Assembly Minority Leader Carol Hallett told a Cal Poly audience Saturday that although Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s cuts in state spending would not single out education, the governor's plan was totally unnecessary.

Hallett said she enjoys football game performances most of all. "It's more contact with the audience," she said, while larger competitions may allow her to do "360s and 540s" in the air.

Spending cuts termed unnecessary by Hallett

The Senate approved an amendment to the budget, introduced by Chapman, which will raise the president's salary to $250 a month and the vice president's salary to $200 a month. The ASI controller will also receive a salary of $100 a month. The ASI president now receives a salary of $145 per month while the vice president receives $130 per month.

External Affairs Assistant Joe Johnson said the officers would be able to do a better job with higher salaries because they wouldn't need to spend time earning extra money elsewhere.

"Think of the benefits for the students if they had full-time professional officers," said Tom Gregg, ASI Chief of Staff.

"The senators do a professional job, why not pay them?" asked Ann Girard, a senator from the School of Human Development and Education. "You can't put a price on professionalism."

Girard said that if a student wants to hold an ASI office, they will find a way to make their finances work.

ASI President Dennis Hawk said if a president has to hold an ASI office, they will find a way to make their finances work.

"The money given to the Senate is not a dream—it's Yvonne Pederson's typical performance at a Cal Poly football game."

BY MAURA THURMAN

Fire swirls around her head, her bright outfit sparkles under the floodlights, and the crowd cheers her on as the flames spin into the air.

"This is not a dream—it's Yvonne Pederson's typical performance at a Cal Poly football game."

The 19-year-old baton twirler has entertained halftime crowds at every game this season with her flaming baton and dance routines. She said simply: "I love it!"

Although she has competed in solo baton competition since she was 7 years old, Pederson said she enjoys football game performances most of all.

During the four years she spent as a student at Los Puente High School in Los Angeles, Pederson said she rarely missed a halftime appearance.

"There's more contact with the audience, and they react when you mess up or do great," she said. "All my best friends are in the band and we're all performing together."
Swedes question sub captain

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - The Soviet Union allowed the commander of a submarine stranded deep inside Swedish waters to be questioned Monday and Swedish tugboats refloated the sub to prevent bad weather from battering the vessel apart.

Sweden set first deadline that a satisfactory explanation for the sub’s presence in restricted Swedish waters would be required before it could be taken off the rocks close to the Karlebyn naval base where it ran aground last Tuesday. The Swedes said the sub was equipped as a spy ship.

Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Yakovlev earlier in the day insisted the Foreign Ministry that his government had approved interrogation of the skipper, paving the way for a solution to the lengthy week-long impasse.

But while the sub’s skipper was being questioned aboard a Swedish naval vessel, its assistant commander sent distress signals to naval headquarters at Karlebyn.

“The submarine sent Mayday signals over the radio and fired emergency red flares and asked for assistance,” naval Commander Gunnar Basmanoff said to explain the change in plans. “The rough weather threatened to break up the submarine.”

Ms. Reagan enters senate race

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Posing out a list of supporters that did not include her own father, Maureen Reagan, Governor's aide, joined the ranks of Republican politicians running for S.I. Hayakawa's U.S. Senate seat.

"Today I announce my candidacy for that office, and I feel confident in my ability to achieve action beneficial to Americans who seek a more rewarding way of life,” she said at a news conference at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Secretary of Agriculture Conner on Monday joined a citrus industry move to get a temporary ruling on the sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia.

Prezident Reagan, in an interview in the current Time magazine, reaffirmed his administration's commitment to the Camp David accords but suggested the framework included other Arab states besides Egypt.

Veteran battalions to return to Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter on Monday ordered veterans of Vietnam to return home from overseas assignments, which will be suspended "pending a review" of America's role in Vietnam.

The House of Representatives on Monday overwhelmingly voted to declare martial law in a state of emergency.

Last Tuesday the House had approved a joint resolution declaring martial law in a state of emergency.

The final vote on the resolution was 227-134. The vote was 204-179 in the House and 20-14 in the Senate.

State Dept. chides aid to Libya

WASHINGTON (AP) — American citizens have helped maintain Libyan Air Force planes and accompanied Libyan military planes on shuttle flights to Chad, where Libyan forces intervened, the State Department said Monday.

"We do not regard this as against peace and stability in this region," said Dean Butler, the State Department spokesman.

Fischer said he did not know how many Americans were involved, whether they were continuing their activities.

"Libya has been successful in recruiting expatriates, including Americans, to service various types of aircraft, including Libyan Air Force C-130s and Chinese helicopters," he said.

The New York Times quoted some of those involved Sunday as saying the Libyan intervention in Chad, which the Reagan administration has condemned, might not have been possible without the support of Americans.

"I didn't know what would be the truth of that allegation," Fischer said. "Our information is that they have not been pilots."

Libyan forces intervened in Chad earlier this year and has maintained its forces there since.

The Reagan administration condemned the intervention as an invasion and has called for the withdrawal of Libyan troops.

Begins fight Saudi peace plan

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin asked the American political opposition Monday to join him in fighting Saudi Arabia's Middle East peace plan, which he called a "proscription on the Jewish state's liquidation."

Speaking in Parliament, Begin rejected "start to stop" peace steps proposed by Saudi Crown Prince Fahd, and administered the United States and Europe not to consider it as a basis for negotiations.

Begin blasted Saudi Arabia as "the petrodollar state" and the "arsenal of the Middle East agitators" with the "cutting off of hands and heads, with corruption that used to bring down kings."

He proposed that a bipartisan delegation from the Knesset Parliament go to the United States and Western Europe "to explain the justice of our cause."

Knesset veterans told The Associated Press they could not recall a time a prime minister initiated such a delegation to combat a specific policy. Begin had considered sending a similar delegation to lobby against the sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia, but scrapped the idea.

the fire baton is ‘strictly for show’
Instructors at summer baton twirling camps often demonstrated fire baton tricks, she said, but until she was 15, Pederson wasn’t allowed to try it. She was scared of the flames when she began learning to twirl the fire baton, but is no longer afraid.

"Once I lit my hair on fire and had little ‘Denni the Menace’ hairs on the top of my head," she said. The special baton is soaked in white gas and lit with a cigarette lighter. She wants to keep it from catching fire during her routine.

"People sometimes ask me if it’s real fire, even here at Cal Poly," she said. Poly band looked fun to Pederson, a freshman computer science major, so she first saw Cal Poly’s baton at a football game last year, although she had considered attending a larger university, she said she was immediately interested in Poly and had planned to be there.

"It's a really big time," Pederson said, "and I considered UCLA. But the band looked so big and so fun." The band showed Pederson and other girls four to five baton routines a week in southern California.

"The weekend time she gained by her retirement was quickly filled by her baton corps.

Twirling instruction is taught at Cal Poly to give "the band something to work with," Pederson said. She visualizes a baton routine when she awakens and is still thinking about baton instruction when she goes to bed at night.

Women train to join Cal Poly Fire Department

BY SANDRA GARY

Women may join the ranks of Cal Poly firefighters by December, ending a four-year stretch without a woman on the force, Poly's fire chief said.

Captain Johnathan Johnson reported that five Poly students, including three women, are training to be part of the new reserve firefighters program.

Rock Hudson has heart surgery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Rock Hudson, suffering from a potentially fatal heart valve problem, underwent open-heart bypass surgery Monday at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, authorities said.

"I've heard from the hospital. Everything is going well and there are no complications," said Tom Clark, agent for the 55-year-old star of such films as "Giant," "Magnificent Obsession" and "Seconds.

The operation involves removing a blood vessel from the leg and using it to bypass a defective valve in the heart.

Poly sets record; yellow flags fly

BY TOM CONLIN

Cal Poly’s 41-12 win over Portland State is one likely to be remembered by devoted Mustang football fans for at least another three weeks, when the season ends. Approximately 1,000 fans, who must not of had anything better to do on a Halloween Saturday night than stick around for the final minutes of a three-hour-long game, were witness to NCAA history (Divisions I, I-AA, and II and III included) in the making and a bizarre display of college football.

The Mustangs were tagged with a record 26 penalties for a record 238 yards.

“We want a penalty,” and chorus of boos on that rare occasion when no flags were thrown were common.

Head coach Joe Harper attributed many of the inexcuses to the play of his reserves who entered the game in the second half with Cal Poly leading 24-6. But the coach did not reserve his criticisms solely for the performance of the little-used reserves.

“It was a sloppy game all the way through,” he said. “I didn’t think there was anything special about tonight’s game—besides the win.”

In a game dominated by penalties and featuring two safeties and six Portland turnovers, the finer points of Cal Poly’s play could have been overlooked. However, Mustang fans did have much to cheer about, yellow flags notwithstanding.

The Mustangs racked up a season-high 454 yards in a combination of Tracy Biller passes and Jim Colvin, Brian Barrel and Chet Smith runs.

Biller, the backup quarterback behind starter Lloyd Nelson, came on in the second quarter to throw for 117 yards and two touchdowns. Until his appearance, Cal Poly’s only score came on a fumble Portland State snap into their end zone for a safety.

On their first offensive possession with Biller at the helm, the Mustangs marched 48 yards in seven plays with fullback Dave Trechan diving over from the one yard line for the score. A 22-yard completion from Biller to wide receiver Steve Mitchell was a key play leading up to the score.

Biller & Co. wasted no time in extending Poly’s lead to 15-6, as the sophomore quarterback connected with a wide open Damien Johnson for a 24-yard touchdown pass on their next possession.

Poly’s trick play came in the second quarter when receivers Smith and Mitchell lined up in the backfield. Their play came when Smith took a KDrar pitch out and raced around for 44 yards. It was Smith’s second run of the season—his first, against Davis, went for 50 yards.

Mustang defensive tackle Steve Pecevandil put the squeeze on Portland State quarterback Roggy Pflug for a big loss in Poly’s 41-12 win Saturday night. Poly set a NCAA record for the most penalties in one game.

Harper said he will probably continue to use Mitchell and Smith in the backfield on certain occasions. Defensive and Paul Sverchek sacked Viking quarterback Roggy Pflug in the end zone for the Mustangs’ second two-pointer of the game.

For Poly’s last score of the half, Biller aired a 34-yard touchdown pass over the head and shoulders and into the hands of Smith to give Poly a commanding 24-6 lead.

Biller, not surprisingly, started the second half and played the third quarter while Nelson came on to finish the game. In previous games, Nelson had played the first and third quarters with Biller starting the second and fourth quarters. Harper explained, “We made an evaluation of their performances at halftime and decided he (Billier) had a hot hand.”

Biller had his best night in a Mustang uniform, completing eight passes in 13 attempts for 143 yards. Nelson’s only pass of the game fell incomplete.

Colvin led all rushers with 134 yards in 11 carries.

Mustang men run 2nd, qualify for Nationals

BY VALERIE BRICKMAN
Staff Writer
Cal Poly's men's cross country team placed second in the Western Regionals this weekend to secure a position in the Division II Nationals to be held Saturday, Nov. 14, at Lowell University in Lowell, Mass.

UC Riverside won the meet with 42 points, second place Cal Poly had 87 and Eastern Washington University placed third with 88. The defending national champions, Harvard-Radcliffe, finished fourth with 97 while Cal State Northridge placed fifth with 106. The top three teams are eligible to compete in the nationals.

Leading the Mustangs was sophomore Andy DelConti as he clocked in at 29:12 to place fifth. Teammate Doug Avitt was close behind as he placed sixth with a time of 29:29.

Other scorers for the Mustangs were Paul Redlin (1:16:39), Jose Green (1:16:39), and Steve Strange (1:16:39).

"We didn't run well, this was the worst we ran all season," Assistant Coach Mike Moorman said. "Our guys weren't healthy," he added.

According to Moorman, the Mustangs are sitting in good shape.

Opinion

Are you listening?

We await your responses, Mr. President. It's been two weeks since the signatures of 1.1 million Americans were presented to the White House, demanding the removal of Interior Secretary James G. Watt from office.

We can only hope the president is listening, for Watt could do a lot of damage and spoil vast stretches of American wilderness during his time in Washington. He must be stopped now.

Watt is a man still convinced that energy and economic concerns are more important to Americans than their future quality of life.

He is clearly in the wrong job at the wrong time. The actual duty of the Interior Department is to act as a caretaker of public resources and fragile wilderness lands for the use and enjoyment of future generations.

Unfortunately, Watt runs his department as though there is no tomorrow.

Since taking office in January he has set out to turn back a decade's worth of gains in environmental protection and conservation made by the federal government.

Watt has insisted on opening up offshore oil tracts of questionable value off the coasts of California, Central and Northern California. He has released controls on strip mining, speeded up the acquisition of minerals on federal lands (including wilderness areas), and reduced budgets to protect endangered species by 40 percent.

That's not all.

Watt has removed some 50 attorneys from the department's solicitor's office, most of whom investigated violations of environmental laws. He has also stopped buying new federal parkland, ignoring the ever-increasing need for recreation and leisure space.

The interests he represents are clear. Before coming to Washington, he directed the Mountain States Legal Foundation, a coalition of mining and energy companies, ranchers, and apologists who challenged the concept of federal control over the use of public land.

All his actions, Watt says, are made in the name of economic recovery and energy independence. If his actions seem shortsighted and simplistic in nature, they're backed up by his words.

"I solve problems and see things in simple terms," is perhaps one of his more memorable—and frightening—quotations.

The power of Watt should also not be underestimated. As Secretary of Interior, he controls the usage of 80 to 90 percent of the land in most Western states. Even in the densely populated East, one out of every five acres in the country falls under his control.

Leaving such powers in the hands of a man like Watt is playing with dynamite. President Reagan should look beyond the 1980s and recognize Watt's threatening actions to our nation's lands. Future generations will thank him.

TOM JOHNSON, Editor

Fiscal irresponsibility

Editor:

I was disappointed in Dr. William Alexander's comments to the Mustang Daily Oct. 26 concerning the Senate's passage of the AWACS bill—and alarmed that a political science professor would add credence to the myths of an insidious "Israeli lobby."

There is no doubt that passage of the bill was a test of President Reagan's powers of persuasion and ability to direct U.S. foreign policy; he added a real feather to his cap. But is our foreign policy more credible now? Is it more consistent with our national goals and objectives, with the ideals stated in both political parties' platforms for the past generation? The answers to these questions is clearly negative.

Reagan succeeded in humiliating the United States, dragging the Senate down with him to kick the boots of a feudal, repressive monarchy, to reward the Saudi intrusions in the Middle East peace negotiations, to thank them for abandoning and isolating Egypt and Israel's enemies, to express appreciation for the "cheap" oil they sold us, and to insure that they remain pro-West. Does our government really believe that the AWACS will protect the Saudi royal family from the real threats of Islamic monarchy—internal revolt from the left or the religious fanatics? Can anyone be so naive as to believe that the AWACS sale will assure Arab loyalty to us, any more than our arming Iran brought that country's friendship?

The AWACS sale does kick back a hefty $8.5 billion to our poor, impoverished military-industrial complex, in theelders since Vietnam. Has Dr. Alexander forgotten Eisenhowers' parading warning to America? Big oil, big business, and big industry form the ominous lobby we should confront for their chief lobbyist is the president. This same lobby has pushed through an economic program that has benefits on themselves, at the expense of pro grams aimed at the poor, elderly, and needy; the beneficiaries of the AWACS sale are oil, big business and industry, at the expense of Israel.

While I can understand how different global considerations and political perspectives might account for the difference between Dr. Alexander's position and my own, I am appalled that he can credit Israel's past support in Congress to the influence of an "Israeli lobby." Dr. Alexander does a broad disservice to the broad spectrum of American organizations, affiliations, and institutions—ranging from organized labor to the Mormon Church, Jerry Falwell's Moral Majority, and nearly every fundamentalist Protestant denomination—which have been Israel's uncompromising supporters and can scarcely be considered an Israeli lobby.

How long can our president—and the wealthy individuals he represents—benefit from the risky and unscrupulous game of footsie they are playing with the Saudis? Reagan may have added a feather to his cap, but it will take more than feathers to turn him into a chief.

Environmental policy in the Mideast: A policy barely alive

We can rebuild it. We have the technology. We can buy better friends; better, stronger, more stable...

Editor:

If there really was a lack of funds and clubs were endangered of losing money, why did some organizations return money to the ASIF? Sure, the senate could have over-budgeted a few hundred dollars for each club and activity—but a total of $87,000! Why didn't we need the fees increase when we have an excess which amounts to $6 per student? The budget, of course, is a guessing game—but what is the excess for the increase now? Don't use my money for your special interest groups; if I was interested in an artistic club, I would pay for it myself. Maybe a recall of the fees increase is in order, or maybe a refund. In any respect, it appears that our student government is as financially responsible as "real" government.
