Pumpkin pick-ups at Cal Poly patch

BY DOUG MACKINS

Daily Coldwater Writer

The Cal Poly Crop Science Club has almost 10,000 of the orange vegetables ready to sell on a U-pick 'em basis.

October 20 was the first day the general public was allowed to choose pumpkins from the 1.3 acre field adjacent to Highway 1. Oct 26 from noon to 4 p.m. and October 27 and 28 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. the field will be open for final sales.

The pumpkin sales are the biggest fund-raising event of the year for the 120-member club, said Clayton Camp, club president.

In addition to community and campus service projects, the funds are used to help pay for dub trips members who have worked during the year promoting the club's activities, he said.

According to Camp, the pumpkins were cut four weeks ago to stop growth and the gourds were turned over to allow them to mature completely. The pumpkins vary in size from small to large, and in price from 50 cents to $1.

The pumpkins are also sold in the campus produce store.

"Several people have told me they picked the hard-kernels to make flour, but that's not a common practice," said Lambers.

Income from major sales will help the club pay for soil science-related trips as well as the annual meeting of the California chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America which, sponsored by Cal Poly in 1981.

"It's great up here," said the 22-year-old business major, who is majoring in business administration. "We take the groups into the field where they can sit in the pumpkin patch and we explain how we plant, irrigate, fertilize and weed the plants," said Camp.

After the tours are completed, the children are allowed to pick any pumpkin to take home for 50 cents, said Camp.

Visitors to the pumpkin patch may also purchase mạte (بدل) corn. Members of the Soils and Soil Conservation Clubs have worked on a joint project growing three-fourths of an acre of the multi-colored corn.

According to Dr. Royce Lamberti, Soil Conservation Club advisor, many people use the corn to decorate homes and tables for Halloween or Thanksgiving. He suggests that the ears be painted with Varethane or shellac to preserve their color and keep the kernels from falling out.

"In a marathon I like to get the hills and flat course ready to make four, but that's not a common practice," said Lamberti.

"I'm more relaxed, so I ran well in the City to Port Race a while ago, but I haven't been running much the past few weeks," said the 22-year-old business major.

"It was hot and windy too," said the 20-year old San Marcos High School graduate. "I ran by myself because no other runner was prepared to start that fast."

More time to decide

A new add-drop policy is now being considered by campus administrators. Under the present policy, a student has one week to add classes after the quarter begins and three weeks into the quarter to drop a class or classes.

The new program currently before the Administrative Council would change all that.

Changes would entail the add period being increased to two weeks and the drop period being decreased by one week. This would make the add and drop date the same—two weeks into the quarter.

Director of Admissions Jerald Holley, a member of the committee which drew up the new proposal, said the change is necessary in part because of the implementation of Computer Assisted Registration. He said a greater demand on computer time when the new registration system starts will make it necessary to start paperwork early.

Holley said he feels the new add-drop policy will help students in establishing their schedules sooner.

A longer add period would be advantageous to students. It gives them flexibility in planning a schedule and time to decide on how they want to approach the quarter.

A shorter drop period takes away the flexibility a longer add period might contribute.

The present period of three weeks is a comfortable period for class drops. It gives students enough time to get a quiz or test back as well as enough time in their schedule to do justice to the class.

Perhaps administrators could find another place to catch up on paperwork.

I feel that it is important to maintain the integrity of student government so students as well as administrators will take ASI issues seriously. I hope this item is resolved quickly, however, so that ASI can get to other pressing issues such as student involvement in personnel, Academic Advising and student consumer advocacy.

I feel the same consideration must be given in developing an appropriate policy within our campus community. Therefore, while I support the possession of alcohol in dorm rooms and at evening dances and games, I am adamantly opposed to it's sale on campus under any circumstances much less a beer garden open for business during school hours. It is the responsibility of the campus community to assist in minimizing the abuse of alcohol in behalf of that 10 percent who aren't strong enough to do it themselves, not to mention the jeopardy the rest of us are subjected to by their actions.

The proven method of limiting alcohol’s availability is a necessary inconvenience the responsible majority must accept. With such a policy it can then be said that we have the same rights (and the same opportunities for abuse) as other adult citizens.

Editor: Cal Poly is becoming like a kindergarten. The other day I tried to use the copy machine at the U.U. I didn't have a student I.D. with me. I was refused use of the machine and yelled at by the receptionist. What's next? Will everybody be required to wear an I.D. all the time on campus? Will you need a student I.D. to use the bathroom? This is the same rights (and the same opportunities for abuse) as other adult citizens.

University includes learners

Editor: Since the Mustang Daily has already established its concern for the quality of teaching at Cal Poly, I am sure it has a similar concern for quality learning. Therefore, I am disappointed that the Daily has seen fit to accept advertising from Academic Research, which claims to have 10,250 research papers on file. I construe this ad to be a carefully worded incitement to academic fraud.

I believe that a successful university is a blend of teachers and learners. The health of one determines that of the other; both have an obligation to seek excellence. Cal Poly's educational mission is not well served by an implied acceptance of the purchase of research papers. Your discreetly placed disclaimer does not free you from the task of responsible journalism.

Sincerely,

William C. Langworthy, Dean School of Science and Mathematics

Running things at ASI

Editor: After reading Tom Folk's story regarding Rose Krahn's ASI appointment (October 4), I feel a need to clarify one of Rose's remarks that appeared in the story.

Rose was quoted as saying, in defense of her appointments, that I also "picked my closest associates" to help me run things.

Just to set the record straight, I appointed all my key advisors through a consultant process that included the ASI Vice-President, ASI Internal Affairs and the Director of the Activities Planning Center.

I appointed Rose Krahn, Willie Huff, Ted Hanng, Karen Ambler, and Ellen Stanton as my key advisors. None of these individuals were close friends before I appointed them.

I feel a need to clarify one of Rose's remarks that appeared in the story.

"New adults"

Editor: The recent editorial encouraging alcohol on campus based it's arguments solely on the premise that as "new" adults we should have the freedom of choice. Who, our colleague, relative maturity, and the personal freedom it purports to argue at least, I would argue that this should not be the central concern for deciding the issue.

Communities have long recognized the fact that certain social activities are incompatible with others and that it detracts from the quality of life to allow them to mix indiscriminately. The acceptance of the basic concept of planning with it's zoning and land use ordinances, supports this point.

Use of alcohol is limited or restricted in the neighborhood of churches, schools and downtown business districts because it detracts from the quality of the spiritual and educational environments.

I feel the same consideration must be given in developing an appropriate policy within our campus community. Therefore, while I support the possession of alcohol in dorm rooms and at evening dances and games, I am adamantly opposed to it's sale on campus under any circumstances much less a beer garden open for business during school hours. Bianchi sentenced to life in prison

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kenneth Bianchi, quiet and calm, was sentenced to life in prison after pleading guilty Monday to five slayings in the "Hillside Strangler" murders that terrorized Southern California women for six months.

"I wish I had the power that it be ordered that your sentence run consecutively," Superior Court Judge William B. Keene told Bianchi after imposing six months. "Because I had the power that it be ordered that your sentence run consecutively," Superior Court Judge William B. Keene told Bianchi after imposing six months.

"I wish I had the power that it be ordered that your sentence run consecutively," Superior Court Judge William B. Keene told Bianchi after imposing six months.

Bianchi had quietly answered, "Yes, I did," as Deputy District Attorney Roger Kelly asked him if he killed each of five victims in a string of 10 slayings from September 1977 through February 1978. He also pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy.

Bianchi's cousin, Angelo Buono, 45, of Glendale, had his arraignment on 24 counts continued for two weeks by Municipal Judge Gabriel Guerrieri. No plea was entered.

Buono, dressed in prison blues, stared alternately at the floor and ceiling during the five-minute appearance in downtown. Buono requested the continuance to discuss the case with his attorney, Ron Bain.

"I'm becoming a bigger and bigger job," she said. "When I took over there were 400 entries (five years ago) Now it's up to 900."

There were signs of relief as the class filed into the air-conditioned office of Lyle Mills, assistant fair manager. Mills discussed the problems he encounters as assistant manager—beer consumption and parking.

He explained how the fair business was growing:

"We're moving out of the small country fair image into big business. The aspects of this business are getting horrendous."

The class visited the commercial building where, according to Scott, "every product under the sun was displayed." The students browsed around the displays, which presented products ranging from nail polish to fireplaces.

Later, the class met Lou Fortune, concessionaire superintendent. He said the fair's biggest-selling food item was tacos.

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli Supreme Court, in a landmark decision that has surprised the nation, ruled Monday that the government had illegally seized private Arab land for a Jewish settlement and ordered it to end in West Bank territories. The ruling, the first in which an Israeli court found a settlement in the occupied territories to be illegal, came just a day after Moshe Dayan resigned as foreign minister in a deep seated dispute over the settlement policies of Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government and its tough line on Palestinian autonomy.

The developments dealt a one-two punch to Begin's ruling coalition, and hopefully speculation raced through Arab capitals Monday that they might foreshadow major changes in Israel. The government will face several motions of no-confidence in the Israeli Parliament on Tuesday. But it is expected to survive them, and Begin will probably reject the opposition Labor Party's call for new elections.

The five-judge Supreme Court ordered that the settlement at Elon Moreh, near the Arab-populated town of Nablus in the West Bank of the Jordan River be dismantled within 30 days. The 50 or so ultra-nationalists who have settled there indicated Monday they would resist efforts to remove them.

Lundstrom leads Mustangs over Matadors—Throws 2 TDs

BY KELLYE WISE
Daily News Writer

Jim Calhoun's 94 yard touchdown return of the second half kickoff broke the game open, and Cal Poly went on to defeat the Cal State Northridge Matadors, 38-20, on Saturday night.

The win extended Cal Poly's win streak to five straight. It also gave the team a great chance to move up in the division II national rankings.

Calvin's return and Graham Wiggill's extra point gave the Mustangs a 31-14 lead. Poly had led 24-14 after first quarter when Lundstrom ran 34 yards on a keeper. Two runs by Paul Dickens, and the Mustangs led 24-14.

With just under three minutes left in the half, the Mustangs started on their 29 yard line. They moved the ball to the Northridge 37, where on third and one, Lundstrom ran 34 yards on a keeper. Two runs by Paul Dickens, and the Mustangs led 24-14.

For coach Mike Wilson and Cal Poly's women volleyball team, playoff hopes took a downturn Tuesday night when they lost to UC Irvine 3-2. They coasted through the second game 13-11, and won the third in a cliffhanger 17-15.

"Missed serves probably hurt us more than anything," Wilson noted. Twice the Mustangs killed their own rallies in a must-win situation during the third game. "There are certain times in a game when you just don't want to miss serves. You certainly don't want to open a game with one." The Mustangs did that too.

Irvine has knocked off such teams as the University of California Santa Barbara and San Diego State. Irvine's S.C.A.C record is now 3-1-1, and they now post a 2-3 record after the first round of S.C.A.A. play.

Poly earlier this year, but the Mustangs were without the services of Aileen Semerson. The match is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.
