India mourns for Ghandi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A tearful, vengeful India mourned the assassinated assassinated Gandhi on Wednesday and turned to her late father's home. The funeral of the slain prime minister's son led to the huge nation through its time of crisis.

The 66-year-old Mrs. Gandhi was cut down just seven feet away, it said, after seven bullets were fired in her Sikh bodyguards, officials reported. At least one of the two or three gunmen who escaped was killed, the reports said.

The mortally wounded prime minister, a Hindu, died five hours later, setting off a wave of anti-Sikh violence across the nation.

The blood drive was organized by Phi Phi Sorority, which has a list of people with rare blood types and blood donations. The fraternity was in charge of packaging the blood which must be kept on ice at a temperature of one to six degrees Celsius.

The blood is loaded onto trucks and taken to a laboratory where it is tested for diseases.

All the blood they take in is donated. They save five percent on heating costs. After the five-year period, the university will have the option to keep the system or have it removed. If they choose to have it removed, the investment company will get the majority of the money.

Until the system is completely deteriorate, installation presented a huge problem, but the design of the building made little progress in relieving India's deep poverty, or in overcoming its internal religious and ethnic conflicts. The funeral and cremation were scheduled for Thursday.

Indira Gandhi, daughter of India's first prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, dominated the political life of this teeming nation for two decades. She turned India into a nuclear power and strengthened its role as a Third World leader, but her government made little progress in relieving India's deep poverty, or in overcoming its internal religious and ethnic conflicts.

The funeral and cremation were scheduled for Thursday.

The funeral and cremation were scheduled for Thursday. At one point a roof leaked, it said, and some people were driven out of the building. The Indian leader was shot at 9:20 a.m. (10:50 p.m. EST Tuesday) as she emerged from her home on a tree-lined New Delhi avenue for a recorded interview with British television. The limits of faculty response

Cal Poly faculty — what’s your problem?

An assumption one has to make when entering that a university is that the faculty will take an active role in education.

But it has been proven that a faction of the majority of the faculty have refused to respond to students’ requests for educational aid.

The Mustang Daily conducted two polls last week on next week’s presidential election. One polled students. The other polled faculty.

As you point out, Mr. Davis, being a biker and as a pedestrian, So how can Mr. Davis know exactly where to walk? I pose this question as a biker and as a pedestrian. A separation to be followed by pedestrians or bikers.

As you point out, Mr. Davis, be aware of your surroundings (i.e., stuff his bike down his throat?).

But it has been proven this is a farce. A majority of the faculty have made it into a different category from Cal Poly. UCSB’s campus in this question as a bike and as a pedestrian. How so can Mr. Davis refer to pedestrians as “lame” and “mindless” when there is no true standard to be followed by pedestrians or bikers.

For you point out, Mr. Davis, be aware of your surroundings (i.e., Cal Poly is not made for bicycles and pedestrians). And the next time an “ignorant” cyclist nearly skewers me on a sidewalk, should I stuff his bike down his throat?

Biking suggestions questioned by former UCSB student biker

Editor:

This letter is in response to “Six Bike Rules to Ride and Live By” written by Mr. Rick A. Davis to the Mustang Daily on Oct. 30.

First off, this is my first quarter of master’s work here at Poly after graduating from UCSB last March. Mr. Davis made reference to the bike lanes at UCSB and feels that a similar concept be put into use on campus. I used the bike lanes at UCSB almost daily for three years and feel I am somewhat of an authority as to their utility and merit. Mr. Davis fails to mention that UCSB has no automobile traffic within the campus core, thus putting it into a different category from Cal Poly. UCSB’s campus in this question as a bike and as a pedestrian. How so can Mr. Davis refer to pedestrians as “lame” and “mindless” when there is no true standard to be followed by pedestrians or bikers.

Student gives credit to oil glut

Editor:

Let us give credit where credit is due. We do not have President Reagan to thank for our economic recovery. We have a world glut of oil that was created by the inability of a stagnant world economy to use all the oil that was being produced that forced the price of oil down, which slowed the rate of inflation, which enabled interest rates to drop allowing business to reinvest...to thank for our economic recovery. And let us not forget that the world glut of oil will diminish with time, and that with a national debt of historic proportions building our futures all hostage, it is only a tinuously — but why is there such a huge gap in involvement with the students’ education?

Maybe the education the faculty are giving is that there are people out in the “real world” who won’t care and who won’t help us out.

There have been comments that perhaps the Mustang Daily faculty poll was not scientific and therefore invalid. But Mustang Daily faculty are — we’re doing this for our education.

In response to the lack of response to the Mustang Daily poll, we have reissued the poll. Faculty, this is your chance to show that you care about our education.

Writer interprets Scripture

Editor:

In regards to James McAndrew's letter of Oct. 29, I admire Jim's religious zeal and his boldness. I have learned many things by his remarks, however. His comments are in definite opposition to Scripture. There was a giant misrepresentation concerning God's character and the power He possesses.

Did Christ ever tell men to make a choice for fellowship with Him? No. Instead He said, "No one comes to Me except the Father draws him." (John 6:44). Further, does Scripture say that people play the game of chance? No. Instead Scripture says salvation depends on God and His mercy (Romans 9:16). Finally, did Christ ever say, "It doesn't hurt to believe in God" or "It doesn't help not to believe?" No. A matter of Scripture, man is not saved by his own merit but by God. For example, Christ condemned the rich young ruler even in his false belief and in His attempt to follow God's way (Mark 10:17-21). Christ told the religious Pharisees to flee from Him because their attempts were of their own merit and not of God.

I disagree with urging people to accept Christ for God if done blindly or without understanding His devastating power because biblical men such as Paul, Peter, and Christ himself did not preach in this way. Rather, men must understand the concept of sin and what it has done to him in his relation­ship with God, and search for the wisdom of who God is and what Christ has done for man. If this were the plea, there would not be a question as to why men do not accept God. Today's evangelism is very inconsistent with Scripture.

The power of God and His loving grace are the means of man's salvation (Ephesians 2:4-9). It is absurd and unjust to tell a man to 'take a chance on God.' According to the Bible, chance is not an attribute in God's character. God ordains all things (Romans 8:28, 9:16-20).

The true evangelist encourages men to flee to Christ for repentance like John the Baptist preached or encourage men to search to find out who God really is.

Jim, I do not mean for this to be derogatory or sarcastic in any way. I am just a man under the dom­inion of God—as we all are. The Lord has staid me to comment and as a servant to Him I have done so.

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — OPEC said Wednesday it will create a temporary world oil shortage this winter to battle a downturn in prices. Analysts questioned, however, whether all cartel members would adhere to the temptation to pump more oil if price demand picks up during the heating season.

"For now it's a 'paper agreement' because it can't be tested until the oil producers are faced with turning away their oil buyers, said Walter Levy, an oil consultant in New York.

The 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Export­ing Countries agreed on the third day of an emergency meeting to cut their production ceiling by nearly 9 percent starting Thursday. The cartel said in a final com­promise that cutting overall daily production from 17.5 million barrels to 16 million barrels would be shared by 11 of the member coun­tries. Nigeria and Libya were exempted from the reduction.

Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi Oil Minister, said OPEC's projection that demand for its oil during November and December would jump to nearly 19 million barrels a day because of the usual increase in heating oil requirements during those months.

By restricting its output to 16 million barrels a day, OPEC will create a temporary shortage in the market and drive up prices, he said. "Our decision today is to create the necessary shock in order to in­crease the price faster," Yamani told a news conference after the oil ministers completed their talks in a Geneva hotel.

"We think the action will be felt in the market the minute the oil companies try to find a barrel of oil that isn't supplied as easily as before," he said.

"We are now in a position to fight back and to put the price where we want it to be," he added.

Yamani stressed, however, that the cartel did not want to drive prices higher than the official OPEC level of $26 a barrel. He said that if prices on the open market moved "much" above OPEC official level, the cartel would meet again to loosen its grip on supplies and temper the price rise.

"We are not interested in driving prices to uncontrollable levels," said Ali Khalifa Al-Sabah, the oil minister of Kuwait.

According to the Bible, chance is not an attribute in God's character. God ordains all things (Romans 9:16). Finally, did Christ ever say, "No one is saved by his own merit but by God. SEEING YOUR POTENTIAL

Just as a master diamond cutter can see the potential in an uncut stone, NEC can see the potential in the individual about to graduate from college.

Putting that belief into action has enabled us to become the third largest semiconductor manufacturer in the world. And we’re growing stronger all the time.

For the emerging graduate we offer an environment that develops new facets to your current capabilities, which will take you from the novice to a top professional in the semiconductor field.

For instance, the growth opportunities at our Roseville facility (just outside Sacramento) are exceptional. This state-of-the-art VLSI manufacturing plant will be the largest and most advanced wafer fab operation in the U.S. It will supplement our successful Mountain View, California operation as well as our Technology Center in Natick, Massachusetts. This center, with over 60 engineers is a unique institution where semiconductor technologies developed in the U.S., Japan, and Europe are combined, enhanced, and applied to the needs of the U.S. market.

We’re looking for dynamic people who respond to the challenge of putting their scholastic skills to the test. This is the opportunity to become a polished professional in the diverse world of NEC.

On Monday, November 5, NEC will be holding INTERVIEWS at the Placement Office for the following majors:

- Electrical Engineering
- Chemical Engineering
- Chemistry
- Physics
- Business/Accounting

Pumpkins are fun for needy kids

By CHRIS COUNTS
Special to the Daily

Delta Sigma Phi fraternity helped 26 underprivileged children celebrate Halloween a day early this year.

The children who live in the low-income housing project on Madonna Road, just west of Los Osos Valley Road, took part in the fraternity’s annual pumpkin carve Tuesday afternoon. The pumpkin carve is coordinated by Delta Sigma Phi and Grassroots II, a local social service.

Delta Sigma Phi President Jim Beckel said, “This is one way we can help the less fortunate have a better holiday season.”

“We’ve received a lot from this community and the pumpkin carve is one way we can put something back into it,” he said.

The children were delivered to the fraternity house in Delta Sigma Phi’s 60-year old fire engine. Returning the favor, the brothers gave the children break dancing lessons.

Jonathon Mondorf, the fraternity’s social director, enjoyed the pumpkin carve as much as the kids.

“It brings the brothers together and gets the little sisters involved,” Mondorf said. “The kids get a chance to carve some pumpkins and get into the Halloween spirit.”

Teen victim is number 15 in gang wars

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A 15-year-old girl was gunned down Monday night after fleeing against gangsters and she was killed by gang members not out of revenge, but in a random shooting, police said.

She was the 15th person killed in a wave of unprecedented gang violence since Oct. 12 and at least the 144th this year, police and sheriff's deputies said.

"This shouldn't have happened to her," said neighbor Dina Myers, 18. "She cared about practically everybody. She'd be talking to a lot of kids. She'd usually tell them they shouldn't be in it (gangs)."

The shooting Monday caught Ms. Ayala sitting on her mother's car outside their home on Washington Avenue near Campus, just a few blocks from the Los Angeles River.

Sheriff's Deputy Dave Teller said three youths approached Ernesto Arechiga, 18, Ms. Ayala's boyfriend, who was listening to his stereo on the sidewalk about 50 yards away from Ms. Ayala.

"This guy got out of a Pinto and walked towards us," Ganavos said. "He took out a gun and pointed it to my face. He said, 'Hey, sucker, give me your box.' I gave it to him."

Afterward, as they drove away, six shots were fired randomly, but the car, one of them hit Ms. Ayala.

"We were all outside of the house," said her mother, Helen Arechiga. "I saw her get hit. I ran to her."

"I saw her lying on the ground," said Ganavos. "I ran up to her. I tried to calm her down. I was talking to her. 'You're going to make it, baby.'"

Friends and family recalled that Ms. Ayala saved news clippings on street violence and urged neighborhood youngsters not to join gangs.

"She was telling people to watch out, don't dress that way and get out of the kick of it," said Mrs. Arechiga, 43.

Theater founder dies near SLO

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (AP) - Michael W. Leibert, founder of the Berkeley Repertory Theater, has died after abdominal surgery at the age of 44.

Leibert died Monday night following abdominal surgery at the Marian Medical Center in this community south of San Luis Obispo. The official cause of death was listed as renal failure, said hospital spokeswoman Cheryl Davidson.

Leibert founded the acting company 15 years ago on a shoestring, operating out of a storefront and evolving into Northern California's second-largest professional theater after the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco.

In 1980, the troupe moved into a $2 million downtown Berkeley theater.

Leibert acted in or directed productions at the Oregon Shakespeare Festival at Ashland, and the Pacific Conservatory of Performing Arts in Solvang.

In 1968, Leibert left graduate studies at the University of California to establish "The Theater" in a converted store.

Leibert is survived by his wife, Kimberly King, a former wife, Alasa McGurrin, and a son and daughter.

Good Fixx
UCSB rocks to an 80s premier group, arr

By JEFF CHACON
Special to the Daily

“Talking about stealing the show, no one would know...”

When Fixx lead singer Cy Curnin croons these words from “Deeper and Deeper,” it’s an understatement. Not only does he steal the show, he is the show. Emerging from a trap door in the floor of the stage after the rest of the band has assembled, he is the leader. Dressed in a black suit with white shirt and black tie turned up, looking very much like Count Dracula, Curnin emitted an aura of mystery.

Not that his band is a mystery, though. The Fixx has been one of Britain’s most popular exports since their arrival on the scene in 1982. With their political lyrics and emotional music, they have attracted an ever-increasing number of fans of many types, as indicated by Sunday’s concert at the UCSB Events Center.

The audience was diverse, with punks, mods and even rockers enjoying the show. And they enjoyed it. The Fixx performed many of its hits, including “Stand or Fall,” “Saved by Zero,” “Reach the Beach,” “Red Skies,” “Deeper and Deeper,” before disappearing back down into the trap door. After “Red Skies,” the band lined up, prepared to leave the stage, while the crowd yelled and screamed for more. They stopped, looked at the crowd as if to consider not leaving, the left. The crowd had obviously not had enough. They screamed...

Animal heart transplant working fine

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — Baby Fae spent her sixth week at Loma Linda University Medical Center, where the historic, controversial transplant was performed last Friday.

The mother and father have both cared for the baby. Pediatricians considering the transplant would have been better served by an experimental corrective surgery.

Questions persisted Wednesday about whether Baby Fae had been better served by an experimental corrective surgery, or her doctors said no. But their attention focused on the infant and her activities.

Boy dies as parent waits for Medi-Cal

MARYSVILLE (AP) — The parents of a 14-week-old boy who died of starvation told sheriff's deputies they were waiting for a Medi-Cal card to take their child to a doctor, according to court documents.

Dale Baldwin, 18, an unemployed cook, and Jimeise Baldwin, 18, both of Linda, have pleaded innocent in Yuba County Municipal Court to charges of murder, felony child neglect resulting in death.

Their child, Michael, was pronounced dead at a Marysville hospital Oct. 22. An autopsy indicated he died of starvation.

Judge Dennis Wethington this week ordered the Baldwins held in Yuba County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail each pending a Friday bail hearing. A preliminary hearing on the charges is scheduled Nov. 13.

Mrs. Baldwin told a sheriff's investigator she was concerned about her baby's weight loss, but didn't have a Medi-Cal card to take her child to a doctor. According to court documents, the parents wait on Medi-Cal.

The report filed in court said the Baldwins noticed in early October that the baby was "skin and bones" and talked to relatives, who suggested a change in formula and medical care. But Baldwin said he was waiting for a Medi-Cal card, the report said.
Emergency sirens go off

By SANDY DERECkTOR
Special to The Daily

San Luis Obispo residents were caught unaware when emergency test sirens accidentally sounded off Tuesday morning.

Police and county officials were inundated with phone calls from frightened residents during an annual mock emergency drill among PG&E, the Federal Emergency Management Agency and Diablo Canyon personnel.

"This mistake raises serious questions," said KVEC Operations Director Bill Benica. KVEC is the emergency broadcast station for this area. "If they (PG&E) can't get a siren to work properly for a drill, what will happen in a real emergency?"

According to Benica after the sirens sounded at 10:30 the KVEC "Ring Down Line," a direct emergency telephone line from the sheriff's office to the KVEC newsroom, was in use. At 10:50 the sheriff's office ordered the radio station to activate an E.B.S. (Emergency Broadcast System) to notify everyone that "the siren was part of a test."

"The problem with this reasoning is that the public was never informed that the sirens would be activated," said Benica. "Perhaps they didn't want to tell the public it was a mistake because they didn't want to get the public any more confused than they already were.

Sandwich Plant will be redone

By KIM MILLER

A newly remodeled Sandwich Plant will offer students more variety, less waiting time and a larger facility, but the renovations will take some time, said the Foundation executive director.

Alfred Amaral said, "We are trying to be of better service to our customers by offering more services, more effectively than those supplied by the present Sandwich Plant.

The facility will close for construction at the end of the Fall Quarter at the earliest and construction will take approximately three months, said Robert McKe, assistant to the food service director.

"The earliest it could possibly reopen would be the middle of March, or the beginning of the Spring Semester," he said.

The new $800,000 sandwich shop was originally scheduled to close for construction in October, but the Foundation is still working on design details, Amaral said.

Students will no longer have to wait in those winding lines for their peanut-butter and jelly sandwiches. When the new facility opens, it will be complete with a walk-up window and five-minute service time, he added.

"The expanded facility will enhance catering space available in the evening," Amaral said. Clubs who wish to use the space and have food catered will have that service offered to them.

"We need to do a better job of keeping up with our customers," Amaral said. The Foundation's plans for food service don't end at the Sandwich Plant.

The construction must be funded through internal sources, meaning the government will not contribute. "An Amaral could not say exactly how long the complete renovations will take.

Women snap out of fog in time to beat Fresno

Even though the Cal Poly Mustang women's volleyball team routed Cal State Fresno Tuesday night in the gym, its playing had much to be desired. In fact, head coach Mike Wilton said the women looked as though it was playing in a fog.

"They've been having tule fog over there lately, so maybe they were more comfortable here because of Tuesday's fog in San Luis Obispo," said Wilton. "I know we were in a fog on our side of the net."

Raiders not use to second place

MANHATTAN BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Los Angeles Coach Tom Flores says the Raiders don't have the luxury of dwelling on a defeat.

"Every game we play seems to be an emotional one," Flores said Wednesday, talking about the Raiders' 22-19 overtime loss Sunday to the Denver Broncos. "We had enough chances, but we just blew the game to Denver.

"It was a pretty quiet Monday around our facility," said Flores of his team's first practices after the loss. "But we don't have the time to suffer a letdown. It's over. You carry that into the next week and you lose sight of what you're trying to, which for us is to prepare for the Bears."

The Raiders, 7-2, dropped into a second-place tie with Seattle in the American Football Conference West Division, one game behind the Broncos. It's the first time since the team moved to Los Angeles that the Raiders have not been in first place in their division.

Two Soviet coaches say 'nyet' to Seoul Olympics

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet coaches have suggested that the 1988 Summer Olympics, scheduled to be held in South Korean capital of Seoul, should be moved to another location in Europe.

Writing in the government newspaper Izvestia, handball coach Anatoly Yevtushenko said Wednesday that Olympic officials should take "concrete, wise steps" to preserve the ideals of the Games.

His suggestions echoed an article published Tuesday in the sports daily Sovietsky Sport.

"The fate of the world Olympic movement now is of great concern to the public. That is why it is important today to speak aloud of what is threatening the Olympic Games," Yevtushenko said. "The time has come to take concrete, wise steps for the preservation of the Olympic ideals on earth."

Yevtushenko said the choice of Seoul for the 1988 Games was made in a "secret vote" at a September 1981 Olympics meeting in Baden-Baden, West Germany.

PIKERS

No cat. feet here. The Poly pikers were blanketed Tuesday night.
The Mustangs came out the victor against the NCAA 18th-ranked Bulldogs in three straight, but unexciting games, 16-13, 16-4 and 16-14.
"This wasn't a fun match to play and it wasn't a fun match to watch, especially as a coach," Fresno coach Leilani Overstreet said.
Poly, which maintained its No. 3 rank in the NCAA volleyball poll and rose from No. 6 to No. 4 in the Tachikara Coaches poll this week, played before a smaller than usual home crowd of 946, but managed, through sheer guts or thoughts of a victory party at Foster's Freeze, to pull through on top.
Although the Mustangs were featured in the November issue of Volleyball Monthly, as one of the best, but least recognized teams in the nation, Wilton was shaking his head after the match. "We didn't have any resolve tonight," he said.
"We just showed up and everything we talked about before the game went out the window."
Fresno's blocking proved a challenge for Poly's kill attempts, but the Bulldogs, although probably more of an opponent than expected, seemed to be at a low in their performance also. Neither team seemed as "up" for the match as they had been when Poly beat Fresno earlier in the season at Fresno, 16-17, 6-15 and 14-6.
In the second game, when the score was 11-4, senior middle hitter Terri Willis decided it was time to wrap it up. She served three aces in a row and combined with a kill by Carol Tschasar, who had the highest hitting percentage of the game, and a ball hit out by a Fresno player, the second game was won. Willis was one of two players to have three service aces for the game.
The third game began with Wilton substituting junior hitter Lynn Kessler with all-American player Ellen Bugalski, who came back playing after a brief hiatus. "Ellen came in and did a great job for being away for nine days and having only one practice this week," Wilton said.
The only real apprehension of the match came during the third game when, after an ace by Tschasar to bring the score to 14-9, the Bulldogs took advantage of Mustang shortcomings to even the score at 14-14.
Up until the third game, it seemed dinks were wasted effort for both teams—either they were blocked or dugged on both sides of the court, but Poly found the right technique in the last game as sophomore setter/hitter Vera Pendegast easily tipped one into a void of emptiness on the Bulldog court and another careful dink by Willis, which was hit out by a Fresno player, gave the Mustangs the game and match.
"We were just out to lunch mentally," said Wilson, who is looking hopefully toward Thursday's game against U.C. Irvine at Irvine.
Tschasar had one explanation as to why the Mustangs had difficulty concentrating. "Everyone was just spacing on the court. I think when we play a team like this, we play down to their level, but when we play better teams we get up and fired up."
Wilson is hoping the fog will lift and the team will be sparked to a win when it plays in one of the more competitive pools in the National Invitational Volleyball Tournament at UCLA, Friday and Saturday. The Mustangs will be up against No. 5-ranked USC and No. 14 BYU, as well as Cal State Northridge and Lamar.

Concentrating on getting the ball up is Dede Bodnar. The Mustangs will be on the road this weekend for the NIVT. Cal Poly will get a rematch against BYU at the tournament. Last week BYU upset Cal Poly in a game up in Utah.
