Preventing and coping with a sexual assault

by Vladimir Milutin
Staff Writer

It was a normal sunny day in San Luis Obispo County. It was to have been a day of laughter and enjoyment at the dunes, but the victim never anticipated the attack by her acquaintance. Screams and obscenities blew across the dunes as bodies wrestled. She had thought it was safe to go out with him, but now he had turned rapist.

This was an actual rape that occurred in San Luis Obispo County. The victim recalled the vivid picture as she warned, “It could happen to anyone regardless of how you look, overweight, underweight, pretty or whatever, and you should be aware of it.”

In 1981, 158 sexual assaults were reported in San Luis Obispo County. Of these, one-third were rapes, and the county district attorney office estimates that three times that number haven’t been reported to law enforcement or crisis centers. The victims were 114 females, 16 males, two corpses, and two lambs.

The danger of sexual assaults has been increasing at an alarming pace between transient rapists who find Cal Poly a perfect stop, said Wayne Hall, Cal Poly public safety investigator, and local rapist who infest the area. There was an average of 6.5 rapes a year from 1972 to 1980 reported to San Luis Obispo police (2 in 1974 to 13 in 1978). In 1981 there were 16.

A common misconception according to Hall is that the campus is a sanctuary. “It’s not. In some ways it is more dangerous than the city,” he said.

On July 20, there was an attempted kidnap and attempted rape with a deadly weapon near the Cal Poly weight training room. Fortunately two Poly football players, Kenneth Copas and Steve Gibson, rescued the female student and captured Frank Daniel Becerra. Becerra, who pled guilty to the charges, was a transient.

"Two years ago in the dorms a victim was raped," said Victims Services Director Peter W. Dunan of the D.A. office. The rapist was a counselor at the California Youth Authority School at Paso Robles. You should be aware there are sick people out there," said a rape victim.

"I trusted people too much. It was a hard lesson to learn but now I don't trust people as much, which is good because I realized that some men have problems. This doesn't apply to all men, generally." Statistics show that half of the victims were assaulted while in the company of or following a social event with a known male, rather than by a stranger. Dr. Andrea Brauninger of the county's Sexual Assault Response Team said, "Acquaintance rapes are very common and are very devastating psychologically."

Despite the victim's physical and emotional trauma, Brauninger stressed the importance of the notification of authorities even if the victim wishes to prosecute. She said a rapist can attack more than once and that pregnancy and venereal disease tests are available to victims even if they chose not to prosecute.

A preliminary interview is held with an investigator, who calls San Luis Obispo General Hospital where a team of specialists will be waiting in a specially designed room equipped to comfort the victim. Upon arrival, the victim will sit with the doctor, investigator and Bill Baldridge, a Crisis Intervention Specialist. The victim can tell what happened and answer questions.

Following the interview, the person is given a physical exam to detect pregnancy and venereal diseases. Brauninger stressed the importance of coming in as soon as possible after the rape (within 12 hours is suggested), not changing clothing, showering, doucheing, or urinating in order to find evidence.

Panetta acts as chairman of House subcommittee

Representative Leon E. Panetta (D-Monterey) will serve as acting chairman for any meetings or hearings of the House Agriculture Committee's Subcommittee on Domestic Marketing, Consumer Relations, and Nutrition during the rest of the current Congressional session, Agriculture Committee Chairman Rika de la Garza (D-Texas) announced today.

The subcommittee chairmanship was left vacant by the recent resignation of Representative Frederick W. Richmond (D-New York). Panetta has been a member of the subcommittee since 1975 and was the ranking Democrat on the panel following Richmond.

"While I regret the circumstances under which this has taken place," Panetta said, "I am pleased that I will have the opportunity to carry on the important work of the subcommittee. It is one of the most important components of the Agriculture Committee, and I look forward to dealing with whatever issues may come before the subcommittee during this Congress."

De la Garza said Panetta would preside over any subcommittee actions taken during the rest of the year.

The domestic marketing panel has jurisdiction over a wide variety of issues, including domestic marketing orders for specialty and other crops, regulatory programs to ensure fair trading in marketing, Department of Agriculture consumer information efforts, and nutrition programs, including the Commodity Supplemental Food Program and food stamps.

Panetta is serving his third term in the House. In addition to serving on the Agriculture Committee, Panetta is a member of the House Budget Committee and chairs its Task Force on Reconciliation.

Statistics are for San Luis Obispo County.

Baldridge said the victim goes through three basic stages after the rape which the individual must correctly deal with. They are the stage of emotional shock (where the victim usually turns on himself or relative), the stage of rationalization (where there is a false sense of security where depression is right around the corner).

"I must help the victim learn where the anger should belong, at the rapist," said Baldridge. The victim remembers, "The effect of being raped is probably the worst. I had a real bad feeling towards men, all men in general because I didn't understand why I was raped and I kind of wanted to get back at everyone. I remember one specific incident that I was at a party and a guy pinned me, normally I wouldn't be affected by that but I turned around and slapped the guy." Certain preventative measures have been considered and maintained by the Cal Poly police department for individual safety. One active program RAPR, Mental Health (544-4720), Victim Assistance (549-6800). Prevention starts with common sense. Brauninger, Dunan and Hall all agree that many rapes can be avoided by locking doors and windows, not walking or jogging alone, staying in well lit areas, and attending a rape awareness talk to get further tips and information.

Hmm, nothing in the Los Angeles Times Sunday about the Mustangs football team upsetting Idaho State Saturday night.

Nothing in the other papers, either, said Sports Information Director Steve Rutledge, except for a story buried in the San Jose Mercury. The game was finished too late to make most West Coast deadlines.

On Page 5 of the Times Sports section, in six-point type, it says Cal Poly SLO at Idaho St. That much is known.

There are front page stories about victories by UCLA and USC—how the Bruins finally beat Michigan and things are looking up, how the Trojans shut down the aerial attack that had put Northwestern Mildcats, who finally, use, even if they don't do such grand that hasn't been done in 181 consecutive something out at the Oklahoma Sooners, something are looking up, how the Trojans shut...[Continued]

The way the Cal Poly men's soccer team reacted when the final whistle sounded Saturday night, you'd think it had just upset the New York Cosmos.

In fact, the team had tied the visiting Golden Eagles of Cal State Los Angeles, 1-1, lasting 110 minutes on the field with one of the best NCAA Division II teams in the country.

While the Eagles aren't the Cosmos, they are a pretty good facsimile. No team prior to Saturday's game had held them below two goals, and last year they were the Div. II runners-up, losing in two overtime times to the Universi

If a Most Valuable Player trophy were to be handed out at the 6th Annual Spartan Shops Invitational volleyball tournament at San Jose State University, the recipient probably would have been Poly's Wendy Hooper.

The 4-foot-10 senior put on a phenomenal display of hitting Friday and Saturday as the Mustangs swept through the five-team, round-robin tournament format unscathed for their second straight Spartan Shops title.

Cal Poly, now 10-2 on the year, defeated host San Jose State 15-9, 15-13, 15-10, 15-5, 15-9 Saturday evening, in what turned out to be the championship match. Earlier in the day, the Mustangs whipped the University of Washington 15-10, 15-11, 15-12.

On Friday, Cal Poly opened up with Stanford University, the nation's sixth-ranked team. The Mustangs were No. 7. And, as expected, it was a war—a long war. In the best match and most certainly the longest—as in two hours and 60 minutes long—Cal Poly prevailed, 15-10, 15-8, 15-9, 15-13.

Bishop flooded by dam

BISHOP, Calif. (AP) Several homes were washed away and police with shotguns helped evacuate up to 1,700 people after a dam broke uphill from this resort com-community Sunday, freeing the rainfall-swollen North Lake.
The Southern California Edison dam, about 35 miles west of Bishop broke at about 9 a.m. and destroyed several homes in the tiny unincorporated community of Aspindell, said Dave Wallace, state fire marsha11 for the Bishop area.
"There's been considerable damage," he said, adding that there were no reports of injuries.

By early afternoon, 1,700 people had been evacuated from the northwest section of Bishop, which has a population of 4,100, said Mike Brown at the Office of Emergency Services in Sacramento. City officials declared a state of emergency and police drove down streets with bullhorns asking residents to leave.

An undetermined number of people also were being evacuated from unincorporated areas along Bishop Creek, the drainage system for the 14-acre lake located 9,000 feet above sea level. North Lake had been swollen by rainfall from hurricane turned tropical storm Olivia.

Mustangs take second Victorian sport victory with the tournay she turned in. The 5-11 outside hitter had 76 kills in 187 chances, seven service aces, four blocks and four defensive saves.

"It was a tremendous performance by Wendy for us," Wilson said. "Handy also played well and Terri (Purling) came back to life for us. Tina (Taylor) also got nice finish and an out there.

Purling, a 6-1 sophomore, had been in a hitting slump until the weekend trip. Jen the four matches, she was 42-11 in kills, 11 in service aces and nine solo blocks.

"My hitting slump affected my whole game," Purling said. "Basically, it was all attitude. Then I got the attitude of Just go for it and you can't really lose. I had to be more aggressive. The last two matches (before the tournay) I didn't play well. But I had a really good workout and it made me realize that if I go out and give everything I got, it will come out good.

This tournament wasn't all spikes, service aces and blocks for Cal Poly, though. The Mustangs had a few against them. But, you see, Poly's biggest problem right now is not the opposition. It is itself. Take the San Jose State game for example. After winning game one 15-9 in what Wilton called "a very business-like manner," the Mustangs were a different team.

"San Jose came out fired up in the second game," Wilson said. "And right now, we're just inventing ways to mess up. They built up big leads in games two and three, and we came back to make it close, but it's like slamming the gate after the cows are gone.

Then games four and five took about as long as a Sebastian Coe mile run. Why the turnaround? "You tell me, we'll bottle it and make a million dollars," Wilson laughed, "we spend more time digging a hole for ourselves. But we do have a tremendous ability to come back. We got off to a fast start in game four and got our backs. We really do have a good team. I wish I'd like to see us put those big holes for ourselves, though.

Hooper said he knew it wasn't long. "We won't be doing this all season," he remarked. "When we get to know ourselves better, we won't be having these mental lapses."
Letters
Cal Poly Island

Editor:

I was hurt and appalled to read your editorial “Welcome Back” in the September 23rd edition of the Mustang Daily. Welcome back to what? An island?

You say, “... the Daily should be a school newspaper... we plan to focus more intensely on Cal Poly instead of both it and San Luis Obispo... there will still be outside coverage, but the campus will be much, larger toward Cal Poly.” This is a dangerous policy to follow.

Approximately 1,250 students live in the on-campus dorms this year, but they don’t stay on campus all the time. The other 13,250 students live in S.L.O. They rent their apartments, park and drive their cars, shop for and eat their food in S.L.O. Their parents and friends come to visit them in S.L.O. They attend community functions such as the Mozart Festival, La Fiesta, and the Mari Gras. The campus also attends our university events such as Poly Royal and athletic events.

My obvious point is that the university and the community are an inseparable, integral part of one another. As such, they cannot rationally be isolated into separate entities. This is not, by a long shot, the end of the overlap. Cal Poly and S.L.O. are also an integral part of the state, the state an integral part of the country, the country an integral part of the world.

I will readily grant you that other papers can more thoroughly cover most events here on this campus than the Mustang Daily, and their coverage should be minimized. I am taking about community events.

Let me name a few national student issues that are quite pertinent to us. The post-secondary schools rise by 12% in private and 14% in public schools in 1981. At the same time, student financial aid programs have been severely slashed. Some cuts already made include:

Social Security education benefits were eliminated, 250,000 students dropped from HEOP programs, one million students dropped from Guaranteed Student Loan programs.

These are just a few. In 1983 the Reagan budget will further slash student aid: HEOP would be cut by a further 47%, SEOG eliminated, SHIG eliminated, college work study cut, another further 28%.

These are just a few of the proposed cuts. Hundreds of thousands of students will have to drop out of school because of them. If we could activate enough students as a voting block: we could have a definite effect on the outcome of these proposals.

Local student issues can also be named: housing, management relations, bicycle safety, mass transportation, parking, flood control zones, and on and on. If you don’t think these are student issues, please think again.

I could easily fill a volume if I kept going, but this is a forum for airing views, not in-depth analysis. My purpose in writing this letter is to encourage the Mustang Daily to reconsider the degree of the Mustang Daily to reconsider the degree to which it covers off-campus issues and events. A single man is not an island, nor is a university campus.

Last year, the ASI had tremendous success in establishing a better university atmosphere. During the last year, the university and the community into a closer, more harmonious relationship than ever before.

In order to facilitate this goal, the ASI needs the support of the Mustang Daily as it is the forum most read by the majority of Cal Poly students. Your help is a critical requisite for our success. Thank you for airing my views.

A serious deficiency in the effective atmosphere of university government on this campus has been its relative isolation from the general student body. While most students are indirectly aware of the ASI through its various programming activities (i.e. movies, concerts, intramurals, fiddler services), the decisions regarding these programs and services in addition to other campus issues are often reported to the students only after the fact.

This column will attempt to provide its readers with a heightened awareness of the issues being decided by the Student Senate during the coming year. By announcing these issues prior to Senate discussion and action, students are encouraged to provide input and express their views. The Senate meets every Wednesday evening at 7:00 PM in University Union 220.

The Escort Service: With the support of the Office of Public Safety, we are beginning to coordinate the scheduling of the Escort Service. We need many volunteers to provide escorts from the University Union and the Library. The dorms and student organizations are encouraged to contact the ASI Office, UU 217A (546-1291) if they wish to participate in this very worthwhile service. Last year the Escort Service received much support from fraternity members and proved to be quite successful.

The Finance Committee:

The ASI Finance Committee is the Senate’s only standing committee and is tasked with regulating the expenditures of the ASI.

ASI Announcements

There’s more to college life than just academics. So come and get involved with Recreational Sports. This fall we have plenty to offer the sports-minded student who’s looking for a little leisure-time activity.

There are upcoming meetings for managers/captains interested in entering a team for Touch Football. Fraternity, residence hall, independent, competitive and recreational divisions are available. Women are encouraged to get a team going also. Meetings will be held Monday, Sept. 27 at 6:00 p.m. in Science North 202 or Tuesday, Sept. 28, in the Sierra Madre upper study hall room. If you would like to join, but are not on a team, come to the meeting and we’ll get you started. Officials meeting will be at 7 p.m. tonight and is mandatory for hiring.

If you’re interested in Backgammon, try your skill in the round robin tournament that starts Monday, Oct. 4. En-
