Jumpsuit Plant remodel needs additional $200,000

By MARC MEREDITH

The Cal Poly Foundation is going ahead with plans to remodel the Sandwich Plant, despite unforeseen cost estimates totaling about $200,000.

Dorrough, project manager on the remodel, said the additional costs are mainly for electrical, plumbing and structural revisions that were not considered in the estimates.

"We didn't realize the magnitude of the project we undertook," McKee said.

The Foundation Board of Directors controls the way Foundation funds are spent and Dorrough said the board is supporting the remodeling because it will bring the plant up to expectations.

Reporting to the ordinance. "The ordinance is directed toward students," said Vice Mayor Allen Settle.

"By Mayor Melanie Billings yesterday, but the vote was 4 to 1, with the low bid of $340,000 coming from Spiess Contracting Company of Santa Maria.

McKee said the scope and expense of the project have now been modified to bring the cost down and he expects a relief in the $200,000 range. Dorrough

The Noise ordinance of San Luis Obispo is no longer proposed - it's law.

When the smoke finally cleared at the City Council meeting Tuesday night, the Council had voted unanimously to adopt the ordinance, which will become law 30 days from the time of adoption.

The four runner-up positions were designated as princesses and will represent Poly in public relations - which she hopes to pursue as a career.

"I was going to do a co-op next quarter, but this is much better," Darrell said.

The annual pageant, held in Chumash Auditorium drew an enthusiastic crowd of nearly 400 people. Contestants in the pageant represented the various professional, fraternal and cultural clubs that will participate in Poly Royal.

Darnell is the only black woman to be chosen for the pageant since it was started in 1953.

"I hope by being the first black queen, it will give other black women the determination to feel they can succeed in anything they set out to do and not feel limited by being black," Darnell said.

"I feel now that I have a mission, not only for Cal Poly, but for minority groups in general. However, I am trying to put the fact that I am black behind me and just go with the idea that I am here to represent Poly Royal," Darrell added.

Nominated a week before the contest, Darnell said she felt rushed and at a disadvantage in preparing her speeches. Although participants were given subject questions ahead of time.

"Because I was nominated at the last minute, I felt pressured to do really well," Darnell explained. "I didn't want to embarrass my family, friends and Sigma Delta Chi.

The queen and court will tour the campus, meeting students and will visit various organizations and clubs in order to generate more interest and involvement in Poly Royal.

The queen will reign over open house next weekend.

The Cal Poly Foundation is going ahead with plans to remodel the Sandwich Plant, despite unforeseen cost estimates totaling about $200,000.

The Board of Directors, said that Food Services estimated the cost on the Sandwich Plant construction to be about $140,000. He said the lowest bid by a contractor was $120,000.

Bob McKe, project manager on the remodel, said the additional costs mainly for electrical, plumbing and structural revisions that were not considered in the estimate.

"We didn't realize the magnitude of the project we undertook," McKee said.

1985 Poly Royal Queen crowned on Tuesday

JOURNALISM major will reign over open house

By SANDRA THORNBURGH

For the first time in its history, Cal Poly will have a black Poly Royal Queen representing the 53rd annual Poly Royal and the Cal Poly campus.

Angela Darnell, a 20-year-old journalism major representing Sigma Delta Chi, Society of Professional Journalists, was chosen from 43 contestants Tuesday night for her poise, speaking ability and general appearance in answering questions about Poly Royal.

"Being a journalism major and representing SDS, I felt people really expected a lot of me," Darnell said. "I didn't go into the competition to win; I went to say what I wanted and to say it.

Contestants were asked one of seven questions pertaining to the origin, benefit and future of Poly Royal. Asked what she would do as Poly Royal Queen and why she wants to be queen, Darnell said she would not only publicize the uniqueness of the event, but also gain experience in public relations — which she hopes to pursue as a career.

"I was going to do a co-op next quarter, but this is much better," Darnell said.

The annual pageant, held in Chumash Auditorium drew an enthusiastic crowd of nearly 400 people. Contestants in the pageant represented the various professional, fraternal and cultural clubs that will participate in Poly Royal.

Darnell is the only black woman to be chosen as Poly Royal Queen since the pageant was started in 1932.

"I hope by being the first black queen, it will give other black women the determination to feel they can succeed in anything they set out to do and not feel limited by being black," Darnell said.

"I feel now that I have a mission, not only for Cal Poly, but for minority groups in general. However, I am trying to put the fact that I am black behind me and just go with the idea that I am here to represent Poly Royal," Darnell added.

Nominated a week before the contest, Darnell said she felt rushed and at a disadvantage in preparing her speeches. Although participants were given numerous questions ahead of time.

"Because I was nominated at the last minute. I felt pressured to do really well," Darnell explained. "I didn't want to embarrass my family, friends and Sigma Delta Chi.

The four runner-up positions were designated as princesses and will represent the various organizations and interest in Poly Royal. From first runner-up to forth place they are: Angela Robledo of Delta Sigma Pi; Laura Dowd of the Veterinary Science Club; Kristine Cowles of Zeta Tau Alpha; and Teri Patelski of the Cal Poly Ski Club.

The queen and her court will travel to the students at Bakersfield and will visit various organizations such as the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs in order to generate more interest and involvement in Poly Royal.

Noise ordinance becomes law

By T. WILLIAMS

By cutting down the noise in the living environment, the city council passed the noise ordinance last week.

In the ordinance, the council placed limits on the noise level to one-third of what it was before the law was changed. The noise level is limited to 75 decibels at night and 85 during the day.

The ordinance was passed after three public hearings.

The ordinance will be enforced on nightclubs, bars, and restaurants that have a liquor license. Owners must put up signs in their establishments that they are in compliance with the ordinance.

The council hopes that businesses will be more concrete in their efforts to comply with the ordinance.

Sandwich Plant remodel needs additional $200,000

By MARC MEREDYTH

The Cal Poly Foundation is going ahead with plans to remodel the Sandwich Plant, despite unforeseen cost estimates totaling about $200,000.

Dorrough said, because the entire project is being funded with Food Services profits. Like most divisions of the Foundation, Food Services makes money off of students each year and those past profits will fund the three phases of the project.

McKe said the project began in April 1982 with ideas about the need for improvements. In January 1983 architect and Cal Poly graduate Greg Wilhelm was hired to study the issues and draw up plans. Bids were submitted by four contractors in January 1983, with the low bid of $140,000 coming from Spiews Contracting Company of Santa Maria.

McKe said the scope and expense of the project have now been modified to bring the cost down and he expects a refund in the $200,000 range. Dorrough

FREEDOM QUESTIONED BY READER

Editor

We seem to have a dichotomy on our hands. Let me explain. In America we pride ourselves on our freedom of speech and freedom of the press. However, when some perceived "authoritative" figure asks us to voluntarily refuse to view pornographic movies, we have to be taken from our without as much as a whimper when some perceived "authority" figure asks us to voluntarily give up our personal freedoms for our own good.

Let me elaborate. All the recent controversy surrounding the X-rated movie shown at the Log Cabin Theatre serves as an example. This theater, which is one of the city limits, was harassed by the acting District Attorney, police and citizens, all of whom, of course, believe in freedom of all individuals. Under the protection of a vague and ambiguous search warrant to search the theater was raised, searched and fingerprinted.甚至 as well as business documents were confiscated. All this occurred even though the theater broke no county laws.

In the Friday, Feb. 6 issue of the "Theater Controversy:" Guest Artistic District Attorney Barry T. LaBarbera said that the theater violated state anti-pornography laws. This is of course ridiculous. Any city councilman from San Diego to San Francisco shows as much movies with no such harassment. LaBarbera further stated that anyway the theater shows a film his office decides violates the law another charge will be filed. I feel so free with LaBarbera has decided to interpret the law for us.

This is just one example of how eager we are to strip the freedoms of those may differ from our. For not only is the Log Cabin Theater not free to show what movies it wants to, but citizens of this country are not free to view these movies if they so desire.

We are just as guilty of giving up our personal freedoms voluntarily. Recently a friend of mine went to the Department of Motor Vehicles to get his drivers license renewed, and after the usual paperwork was completed he was asked to give his right thumb. He happened to be not a criminal and refused to be fingerprinted. The DMV refused to renew his license. Most people, he was told, just submit to the fingerprinting with no complaints. That is they voluntarily give up their right to privacy freedom. This fingerprinting was not passed through the legislature nor was it voted on by the people of this state. Why has not people voluntarily submitting? Are we so cowed by "authority" that we don't even question violations of our personal freedoms? It should be noted that a case concerning this fingerprinting by the DMV is now pending in the state Supreme Court.

It scares me to listen to this doublespeak. On one hand we speak of and value freedom, on the other hand we strip freedom of others and voluntarily give up our personal freedoms. I sincerely hope the trend toward authoritarianism stops soon, because we claim to have complete freedom while actually having none at all.

QUEEN PAGEANT CRITICIZED FOR ITS SELECTION PROCESS

Editor

Recently I attended the 1985 Poly Royal Queen's Pageant. However, a number of questions plagued me while watching the contestants give their best to the audience. Namely, why, if the pageant is to pick Poly's best representative to promote Poly Royal, are men excluded when the student body holds many fine male speakers?

Secondly, why do the executors of the pageant urge the participants to be spontaneous, then consistently choose the women who have obviously memorized their answers to the questions?

Lastly, why do some in individuals feel it necessary to attend these functions then proceed to drown out the activities with a single horn blaring incessantly?

I have thought this over and come to a solution to the distressing qualities of the Poly Royal Queen's Pageant. Maybe in order to pick the most spontaneous, witty and quick contestant, who I might add, can think on their feet, the contestants should go before the audience without knowing the questions before the fact.

Do not take this in the wrong context. I respect and admire the people who feel enough to get up and face an audience comprised mainly of their peers. They are, without a doubt, some of the best Poly has to offer. I merely think the selection process needs the improvement not the participants.

Decibel levels. The deci-meter is a scientific device used to measure noise levels in terms of decibels.

By definition a decibel is a unit for measuring the relative loudness of sounds perceptible by the human ear. Under the new ordinance, any member of the community, residential or commercial, generating noise that exceeds 55 decibels could be cited. But Eberi said the levels set are unrealistic for a college town. "A car passing by registers 60 decibels," he said.

Chief of Police Roger Neuman said that violators that exceed the limit by less than 20 decibels would just give the city documented evidence to prosecute. "The ordinance gives them documented evidence to use against student organizations," Poor said.

Mayor Melanie Billig denied the claims that the ordinance was directed at one particular group of people in the community. "It is easy to assume that one group is being singled out," she said. "We've been over backward to cooperate with the students and involve them in the process. We need to go forward with a positive attitude - patience and good will go a long way."

The ordinance will become operational March 7.

said construction should begin in May, continue through the summer, when the Sandwich Plant is closed anyway, and be completed for Fall Quarter.

The remodel will be exactly what McKee said all seating will be removed and the Dining Hall Annex will become the Sandwich Plant seating area. The vending machines will also be removed and three cash registers installed.

The present patio will be made into an indoor patio and a small sidewalk cafe will be built in the planters facing the Science Building. The new Sandwich Plant will have a walk-up window adjacent to the sidewalk cafe which will serve coffee and donuts in the morning and hot dogs and soda in the afternoon.

Dorrough said the purpose of the project is to cut customer waiting time to only five minutes and to serve a greater number of students, as well as to make needed improvements on the 25 year-old facility.

BURNT DOG RAIIO

By WENDY WALTERS-BURGER
"Okay, dancers, please take your positions. Take your positions please. Positions PLEASE!" The music and dancing begins. Then a voice calls out from within the empty theatre, "Hold that. Hold that please. PLEASE HOLD!" A few giggles erupt from the leg-tired student-dancers who remain stationary as the curtain falls — finally.

The scene above describes words which are heard throughout the course of a strenuous night of dance rehearsal before an opening show. Members of the Orchesis Dance Club, representative of all majors on the Cal Poly campus, will be performing in "Portfolio 85" tonight, Friday and Saturday in the Cal Poly Theatre.

The dance concert will feature a variety of jazz, folk, ballet, modern, and break dancing performed to music by such groups as Prince, Talking Heads, Beethoven, Spandau Ballet, Stevie Nicks and Time.

An appearance by The Pattersons, a San Luis Obispo rhythm and blues band, will mark the first time a dance has been choreographed to a live performance in "Portfolio."

All pieces are choreographed by dance members and faculty who use their imaginations to produce an assortment of creative lighting, props, dance technique and costumes for numbers such as "Welcome to the Dead Zone," A dance where "Zombies jam to the beat and let loose on each other," according to the dance program. This routine is characterized by fluorescent pink and green costumed dancers getting "funky" under strobe lights.

On the more conventional side is "Beverage — A Bow to Beethoven," a lyrical ballet danced to "Für Elise" and "In Jazz Hot," a tap-dance piece...
The program is described as "A very merry, dancing, drinking, laughing, quaffing and unthink­able time." Admission to the Orchesis Dance Club is by audition and the performances follow two quarters of intensive study. Tickets are still available and can be obtained at University Union ticket office, Boo Boo Records, the Dance Shop and Hurley's Pharmacy. The tickets are $5.50 for the public and $5 for students.

Umpire walks off, Lendl plays on

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The umpire who left the chair during Ivan Lendl's opening-round match in the $1.8 million Lipton International Players Championships will not umpire again during the two-week tennis tournament, an official said Wednesday.

Grapplers' late magic rubs off

Throughout the season, the Cal Poly men's wrestling team has relied on its heavier wrestlers to bring it from behind. The Mustangs continue the practice, but they couldn't pull off the magic Tuesday night in the Main Gym, losing to Cal State Bakersfield 27-18.

Trailing by 17 points with three matches remaining, Cal Poly won the next two matches, setting up the rematch of a bout three weeks ago.

In that earlier meet, Poly erased a 12-point deficit, winning when 190-pound heavyweight Mark Tracey decisioned a Bakersfield opponent who outweighed him by 50 pounds.

Tracey needed to pin the Roadrunner heavyweight to give the Mustangs the victory, but the heavier wrestler proved too much for him, losing 11-2.

The Mustangs trailed Bakersfield 23-6 after the middleweight wrestlers left the mat, with 177-pound Dan Romero and 190-pound Chris Comier getting points back and setting up the Tracey bout.

Poly also won at 134 pounds (Enzo Geronimo) and 142 pounds (Cesar Escudero).

Mustangs losing were: John Bream.

Bream is a good official. He said Luigi Brambilla of Pomina, Italy, will work as a linesperson instead of an umpire for the rest of the tournament.

When Lendl finally completed his victory over Larry Stefanski, there was no umpire in the chair and the score was being called by the public address announcer from the press box.

"Brambilla is a good official. He works all over the world. Every official must make snap judgments and he had a bad day. He lost control and told the supervisor that he thought he should be replaced," Farrar said.

Asked if he had ever seen a chair umpire walk out in the middle of a tennis match, Farrar said: "Never."

Lendl defeated Stefanski of Menlo Park, Calif., 6-2, 6-0 in a match that was delayed for nearly two hours before starting, then became bizarre in the final set.

First, Brambilla assessed a point penalty against Stefanski, talked with supervisor Thomas Ken Farrar, chief of supervisors for the Men's International Professional Tennis Council, also said that after investigating the unusual ending of Tuesday night's match, "there will be no disciplinary actions taken against the players."

Top-ranked Toros look to get even for earlier loss
By DAN RUTHEMEYER
Staff Writer

As the Cal Poly women's basketball team starts the second half of its conference season struggling to find its offense. Playing Cal State Dominguez Hills tonight down south, the Mustangs will try to again upset a nationally ranked team in the Toros.

In the Jan. 26 contest with Dominguez Hills, Cal Poly relied on a second half offensive surge to overcome the California Collegiate Athletic Association rival in overtime, 77-76.

In the loss, however, Dominguez was without the services of their starting center, Deadrea Johnson, who will bring her 11.9 point a game average into tonight's content. "She'll make a big difference underneath and . . . we'll have to worry about that," said coach Marilyn McNeil.

To beat the strengthened Toros again, Cal Poly must find the key to its missing offense and keep its defense playing up to par. "Playing down there, we'll have to play two good halves instead of one," said assistant coach Jill Orrock.

After tonight's game with 19th-ranked Dominguez Hills, the Mustangs will return home to take on non-conference opponent University of San Diego on Saturday.

"They are really a twin of us," said McNeil. "They play the same kind of game that we do." Bringing into the game a record of 9-11, the Toreras of San Diego are lead by three double figure scorers. Guard Mary Stanbra scores an average of 15 points a game, while forwards Debbie Theroux and Cathy O'Brien each net 11.9.

The Saturday game against San Diego will start at 7:30 p.m. in the Main Gym.

The hardest test comes after finals.
