Mustang Daily

September 24, 1982

California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo

Classes cancelled because of funds

by Peter Hase

Underfunding of the California State University system and new graduation and breadth requirements are at the root of many of Cal Poly's various departments. So says Dean of the School of Communication Arts and Humanities Jon Ericson, who made the decision to drop six English classes Wednesday afternoon so that the students enrolled could add other classes. The English department did not allow adds in the morning routine," said Ericson. The school employs a staff of 136.5.

"The university has not found a way to fund this school," Ericson added. "This is a part of the general picture of the state colleges being underfunded." He noted that CSU received about 94 percent of the amount it requested this year.

Combined with the lack of funds, the new requirements, which change the humanities requirement from 9 to 10 units and the social science requirement from 15 to 18 units, put a new burden on several schools.

Poly enrollment cut by new selection procedures

by Lorie Wertman

Out of a record-high 12,530 enrollment applications filed for fall quarter at Cal Poly, only 5,538 were accepted as part of a planned decrease in campus enrollment.

The new process of selecting applicants was two years in the making, during which a pilot study was conducted in the School of Engineering to see if such a plan would work. Cal Poly Admissions Officer David Snyder drafted the final plan which was approved by California State University Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke during the summer of 1981.

Because of impacted programs at Cal Poly, 6,992 students were turned away.

The major of Business Administration programs grew by 31% and engineering applications were disappointed, he said. Snyder said that no one in math, chemistry or physics has been turned away, until this year.

Snyder said that the enrollment ceiling in previous years had been at 16,000—the "absolute maximum," the campus could accommodate. The number is derived from state formulas, is in line with student housing in the area, and also is based on educational facilities available. He added that Cal Poly is the only campus in the CSU system that comes near full utilization of its facilities.

Last year, enrollment soared to 16,400, he said. The number of students expected to graduate did not, and Cal Poly experienced an unexpected growth of new students. This increase in enrollment late in the fall budgeted for 15.5 million dollars, and absorbed an extra half million dollars as well. And this year, instead of getting any augmentation from the state, the university lost $2.5 million.

Due to shrinking resources, the number of students had to be cut back, he said. The ceiling on maximum student enrollment was rolled back to 15,500. Cal Poly was faced with cutting 900 students, which isn't an easy task, said Snyder. The solution they decided upon was to limit incoming students. In addition, current students on academic probation were asked to leave, he said.

Some enrollment rollback was accomplished, but not enough. Enrollment quotas for fall were cut by 800, and summer quotas were cut by 500. (No new students were admitted for summer quarter.)

Previously, applicants were selected solely on the basis of grade point average. But according to Snyder, many of the new students found themselves unprepared for the requirments of their majors, and ended up spending extra time here. He said that it is taking students four years to graduate, and in some cases, five years.

The new criteria used for application selection have taken the emphasis off of grade point average. "The biggest success of the new plan has been its public relations impact," said Snyder. Even though students who were turned away were disappointed, he said that no one had criticized the fact that a wide variety of factors are looked at in the selection process.

Budget keeps library services

by Maria Casas

Despite the economic hard times, the Robert E. Kennedy Library budget will remain about the same as last year, thus offering students and faculty service as usual.

According to Assistant Director Chuck Beymer, the library budget will be about $3.2 million. Of this sum $192,964 will be utilized for the 150 student assistants, $1.5 million will go to regular and temporary positions, $534,000 to books and periodicals, $209,502 to supplies and services, and $24,627 to the equipment budget. An additional $14,350 is available for utilization by the work study program.

Student shuttle bus reinstated after city buses overcrowded

by Anne French

Although the Monday Telegram Tribune printed that San Luis Transportation would be discontinuing its Cal Poly shuttle bus service because of the university's decreased enrollment, SLT's president, Patrick Linington, denied the action.

Linington claimed the paper had misquoted his statement that the shuttle would have a temporary shutdown to determine whether the supplemental service was necessary.

"We withdrew the augmented service for a single day and experienced no problems in the morning routine," said Linington. "But in the afternoon, the regular city busses that serve Cal Poly (Routes one and two) were becoming overcrowded. We reinstated the shuttle bus the very next day and will continue to run the service until it's proven to be unnecessary," he added.

Linington said the steady decline in ridership, approximately 12 percent, coupled with the drop of 900 full-time students from last fall may lead to problems. But, Lincoln and Operations Manager Carol Harrison said they would be running the shuttle as long as there was evidence of overcrowding on the busses.

SLT is currently involved in litigation proceedings against Cal Coast Charter Inc., who was awarded the city contract for bus service last April. Cal Coast Charter has bailed service because of a temporary restraining order they received for lacking a state Public Utilities Commission license.
More than half of Poly applications turned away

The university is now giving admissions priority to students who show career-related skills, drive and initiative, extra-curricular skills, as well as scholastic achievement. Applicants who are community college transfers, or California veterans are also prioritized.

The administration is also selecting applicants who are underrepresented in the curriculum, such as minorities or women in engineering and other technical fields. Chancellor Dumke at first balked at this part of the plan, due to the Baker decision which said that minorities couldn't be admitted solely on the basis of their race. These underrepresented students must meet the same academic requirements as everyone else, Snyder said. The built-in feature in this plan allows us to increase underrepresented students without compromising the quality of students, Snyder said. According to Snyder, even more changes in the admissions plan will take place starting with the fall quarter, 1983. Cal Poly is devising its own questionnaire with more specific questions, designed to better screen applicants.

The result, he said, will be a more articulate student body, who is better prepared for the courses in their majors. By selecting better prepared students, Snyder said. "We should be able to do our job more efficiently. Students won't have to waste time here taking general ed courses, he said. "They'll be able to go straight into upper level courses."

With the new plan, Snyder said, "We're three years ahead of other colleges with the same problem of an impacted campus. The state university system is just starting to look at alternative selection procedures," he said.

INDIAN SUMMER

GOLD LABEL

CLEARANCE
NEW SPECIALS WEEKLY
10-50 % OFF
in every department

• INDOOR — OUTDOOR PLANTS
• BASKETS FOR EVERY NEED.
—Plants, Kitchen, Storage, Bath—
• SILK & DRIED FLOWERS
• ENVIRONMENTAL FURNITURE
• LIFE STYLE ACCESSORIES
• LAMPS & LIGHTING ACCESSORIES
Corona jury reaches verdict

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) - The jury hearing the Juan Corona mass murder retrial announced Thursday it had reached a decision after 10 days of deliberating the fate of the man charged with stabbing and slashing 25 disgruntled farm workers more than a decade ago.

The jury sent a message to the judge at 1:24 p.m. PDT which read, "We request the court to convene. We have reached a decision." The note came after 53 hours and 59 minutes of deliberation. The jury has been sequestered at a local hotel since the debate began on Sept. 13.

However, because of a previous agreement of the court, alternate jurors who sat through the seven months of testimony were to be given an opportunity to reach the Alameda County Courthouse before the decision would be read.

The retrial, which started Feb. 22, included Corona's sworn testimony that a Mexican official fabricated his alleged confession, a defense theory that Corona's deceased homosexual half-brother could have committed the crimes and a key defense witness who admitted he lied in his statement. All but one of the defending lawyers said in the Nov. 18, 1978 massacre, claimed Clarence attorney agency.

"They failed to warn the relatives about it — too dangerous to life that existed there," Hallinan said during the retrial.

"Several affidavits had been given to the U.S. government eight or nine months preceding the death that pretty accurately described the situation." (Odgers said.

The attorney noted that Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., who was shot at Jonestown before the massacre, also had arranged meetings with the State Department and a former People's Temple member.

A H E A's first meeting will be held in the Home Economics Room 114 on Wed., Sept. 29, at 7:30 p.m.
Charity Golf Tournament
A charity golf tournament and barbecue will be held at Cuesta Park on Sunday, Sept. 26 at 2 p.m. Barbecue tickets are $6 and are available at Hallinan's. The biggest charity event of the year is coming to town, the tournament, presented by the San Luis Obispo Kappa Chapter as the San Luis Obispo Chamber of Commerce.

Field Hockey Club
The first meeting of the Women's Field Hockey Club will be held in Science 4-E on Tues., Sept. 28, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting is an organizational one to pick the team.

Orchesa Dance Club
An informational meeting will be held as a free dance workout will be held on Tues., Sept. 28, at 8 p.m. at the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

ROBOTICS
Dick Thompson of Kaiser Aluminum will be guest speaker at a meeting sponsored by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He will discuss the field of ROBOTICS. It will be held Wed., Sept. 29 in U.S. San Luis Obispo from 7 p.m. All engineering and science students and faculty are invited.

FREEED FREED will present a public forum on overseers of Sand Dunes and the Recreational use of Pismo Dunes on Wed., Sept. 29 from 2:30-3:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at the South County Regional Center, 800 W. Branch St., Arroyo Grande.

Deitrics Club
The Deitrics Club will be held in the Home Economics Living Room 10 on Thurs., Sept. 30 at 7 p.m. Department faculty members will address the club.

C S S A
The California State Student Association is looking for a student interested in being student trustee for the CSU System Board of Trustees. If interested, apply at the ASI Office or Cal Poly Placement Center before Oct. 8.

Bible Study
A bible study to help students come to a living relationship with Jesus Christ will be held on Fridays in U.O. Room 210 at 7:30 p.m. Studies will be in both Old and New Testament and we will read only those you are weary and will give you rest." Matt 11:28.

We have the right calculator for your professional needs.

SANTANA, Calif. (AP) — The mother of two illegitimate children by conservative state Sen. John Schmitz has filed a bankruptcy petition in federal court, seeking protection from creditors.

The section, taken Tuesday by 65-year-old Carla Verene Stucke, indicated the bead,balances of $60,068 and listed no assets.

In the Chapter 13 petition, she sought protection from creditors while she goes through voluntary reorganization. She must file a plan with the court to pay off her creditors.

Chapter 13 protection is available to individuals under federal law.

Earlier this year, Mrs. Stucke was arrested for investigation of child neglect after a human hair became wrapped around the penis of her year-old son and reconstructive surgery was needed to save the organ.

The charge was later dismissed for lack of evidence, and Mrs. Stucke regained custody of the boy and her 3-month-old daughter, both of whom were fathered by Schmitz during a nine-year love affair, according to court testimony by Mrs. Stucke.

Mrs. Stucke revealed Sept. 10 that Schmitz — who previously had paid no support for the children — had offered her $280 a month in child support. But she turned it down, saying that it was inadequate and she would seek $500 a month in payments.

Santana said it had become too difficult for her to work two jobs to support herself and the children.

She works full time at the U.S. Marine Corps Air Station, where Schmitz is a major in the Marine Reserves, and also holds a part-time job. Until four months ago, she worked for the California Republican Assembly, a conservative political organization.

Sunday NFL games called off

The 12 National Football League games to be played Sunday were officially called off today because of the NFL Players Association strike against the league.

NFL spokesman Jim Heffernan said, however, that no league officials were aware of a plan to play any games between Cleveland and Cincinnati.

Chapter 13 protections announced Thursday after the league cancelled tonight's Atlanta-Kansas City contest, to be carried by ABC. And it came a day after it was disclosed that the network will pay the league regardless, in a move the players union leadership says is designed to scare striking players.
New Student Senate clears up old business

by Peter Hass

The brand-new ASI Student Senate began its term Wednesday by taking action on some unfinished business from the summer.

Repeating a July decision made by the Summer Finance Committee, the Senate voted 17-5 to allocate $336 from prior year savings to the San Luis Obispo advertising firm of Welles and Welles for their work on a campaign promoting an intramurals facility referendum made by the Summer Finance Committee before seeing the money was allocated by the work done by the firm.

"With check in hand, I came upon the product itself,"Dickey said, adding the quality of the work was "very poor." Upon reviewing the services rendered by Welles and Welles, the committee, comprised of Dickey, ASI President Sandra Calary and ASI Vice President Kevin Moses, rescinded its earlier decision to pay the firm. Dickey stressed the fact that Hawk did not have the authority to enter into such an agreement as ASI president, but because Welles and Welles were acting in good faith, the ASI attorney recommended paying the bill.

Some of the senators agreed with Dickey that the quality of the work didn't warrant the price. One such was Timothy Jones, representing the School of Business, moved to offer Welles and Welles $200 for its services.

The referendum was approved in a full meeting and was passed 17-5.

The student vote would affect the quality of the work of this campaign and the student and book services departments since they handle a heavy student and book flow, making it necessary to hire more people to work these areas, he said.

John Buell, staff supervisor of the loan services (circulation) department said they have three less student assistants but this is because of a salary raise for other personnel. "The staff's work has not decreased since there are a lot more areas to reshuffle the books," said Buell.

"We are working harder than ever," said Buell. "We are putting out a good service.

"One growing area in the library is special collections and art periods, still employs three student assistants, said with high qualifications and one halftime professional.

Library aides deal with rush

From page 1

Beyer stressed that the allocation of these funds depends on the size of the department. The reserve and loan services departments will receive a higher budget than other departments since they handle a heavy student and book flow, making it necessary to hire more people to work these areas, he said.

John Buell, staff supervisor of the loan services (circulation) department said they have three less student assistants but this is because of a salary raise for other personnel. "The staff's work has not decreased since there are a lot more areas to reshuffle the books," said Buell.

"We are working harder than ever," said Buell. "We are putting out a good service.

"One growing area in the library is special collections and art periods, still employs three student assistants, said with high qualifications and one halftime professional.

University Graphic Systems

Robert Dunn

General Manager

Lynn Conlan

Production Manager

Pete Boothby

Asst. Mgr. Typesetting

Vince Fersmann

Asst. Mgr. Web Operations

Keith Chandler

Asst. Mgr. Newspaper

John Buell, staff supervisor of the loan services (circulation) department said they have three less student assistants but this is because of a salary raise for other personnel. "The staff's work has not decreased since there are a lot more areas to reshuffle the books," said Buell.

"We are working harder than ever," said Buell. "We are putting out a good service. One growing area in the library is special collections and art periods, still employs three student assistants, said with high qualifications and one halftime professional.

Library aides deal with rush

From page 1

Beyer stressed that the allocation of these funds depends on the size of the department. The reserve and loan services departments will receive a higher budget than other departments since they handle a heavy student and book flow, making it necessary to hire more people to work these areas, he said.

John Buell, staff supervisor of the loan services (circulation) department said they have three less student assistants but this is because of a salary raise for other personnel. "The staff's work has not decreased since there are a lot more areas to reshuffle the books," said Buell.

"We are working harder than ever," said Buell. "We are putting out a good service. One growing area in the library is special collections and art periods, still employs three student assistants, said with high qualifications and one halftime professional.

Library aides deal with rush

From page 1

Beyer stressed that the allocation of these funds depends on the size of the department. The reserve and loan services departments will receive a higher budget than other departments since they handle a heavy student and book flow, making it necessary to hire more people to work these areas, he said.

John Buell, staff supervisor of the loan services (circulation) department said they have three less student assistants but this is because of a salary raise for other personnel. "The staff's work has not decreased since there are a lot more areas to reshuffle the books," said Buell.

"We are working harder than ever," said Buell. "We are putting out a good service.

"One growing area in the library is special collections and art periods, still employs three student assistants, said with high qualifications and one halftime professional.

Library aides deal with rush

From page 1

Beyer stressed that the allocation of these funds depends on the size of the department. The reserve and loan services departments will receive a higher budget than other departments since they handle a heavy student and book flow, making it necessary to hire more people to work these areas, he said.

John Buell, staff supervisor of the loan services (circulation) department said they have three less student assistants but this is because of a salary raise for other personnel. "The staff's work has not decreased since there are a lot more areas to reshuffle the books," said Buell.

"We are working harder than ever," said Buell. "We are putting out a good service. One growing area in the library is special collections and art periods, still employs three student assistants, said with high qualifications and one halftime professional.

Library aides deal with rush

From page 1

Beyer stressed that the allocation of these funds depends on the size of the department. The reserve and loan services departments will receive a higher budget than other departments since they handle a heavy student and book flow, making it necessary to hire more people to work these areas, he said.

John Buell, staff supervisor of the loan services (circulation) department said they have three less student assistants but this is because of a salary raise for other personnel. "The staff's work has not decreased since there are a lot more areas to reshuffle the books," said Buell.

"We are working harder than ever," said Buell. "We are putting out a good service.

"One growing area in the library is special collections and art periods, still employs three student assistants, said with high qualifications and one halftime professional.

Library aides deal with rush

From page 1

Beyer stressed that the allocation of these funds depends on the size of the department. The reserve and loan services departments will receive a higher budget than other departments since they handle a heavy student and book flow, making it necessary to hire more people to work these areas, he said.

John Buell, staff supervisor of the loan services (circulation) department said they have three less student assistants but this is because of a salary raise for other personnel. "The staff's work has not decreased since there are a lot more areas to reshuffle the books," said Buell.

"We are working harder than ever," said Buell. "We are putting out a good service. One growing area in the library is special collections and art periods, still employs three student assistants, said with high qualifications and one halftime professional.

Library aides deal with rush

From page 1

Beyer stressed that the allocation of these funds depends on the size of the department. The reserve and loan services departments will receive a higher budget than other departments since they handle a heavy student and book flow, making it necessary to hire more people to work these areas, he said.

John Buell, staff supervisor of the loan services (circulation) department said they have three less student assistants but this is because of a salary raise for other personnel. "The staff's work has not decreased since there are a lot more areas to reshuffle the books," said Buell.

"We are working harder than ever," said Buell. "We are putting out a good service. One growing area in the library is special collections and art periods, still employs three student assistants, said with high qualifications and one halftime professional.
Male strippers take it off for enthusiastic crowd

by Anne French

The line began on Tuesday around 3 p.m. in front of the Flats, as Diane Hoffman waited anxiously with a friend outside the door. The Tortilla Flats, a restaurant-located in the Creamery off Higueras St. She'd heard the ad on KCD radio, night for a male revue strip show to be held at the Flats on Tuesday at 8 p.m. Neither the five dollar cover charge nor the 92 degree heat deterred her.

"Don't try to look 'em in," warned the captain of the San Luis Obispo Fire Department, Bob Neumann, pointing a finger at Tortilla Flats manager, Chris Palosio. In a single sentence Neumann assured Neumann he would not exceed the capacity of 140 and directed the incoming shipments of André champagne cases to their appropriate areas.

If you were a regular waitress or a friend of the management, by 5 p.m. you could sit down, but not at the tables where there were about 30 females seated at this time; all were reveling in their opportunity to be for an evening.

Young male waiters decked in tight black pants and bow ties began to pour their complimentary champagne to the lucky ladies. Under each table thewaiters unobserved the disclosed amount sticking out of her blouse. She and her table companions sipped their champagne and to the tune of "No Can Do" announced they would stop pouring champagne.

As the disc jockey played "Hooray for Hollywood" and emcee Mike DeMarco is spinning image of Tony Orlando strutted out to center stage decked out in a white formal tuxedo and lip-synced his tuxedo. Said DeMarco, "It's Not Unusual." After the song ended, he welcomed the viewers to "Ladies Night at Tortilla Flats!"

DeMarco took an impromptu survey and asked to applause if you were married, if you were single, and lastly if you were divorced. (Married drew the largest response.)

DeMarco introduced the attending male waiters separately as the females applauded politely. Then DeMarco announced there would be only three rules they had to keep during the show: 1) You cannot come on the dancefloor. 2) You cannot touch the dancers (big no-no). 3) If the money is above the shoulder or below the knee and is still showing, the dancer can take it using his teeth and then lay a big wet one on the woman.

The last rule was met with most favorably. Shouts of "Take it off!" and "We want more" went up before the performance had even gotten underway. DeMarco urged the crowd to coo "the cowardly lion" on stage. Said DeMarco, "He's kind of shy, ladies."

While the song played "Ease on Down the Road," a very erotic lion pounced out of his costume. The women jumped to their feet and started clapping to the music. After coveting from a distance with the crowd, the lion began to teasingly disrobe. Upon removing his pants, claw, and mask he proceeded to take off the wooly suit. Underneath he displayed sequined briefs, equipped with tiny bellies, and lighted gloves. Instantly, females began bran-dishing their bills for the honed entertain-er. The warning was again made of "No Hand!" DeMarco joked with the audience. "Ladies, when's the last time you were kissed by a 23-year-old stud?"

The women lined up putting bills in vis-ible places that were slightly inaccessible. Whenever the dancer would reach for the money it usually became a game of Keep-Away.

About ten minutes the CL scamped off to his lair. Next on the agenda was the "unknown stripper" who came out wear-ing falling raincoat, and a Renoi paper bag on his head. Opening the rainbow he exhibited a Wile E. Coyote G-trap complete with face and tail. Removing the coyote concealment the stripper revealed a Groucho Marx G-string. There were sure a lot of nosy women.

There was an auction for the bag and it went to a woman named Pauline for eight dollars. When Pauline went up for her reward she skyrocketantly ignored the warning of No Hand! She was handed her envelope paper bag when a policeman thundered in, blowing his whistle. He said "What's ya think, Ladies?" Officer Easy asked the audience. This guy with the moustache had his nose up my buns off up here. I think we should make him take off his clothes, bob?"

The clamor for more. Taking his cue DeMarco doffed his tux, only to expose an outlandish, multi-zipped red Santa Claus suit.

DeMarco gave the women what he legally could, with flashes of pubic hair and spreader sheets of money into his crotch. Within ten minutes he possessed as much as one could own. DeMarco's decoration could hold no more bills he withdrew back onto the stage for a large costume to his finale with the Marx power Revue.

The other performers returned to do high kicks to Sinatra's "New York, New York" and emcee Mike DeMarco shouted, "Have you had enough?" The resound- ing answer was NO. Someone screamed, "We want some more meat!" He asked the dancers to do a about-face which he joined and from the wrong direction they delivered a bow. The room teemed with a sea of workers preparing for the show. The nates were restless. "The guys are gonna take it off" said some. Having seen their show, they viewed an outstretched hand about to assault an unwitting waiter's der-rierre. There was an absence of wedding rings. One ringless woman divan that when it was over, she'd go home and attack her husband. Overhead were outpourings of office crashes and marital squabbles. When Pat Benatar challenged to "hit me adth your best.." was a scramble to get a good seat near the stage.

A crowd of growingly impatient women, carefuUy eased themselves through the crowd. Women opened their purses to re-apply their lipstick and count their money. The lights dimmed and it was a scramble to get a good seat near the stage.

When the disc jockey put on "Calling All Girls!" a group of females got up and danced but were promptly aacorted back and to teasingly disrobe. Upon removing his coat, only to expose an outlandish, multi-zipped red Santa Claus suit.

DeMarco gave the women what he legally could, with flashes of pubic hair and spreader sheets of money into his crotch. Within ten minutes he possessed as much as one could own. DeMarco's decoration could hold no more bills he withdrew back onto the stage for a large costume to his finale with the Marx power Revue.

The other performers returned to do high kicks to Sinatra's "New York, New York" and emcee Mike DeMarco shouted, "Have you had enough?" The resound- ing answer was NO. Someone screamed, "We want some more meat!" He asked the dancers to do a about-face which he joined and from the wrong direction they delivered a bow. The room teemed with a sea of workers preparing for the show.

The nates were restless. "The guys are gonna take it off" said some. Having seen their show, they viewed an outstretched hand about to assault an unwitting waiter's der-rierre. There was an absence of wedding rings. One ringless woman divan that when it was over, she'd go home and attack her husband. Overhead were outpourings of office crashes and marital squabbles. When Pat Benatar challenged to "hit me adth your best.." was a scramble to get a good seat near the stage.

A crowd of growingly impatient women, carefuUy eased themselves through the crowd. Women opened their purses to re-apply their lipstick and count their money. The lights dimmed and it was a scramble to get a good seat near the stage.

When the disc jockey put on "Calling All Girls!" a group of females got up and danced but were promptly aacorted back and to teasingly disrobe. Upon removing his coat, only to expose an outlandish, multi-zipped red Santa Claus suit.

DeMarco gave the women what he legally could, with flashes of pubic hair and spreader sheets of money into his crotch. Within ten minutes he possessed as much as one could own. DeMarco's decoration could hold no more bills he withdrew back onto the stage for a large costume to his finale with the Marx power Revue.

The other performers returned to do high kicks to Sinatra's "New York, New York" and emcee Mike DeMarco shouted, "Have you had enough?" The resound- ing answer was NO. Someone screamed, "We want some more meat!" He asked the dancers to do a about-face which he joined and from the wrong direction they delivered a bow. The room teemed with a sea of workers preparing for the show.

The nates were restless. "The guys are gonna take it off" said some. Having seen their show, they viewed an outstretched hand about to assault an unwitting waiter's der-rierre. There was an absence of wedding rings. One ringless woman divan that when it was over, she'd go home and attack her husband. Overhead were outpourings of office crashes and marital squabbles. When Pat Benatar challenged to "hit me adth your best.." was a scramble to get a good seat near the stage.

A crowd of growingly impatient women, carefuUy eased themselves through the crowd. Women opened their purses to re-apply their lipstick and count their money. The lights dimmed and it was a scramble to get a good seat near the stage.

When the disc jockey put on "Calling All Girls!" a group of females got up and danced but were promptly aacorted back and to teasingly disrobe. Upon removing his coat, only to expose an outlandish, multi-zipped red Santa Claus suit.

DeMarco gave the women what he legally could, with flashes of pubic hair and spreader sheets of money into his crotch. Within ten minutes he possessed as much as one could own. DeMarco's decoration could hold no more bills he withdrew back onto the stage for a large costume to his finale with the Marx power Revue.

The other performers returned to do high kicks to Sinatra's "New York, New York" and emcee Mike DeMarco shouted, "Have you had enough?" The resound- ing answer was NO. Someone screamed, "We want some more meat!" He asked the dancers to do a about-face which he joined and from the wrong direction they delivered a bow. The room teemed with a sea of workers preparing for the show.
Lack of funds felt in English classes

Ericson said there is reason for optimism in the future, however. A change in the staffing formula, which goes into effect this year will produce a faculty that will better serve the students' needs, he said.

He also praised new Vice President of Academic Affairs, Tomlinson Fort Jr., who he claimed has a number one interest of meeting student's needs.

He added that a major effort by the university to change the overreliance

Beef show project places high

The Cal Poly Beef Show Project exhibited the grand champion feeder steer and reserve grand champion market steer at the recently concluded Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona.

Competing against universities and junior colleges from throughout the state, the Cal Poly project placed first.

In most jobs, at 22

you're near the bottom of the ladder.

In the Navy, at 22 you can be a leader.

After just 16 weeks of leadership training, you're an officer. You'll have the kind of job your education and training prepared you for, and the decision-making authority you need to make the most of it.

As a college graduate and officer candidate, your Navy training is geared to making you a leader. There is no boot camp. Instead, you receive professional training to help you build the technical and management skills you'll need as a Navy officer.

This training is designed to instill confidence by first-hand experience. You learn by doing. On your first sea tour, you're responsible for managing the work of up to 30 men and the care of sophisticated equipment worth millions of dollars.

It's a bigger challenge and a lot more responsibility than most corporations give you at 22. The rewards are bigger, too. There's a comprehensive package of benefits, including special duty pay. The starting salary is $16,400—more than most companies would pay you right out of college.

After four years, with regular promotions and pay increases, your salary will have increased to as much as $29,800.

As a Navy officer, you grow, through new challenges, new tests of your skills, and new opportunities to advance your education, including the possibility of attending graduate school while you're in the Navy.

Just don't take a job. Become a Navy officer, and take charge. Even at 22.
A heightened awareness of death and dying is bringing people together to deal with death more positively — to accept it as a natural part of life. Hospice of San Luis Obispo County is one organization that provides services to people who are dying, to make the final stages of life as meaningful and comfortable as possible. The community-based group, which exists solely to help patients and their families during terminal illness, features a core team of volunteers who support dying people and their families. "Hospice provides comfort to those facing death and dying by bringing the quality of time remaining in one's life, so that dying people may truly "live until they die."

Cal Poly senior Kathy Dorst is a Hospice volunteer, trained to work with terminally ill people preparing for death. "Talking about death doesn't seem kind of scary," she said, "but now I know that facing death can be a positive time in a person's life too." Dorst, a family studies major, became a volunteer five months ago after undergoing extensive training. She is earning credits towards her degree through her volunteer efforts at Hospice. Trained by a professional staff, volunteers learn to become alert to their client's needs, and try to deal with the social, spiritual and psychological pain during the dying process. As a volunteer, Dorst offers emotional support by "just being there to talk, talk and listen with an open mind." She explained that many terminally ill people feel cut off from the community as their friends and family often become more distant, not knowing what to say to a dying person. "But people facing death need to express their grief," she said, and Hospice volunteers listen, "in that need by being a friend and allowing clients to share their fears.

In helping clients and their families prepare for death, volunteers also help with tasks such as making out wills or funeral plans. The ideal hospice hopes to get across is that clients will come to an acceptance of their death, but that doesn't always happen, she said. "We don't try to force people to feel a certain way about dying. We don't push anything — we just follow their cues and go with the flow." Jaclyn Megow, a Cal Poly graduate, is the executive director of the San Luis Obispo Hospice group. Megow said the idea of Hospices is gaining acceptance throughout the United States as "death and dying is finally coming out of the closet." By providing home care and counseling to people with life-threatening illnesses, Hospices provide an alternative to hospitalization or institutionalization. This enables dying people to spend their final days in comfortable, familiar surroundings.

The longer the clients and Hospice volunteers are together, the more they develop a rapport and share a very special private relationship, said Megow. When a client finally dies, volunteers go through their own grieving periods and are allowed to do so without taking on a new client right away. "Our volunteers are very dedicated," she said.

A training workshop is being offered for those who may be interested in becoming Hospice volunteers. The workshop, scheduled for Saturday, October 5, will be an all-day session from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. given at Cal Poly. Those interested in attending are urged to call the Hospice office at 544-2166.

Hospice volunteer and Cal Poly student Kathy Dorst said counseling the dying was hard at first, but now realizes the time before death can be a positive one for her clients.

Becki Hendrix, formerly of A Cut Above, is pleased to announce her association with the CREATIVE ID at 1601 Osos St. San Luis Obispo 544-3683. She is one of the four new sisters to join your new sisters in Alpha Phi.

San Luis Obispo Baptist Student Union A Fellowship For All College Students You're The Reason We're Here Find Out More About B.S.U. WELCOME PARTY Friday Sept 24th 7-9 p.m.

We Love Our New Lambda Pledges Congratulations from your new sisters in Alpha Phi.
China Syndrome blows Poly Volleyball away

by Mike Mathison

Awesome.

It was the most used adjective to describe the People’s Republic of China Women’s Junior National Volleyball Team, as it traveled up and down the west coast, just destroying highly-ranked NCAA Division I college volleyball squads.

On paper, China was just that—awesome. As a group, they didn’t look like a team which had blown some teams away quicker than a Flo Hyman spike. But when this junior national team stepped on the court for warm-ups, awesome seemed more prevalent than ever.

Their moves were fluid, yet made as if in slow motion. It took about as much effort for these ladies to shy and drive a spike home as it would for Julius Erving to slam. And their timing was better than a Swiss watch. It appeared it would be a quick evening. It took China 66 minutes to post a 15-4, 15-8, 15-8 win. But it was far from easy.

China had disposed of most of their seven previous opponents in far less than an hour. The team started its tour in America’s Finest City and crushed San Diego State, 16-0, 15-10, 16-1. The Aztecs are currently ranked No. 6 in the nation.

China then went on to defeat USC (No. 4) 15-9, 15-4, 15-6; Portland State University 15-1, 15-11, 15-2; The University of Oregon 15-1, 15-2, 15-0; UC Berkeley 15-3, 15-0, 15-1; then lost their only game of the tour to Northwestern University 13-16, but came back to whip the Wildcats 15-12, 15-1, 15-2. China defeated the University of Montana 15-0, 15-4, 15-1 in its last match before coming to San Luis Obispo.

There was a slight feeling the Mustangs would stay on the floor less time than it took to get the 1,723 paid attendance to get seated. That crowd was the largest in Cal Poly volleyball history.

That uneasy feeling grew when China breezed through the first game of the match, 15-4. No, Don Meredith wasn’t in the stands, but you could sense him driving up Grand Avenue to make an appearance.

Then the Mustangs decided to make a match of it. Senior middle blocker Wendy Hoek and junior outside hitter Sandy Aughinbaugh woke up from a short cat-nap in Game One to show their prowess on the court.

With a few rifled kills by both players, they let it be known the guests were not going to leave without a few Tachikara stamps on their side of the court.

“We can play with any team around,” senior setter Tina Tyler said. “This is one of the best teams anywhere, and after we settled down, we played them tough.”

Please see page 11

EVEN STRAIGHT A’S CAN’T HELP IF YOU FLUNK TUITION.

Today, the toughest thing about going to college is finding the money to pay for it.

But Army ROTC can help—two ways!

First, you can apply for an Army ROTC scholarship. It covers tuition, books, and supplies, and pays you up to $1,000 each school year it’s in effect.

But even if you’re not a scholarship recipient, Army ROTC can still help with financial assistance—up to $1,000 a year for your last two years in the program.

For more information, contact your Professor of Military Science.

Call Maj. Mike Robinson 546-2371 Or Visit Bldg. 34, Room 116
Triathlon man
Dydell vies for Ironman crown

Shawn Turner
Sports editor

By now, Martin Dydell, Cal Poly's No. 1 men's tennis player is in Hawaii, preparing to become a superman.

Most people go to Hawaii for a vacation, roaming the islands in rented cars, riding the waves on catamarans. Not Dydell. He's doing it the hard way—nearly two and a half miles swimming the rough water around Kailua-Kona, then 112 miles on a bike, then a full marathon, a nice jog of 26.2 miles.

He's gone through all the rehearsals, finishing 128th out of 960 competitors in the United States Triathlon Series in San Francisco July 31—two flat tires bogged him down—and finishing 40th out of 960 in the Catalina Lake Triathlon.

Dress rehearsal came in the recent Santa Barbara Triathlon.

In a handwritten press release, Dydell said he wanted to finish within the top 50 triathletes of more than 700 expected in this, the daddy of triathlon events.

"If I can do that, who knows, I could finish in the top 10 the next year," said Dydell.

Dydell smiles Confidence, a tight, constant smile, white teeth in a tan face. He has that California look, sun-bleached hair tucked stringy into a "Tahiti" visor, a T-shirt from the NCAA tennis championships, polyester sweat pants, New Balance training shoes.

He is a Mark Twain race—described Adam, shaped like a carrot, tapering toward the feet. At 6'11'', 166 pounds, he said he is the ideal size for a triathlete.

As well as the ideal training habits, hiking 350 miles a week, running 60 miles and swimming 40,000 yards a week. His diet is simple, lots of fruits and vegetables and spaghetti, up to 9,000 calories a day.

His training, he said, has been intense. "Late in the evening I'd still be sweating, even at midnight sometimes, from all the training, because my body is so in tune," said Dydell.

Most of Dydell's training took place at UC Santa Barbara, where he swam with the Santa Barbara Masters swim team.

"The climate's great (at Santa Barbara)," he said. "The rest of the experience—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.

The rest of the expenses the body pays for. Dye said most those who drop out of the triathlon—most people would who wouldn't do so because they expect to drop out of 2 gallo pounds liquid on the course.

All of this he has to carry himself. Except for fare to Hawaii—at last word he expected to be sponsored by the Thompson Vita Company for expenses—triathlon competition is normally not expensive. Unless you buy a pound Cinelli 10-speed for which to compete. You're talking money $2,000.
GRADUATING SENIORS
Engineering & Sales

Have we got a deal for you!!!
JUST BRING IN THIS AD

Chances for terrific prizes, good food, nice people, and the opportunity to learn about tremendous, secure Engineering and Sales career opportunities.

HOW???

EASY AS 1 - 2 - 3

1. Attend
   The American Hospital Supply Corporation
   PIZZA FEED
   Information, Conversation, Contingency
   Monday, September 27
   6:00 PM to 8:00 PM
   Howard Johnson
   195 & Los Osos
   San Luis Obispo

2. Answer
   Correctly the 10 new questions here and submit your copy of this ad for the door prize drawing to be held at the Pizza Feed. Win one of three grand prizes.
   - AM/FM Cassette Recorder
   - 5神秘礼物
   (HINT: The answers to the game can be found in our national trade and/or published literature for the Pharmacy field.)

3. Ask Questions
   - Why the closing of 1980 sales generated by self-manufactured products and services?
   - What are projected to be
   - 1990 health expenditures are projected to be
   - The number of consecutive record sales and earnings
   - Your name and title are provided by AHSC

We look forward to an enjoyable evening discussing your goals, and American Hospital Supply Corporation. Please plan to join us if you are interested in promising careers in either Engineering or Sales.

Quiz - Admits One

If you are unable to attend our Pizza Feed, see your Placement Office for information regarding future on-campus interviews.

American Hospital Supply Corporation
Stanford’s offense busts tough Poly defense

by Mark Gang

In its opening home match of the season, the Cal Poly women’s soccer team lost to the Stanford Cardinals, 5-1, Tuesday night at Mustang Stadium. The match was a classic battle between Stanford's high-powered offense and Cal Poly's stingy defense, the Cardinals dictating the pace of the game from the outset and the Mustangs staying back on the rebound, waiting for an opportunity for counter-attack.

The Cardinals were out Albert Jones, Giancarlo Ferruzzi and Jorge Titinger, put pressure on the Mustang defense by collecting crisp, penetrating passes from halfback Walter Kingson and setting up one-on-one situations in order to take advantage of their superior speed. The Mustang defense, led by goalkeeper Randy Smith and fullbacks Jeff LeGate and Jon Van Den Berg, kept the game scoreless until early in the second half. However, Ferruzzi, the third son in his family to play for Stanford, scored from close-in midway through the first period but the goal was called back on an offside call. Ferruzzi also missed two close-range shots — a header and right foot shot from inside the goal box — for a frustrating first half.

The Poly offense was nonexistent for most of the first half because the breakaway pass which the Mustangs needed to trigger their quick-striking offense were either intercepted or missed. But in the second half, Poly wasted no time in breaking the scoreless deadlock. With barely two minutes gone, Curtis Apeay stroked a perfectly placed corner kick to Tom Gleason, who booted the ball home for a 1-0 Mustang lead.

Before the crowd had settled down, Titinger was found wide on the Mustang penalty box and was awarded a direct free kick 20 yards from the goal. Smith had no chance on the shot — a low, hard kick to his left — and the Cardinals were back in the match.

There was no more scoring for the last ten minutes of the match, with most of the action centered around the Poly goal.

The loss was the third in four matches for the Mustangs, who find themselves in an odd situation — they lead the C.C.A.A. race despite a 1-3 overall record.

Fortunately for Poly, their only win this year was an upset-of-Cal State Los Angeles, 3-2, last weekend in Los Angeles. Mott said that if the Mustangs win their rematch with the Golden Eagles this Saturday they would virtually wrap-up the league crown.

The match begins at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Mustang Stadium.
Opinion

Finally—action

With the assassination of Lebanese president-elect, Bashir Gemayel, the massacre of two Palestinian camps, and Israel's continued assault to move forces into West Beirut, the Reagan administration is finally demanding that Israel get out of Lebanon, and stay out.

It's about time.

According to the Los Angeles Times, in the 20 months since Reagan took office, Israel has acted contrary to, or ignored, United States interests six times. Yet the Reagan administration continued to treat Israel with patience and restraint. The administration has never used arm-twisting devices to get Israel to comply with U.S. arms policy. So Israel gets away with murder, and Reagan merely slaps her hand and takes no further action.

But since the massacre of hundreds of men, women and children at the Chatilla and Sabra Camps, he has changed his stance. Reagan said in his nationally televised speech on Monday that "now is not the time for talk alone. Now is a time for action: to act together to restore peace to Beirut."

And act he has. Besides making a specific demand that all foreign military forces leave Lebanon immediately, he is also re-deploying 1,000 U.S. Marines into Lebanon as part of a multinational peace-keeping force. Although Reagan's purpose and actions in Lebanon are peaceful, it is action compared to his past responses.

Although Reagan's demand increases the risk of the United States becoming more entangled in that region, it is a risk the Mustang Daily Editorial Board feels must be taken.

It is a time for action. Israel cannot be allowed to run rampant any longer, and it's sad that it took a massacre to get Reagan to stop talking, and start acting.

Letters

News in rhyme

Editor: Will I Howard croak.
An interesting game.
Or will the smoke
Of stalkers remain?
She brought the beer
Just before the drive
Pull the tube near
Snooze on the knolls
But wait
Howard's amazed!
The V. F. J. Singer
Here come the Mustangs.
Trampling the Bengals.

By Members Mustang Willi Gray

Wanted: friend

Editor: I am Willie E. Gray and I have just finished reading a copy of your campus newspaper. I admittedly found several of your articles quite interesting and very informative. I am temporarily incarcerated here in Central California without benefit of a single human being to correspond or visit me.

Wanted a friendly, mature and intelligent female to correspond and perhaps Outline with me. Must be 18 or over. All ethnic groups will receive prompt reply. Thanks so much.

Please write to: Willie Gray, c/o 31102, P.O. Box, V.P. Room 1363, San Luis Obispo, CA 93409-0001.

By Members Mustang Willie Gray

The Last Word:

No nickname

As I've grown up, I just say Valerie after their Val. I try not to be rude, but it just seems inconsiderate to call someone by another name than that by which they were introduced.

After I have made the distinction of my name, 50% of these people make it a point to show me they know it and the next time I see them they put such an emphasis on the "erie" that is just as bad at being called Val.

I wish people would be more aware of the name of the person they are being introduced to and be considerate and call them by the full name if the person prefers it.

If I should meet any of you, I am not trying to be rude, but PLEASE! it Valerie.

Valerie Brinkman is a senior journalism major and Mustang Daily staff writer.

Cross Currents problem

In the second issue of Cross Currents magazine appearing with the back-to-school edition of the Mustang Daily, there appears a poem entitled "Someone" by Pam Hudock.

It has come to the attention of the editors Tuesday that a poem by the name title appeared in the February issue of Seventeen magazine. The poem by Hudock contains several word-for-word passages found in the other poem and line similarities.

The editors of Cross Currents were unaware of the similarities and regret the poem was printed.