Weekend Briefs

Raiders are new NFL champions

TAMPA, Fla. — Marcus Allen rushed for a record 181 yards, including a 74-yard touchdown run, and the Los Angeles offense shut down Washington's John Riggins and Joe Theismann as the Raiders crushed the defending champion Redskins 27-9 Sunday in the most lopsided Super Bowl ever.

The Raiders' Derrick Jensen and Jack Siperek turned short defensive plays into instant first-half touchdowns against Allen, a unanimous selection as the game's Most Valuable Player, broke loose in the second quarter and passed the Raiders to a 14-0 record 56 points.

Scores had been 8-point favorites to win their second successive Super Bowl but by holding Riggins to 94 yards and Washington's only touchdown on a 1-yard pass in the third period, the Raiders became only the second team besides the Pittsburgh Steelers to win more than two. The Steelers won four times in the 1970s.

Dioslo Canyon protests continue

SAN LOUIS OBISPO — Protesters over the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant focused on the surrounding community Sunday following 149 arrests in protests for the Abolitionist Alliance.

"It was kind of quiet," said Edwa Morris. "I think people are inflicting churches. The idea is to get as much of the community involved as possible."

On Monday, she said, two Los Angeles area people planned to don Ronald Reagan and Henry Kissinger masks and active up to the 43,274 millionaire's main gate in a rented limousine, and "cross the blue line" marking the limit of public grounds, which would subject them to arrest for trespassing.

Scores dead in Morocco riots

BARAT, Morocco — Hundreds of demonstrators were killed when troops and police quelled riots in the past few days in the major towns of northern Morocco, diplomatic sources reported Sunday.

Rumors of increases in food prices and school expenses seem apparently caused the riots. It was officially denied Sunday that any increase was planned in school fees.

Spanish media said upwards of 200 people were killed at Tetuan, Alhucemas, Nador and other towns in the region. The Moroccan government imposed a total news blackout on the violence, refusing any official statement.

Attorney General Smith resigns

WASHINGTON — William French Smith, the multilingual corporate lawyer who directed sweeping changes in the Department of Justice and served as a close personal advisor to President Reagan, has resigned as attorney general, administration sources said Sunday.

The sources, who sought anonymity, said it appeared that he was in line as the candidate to succeed Smith is presidential counselor Edwin Meese III.

Smith, 47, is not pressured to leave but had simply decided that after three years in office it was time to go. "He feels he had accomplished his major goals," one source said.

One source said Reagan's expected re-election campaign was a factor in Smith's decision. The 56-year-old Smith was active behind the scenes in every Reagan campaign and administration.

"It would be inappropriate if he remained as attorney general," the source said. "We were concerned about the criminal enforcement policies that stood through four previous administrations, kept his plans secret almost to the last minute.

Workers say asbestos mishandled

Workers in the administration building remodeling project have charged numerous procedural and safety violations.

"There was gross negligence in the handling of this asbestos," said one worker. "They're just letting us walk into a dangerous situation."

One worker said the safety procedures, which are established in a campus asbestos manual, are lax.

"Under the guidelines, workers must either wear protective masks, gloves and safety suits when dealing in asbestos, or a spray penetrant can be used to encapsulate the fiber."

An employee said the spray penetrant was used in the administration building, but workers told the Mustang Daily "We are being misquoted. It was ineffective. The pouring involved on the walls was not doing the work."

Another worker said he witnessed "workers disregard the health and safety officer." "We were told to keep it quiet," he said. "They didn't want to have a panic situation." Said another: "Their attitude is 'out of sight, out of mind.'"

"To act like it's not going to hurt us is the damaging factor as far as I'm concerned," said one worker. "I want to be informed."

"Children are befriended in Pals Project

by Karen Krassner

Jim Barrett and Damon Geopler have been friends for three years now. "They're at a unique relationship. They're not roommates, don't share the same classes and have never run into each other on campus. Jim and Damon are pals!

Both are a part of the Pals Project, a non-profit organization started 15 years ago on the Cal Poly campus. The Pals Project is an extension of ASI Student Community Services.

The main objective is to match the child of a single-parent family in the San Luis Obispo area with a student volunteer "pal." The children range from 4 to 14 years of age. The pal becomes, not a surrogate parent or babysitter, but a big brother or sister and eventual-environment health and occupational safety officer. "As soon as that was realized, we went by the campus asbestos manual." Bob Clark, supervisor of the plumbing shop, disputes this claim. "The proper procedures were not used in the administration building," he said.

Workers went on to level even more serious complaints. "We have no safety standards here at all," said one employee who, like most others, asked for anonymity for fear of his job. "They disregarded the safety and health of the guys working here."

Another worker said he was told to keep the situation under wraps. We were told to keep it quiet," he said. "They didn't want to have a panic situation."

The student is expected to spend a few hours a week with their pal. No one watches over or monitors this time, it is left up to the volunteer. "The volunteer doesn't even have to see their pal every week," said Sana Fevola, a Pals coordinator. "All we ask is that they let the child know they are there, whether it's by phone or just leaving a message."

The Pals Project has been very successful due to the student participation. An iminent problem lies in the fact that there seems to be a shortage of children.

For many, Pals is a very worthwhile experience. Jim and Damon celebrated their third year anniversary on Tuesday. Damon was only seven when he first met Jim. Since that time, Jim has become very important to him. The Mustang Daily — Ed Morris

Dairy plant churns up interest

Uncovered asbestos located in the first floor storage room of the Administration building. Workers say people are constantly brushing objects against open pipes such as these which releases the cancerous material into the air. Asbestos stays in the air for at least 48 hours.
The ties that bind

It’s out there. And although it is seldom seen and goes unheard, it is among us. It is a symbol. It is a basic belief in a cause, just against Diablo Canyon. It’s a yellow ribbon.

It has been there to welcome our soldiers home from the war. It was there when the Iranian Hostages came home. And it is here now.

On Sunday, Jan. 16, approximately 700 people participated in an anti-nuclear demonstration at the entrances of Diablo Canyon. These people let it be known that they are against the nuclear power plant. Not everyone against Diablo was able to participate or willing to be arrested for civil disobedience, but a few were. And it is a desire to show support for those few that have brought the yellow ribbon home again.

Wherever there are people who rally behind a principle and fight for a common goal, there is the spirit that made America what it is today—a powerful and respected nation.

This is a basic belief in a cause, just against Diablo Canyon. The latter claim has Biblical priority for the discovery of blood circulation, but in “style,” he makes a number of claims best described as Biblical material—it’s a theory, a hypothesis, a scientific treatise. To treat it as such would be a short-lived one.

My family has the strange idea that I don’t like the family pet. Buffy. Buffy is a cocker spaniel with the biggest, saddest, brown eyes I’ve ever seen. She’s cute, real cute. So why do my family think I don’t like her. I really don’t know. O.K. when I found out they spent $300 for the mutt, I mean dog, I was a bit upset. Three hundred dollars! That would pay my rent for two months.

My younger sister, Christine, the junior psychologist, has it all figured out. She says I am jealous of Buffy. Jealous of a dog, don’t be ridiculous.

While I was home over the winter break I made the mistake of sitting in the front passenger seat of the car on a trip to the store. Buffy was joining us on. Buffy likes to ride in the car. Buffy also likes to listen to music when Buffy’s seat,” my Dad said. I thought he was kidding. Nope. Buffy jumped in my lap, and I quickly placed her in the back seat. She jumped right back into my lap. I threw her in the back, she jumped up front.

Christine informs me that Buffy has her own bed. In fact, Buffy has her own room. I think they are being a little too indulgent with Buffy. Buffy around our house than there are of me. That’s pretty bad when you consider that my parents have had me for 21 years and Buffy for only three.

My family has the strange idea that I don’t like the family pet. Buffy. Buffy is a cocker spaniel with the biggest, saddest, brown eyes I’ve ever seen. She’s cute, real cute. So why do my family think I don’t like her. I really don’t know. O.K. when I found out they spent $300 for the mutt, I mean dog, I was a bit upset. Three hundred dollars! That would pay my rent for two months.

My younger sister, Christine, the junior psychologist, has it all figured out. She says I am jealous of Buffy. Jealous of a dog, don’t be ridiculous.

Buffy has her own room. In fact, Buffy has her own room. I think they are being a little too indulgent with Buffy.

Attention collared by canine

My family has the strange idea that I don’t like the family pet, Buffy. Buffy is a cocker spaniel with the biggest, saddest, brown eyes I’ve ever seen. She’s cute, real cute. So why do my family think I don’t like her? I really don’t know. O.K. when I found out they spent $300 for the mutt, I mean dog, I was a bit upset. Three hundred dollars! That would pay my rent for two months.

My younger sister, Christine, the junior psychologist, has it all figured out. She says I am jealous of Buffy. Jealous of a dog, don’t be ridiculous. Why would I be jealous of a dog? Just because Buffy gets her hair cut and nails groomed professionally every two weeks, Big deal.

So, I refused to take her out for her walk when she came home with the pink bows in her hair. That’s understandable, what if I had run into someone I knew? Every time she goes out to eat, my Mom insists on bringing home all the leftovers for Buffy. While I’m away at college surviving on macaroni and cheese the dog is feasting on steak and Veal Oscar.

When I was home over the winter break I made the mistake of sitting in the front passenger seat of the car on a trip to the store. Buffy was joining us on. Buffy likes to ride in the car. Buffy also likes to listen to music when Buffy’s seat,” my Dad said. I thought he was kidding. Nope. Buffy jumped in my lap, and I quickly placed her in the back seat. She jumped right back into my lap. I threw her in the back, she jumped up front.

Christine informs me that Buffy has her own bed. In fact, Buffy has her own room. I think they are being a little too indulgent with Buffy.

My family has the strange idea that I don’t like the family pet, Buffy. Buffy is a cocker spaniel with the biggest, saddest, brown eyes I’ve ever seen. She’s cute, real cute. So why do my family think I don’t like her? I really don’t know. O.K. when I found out they spent $300 for the mutt, I mean dog, I was a bit upset. Three hundred dollars! That would pay my rent for two months.

My younger sister, Christine, the junior psychologist, has it all figured out. She says I am jealous of Buffy. Jealous of a dog, don’t be ridiculous. Why would I be jealous of a dog? Just because Buffy gets her hair cut and nails groomed professionally every two weeks, Big deal.

So, I refused to take her out for her walk when she came home with the pink bows in her hair. That’s understandable, what if I had run into someone I knew? Every time she goes out to eat, my Mom insists on bringing home all the leftovers for Buffy. While I’m away at college surviving on macaroni and cheese the dog is feasting on steak and Veal Oscar.

When I was home over the winter break I made the mistake of sitting in the front passenger seat of the car on a trip to the store. Buffy was joining us on. Buffy likes to ride in the car. Buffy also likes to listen to music when Buffy’s seat,” my Dad said. I thought he was kidding. Nope. Buffy jumped in my lap, and I quickly placed her in the back seat. She jumped right back into my lap. I threw her in the back, she jumped up front.

Christine informs me that Buffy has her own bed. In fact, Buffy has her own room. I think they are being a little too indulgent with Buffy.

My family has the strange idea that I don’t like the family pet, Buffy. Buffy is a cocker spaniel with the biggest, saddest, brown eyes I’ve ever seen. She’s cute, real cute. So why do my family think I don’t like her? I really don’t know. O.K. when I found out they spent $300 for the mutt, I mean dog, I was a bit upset. Three hundred dollars! That would pay my rent for two months.

My younger sister, Christine, the junior psychologist, has it all figured out. She says I am jealous of Buffy. Jealous of a dog, don’t be ridiculous. Why would I be jealous of a dog? Just because Buffy gets her hair cut and nails groomed professionally every two weeks, Big deal.

So, I refused to take her out for her walk when she came home with the pink bows in her hair. That’s understandable, what if I had run into someone I knew? Every time she goes out to eat, my Mom insists on bringing home all the leftovers for Buffy. While I’m away at college surviving on macaroni and cheese the dog is feasting on steak and Veal Oscar.

When I was home over the winter break I made the mistake of sitting in the front passenger seat of the car on a trip to the store. Buffy was joining us on. Buffy likes to ride in the car. Buffy also likes to listen to music when Buffy’s seat,” my Dad said. I thought he was kidding. Nope. Buffy jumped in my lap, and I quickly placed her in the back seat. She jumped right back into my lap. I threw her in the back, she jumped up front.

Christine informs me that Buffy has her own bed. In fact, Buffy has her own room. I think they are being a little too indulgent with Buffy.

It was my birthday. My family had the strange idea that I don’t like the family pet. Buffy. Buffy is a cocker spaniel with the biggest, saddest, brown eyes I’ve ever seen. She’s cute, real cute. So why do my family think I don’t like her? I really don’t know. O.K. when I found out they spent $300 for the mutt, I mean dog, I was a bit upset. Three hundred dollars! That would pay my rent for two months.

My younger sister, Christine, the junior psychologist, has it all figured out. She says I am jealous of Buffy. Jealous of a dog, don’t be ridiculous. Why would I be jealous of a dog? Just because Buffy gets her hair cut and nails groomed professionally every two weeks, Big deal.

So, I refused to take her out for her walk when she came home with the pink bows in her hair. That’s understandable, what if I had run into someone I knew? Every time she goes out to eat, my Mom insists on bringing home all the leftovers for Buffy. While I’m away at college surviving on macaroni and cheese the dog is feasting on steak and Veal Oscar.

When I was home over the winter break I made the mistake of sitting in the front passenger seat of the car on a trip to the store. Buffy was joining us on. Buffy likes to ride in the car. Buffy also likes to listen to music when Buffy’s seat,” my Dad said. I thought he was kidding. Nope. Buffy jumped in my lap, and I quickly placed her in the back seat. She jumped right back into my lap. I threw her in the back, she jumped up front.

Christine informs me that Buffy has her own bed. In fact, Buffy has her own room. I think they are being a little too indulgent with Buffy.
Letters

Merit of sorority system upheld and condemned

Editor: In reference to the “mystery man” who blamed me with the opportunity to unroll the sorority system to him and “a few curious friends.” Despite his instance that he regarded no group or organization, I was positive from his glows manner that this was obviously a blatant lie. Nevertheless, for the benefit of the entire sorority system, I was enthusiastic and very interested in clearing up the stereotypes and misconceptions he and his supporters apparently possess. I am always anxious to prove the many benefits and opportunities of sorority involvement, even if it will set only a single mind straight.

Well, I’m sure I could have helped the author of “Sorority Myths,” even if I had been able to hold our appointments. I am shocked at his inability to understand the notion of a chance happening which required my immediate attention, preventing my “unannounced” from appearing in the United Tuesday, toddy bears and all. Believe me, I realized it would be impossible for me to meet him at only the last moment, and even attempted to find a representative in my place as soon as the reality of my situation was apparent. But unfortunately he never managed to reveal much about himself, more importantly his name and phone number where I could reach him in case of such a conflict. He put me in quite a bind with his own assumptions. I knew, perhaps he secretly hoped that I wouldn’t show up so he would have this perfect opportunity to express his own deeply embedded sorority prejudices. Lucky for him, his plan worked. It amazes me that such a supposedly sophisticated, truthseeking, objective organization of students and community members, who put such a great amount of thought and planning into its mission, could be so tactless and assuming. How important could the “dispelling of sorority myths” have been to such a group who cares the entire investigation after a single, very explainable mishap. But then I was convinced instructed not to announce. This doesn’t sound like the attitude of any organization I wish to associate with. And the author of the letter in question, speaks of the “discriminatory” practices of sororities? Our “lack of educational concern”? It even sounds as though all of the supposed, “individuals” in his group have “conformed” to his views. Apparently he has gotten himself mixed up in his own version of an “internalized,” “sheltered structure,” which has what I consider a true “childlike image.” He has managed to paint quite a misleading picture.

Does he honestly believe I would “sloppily and carelessly” place my sorority in such a position intentionally? I apologize for the inconvenience, which unfortunately couldn’t have been avoided. I’m also sorry that he feels as though I was playing games with him. I hadn’t considered the police relaying of a message and the attempt to get his name and number by a fellow Tetter-Totter as being a form of everyday amusement. It was intended to be an expression of sincere interest, in hopes of arranging a more convenient meeting, and I’m sorry he took it as an offensive form of rejection. If I’d been available to come to the phone when he called, I’d surely have met him in the Union that day, for I take my office seriously and wouldn’t act frivolously where commitments concerning my sorority’s image are involved. My deepest apologies also to all sororities for the results of the author’s jumping to conclusions, materialization of facts, and inability to give me chance.

Well here’s the outcome he and his following have been anxiously awaiting. Most of all in any future endeavors taken on by his earnest organization, any to those who attempt to deal with him as well. If he ever decides to let go of his ignorant, irrational behavior, give me a call; better yet, drop by. As for the battle plan, how does a libel suit sound?

Lisa Noble
Public Relations Alpha Phi

---

Editor: I am responding to the letter regarding “Sorority Myths,” I took a poke at the sorority referred to in the letter, and I am sorry Lisa did not give the author an interview, because I do not feel a personal attack on our sorority was necessary. The letter “Sorority Myths” does nothing to dispel the sorority stereotypes that are apparently in question. I am satis-ded by some people’s views of sororities, most members are not blonde-haired, blue-eyed idiots looking for husbands. The Tetter-Totter so callously referred to as “a childlike, girlish image” is our daily routine. It is our way of returning something to the community. The letter claims the author’s organization has refused to name, questions the merits of the sorority system, well I question the merits his “organization.” Instead of writing stingling letters, why not concentrate on other more feasible methods of gathering information.

If the author’s group is really interested in dispelling “Sorority Myths” they should first gather enough correct information to justify his letter. Try other means of contacting members of the Greek System. The letter not only supports sorority myths but gives the author’s “organization” no credibility what-soever.

Cynthia Fowe

---

Editor:

Are you upset about the letter condemning sororities printed in the Mustang Daily’s Jan. 19th issue? Well, we sure are. Upon close inspection of this article we found that the author had a very biased view. That is, he only incriminated sororities. What about all those alcoholics and studs that are in fraternity? Surely they deserve to have their myths dispelled also. We feel our patriotic obligation is to expose the entire Greek System which is carrying the seeds of destruction to our society. Due to their closed societies, these Greeks are not experiencing real life situations. They are being protected by their communal friends which inhibit their maturing. A Greek’s “real” life college experiences consist of party raids, toga parties, and teeter totters. The Greek System is a real degradation to our country. But then again, there are always some people that need help in getting friends, dates, and social acceptance.

Of course the Greek System isn’t all bad. We can be thankful for their contributions to our community. They provide the economic stability to our liquor stores, and without sororities, how else would we know if penicillin worked or not.

Send one for Valentine’s Day or any special occasion.
Letters

Reasons given for honoring Martin Luther King

Editor:

If there ever was a black man or woman that deserves the honor of a national holiday it was Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. A man who dedicated himself to the death, to raise the dignity of every black, white, brown person, who became of racism or economic deprivation had been relegated the status of second class citizens-intellectual objectivity and history demands that one, regardless of our ideological bent, acknowledge it.

But of course there will be those less inclined to set aside their political/social prejudices.

People like the author of a Jan. 18 letter to the Mustang Daily who presume intellectual honesty are not only crude in their attacks on a man such as Dr. King but undeniably wrong in their historical perspective.

The author, presumee too much, "intellectual lightweight" really. His comments smack of elitism and outright racism.

The author and those of his ilk are certainly welcome to their opinion, but I would that he would not pass off his unsubstantiated view of history as intellectual. His method of personal attack has become quite a popular sport in this Reagan era. A method driven by religious fervor and bankrupt ideology, devoid of logic.

Take heart though, you're in great (read dubious) company with the likes of Jesse Helms, J. Edgar Hoover, and the R.K.K. in their vile right wing attacks on honorable black men and women of history.

Randy Reyes

Editor:

I would like to address a letter in the Mustang Daily Wednesday

I find it difficult to accept that the author believes Martin Luther King, Jr. to be "an intellectual lightweight" who was "superficial and silly." I can not agree that King was an "undistinguished mediocre man with a slight flair for the melodramatic." That description better suits our incumbent President than it does a moral leader of America.

Ever been to Alabama? Nowadays, you might not see the import of King's words; but go back to a day before many of Cal Poly's students were born. Back to the days of Christopher Robin when niggers and spies and "braves and chinks" were kept in the back of the bus where whites didn't have to look at them. Let's go back to Mississippi in 1960 where the bathrooms helped to separate the men from the nigras. Ring did NOT speak out in support of a "brutal, aggressive, totalitarian dictatorship" as your letter and rampants would imply. King spoke in favor of self-determination, the inalienable rights of people to exercise their own free will.

The things King fought for became national issues and eventually political ones, because--YES—he used the media to broadcast his ideals. Just as you and I are doing. Just as political and military leaders have been doing for years. So why not moral leadership on T.V.?

Frankly, I agree that we should not celebrate King's birthday. I don't think he would have wanted that; and who needs another holiday in January? However, we should recognize his impact on our country and celebrate a day of civil rights for all. Maybe, like, in August, ya know, when we could use a holiday, okay?

Steven C. White

Editor:

This letter is in response to the letter entitled "No Reason to Bannish King." I concede that much of King's reputation can be attributed to media hype. But my acquaintance with you ends there.

Dr. King was a human being first and a United States citizen second. In voicing his opposition to the US involvement in Vietnam (and other third world nations) he alluded to violations of the right of the people to govern themselves. Of course, the Kennedy and Johnson administrations knew what was right for the people of Vietnam. In their attempts to "win the hearts and minds" of Vietnamese, 54,000 Americans, one million Vietnamese half of those civilians, and 90 percent of the Vietnamese countryside were destroyed. The list of American atrocities goes on. On a smaller scale, America has sought to control other countries in the name of democracy (and capitalism), and in the process, has foregone any consideration of the rights of the people.

Dr. King saw the world without barriers of race, creed, color or nationality. When human rights were violated, he denounced it, in Alabama, Saigon, or anywhere. Dr. King stood for those people and their unalienable rights. That's right, people opposed to democracy have unalienable rights too. It was not too long ago in the history of our world that 13 colonies banded together to fight for the right of autonomy and civil liberties. Why, there's no doubt that during the inception of the holiday for a freedom fighter by the name of George Washington that the writer would denounce him as well.

My advice to the author of that letter and people who share his views is simple—try becoming a little less American and a little more human.

Gregory A. Kall

Glad to be through but sad to leave SLO?

TRWEP I San Luis Obispo Division, Manufacturer of High Reliability Electronics, is looking for Graduating Engineers (EE, IE, IT, ET, ME). TRWEP I offers salaries competitive with L.A. and the Bay Area while being located in San Luis Obispo. Interested Engineers should call for an interview or come in person to 1050 Southwood Drive, SLO, 544-2786.

Glad to be through but sad to leave SLO?

TRWEP San Luis Obispo Division, Manufacturer of High Reliability Electronics, is looking for Graduating Engineers (EE, IE, IT, ET, ME). TRWEP offers salaries competitive with L.A. and the Bay Area while being located in San Luis Obispo. Interested Engineers should call for an interview or come in person to 1050 Southwood Drive, SLO, 544-2786.
Cancerous asbestos loose in Administration bldg. From page 1

when I'm in it (asbestos)," Ed Narretto, Cal Poly's director of plant operations, said workers know what the score is when dealing with asbestos.

"They're told that it is asbestos unless it is proven that it isn't," he said. "It's something we have to do." Asbestos is not confined solely to the administration building. Most older buildings at Cal Poly have asbestos in them. This troubles many workers, who say they deal with the problem 40 to 50 times a year.

"No matter what the building, you have to prepare for asbestos," Van Acker said.

Narretto, Van Acker and the workers all noted that asbestos is a widening problem. "It's a real world problem," Van Acker said. "Large agencies, and especially schools, have to be aware of it." The workers, however, brought the problem right back to a personal level. "This affects everybody on campus," one man said, "because you come into contact with it every day."

Cancer causing asbestos, as properly covered outside the Sierra Madre residence halls.

THE COMMANDER WANTS YOU TO SHOW THE NEW MAN AROUND THE ROCKSITE

SURE...

WHAT'S THAT?

HELLO... I'M CHUCK

by D.A. Green

ART PRINT SALE!

30% off JAN. 23-28

WHILE SUPPLY LASTS

Mondays only. Order a large 1 item pizza for only $7.50 and receive two free quarts of coke! Offer good Mondays only at Domino's Pizza. Each additional item $1

Fast, Friendly, Free Delivery
775-A Foothill Blvd., SLO

544-3636

No other coupons valid with Monday Madness

El Corral Bookstore
Hot Off the Press

Love notes in the Personal Column

Every Monday a special rate of 3 lines for $1.00
Come to Room 226 Graphics Bldg. Mustang Daily

---

Lake Shastina

Lake Shastina is a beautiful location for outdoor activities. Enjoy hiking, fishing, or simply relaxing by the lake.

---

ENGINEERS

"OPPORTUNITY IS WHAT WE HAVE TO OFFER"

Guardian Industries Corp. will be on campus interviewing for Engineers on January 31st and February 1st. We are one of the Top growth companies in the U.S. with a people-oriented, participative management philosophy. We have positions available in our new $68 million glass mfg. facility in the Fresno area. Desire candidates with BSEE, BSME, BSEL. Excellent growth potential with comprehensive wages and benefit program, includes bonus. If a future with our company is of interest to you, please contact the placement center for more information, or call Ron Smith and Hank Saral (former Cal Poly graduates) at 1-209-896-6400. EOE M/F

---

University Square Center

University Square Center

290 Foothill Boulevard

Phone 544-2104

Frozen Yogurt
Bagels
Drinks
Cookies

---

Campus

Ice cream made from milk

---

Milk

Milk is a nutritious food rich in calcium and other essential nutrients. It can be enjoyed in various forms, such as yogurt, ice cream, and buttermilk.
... and hard work too

by Margarita Mills

At 5 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday a Cal Poly dairy plant worker heads to the plant to begin the day's milk processing.

By 7:30 or 8 a.m. a couple more employees show up to help with the pasteurizing and homogenizing of the milk, and by 9 a.m. most of the 1,100 to 1,600 gallons of milk have been processed and the four-hour chore of cleaning milk, and by 9 a.m. most of the 1,100 to 1,600 gallons of milk have been processed and the four-hour chore of cleaning the machine begins.

The dairy plant, located adjacent to the Campus Store, is a student-run manufacturing unit which produces milk and milk products such as cheese, butter, sour cream and ice cream. Processing and packaging are done inside the small building and sent out to be sold locally.

“Most dairy manufacturing majors graduate from Poly and get good-paying jobs in the industry because of the work experience here in the plant,” —Ken Molder

Production is under the supervision of the general manager, Carl Moy, a dairy manufacturing professor. Foremen Ken Molder explained, “The students here do all the work in the plant; Mr. Molder basically does the paperwork to keep it going.” The number of students working in the plant varies from quarter to quarter, Molder said, but the usual staff is between fifteen and twenty.

The plant is not a student enterprise project, “Everyone who works in the plant is an employee and is paid by the Cal Poly Foundation,” he said. “It’s just like any other part-time job.”

Most dairy majors work in the plant sometime during their Cal Poly career, but the jobs aren’t limited to that major. Molder commented that other agriculture students work in the plant, even a mechanical engineering major. He himself has been working there for almost four years.

The foundation provides the plant with milk from its dairy, one of two other milk products as well. The high fat content milk—butter milk—is put into a large drum where it is turned for over an hour to separate the fat, or butter, from the milk. Two percent salt is mixed into the butter, then the butter is packaged “the old-fashioned way,” by hand, and like the milk shipped off to be sold. About once a week the workers make cheese after all the necessary milk has been processed. In summer, when the demand for milk isn’t as high as during the regular school year, cheese is produced at the plant more often.

Milk is poured into big vats where it is churned to eventually make cheese such as cheddar, Monterey jack, colby, muenster, brick, Swiss and blue. Molder said that the cheese-making process is essentially the same for the different cheeses, but slight changes in elements such as temperature produce the different types of cheeses.

Please see page 8

SCHOOL YEAR SPECIAL
2 EXTRA MONTHS $5.00 FOR ONLY
When you purchase our regular 3-month program for $79.99 expires Jan. 28

THAT’S 5 MONTHS FOR ONLY $84.99
YOU CAN STAY IN SHAPE TO THE EDGE OF SUMMER WITH AEROBICS, WGT. MACHINES, SAUNA AND WHIRLPOOL.
Dairy workers make food for students, community

From page 7

Once the cheese is made, it is wrapped in airtight plastic and stored in the curing room, a huge refrigerator. Storage for a cheddar is typically three months for mild, six months for medium and a year or more for sharp. The cheeses are periodically tasted to ensure they are aging properly.

Besides cheese, butter and milk, the dairy produces a relatively small amount of ice cream. "The ice cream we make stays on campus. That is because government regulation packaging require cartons to be pre-printed, and the small quantity we produce isn’t worth the expense of the packages," said Molder. Cal Poly ice cream is available in the Campus Store and the ice cream parlor in the University Union.

The small quantities of milk products are partially due to the age of the machinery in the plant. "Most of our equipment is about twenty years old and considered out of date in the industry," Molder noted.

"Most dairy manufacturing majors graduate from Poly and get good-paying jobs in the industry because of the work experience here in the plant," he stated. Molder has worked the past three summers in large dairy plants in Glendale and San Francisco.

Like many other practical labs on campus, the dairy plant gives students a chance to see exactly what they are studying. The difference is that the whole community sees it, as well. And the product is so good you can eat it.

Randy Ellis stacks milk cartons which are ready to be sent out to local stores.

THE ONLY THING BETTER THAN BEING
AT THE TOP OF YOUR CLASS...
IS TO BE IN A CLASS BY YOURSELF.

At Silicon Systems Incorporated, we clearly stand alone (in a class by ourselves), as the nation's #1 independent designer and manufacturer of application-specific integrated circuits. Our phenomenal growth and success is attributed to the bright, eager minds we've assembled to rocket us to our leading position.

From our new 15,000 square foot Wafer Fab facility (truly a class by itself) to our outstanding people, we offer an environment where careers are fostered and developed to maximize each employee's full potential. You are about to step out of the classroom setting, but your learning won't end there. Through our unique training program, you will be exposed to all major areas, that will enable you to have a full scope of the workings of our Company.

We will be conducting campus interviews on Wednesday, February 1, 1984. Please make arrangements with the Placement Office to schedule an appointment.

Consider Silicon Systems Incorporated, and place yourself in a Class above the rest.
Spring CAR forms available Jan. 27

CAR forms for next spring quarter will be available in the student's major department by Jan. 27. Also available at that time will be class schedules for next quarter. The deadline for these CAR forms is on Feb. 8 by 4:00 p.m. CAR forms must be turned in at the University Cashier's Office. Students who miss the deadline will be required to pay a $26 late registration fee.
Poly English major crowned Miss City San Luis Obispo

Five Cal Poly students were among the contestants in the Miss City of San Luis Obispo Pageant, with junior English major Marjorie Larson winning the right to represent the City in the upcoming Miss California Pageant. The pageant was held last Saturday night in the Cal Poly Theatre.

Larson, a Zeta Tau Alpha sorority member, will receive a $1,000 academic scholarship and a wardrobe from the San Luis Obispo City Merchants. Larson, a Zeta Tau Alpha security member, was a past cheerleader for Cal Poly's football team. Larson's goal is to utilize her English degree from Cal Poly as an editor for a publishing company.

"I feel like I'm in a dream," commented Larson shortly after being crowned the New Miss City of San Luis Obispo. Contestants competed in four categories with the talent segment of the pageant comprising 60 percent of the judges' selection. The additional categories were swimsuit, evening gown, and interview, with each constituting one-sixth of a contestant's total points.

When asked how she will spend tomorrow after winning the pageant, Larson responded: "Studying for a test on Monday.

Valerie Zissler, a speech communications major at Cal Poly, was chosen as the first runner-up and will receive a $400 scholarship. Zissler sang: "I'm the Greatest Star" from "Fun Girl." A sophomore graphic design major, Mari Monforte, was the second runner-up and will receive $300 in scholarship funds. Monforte performed a jazz dance routine for the talent segment of the pageant. Past cheerleader for Cal Poly's football team, Monforte plans to cheerlead next football season in addition to her active hobbies of weight lifting, running, and dancing.

Angela Robledo, a junior business major, plans to attend law school at USC after graduating from Cal Poly. Robledo sang two numbers from broadway musicals: "What I Did for Love" from the Broadway musical "A Chorus Line." Although currently at Costa Mesa College, Michelle Perry plans to transfer to Cal Poly as a journalism major with a broadcasting concentration. Perry, the recipient of the "Miss Con- geniality Award," performed a jazz dance routine to Michael Jackson's "Pretty Young Thing."
Second half rallies fall short as Poly wins pair
by Dave Wilcox
Sports Editor

Don’t look for the Cal Poly men’s basketball team to blow many fourth quarter leads the rest of the season. It’s not in its style. The Mustangs seem to be a much more successful team if every trip up the floor isn’t crucial.

Looking ahead to sweep to 3-0 back into the California Collegiate Athletic Association, the Mustangs build 10-point halftime leads both Friday and Saturday nights in Poly’s Main Gym and then watched each slowly evaporate. But when push came to shove—it almost always does in the CCAA—the Mustangs managed to stave off second-half rallies by Cal State Northridge and Cal State Los Angeles, winnings 66-64, and 58-40, respectively.

After the nine-point win over CSLA Saturday night, Poly head coach Ernie Wheeler commented on his team’s ability to hang onto leads.

“We have difficulty holding leads. For us to do well we have to play hard all the time.”

Against Northridge Friday night, the Mustangs were forced to play very hard the full 40 minutes, about three minutes longer than they probably expected after Craig Cleveland’s three-point play gave Poly a 60-40 advantage with just over three minutes left.

But Matador freshman Doug Young, inserted into the game by coach Pete Cancado with eight minutes left when starting guard Eric Oden fouled out, started quickly throwing in off-balanced medium-range jumpers and the Mustangs suddenly found themselves up by just two, 62-60, with 15 seconds remaining.

Mustangs forward Nate Hatten, though, calmly connected on two free throws to ice the win and nullify Young’s heroics. Hatten dropped in 10 of the Mustangs’ final points, finishing with 16 off the bench.

But Wheeler didn’t settle for a 20-30 second-half lead versus the Matadors, thanks largely to James Hlebiv’s 12 points, and extended it to 42-36 with 14:16 left. Northridge, however, after hitting 44 percent from the floor in the first half, caught fire following intermission, pumping in 16 of 25 shots, an 81 percent clip.

After the struggle, Wheeler excitedly asked “Was that some kind of war?” That it was, seeming to war of attrition, as three Matadors and two Mustangs fouled in the Poly’s Ross Bruinfield and Northridge’s Wayne Fisher also bid an early farewell, both being ejected after a second-half altercation.

Hicevians pointed the Mustangs, and Cleveland also added nine points in a substitute role.

Saturday night, Poly’s 27-11 halftime bulge was vanquished quickly in the second half.

Cold snap freezes Poly women, 58-44
by Shari Ewing

Despite the unseasonably warm weather in San Luis Obispo, things became pretty chilly Saturday night when the Mustangs dropped a 58-44 decision to Chapman.

Cal Poly shot a cold 26.5 field goal percentage, hitting only 11 of 41 attempts. The Lady Mustangs warmed up a bit in the second half, when they managed to sink seven buckets out of 21 attempts.

The Panthers, however, were hot in the first half, hitting 13 out of 23 attempts for an outstanding .56 field goal percentage.

Chapman ran out of steam in the latter half of the game, and could only manage to sink seven out of 16 shots.

The Panther offense was led by forward Melissa Pip­po, who scored 11 points. Senior forward Belinda Aterberry, despite a knee injury, came off the bench to score 13 points. Tammy Gordon also scored in double figures hitting 11 buckets.

For the Mustangs, it was again Terrie MacDonald who led the team in scoring. MacDonald has scored in excess of 20 points in the last five games and has now powered the team to a 10-point lead.

Chapman closed the Mustangs’ 10-point lead to one at 31-30, the Golden Eagles missed a chance to pull in front and the Mustangs then opened up an eight-point bulge, 41-33.

Los Angeles erupted once more to close the gap to three at 41-38, aided by Kevin Kiley’s conversion of two technical free throws after Mustang assistant coach Tony Ours voted his objections to the officiating a bit too adamantly.

The Mustangs killed any hope of a Golden Eagle rallies, though, with some steady free throw shooting near the end of the game, missing only three of 22 attempts in the second half. Senior guard Keith Wheeler was especially effective, hitting six of six from the charity stripe in the last few minutes.

Wheeler finished with 10 points and was joined in double figures by teammates James Hlebiv with 12 and Jim Van Winden’s 11. Cooper’s 12 and Kiley’s 12 led the visitors.

Next weekend the Mustangs travel south for games at Chapman College and Cal State Dominguez Hills.
MSU Mustang wrestlers can’t get untracked vs. Spartans

Cal Poly wrestling fans are going to have to face the facts and chalk this year up as a rebuilding one for the Mustangs.

Inexperience and injuries again plagued Poly as the team skidded to a 1-12 record and 144-pound loss to San Jose State, 29-9. The loss dropped the Mustangs to a 3-4 dual meet record for the season.

The fact that the Spartans have their strongest team ever didn’t help matters for Poly. Four San Jose wrestlers finished off the Mustangs tonight to improve their season record to 18-6-1. Deling led 12-4 going into the final seconds of the match but got careless as he attempted to eat a superior decision and Poly reversed him and scored on a near fall.

Mike Provenzano wrestled what Poly head coach Vaughan Hitchcock called his best match of the season in the 118-pound bout, scoring an 8-3 decision over Peres sooraleas until the third period. Peres scored a 4-1 superiority over senior Cesar Echeverri (9-11) at 118 pounds. The Mustangs reversed that with two uppers and a decision over 125-pounder Jay Skwirtz and chalk this year up as a rebuilding year for the Mustangs.

Another reason for optimism for Hitchcock is Ed Mathars, a state junior college champion from Chabot, who is expected to add stability in that weight.

The Mustangs will be in action once again Tuesday as they host the University of Nevada, Las Vegas at 7:30 p.m. in the Main Gym. Students with IDs cards will be admitted free of charge.

With the match out of reach for Poly, it made no difference academically that heavy-weight Dennis Townsend lost to Mike Monroe 5-2.

Hitchcock wasn’t happy with the way things went, though, and dwelt on something optimistic—the Mustangs’ future.

Hitchcock said he was real pleased with the freshmen tonight (McInally, Osborn and Romoer), he said. “All three are coming along beautifully. In the next few years I think they will be the studs on the team, but they are taking their losses on the way.

Romero stopped in for his older brother Danny who is recovering from a knee injury. Osborn was pressed into service at the last minute after Poly’s regular 158-pounder, John Holbrook, suffered an injury in practice.

Another reason for optimism for Hitchcock is weight. Poly head coach Vaughan Hitchcock said his best match of the season was against 125-pounder Jay Skwirtz, but got careless as he attempted to eat a superior decision and Poly reversed him and scored on a near fall.