority students are not discriminated against in the admissions process.

The Supreme Court's decision in Bakke is significant because it is the first time a U.S. court has ruled on the constitutionality of affirmative action programs in higher education. The Court's decision will help to ensure that minority students are not discriminated against in the admissions process.

The Court's decision is important because it recognizes the need for diversity in higher education. The Court's decision also recognizes the value of affirmative action programs in helping to ensure that minority students are not discriminated against in the admissions process.

President of the press and the right to privacy are two fundamental concepts in American democracy. Last month the Supreme Court of the United States ruled that police need a warrant to search a home or office. The Court's decision has raised concerns about the ability of the press to do its job.

CATA conference draws 407 to Poly

By Mitchell Smith

The 16th annual California Agriculture Technology Association (CATA) Conference drew off 407 participants from California and elsewhere last week to Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo.

The conference was held at Cal Poly and sponsored by The Division of Agriculture and Natural Resources, the CATA, and the Poly Extension Services.

The title of this year's conference was "A Vision for Tomorrow," about 35 people attended.

The four-day conference included a number of speakers, including H. A. Thronson, head of Corporate College Relations Manager, IBM Corporation, 3424 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, CA 90010.

The conference was a success, according to the speakers. A number of speakers noted that the conference was a success, and that the attendees were satisfied with the program.

If you could talk with some of the people who have joined us recently, you'd hear some good reasons for working at IBM. Our people are given responsibility for projects as soon as they can handle it, and they have the freedom to carry their projects through to completion. There's a lot of room for personal growth and outstanding opportunity for advancement because we make a practice of promoting from within.

You owe it to yourself to find out about the opportunities at IBM. For more information about careers in engineering and programming, make an appointment for an interview at the placement office, or write: H.A. Thronson, Corporate College Relations Manager, IBM Corporation, 3424 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, CA 90010.

We will be interviewing at Cal Poly SLO, July 10, 1978.
