The Cal Poly University Union bowling alley has been the subject of recent controversy concerning financial impact and the possible removal of the facility.

Bowling alley troubles studied

By JULIA PRODIS

There are serious financial problems with the bowling alley, said the ASI Executive Director who proposed last week to the University Union Advisory Board a study and review of the bowling program in the Union be made in light of the declining demand.

According to a memorandum prepared by ASI Executive Director Roger Conway, the Games Area, consisting of the bowling alley, billiards and electronic games currently is projected to bring in $110,000 of income against expenses of $106,373. As of February 1, 1985, income is at 26.8% of the $49.5% expense Conway says the biggest loss of the bowling facility would be converted into a Nautilus weight equipment area and dance studio area. The billiard tables and electronic games would not be affected.

In the event that the UUBA's study shows that students don't want the bowling alley, this area would be converted into a Nautilus weight equipment area and dance studio area. The billiard tables and electronic games would not be affected.

Nan Hagan, a member of the UUBA, said, "We need to look at this resolution closely."

Godwin was against the resolution. "I feel we should not be converting that field into a parking lot until the construction of the new .S. building starts or more research is done to encourage alternate means of transportation such as carpools, biking."

Senators at this point argued in favor of the resolution saying, "There is a definite need for parking."

No students attended the senate meeting to speak during open forum either in favor of or against the resolution.

Senators Jon Schull, who voted to appeal the decision of the Chair" Unquestionably, said Godwin, "This is a mechanism to pass the parking resolution."

"I think this is an appeal. By JULIA PRODIS

"There hasn't been anyone speaking at open forum in favor of it either," said Senator Tom Randall, who opposed the resolution.

Vote dispute at meeting

A parliamentary procedure dispute concerning the voting rights of the Student Senate Chair, marred the voting on the controversial parking resolution Wednesday night meeting.

The original vote count, 11 to 11 with one abstention, caused the parking resolution to fail because of lack of majority.

Marcia Godwin, ASI Vice President and chair of the student senate, initially voted against the resolution enacting what she considered her "right as a voting member of the student senate" according to the ASI bylaws.

Senators at this point argued in favor of Godwin, contending that according to Robert's Rules of Order, the chair can only vote in case of a tie.

The senate voted and appealed the right of the chair to vote, which led to a revote on the parking resolution itself.

Without Godwin's opposing vote, the parking resolution passed, 11 to 10 with one abstention.

"Unfortunately," said Godwin, "I think this is an appeal."

"I think this is an appeal. As a mechanism to pass the parking resolution."

Thursday morning, Godwin issued a memorandum to the ASI executive director in part, "The Vice and myself have discussed this situation and have agreed that the best course of action would be to reconsider."

"There hasn't been anyone speaking at open forum in favor of it either," said Senator Tom Randall, who opposed the resolution.

Poly pair arrested on suspicion of rape

Two Cal Poly students have been arrested on suspicion of the March 1 rape of a 21-year-old Cal Poly student, a police department spokesman said Thursday.

The incident took place in an undisclosed section of the northern part of the city, said Steve Seybold of the San Luis Obispo Police Department.

The case has no relation to the Feb. 19 rape on campus of a Cal Poly dorm resident.

Arrested on March 1 was James G. Blevins, a 23-year-old physical education major.

"There hasn't been anyone speaking at open forum in favor of it either," said Senator Tom Randall, who opposed the resolution.

Student senators approve measure to pave over field

Despite a slim margin, the ASI Student Senate passed a parking resolution at its meeting Wednesday night, the senators passed the parking resolution 11 to 10 with one abstention.

Marcia Godwin, ASI Vice President and senate chair said. "The vote was so close that President Baker will really have to look at this resolution closely."

Godwin was against the resolution. "I feel we should not be converting that field into a parking lot until the construction of the new Ag building starts or more research is done to encourage alternate means of transportation such as carpools, biking."

Senator Mark Rechel was in favor of the resolution saying, "There is a definite need for parking."

"Unfortunately," said Godwin, "I think this is an appeal."

"There hasn't been anyone speaking at open forum in favor of it either," said Senator Tom Randall, who opposed the resolution.

"I think this is an appeal. As a mechanism to pass the parking resolution."

"There hasn't been anyone speaking at open forum in favor of it either," said Senator Tom Randall, who opposed the resolution.
Opinion

Where have all the students gone?

Do Cal Poly students care what happens to this campus?

It seems apathy on campus reached a new high Wednesday night. At the weekly ASI Student Senate meeting, senators narrowly passed a resolution to convert the baseball field into a parking lot. This resolution stands to be approved by President Baker.

However, no students were present to give their views on the issue.

Twice, students were told in the Mustang Daily that the senate would have an open forum to hear both sides of the issue. Even the baseball coach was told of the upcoming vote, yet there were no students or baseball representatives at the meeting.

Now a resolution has been passed and not one student on this campus has the legal right to contest it. When trucks roll in and start to pave over the baseball field, not one member of any sports team can whine.

The senate had problems passing the resolution Wednesday. It was a very close vote. Had someone been at the meeting advocating either side of the issue, the senators might have been swayed.

How can students expect senators to represent them and their views when students don't seem to care? As a result, only 12 senators were present. (The senators were instrumental in passing something that affects all students on campus, and the sports teams in particular.)

Except for one letter, none of the editors at the Mustang Daily heard anything from students on the matter.

The problem of apathy is something that's not easily solved. Words won't make students want to be involved.

What it is going to take is for a resolution to pass through the Senate directly by the students.

Then, it will be too late. Just as it is now.

Reporter's Notebook

Power of the press discovered by Daily staff writer

Everyone reacts differently when they find out that I'm a Mustang Daily Staff Writer.

Some people get defensive and put down the press. Others are willing and expect a visit from the press, hoping they might get their names or pictures in the paper. Still others turn in to Shakespeare and try to impress me with how articulate they are.

Then there are those who are paranoid of the press. They choose their words carefully, hide their double edges, and their favorite phrase is, "No comment."

I was doing a story about a department head that was removed from her position because she wasn't an effective administrator. Doing a thorough and complete story required meeting with several top administrators, deans and the professor herself. I called one of the administrators to make an appointment to talk to him but didn't tell the secretary that I was with the Mustang Daily. She put me on hold and never came back. I called back when she answered again. I went through the same spiel, but this time she said, "I'm from the Mustang Daily. There was a long pause and then she asked, "What do you want?" All I wanted was to make an appointment. I couldn't understand why she was so defensive about it.

Eventually, she gave me the appointment, but when I showed up for it, I got the same treatment from the administrator. He told me that he wasn't hiding anything. - I didn't say he wasn't, he said it was all public information — but when I asked him why the department head was removed, he claimed up and said that was confidential. There was no sense in beating a dead horse, so I wrote the story around the miss.

I had an even harder time getting it. The secretary said he was in a meeting and when he would be out. She said he was tied up for the rest of the day. I asked if he would be free the next day. She said no. How about the day after that? No. The day after that? Oh well, then he'll be on vacation for the rest of the week. She said I was beginning to get the impression that he didn't want to talk to me.

Other people react differently to the press. For instance, when Lloyd and José found out that I was a reporter for the Mustang Daily covering the silent march in honor of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., they followed me around, gorged me with information and introduced me to other, more knowledgeable people at the event.

José gave me a novel full of textbook quotes that I could use and when asked if I might quote him in the paper he said, "Sure, that's what I'm here for.

Another example is the time I went wine tasting for a feature story and was assigned to the Poly Royal issue. I was gradually becoming aware of the influence that I had as a reporter and figured that it wouldn't hurt to let these winemakers know that I was from Mustang Daily. It didn't hurt until the next day. They were all so helpful and courteous that I was drunk by the end of the day. They filled me with a good amount of wine, one winery gave me a free bottle and they all gave me mounds of literature about their wineries to help me write the story.

The list goes on. The title Mustang Daily Staff Writer allows me access to documents and files never available to me before. It has put me in the middle of City Council meetings rubbing elbows with the mayor, chief of police and other big wigs.

I've paid my way into numerous events, presentations and lectures that normally would have to pay for.

I was beginning to feel in a destructable as a reporter and thought that I had an large amount of influence over people.

But then I had to go to court for a speeding ticket. I was doing 50 mph in a 25 mph zone and they thought I was trying to milk me for $96! I thought by taking it to court and giving the judge the old student sob story, he would at least reduce my fine, but actually I was hoping that the issuing officer wouldn't appear and the judge would dismiss the case entirely.

Of course, neither of those things happened and as a last ditch effort, I pleaded, "But your honor, I'm a reporter for the Mustang Daily." He put his pen down, panted over the his horn rimmed glasses and with a firm pound of his gavel said, "Pay the cashier outside."

So much for influence.

T Williams is a senior journalism major and Mustang Daily Staff Writer.
Speech major is Rodeo Queen

By SUSAN EDMONDSON
Staff Writer

An 18-year-old speech communication freshman swept the Cal Poly Rodeo Queen competition Wednesday night by winning the rodeo queen title and taking awards for public speaking and horsemanship.

Winning rodeo queen titles is nothing new for Chirissy Sparling—she is currently Miss California Rodeo and Wednesday night at the Madonna Inn she was crowned Cal Poly Rodeo Queen.

Four women competed in categories such as poise, personality and appearance, horsemanship, public speaking and rodeo knowledge. Carolyn Strehlow, an agricultural management senior, received the Miss Congeniality award by a vote from the other competitors.

Sparling said she's been riding horses since she was 3 years old and she has participated in rodeos since she was 7. She plans to keep busy this year by promoting the rodeo club and the rodeo team.

"I think people have misconceptions about rodeo and rodeo people," said Sparling. "A lot of people don't realize that rodeo is a collegiate sport. It's a serious thing."

For the public speaking category of the competition, the women were asked general questions such as how they plan to stay young. Sparling said that staying active is important and she plans to ride horses until she can't put her feet in the stirrups.

Sparling was also asked how she would respond to people who say that rodeo activities infringe on animal rights. "Education is the key," said Sparling. She explained that people should become familiar with the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association rule book. "Rodeo is not a cruel sport."

For the rodeo knowledge portion of the competition, the women were asked to define rodeo terms, explain rodeo rules, and name former and current rodeo champions.

The women also modeled fashions from Rusty Spur, Bridle and Saddle and Farm Supply. Sparling won a $100 gift certificate from Bridle and Saddle, a free haircut, a silver charm from the San Luis Obispo County Cowbelles and other gifts.

Sparling will represent Cal Poly at the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association Finals in Bozeman, Montana in June.

Freshman Chirissy Sparling, center, won the Cal Poly Rodeo Queen contest Wednesday night.
First in class.

Domino's Pizza has been helping students study for over twenty years. Keeping you first in class has made the number one pizza delivery company in the world. While you hit the books, we hit the pavement with delicious, made-to-order pizzas. So call us for a proper meal.

Domino's Pizza Delivera.*

One free item
Get one free item on any 16" pizza. One coupon per pizza. Expires 3/22/85

$2.00 Off
$2.00 off any 16" 2-item or more pizza. One coupon per pizza. Expires 3/22/85

Fast, Free Delivery* 77A Foothill Blvd. Phone: 544-3636

Our drivers carry less than $1000. Limited delivery areas. © 1983 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

Ted Lewis

Students interested in internships, co-ops or jobs should check out the Career Seminar sponsored by the National Agricultural Cultural Marketing Association. On Monday, February 11, NAMA will be holding the seminar in the Chumash Auditorium from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and a banquet with guest speaker, Carol Hallett, assistant to the Secretary of the Interior, from 6 to 9 p.m.

Some of the companies that will have representatives present at the NAMA Career Seminar are Calco, Central Financial Insurance, Calaveras Growers, Tennessee West, Altamont Computer, Monsson, Zocon, FMC, and Salsbury Industries. "These companies that are coming to the seminar are interested in the students at Cal Poly for employment opportunities," said Dan Block, NAMA adviser. "Most of these companies wouldn't be coming if they weren't interested in hiring someone."

Ted Lewis

Assistant to Interior Secretary to address Polycareer seminar

Ted Lewis

Students will be able to filter through the exhibits of the different companies to see what they have to offer and to talk to the representatives of the company.

"Not only will the students be able to talk to the representatives, but they can also set up interviews during the seminar," said Lisa Scanlin, Career Seminar chairman.

Some of the representatives will be staying another day so that they can interview the students that signed up for intern, co-op or job interviews with their companies, said Scanlin.

The dinner will be held at Camp San Luis in the Officers Club. Tickets for the dinner are on sale until Monday for $10.50 on the day of the drill, said Carol Hallett, guest speaker at the dinner, serves as the liaison between the 17 western state governors, state officials and concerned interest groups, and the Secretary of the Interior. From 1976 to 1982, Hallett served as a member of the California State Assembly representing San Luis Obispo, Monterey and Santa Barbara Counties.

Winter band concert Saturday

By SUSAN EDMONSON

A former trumpet soloist with the U.S. Navy Band will be the guest artist at the 19th annual Winter Band Concert on Saturday, March 9.

Accompanied by the Cal Poly Symphonic Band, Dr. Frank Scimomelli will perform on the trumpet and post horn at 8 p.m. in Chumash Auditorium. Other groups scheduled to perform include the Cal Poly Brass Quintet, the Cal Poly Sax Quartet, and the Cal Poly Percussion Ensemble, William Johnson, a member of the music faculty, will conduct.

Scimomelli was a trumpet and post horn soloist with the U.S. Navy Band in Washington D.C. for more than 25 years. A post horn is a trumpet with no valves. The player must control the notes only with his lips and breath.

Scimomelli is currently chairman of the Music Department at Prince George's Community College in Maryland.

The Symphonic Band will perform Fantasia in G by Timothy Mahr and also works by Johann Strauss, William Rhoads, Gordon Jacob and Robert Russell Bennett.

Tickets for the March 9 concert are $4.50 for adults and $2 for students. They are on sale at the University Union ticket office. Cheap Thrills in San Luis Obispo and from members of the band. Tickets may be reserved by calling 546-2556 or 546-2507.

The Winter Band Concert will help the 41 members of the Cal Poly Symphonic Band prepare for their spring tour. On March 24 the band will perform at a Western States meeting of the Music Education National Conference in Fresno. Band President Lisa Itaya explained that the conference is a music festival but bands will also compete.

The Cal Poly Symphonic Band was chosen by taped audition to perform as a guest at the conference so they will not be competing.

Fire drill helps educate students, staff

By SANDRA THORNBURGH

A mock disaster was conducted by the Health Center in coordination with the Fire Department Wednesday afternoon in the Health Center building.

At 2 p.m. a smoke bomb was set off by the fire department without prior notification of the drill in order to test response rates in the evacuation, said John Paulsen, assistant director of Public Safety. Although the Health Center, said the drill went well and that about 80 staff members, co-ops or jobs should be involved in any way we can in order to make it a productive drill," he added.

Dr. James Nash, director of the Health Center, said the drill went well and that about 80 staff members and 50 students were involved in the evacuation.

Nash said he had forgotten how loud the bell was. "I don't think a person could be full of medications and sleep through that thing. That's why we go through these things, to remind them how it is."

The purpose of a drill is to educate people about how and where to evacuate, to show staff what they have to do prior to their own evacuation and to show them where they may be deficient in a possible disaster, Paulsen explained.

"They set the bomb off in our kitchen, then the nurse called me to say that the fire department was coming out of the area so I called the public safety department and pulled the fire alarm," he explained. "Then we announced over the speakers several times that this was a fire drill and to evacuate the building. This all occurred within about 30 seconds after the bomb was set off."

Carol Hallett

sending the 29th Assembly District, including San Luis Obispo, Monterey and Santa Barbara Counties.
AIDS now connected to saliva

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP) — An elderly man showed symptoms of AIDS may be the first known case of the disease transmitted through saliva, his doctor said Thursday.

Blood tests on Donald Bauer, 72, done by the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta did not show antibodies of the suspected AIDS virus, according to Bauer's physician, Dr. Robert Ilia.

However, the CDC said it will recheck Bauer's blood using samples that showed the antibodies in a different kind of test in Los Angeles and in two tests at Stanford University Medical Center.

Bauer's wife, Mary Agnes, died last September, a week after she was diagnosed as having AIDS -- acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Mrs. Bauer, who had a blood brand and a recombinant hepatitis B surgery in 1979, was the first person believed to have gotten AIDS in the San Francisco Bay area from a transfection of blood products containing virus.

Ilia said Bauer and his wife had no known contact with other AIDS patients before the time of her death and that he could have only gotten the AIDS from her through her saliva by kissing.

A researcher in San Francisco studying families of other AIDS cases involving transfusions said that none have shown evidence of infection, even after sexual contact.

"I find it very hard to believe that saliva transmission of AIDS could happen," said Dr. Jay LaBahn, "it would be a very big surprise to me. The general rule about AIDS still sticks -- it's a very guarded disease. Bauer has not shown any signs of other disease associated with AIDS, Ilia said, but three blood tests in Los Angeles and two at Stanford -- have indicated that he might have AIDS.

"If it turns out to be the case that he got AIDS from his wife's saliva, nobody should be surprised. There was a paper printed last October in Science magazine indicating that AIDS could be carried in saliva.

Coffee may cause heart disease

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A study of sedentary, middle-age men has linked drinking more than two cups of coffee a day with higher levels of cholesterol and a protein associated with heart disease, researchers said Thursday.

The first clinical study in the United States to suggest that coffee might be related to heart disease contradicted several previous studies, while supporting European studies and a survey of 47,000 men and women reported in the February American Journal of Cardiology.

The study's results were questioned by the National Coffee Association, an organization whose 210 members import and roast about 85 percent of the nation's coffee.

Initial evaluation indicates that the study is not a significant contribution to the extensive body of literature on coffee intake and cardiovascular disease," George Bocklin, president of the association said Thursday in a statement from his New York office.

About 120 million Americans drink coffee, one of three cups of coffee a day, according to the study.

The study by the Stanford University Medical School appeared to indicate that sedentary and mildly active men, age 30 to 55, who drink more than two cups of coffee a day are at higher risk of heart disease than those who don't drink two cups or fewer daily.
Coping with a student's stress

By ROSEMARY COSTANZO

Students just aren’t students if they haven’t pulled an all-nighter.

Some students go for days in a row running on caffeine in the form of coffee or drugs such as “Vivarin” or “Xanax.”

“Most students manage time by crisis,” said Dr. Jim Aiken, of the Cal Poly Counseling Center.

Students wait until right before a project is due and then go on a 24 or 48 hour binge of caffeine and then collapse, he said.

“T here are three times during the quarter that we see a lot of students under stress: the beginning of the quarter, when they’re trying to get classes and then collapse, or when the midterm exams are due and then right before finals.

“Everybody copes with stress on this campus. Students are high-achievers. Stress and strain are a part of going to college.

But as life goes on there are more crises and the last minute approach may not work.

There are three ways that most people handle stressful situations: flight, fight, and mastery, according to Aiken.

Flight response involves the avoidance of stressful situations. Avoidance is due largely to the fear of failure. Students may avoid class, avoid studying, and isolate themselves from others.

Fight response is found in people who keep the stress bottled up for a while. They get angry, impatient and sarcastic. This hostility waiting to pop makes coping with midterm and the stresses of school difficult, Aiken said.

Mastery is perhaps the most constructive of the stress handling devices students can use. Students become more skilled and learn techniques to help them gain control of school work.

Students however can change their method of coping with stress through self-evaluation. Students can learn the stress involved in school.

There are tricks to learning. Students have to learn to look for the important concepts in a professor’s lecture, “Aiken said.

Improving reading skills is another service the center helps students with. Students can learn to pick up the rate of reading without loss of comprehension, in addition to learning to improve note taking skills, public speaking, memory and how to effectively deal with Student Enemy Number One, procrastination.

Bad habits learned at college are often magnified later on in life. “Life conspires against people who manage their time on a crisis basis,” Aiken said. “Learning to handle stress now will make the move from college to professional life a lot smoother.”
The Great Escape many students take from the pressures of being a college student: sleep.
Almost everyone ate vegetables as a kid. Some did it voluntarily, most of us had them shoved down our throats. Standard vegetables like corn and peas weren't good enough for my parents. They were kind enough to give us stuff like parsnips, which look like white carrots and taste like wet chalk, and Swiss chard, which tastes burnt even before you cook it. If that wasn't bad enough, Dad used to grow this stuff in his garden and bring it in by the bushel. You don't know what endurance is until you've had beets green every night for a month and a half.

Mom always tried to use logic to get me to eat vegetables. These are some of her favorite lines:

"Eat them, they'll put hair on your chest"—this always made me wonder why she was making my sister eat them too.

"Just try them. If you don't like them you don't have to eat them."—forget it. If they taste half as bad as they look, I'll be sick for a week.

"Eat them so you'll grow big and strong"—it's hard to take this seriously from a person who is five-foot-two.

"Go ahead. It won't hurt you,"—eure, that's what the witch said when she gave the poison apple to Snow White.

"Mom, they put color in your cheeks"—who wants green cheeks?

"Eat them or I'll feed them to you,"—this was Mom's favorite line, because she thought she could embarrass you. The trick was to let her try; as long as you didn't mind having creamed corn smeared all over your face.

"Eat them before they get cold or they'll go to your room,"—this is exactly what your mother wants.

"If you smart you'll already eaten everything on your plate, so the only thing you won't have to finish are the vegetables. And if you're really smart you've got a box of Ding Dongs stashed under your bed for emergencies like this one.

"Eat them or you'll get a spanking"—now that was one effective tactic.

Dad scrapped the persuasive tactics. He just made us sit at the table until we ate our vegetables. I think my record was two hours. Dad was smart enough to let me sit by the bathroom and spit them out. That required some fast thinking if you were planning to do anything interesting.

The oldest trick to get rid of your vegetables is to slip them to the dog. Unfortunately, Dad wouldn't let me dog in the house. And, I'll bet if they had let my dog my dog was smart enough not to touch that stuff either.

You could always get a mouthful of vegetables, then go to the bathroom and spit them out.

But who wants to even put those vegetables in their mouth at all? Yuck!! The only practical way to get out of eating vegetables when Dad was there was to find a way to smuggle them past him. The trick was to position your knife and fork in such a way that Dad couldn't see the food left on your plate. Unfortunately, Dad always came in a handy too; not for wiping your mouth, but for wrapping your vegetables in when Dad wasn't looking.

It's always a good idea to check on dinner before it gets to the table. That way you can head off a plateful of Brussels sprouts by arranging to eat a friend's house. I used to do that a lot until I went over to my friend's house to avoid beets and his mother served us liver.

I think it was a conspiracy.

Of course, you could always sabotage the dinner by hiding the vegetables you didn't like. Mom can't make us if she can't find 'em. This was always a risky endeavor. If you were caught you'd get double helpings for a week. And you had to remember to put the vegetables back after dinner. Mom doesn't like finding a can of lima beans in the dishwasher.

You can give my spinach to the garbage man.

Eugene S. Geogopoulos is a former editorial assistant for Kids Against Cabbage.

Officials worried about cloves

NEW YORK (AP) — Health authorities are becoming increasingly concerned about the safety of fragrant, clove-and-tobacco Indonesian cigarettes called kretekas, whose U.S. sales have jumped from 16 million a year in 1980 to more than 100 million last year.

Dr. Frederick Schecter, a surgeon at the University of California at Irvine, has assembled four cases in which teen-agers who smoked kretekas subsequently came down with severe pneumonia-like illnesses. Two of the teen-agers died.

"What is most appalling is that government officials, schools and parents were unaware that this had become a universal habit," said Schecter in an interview Wednesday.

On Monday, Ronald and Carole Cislaw of Huntington Beach, Calif. filed a $20 million lawsuit against a manufacturer of clove cigarettes, claiming that the cigarettes caused breathing difficulties that led to his death.

"There have been patients hospitalized after smoking clove cigarettes, but we haven't really done any studies yet to show whether there's a link between clove cigarettes and the hospitalization of these patients," said Ms. Binder.

Eugonol is on the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's GRAS list (Generally Recognized As Safe), but no one has examined eugenol's effect on the sensitive tissues in the respiratory system, said Schecter.

In spring 1984, Dr. Tee L. Guidotti, who was then professor of occupational medicine and toxicology at San Diego State University, noticed the clove cigarette fad, and worried that smoking clove cigarettes anesthetized air passages so children could learn to smoke with little irritation, "Schechter said.

Panos Georgopoulos of G.A. Georgopoulos and Co. New York, an importer of clove cigarettes, said he had no comment to make about whether the cigarettes are harmful.

"In Indonesia, they have been smoking these for 100 years," he said. "I think that last year they sold 80 billion (in Indonesia). All the information I have is that there have been no adverse effects that have surfaced in Indonesia."
Six Poly wrestlers qualify for national meet

Eagle puts golfer in front of Hertz Bay Hill Classic

On cloud nine after high finish at western meet

Des Moines — After suffering its worse meet season in more than 20 years, the Cal Poly wrestling team redeemed itself at the NCAA Western Regionals.

The Mustangs (102) finished third at the Western Regional, held at Louisiana State University (114%), and Northern Iowa (128%).

How did the Poly wrestlers feel after the finish? "We had to tie them to the beds to keep them from floating. They were on cloud nine," said Hitchcock.

The Mustangs lacked a wrestler at two weight divisions, but made up for it in tournaments with strong grapplers at other weights, said Hitchcock.

The Western Regional is one of the toughest, said Hitchcock. "If you do well in this tournament, you have a good chance of doing well nationally."

Two Mustangs — Roger Sayles and Mark Tracey were first in the regional.

Roger Sayles (above) and five teammates qualified for nationals. Sayles and Mark Tracey were first in the region.

and Region winner, pinning the No. 2 seed.

Geronimo has a shot to finish second. "If he has good intensity, he has the potential to finish nationally."

Two finished fourth — Dan Remero and Jordan Cunning — with Dan Remero receiving a wild-card spot (only the top three are guaranteed a trip to nationals). Cunning was not selected, but the No. 5 spot in his weight got the bid.

Eagle puts golfer in front of Hertz Bay Hill Classic

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — More than 100 golfers qualified once, but during the past ten years the average score dropped 14 strokes, according to the NCAA championship formula.

The Mustangs (102) finished third in the regional, behind Louisiana State University (114%) and Northern Iowa (128%).

How did the Poly golfers feel after the finish? "We had to tie them to the beds to keep them from floating. They were on cloud nine," said Hitchcock.

The Mustangs lacked a wrestler at two weight divisions, but made up for it in tournaments with strong grapplers at other weights, said Hitchcock.

The Western Regional is one of the toughest, said Hitchcock. "If you do well in this tournament, you have a good chance of doing well nationally."

Two Mustangs — Roger Sayles and five teammates qualified for nationals. Sayles and Mark Tracey were first in the regional.

Roger Sayles (above) and five teammates qualified for nationals. Sayles and Mark Tracey were first in the regional.

and Region winner, pinning the No. 2 seed.

Geronimo has a shot to finish second. "If he has good intensity, he has the potential to finish nationally."

Two finished fourth — Dan Remero and Jordan Cunning — with Dan Remero receiving a wild-card spot (only the top three are guaranteed a trip to nationals). Cunning was not selected, but the No. 5 spot in his weight got the bid.

Eagle puts golfer in front of Hertz Bay Hill Classic

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — More than 100 golfers qualified once, but during the past ten years the average score dropped 14 strokes, according to the NCAA championship formula.

The Mustangs (102) finished third in the regional, behind Louisiana State University (114%) and Northern Iowa (128%).

How did the Poly golfers feel after the finish? "We had to tie them to the beds to keep them from floating. They were on cloud nine," said Hitchcock.

The Mustangs lacked a wrestler at two weight divisions, but made up for it in tournaments with strong grapplers at other weights, said Hitchcock.

The Western Regional is one of the toughest, said Hitchcock. "If you do well in this tournament, you have a good chance of doing well nationally."

Two Mustangs — Roger Sayles and five teammates qualified for nationals. Sayles and Mark Tracey were first in the regional.

Roger Sayles (above) and five teammates qualified for nationals. Sayles and Mark Tracey were first in the regional.

and Region winner, pinning the No. 2 seed.

Geronimo has a shot to finish second. "If he has good intensity, he has the potential to finish nationally."

Two finished fourth — Dan Remero and Jordan Cunning — with Dan Remero receiving a wild-card spot (only the top three are guaranteed a trip to nationals). Cunning was not selected, but the No. 5 spot in his weight got the bid.
Gymnast looking for more records
Teams seeks to qualify nationally

The Cal Poly gymnastics team will not rest on its laurels. Despite setting a new school record last weekend, it's striving for more.

The team is looking to re-break its record, said head coach Tim Rivera. "I think we will score higher than last week, and that was a school record."

Four teams will come to Main Gym Saturday, 7 p.m. for the Cal Poly Invitational: Cal State Northridge, UC Santa Barbara, Cal Poly Pomona and Sacramento State.

Northridge and Sacramento are rated in the top-ten in the nation, said Rivera, "but they are scoring only three or four points more than us."

"This is probably the highest caliber of competition we have ever had in the gym," said Rivera.

The events will be run at the same time and the Pat Jackson dancers will perform during the invitational. "That will speed things up. There will always be something going on."

The Mustangs are currently competing with Chico State for the last qualifying team spot in the Western Region, said Rivera. "I hope to get the whole team there (nationals)."

So far, four individuals have qualified: Jana Lehman, Paige Allan, Kristy Brodeur and Lisa McAllister.

Syracuse survives close game

(A P) The top-ranked Georgetown Hoyas won easily, as expected, but No. 13 Syracuse barely survived an upset bid by Boston College in quarterfinal action Thursday of the Big East basketball tournament.

Patrick Ewing overcame first-half foul trouble to score 20 points as Georgetown opened defense of its Big East tournament title with a 93-62 rout of Connecticut.

The defending NCAA champion Hoyas, 28-2, gained a berth in Friday night's semifinals against Syracuse, which hung on to beat B.C. 70-69 in Thursday's second quarterfinal game at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Dwayne "Pearl" Washington's jump shot with 22 seconds remaining provided the Orange with their winning points and Syracuse clinched it when a last-second shot by the Eagles' Troy Bowers rolled around the rim and fell out.

At Birmingham, Ala., Buck Johnson scored 15 points, including a key basket in the last minute, to help Alabama post a 42-31 victory over Mississippi State in the quarterfinals of the Southeastern Conference tournament.

Andrew Moten converted a go-ahead three-point play with 2:06 remaining and added two crucial free throws in the final minute as Florida knocked off Kentucky 58-55 in Thursday afternoon's other quarterfinal game.

Maurice Martin scored 16 points and revved up Florida's sputtering offense late in the second half to lead the Hawks to a 52-49 victory over George Washington in the Atlantic-10 quarterfinals in Piscataway, N.J.

Julie Williams

Poly meet UC Santa Barbara three times this year. Santa Barbara won twice. Sacramento and Northridge also beat Poly this season.

The team is still improving, said Rivera and is peaking. "They are just ready. Their tricks are more refined."
Eagles reportedly sold to Miami auto dealer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eagles reportedly sold to Miami auto dealer. Leonard Tose has agreed to sell out control in previous negotiations year, but insisted on retaining debt, has been trying to sell a said Wednesday.

Tose, reportedly $42 million in Braman, a 48-year-old Penn­sylvania native, owns 16 auto dealerships in southern Florida and stated in a 1981 financial discloseure form that his net worth was $241.4 million. He has an unlisted telephone number and could not be reached for comment Wednesday.

Tose and his daughter, Susan Fletcher, who is the Eagles vice president and general counsel, were both in Miami Wednesday, reportedly closing the deal. Fletcher, reached at their hotel, said she had no comment on the latest reports.

Any deal to sell the team would need approval from 21 of the 26 NFL team owners, who will meet Monday in Phoenix. League spokesman Jim Hoffer­man said the approval process would start with a background check of any new owner, such as Tose served notice of an impen­ding sale.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle told the New York Times on Wednesday that he had heard that Tose had been "talking on and off" with Braman. "But so far," Rozelle said, "no names have been submitted to us. Once Leonard calls us and tells us what he has done, we can begin the process of in­vestigating the new ownership."

No matter who owns the Eagles, the team is required by its new stadium lease to remain in Philadelphia, according to a city spokeswoman. Tose came close to moving the Eagles to Phoenix while negotiating with Canadian businessman James Monaghan in December.

But Mayor W. Wilson Goode of Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium, which has threatened to foreclose on any new owner, once Tose agreed to stay. The team is required by a performance clause requiring the Eagles to remain in the city, said Karen Warrington, Goode's press secretary.

Braman, a native of West Chester, Pa., founded Philadelphia Pharmaceuticals and Chemicals Inc. in 1957. He is active in civic, business and Republican political affairs in southern Florida, and has close connections to the Reagan ad­ministration.

Braman was involved in an unsuccessful effort last year to buy an existing United States Football League team, the Washington Redskins, and move them to Miami. The negotiations ended when Braman withdrew his financial support, and the team subsequently moved to Orlando, Fla., to become the Renegades.

Soviets win second skate title

TOKYO (AP) — Alexander Fadeev’s powerful performance in the men’s final Thursday enabled the Soviet Union to win its second gold medal at the 1985 World Skating Championships. Brian Boitano of Sunnyvale, Calif., won the bronze behind second-place finisher Brian Orser of Canada. The victory by Fadeev, the 1984 European champion, followed the winning finish Wednesday in the pairs event by Fadeev’s countrymen Elena Vnlova and Oleg Vasilev.

Fadeev was appearing in international competition for the first time since suffering a thigh injury in December. With the exception of a momentary slip, he turned in a brilliant display of

Join the power behind the glory.
MUSTANG DAILY
FOR SALE
Center or call Pam Sheppel 546-1211
ARCO Station 396 Santa Rosa
Neighbor
Fresh Shrimp $2.00/lb. Crab and fish also
Engr position available-applications now
Tonight at
GIVEN BY MARION PIERPONT, MEMBER
LITTLE THEATRE AT 11am, Tuesday
TIAN SCIENCE LECTURE TITLED CRIMES OF
7:30PM/Ag 215. Everyone is welcome!

TAMU TRACY & CRAIG
Thanks for the Best Day ever!
A - the old boy
Balloons
CAMPUS BALLOONS AT EL CORRAL
A GREAT GIFT!

CAR DETAILING - I'll wash, wax, clean, and air all your rubber, weather, or just detailing. All for $25 for big gals. Mike 544-2584

Do something new! SEE A PLAY THIS WEEKEND!

CRIMES OF THE HEART

Campus Clubs
AAU-Amer inst aeronautical & astronautical major meeting. Sun. noon at Rono 201 for 8pm. Existing 1st Fri. Hee, CAM
Live A RELIEVER for those special TRIPS! By DR. TOMY COMPOL. Will open this week, Sat, 8 to 8, dining 9-10. Camper 2 Block. 7:30MPM to 2 215. Everyone is welcome!

MOTO-X
Pungent smell for you? Moto-X is where all the motor cross races Sun. Mar. 10 at 5AM about the campus. You know if you need it. Spectators welcome. Start time 9PM. Rono 301. Call Matt at 541-8172 for info.

WANT TO LEARN MORE?

SEARCH FOR TRUTH

STUDY OF THE BIBLE
U218, 7:00PM
You'll be surprised. Nothing a person can do. ALL WELCOME!

Announcements
A SUCCESSFUL CAREER AND FAMILY. Currently I have about 8 years of experience in the field. I have an Associate Degree and 2 years of experience in the field. Ronya Konmesky, successful woman in the business field. Why not attend our seminar at Center this week? It'll be at 8PM. Ronya Konmesky. For more information call 546-0161.

ALLEN IS INVITED TO A FREE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SEMINAR. Free lecture on God's Good Gifts!
GIVE A FRIEND A CHANCE. CHURCH OF SCIENTIFIC INQUIRY OF CENTER.
The lectures will be held at the CAL POLY LITTLE THEATER. At 7:30PM, Tuesday. Thank you.

Balloons
CAMPUS BALLOONS AT EL CORRAL
A GREAT GIFT!

CAR DETAILING - I'll wash, wax, clean, and air all your rubber, weather, or just detailing. All for $25 for big gals. Mike 544-2584

Do something new! SEE A PLAY THIS WEEKEND!

CRIMES OF THE HEART

Employment

DUAL 1275 TURNTABLE STEVE IN CAR
TURE GREAT SHAPE; $52-52.75
Sound on Wheels

For Sale

ARE YOU CAREFUL ABOUT THE QUALITY OF YOUR WATER?
Provide your family with healthful drinking water. Call Carl 541-819 for a quote.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA
LAMBDACOMMTEER NEEDED; $125 to Share Room

Events!

JAMA CAREER SEMINAR
Chumash Monday, March 11th 8pm. Banquet in the Vista Room for all incoming Majors coming to interview. Enter thru Vista Hall. Roadrunner Club.

Lost & Found

The Beatles Rugby League is looking for team members to work with kids on Sun Mar 13th 8-9AM. Contact "Step. Chub 544-6880.

Wanted

BANANA D.
SOMEONE IS THINKING ABOUT YOU (THE FOOT ENDS)

OPPORTUNITIES

FIND A JOB IN A WEEK WITH THE 250 TOP COMPANIES IN CALIFORNIA!

DOING SOMETHING NEW?

WANT TO LEARN MORE?

SEARCH FOR TRUTH

STUDY OF THE BIBLE
U218, 7:00PM
You'll be surprised. Nothing a person can do. ALL WELCOME!

Announcements
A SUCCESSFUL CAREER AND FAMILY. Currently I have about 8 years of experience in the field. I have an Associate Degree and 2 years of experience in the field. Ronya Konmesky, successful woman in the business field. Why not attend our seminar at Center this week? It'll be at 8PM. Ronya Konmesky. For more information call 546-0161.

ALLEN IS INVITED TO A FREE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SEMINAR. Free lecture on God's Good Gifts!
GIVE A FRIEND A CHANCE. CHURCH OF SCIENTIFIC INQUIRY OF CENTER.
The lectures will be held at the CAL POLY LITTLE THEATER. At 7:30PM, Tuesday. Thank you.

Balloons
CAMPUS BALLOONS AT EL CORRAL
A GREAT GIFT!

CAR DETAILING - I'll wash, wax, clean, and air all your rubber, weather, or just detailing. All for $25 for big gals. Mike 544-2584

Do something new! SEE A PLAY THIS WEEKEND!

CRIMES OF THE HEART

Employment

DUAL 1275 TURNTABLE STEVE IN CAR
TURE GREAT SHAPE; $52-52.75
Sound on Wheels

For Sale

ARE YOU CAREFUL ABOUT THE QUALITY OF YOUR WATER?
Provide your family with healthful drinking water. Call Carl 541-819 for a quote.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA
LAMBDACOMMTEER NEEDED; $125 to Share Room

Events!

JAMA CAREER SEMINAR
Chumash Monday, March 11th 8pm. Banquet in the Vista Room for all incoming Majors coming to interview. Enter thru Vista Hall. Roadrunner Club.

Lost & Found

The Beatles Rugby League is looking for team members to work with kids on Sun Mar 13th 8-9AM. Contact "Step. Chub 544-6880.

Wanted

BANANA D.
SOMEONE IS THINKING ABOUT YOU (THE FOOT ENDS)