Price of campus meals to increase 4 percent

Renovation of Sandwich Plant partly responsible

By GREGG SCHROEDER

University students can expect to pay up to four percent more for meals on campus next year, in part because of the Sandwich Plant renovation project, the Cal Poly Foundation decided Friday.

The rate hike, approved at the monthly Foundation Board of Trustees meeting, is designed to cover all projected increases in operational expenses, according to Everett Derrough, Foundation Food Service director.

The 1985-86 budget for Food Service shows an expected increase of almost $695,000, or 4 percent, over last year. Of that, more than $400,000 has been allocated for remodeling the Sandwich Plant.

With a four percent increase in food prices, Food Service expects to gross almost $7 million next year, leaving a net surplus of $83,494.

Members of the Foundation board also passed a proposal for funding the remodeling of the 24-year-old Sandwich Plant. As no funds are available from the State of California for such an undertaking, the Foundation will have to absorb the entire $430,297 project.

In response to a question posed by Student Senator Steve Dunton, Foundation Executive Director Al Amarasaid the remodelled Sandwich Plant is expected to generate sufficient funds to offset the cost of the renovation project.

According to the remodeling schedule, the Sandwich Plant will be closed in May, with a project completion date of August 20. The Sandwich Plant is expected to reopen for business during Week of Welcome, starting September 14.

The decision between ASI presidential candidates Steve Dunton and Mike Mendes is not their stance on the issues but rather their approach to solving those issues, both candidates said in an interview Saturday.

"We tend to agree on a lot of the issues," Dunton said, but "it is not necessarily a question of who do you agree with but who will do the best job." I have more experience in terms of effort and can get things done as I have proved by my actions as senator this year. I would challenge Mike to say what he has done in Senate this year.

Because none of the three presidential candidates in last week's election - Dunton, Mendes and John Carroll - received more than 50 percent of the vote, a runoff election will be held Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The runoff will take place between Dunton, who received 1,244 votes (45.9 percent) and Mendes, who received 1,110 votes (41 percent). Carroll received 355 votes (13.1 percent).

Dunton said he is more experienced in leadership positions. "It's one thing to start a task," he said, "but another to be able to motivate people. We can have the best of ideas and if I have the opportunity to motivate and generate people to perform we can have the best Student Senate ever."

Mendes said he is more apt to try and help students with problems that affect everyday life. He doesn't think the student government has utilized all the resources it could have this year and said he would like to change the framework of student government to develop a better network of communication for students.

No decathlon runners were present, however, only people concerned about their health and care of their bodies participated for the first event and evaluated the present knowledge of alcohol and alternatives to drinking.

The main difference between ASI senators-elect was the number of votes both candidates received. Dunton received 355 votes (13.1 percent) and Mendes received 354 votes (13 percent).

The eighth event, Body Composition, measured the ratio of body weight to fat by using a caliper device on an area of the skin. For women, the areas measured were the arms, thighs and shoulder blades. The men had their thighs and shoulders measured.

"For the most part, everyone was pretty lean, because of the active style they lead," said Jac­que Werth, who was one of the people in charge of the body composition event.

Dental fitness was the ninth event and evaluated the present condition of participants' gums and teeth.

Jeff Clayton, Poly's oral health program coordinator, said most students who went through the event had good brushing habits.

"Basically we find most people have good brushing habits, but they don't floss enough," Clayton said. "People only floss once a month."

The tenth event was Think and Drink, which provided a self-evaluation of participants' knowledge of alcohol and alternatives to drinking. The Think and Drink station also offered free fruit daiquiris.

"I don't know if we changed students' minds, but we broad­ened their perspective," said Todd Androvich, one of the peo­ple working the Think and Drink station.

Health Educator Pam Sheppel, who organized the Wellness Decathlon, said: "I've found people are really open to each event and their attitude is really great.

Theredotredemption

Eighty-two and a half percent of the Cal Poly student body did not vote in last week's ASI elections. Seventeen and a half percent did, however, actually find the two or three minutes required to cast a ballot.

Wow.

We bet the vote counters were flabbergasted at the monumental turnout — flabbergasted that is, because they got to go home early. We commend those who did vote, but alas, non-voters do have a chance to redeem themselves.

Since none of the ASI presidential candidates received more than 50 percent of the vote, a runoff between top vote-getters Steve Dunton and Mike Mendes will be held Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the usual locations: U.U. Plaza, Dexter lawn, Ag Circle and the Post Office kiosk.

It's interesting how the bitches and moaners always seem to outnumber the percentage of people who voted in the last election — in other words, a lot of the complainers don't vote. We feel people who do not participate in elections have no right to complain.

And frankly, the "Well, I just don't know enough about the candidates to make a decision," or the "There are not significant differences between them" excuses do not cut the proverbial mustard. The Mustang Daily has run a number of stories on the candidates and how they feel about various issues. In addition, the special elections edition of the ASI Times, also presented the views of each candidate. In fact, elsewhere in this issue of the Daily there is yet another story about Dunton and Mendes.

The ASI candidates do not have colossal disagreements among them, but their personalities and proposed methodologies are different.

Let's make the vote counters stay up late this time.

Baker add/drop, speaker policies defended by prof

Editor:
The tone of several recent Mustang Daily editorials could be characterized as anti-Baker. I am tempted to wonder if the editor might innocently be serving as a tool for those who find the maturation of Cal Poly as a university threatening.

I have thoughts on two of the recent topics receiving harsh critical comments. First, add-drop period. In my opinion there are two valid reasons for dropping a class in this time segment, computer error or a failed grade in a prerequisite course. The first class meeting will suffer for these errors. Dropping a class after the first meeting for any other reason intestovenes fellow students and faculty and ultimately adds to the cost of education. These persons lack the maturity and responsibility to be university students.

Second, the ASI president as a student commencement speaker. If tradition is to be an overriding factor, then graduation and procession should be abolished. It was not always so at Cal Poly. The commencement exercise is an academic event. As such, student political figures have no place in the program. Student participation should represent high academic achievement. I am convinced that those in attendance will be graduating summa cum laude one can be chosen who would represent all graduating students with pride and honor.

I hope the ASI will consider building an even greater Cal Poly through the high privilege that comes from influencing the minds, attitudes and values of the student readers through the Mustang Daily editorials.

Endorsement made by former ASI candidate

Editor:
The Student Body of Cal Poly is faced with a difficult and important decision. We must elect one of two very good candidates as ASI President. I encourage everyone to vote.

I would like to thank both the candidates for all the support I received in portraying what I believe was the best interest of Cal Poly. I am grateful they did not have the guts to take a stand on the issues. They supported and opposed both sides of abortion at the same time. He says that there is a coherent position one must take on the abortion issue. I would also like to thank the people who supported me in my race.

Since the election, I have had a chance to meet and speak with both of my opponents. After these meetings I have decided to support Mike Mendes in the runoff election.

Mike has a good grip on the issues facing ASI and the student body. He is personable and his communication skills are top notch. Importantly, he does not have a long list of supporters to serve before he serves you, the student. Mike impresses me as being straightforward and honest. He concerns himself with finding good creative solutions to the students' problems.

Speaker 'wissy-washy'on abortion

Editor:
This letter is in response to the article titled "Abortion Arguments Full of Fallacies" in the April 19 issue. I have no complaints about the way the article was written but rather with the statements of Tal-Scribner.

Scribner is definitely a wissy-washy, opinion-person who doesn't have the guts to take a stand on the issues. He supports and opposes both sides of abortion at the same time. He says that there is a coherent position one must take on the abortion issue. I would also like to thank the people who supported me in my race.

Editor:
Take issue with the headline "Faculty approve Add Drop Policy" in the April 18 issue of the Mustang Daily.

As far as I know the faculty in the Physics Department was never asked to approve or reject the add-drop policy. To assume that the academic senate is the voice of the faculty is not true. The real fallacy lies in his theories.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Seven former state officials have pensions that are larger than Gov.
George Deukmejian’s $49,100-year salary, the Sacramento
Union said Sunday.

The seven include 80-year-old former Gov. Edmund “Pat” Brown, a Beverly Hills attorney who receives $82,314 a year in state pension benefits.

He is the third highest pensioner among 200 former con­

Retirement System.

The governor’s salary, which has not increased since 1967 because Pat Brown’s son, former Gov. Jerry Brown, refused to take a raise, is due to climb to $85,000 in 1987.

George Bailey, a former state attorney general, would be the second biggest legislative retirement percent pension bonus because he spent more than 24 years in office.

The second highest legislative pension — $87,039 a year — is Clarence D. Alexander, a longtime Civil Rights leader of the Free Speech movement at Berkeley in the 60s.

WASHINGTOH (AP) - President Reagan's top foreign policy advisers gathered at the White House Sunday to map strategy on Nicaragua as efforts to reach a congressional compromise on aid for anti-Sandinista rebels appeared to collapse.

Sens. John Kerry, D-Mass., and Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., meanwhile, announced that Nicaraguan leader Daniel Ortega had told them his country would agree to an immediate cease-fire if the United States ended all support for anti-Sandinista rebels.

Both the House and the Senate are scheduled to vote Tuesday on Reagan's request for $14 million in aid for the Contras.

The president earlier had agreed to a compromise in which the money, requested for the Central America. But a meeting that had been scheduled with Republican and Democratic senators to discuss the Nicaragua legislation was postponed.

The acting U.S. consul-general in Hamburg, Robert E. Tynes, read a message in English to the gathering from Reagan, which said "recognition of the horrors of the past is a necessary tribute to those who were its victims." The text was broadcast live on West German television.

As he spoke slowly and clearly, a handful of Bergen-Belsen survivors now living in Israel stood around the Israeli flag, each wearing a small ribbon with the word "Remember" written on it.

Dozens of wreaths were laid around the towering stone monument in the middle of the field that marks the site of the death camp.

It was called for vigilance against totalitarianism in the future and for German atonement for the past, Kohl said.

The memorial marked the 40th anniversary of Bergen-Belsen's liberation by Allied troops.

"Reconciliation with the survivors and descendents of the dead is not an atonement, said efforts to accept our history as it really was. If we Germans acknowledge our shame and our historical responsibility, and if we perceive the need to act against any efforts aimed at undermining human freedom and dignity," Kohl said.

Historians say at least 50,000 people perished at Bergen-Belsen, described as an "inferno" when British troops liberated it on April 15, 1945. Under Adolf Hitler, the Nazis killed an estimated 6 million Jews from 1933 to 1945.

Arthur Burnus, U.S. ambassador to West Germany, told the throng that President Reagan would come to the camp early next month to "express his deep sympathy for those who survived the horrors of the past and those who did not." But he said the spirit of Reagan's stopover was a "message of preventing such human tragedy anywhere in the world ever again."

A Reagan visit to Bergen-Belsen was arranged after Jew, a retired Israeli soldier and a Bergen-Belsen survivor, told The Associated Press that the camp was one of the worse places in Nazi Germany.

Mustang bats can load the bases, but they can't outscore St. Mary's

By JANET HASEROT

While the sky never rained on the Mustang double-header Saturday, St. Mary's certainly poured.

"We're not playing real well as a team right now. We didn't get any hitting, pitching or fielding. That about sums it all up."

—Mass

Cal Poly, failing to hit with runners in scoring position, dropped two games, 5-2 and 13-9.

Assistant Coach Mark Bersano, while his team bats sat home on Saturday, said the Mustangs' batting problems seemed to stem from the team as a whole getting on base, crossing the plate in the first game was another matter.

"We left something like 20 runners on, with the bases loaded five times," said Bersano.

The runs for the Mustangs came in the fourth and fifth innings.

Monty Waltz, Rob Lambert, Mark Plyer and Pat Esposito walked in the fourth frame. With bases loaded, Mark Burdick walked, bringing Waltz home.

Cal Poly, with the bases loaded, couldn't score again in the inning.

The Mustangs were down by four in the bottom of the fifth when Mark Gambardella doubled. Rich Nelson walked and Jason Maas singled bringing Gambardella home, making the score 5-2.

Pitcher Carl Hjerpe and teammates will be on the road Tuesday and Wednesday.

Coach resigns amid steroid controversy

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Vanderbilt University strength coach E.J. "Doc" Kreis resigned Saturday after being charged March 2 in a 97-count indictment with illegally selling steroids to athletes, the school's athletic director said.

"I've accepted his resignation on the spirit that I was offered — in an attempt to do what is best for the future of our athletes and Vanderbilt athletics," Athletic Director Roy Kramer said at an afternoon news conference.

Kramer said Kreis requested a meeting with him Saturday morning and offered to step down. Kreis was not asked by the university to resign, Kramer said.

"This acceptance came with deep feeling, for Doc has made an enormous contribution to this university's athletic department and the entire Nashville community," Kramer said.

Kreis' attorney, Roger May, declined comment on his client's resignation.

Kreis, 31, had been on a paid leave of absence since January when the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation began the probe that led to the indictment against Kreis, area pharmacist M. Woody Wilson and a former employee of Wilson's.

The grand jury indictment charges that steroids provided by Wilson were illegally dispensed to students at Vanderbilt, Clemson in South Carolina and Colgate College in Hamilton, N.Y., between June 1982 and January 1985.

Kreis was charged with eight counts, Wilson with 91 and Paterson with six. Each was indicted on one count of conspiracy and illegal possession of steroids which require a prescription. The other counts involve the illegal dispensing of drugs.

Named as unindicted co-conspirators were 31 Vanderbilt football players, including 14 players on the 1985 roster; three weight lifters; one baseball player and one student trainer.

Neither batter scored again.

Pitcher Steve Snyder began the game in an erratic manner but settled down by the sixth. Please see BASEBALL, page 11.

Split knocks softball team out of first place

With four games to play, regional hopes still alive, Northridge in first

BY LYNETTE FREDDIANI

The Mustang softball team suffered a setback in its bid for a conference title Saturday, splitting a doubleheader at home with Chapman College.

Chapman swept the Mustangs 2-0 in the first game, but Cal Poly rebounded 4-1 in the nightcap.

Cal Poly garnered four hits, committing two errors in the first contest. Chapman had seven hits and played a game free of errors.

Lisa Hook slugged two hits in the Mustang offensive drive. Carmen Johns and Krista Gorman chalked one hit apiece.

Randall Hill, 20-4 for the season, was on the mound for both games.

Cal Poly, ranked sixth nationally, had been tied for first place in the California Collegiate Athletic Association with Cal State Northridge prior to Saturday's loss.

Mustang softball coach Denny Martin said, "If Cal Poly will still see post-season action."

"We should make no other mistakes in our four remaining conference games," said Martin.

"There's no reason we won't be invited to compete in regionals. We're sixth in the country. Mentally we were not prepared to do what we needed to do. We made mistakes offensively."

Martindale

Mustang Randy Hill split two made mistakes offensively, and we're better offensively than we showed in the first game."

Senior third baseman Angie Zoll disagrees. She credits the loss to Chapman's pitching ac-

"Basically," their pitcher is a junk pitcher," said Zoll. "We haven't seen a junk pitcher in a long time and couldn't hit anything solid off her."

"We took too long to adjust to her. If we would have had two more innings we would have won because we just didn't adjust quick enough."

"Once we adjusted to Chapman's pitcher," she added, "we we'll call over her in the second game."

Mustang softballers belted seven hits to Chapman's three in the second game. Shortstop Hook went 3-for-3.

Cal Poly's first score came in the second inning when Zoll hammered a home run with one runner on base. Lori Norcia repeated the feat in the third inning when she homered and put four points on the scoreboard for the Mustangs.

Chapman scored its lone run in the fourth inning on an error.

Although Cal Poly grabbed the second game, Martindale says the team's performance was' not up to par. "We never played well all day. We never did what we weren't threatening," said Martindale.

"Mentally we were not well. We had mental fatigue and were not prepared," said Martindale. "The loss was hard to accept."

The Mustangs' next contest is Tuesday at Bakersfield. Cal Poly concludes league play at home Saturday versus UC Riverside. Martindale says Cal Poly will not repeat its weak performance against Chapman.

"We learned a lesson from the second game on our other pitchers," said Berucher, 1-1, faced only 28 batters in stopping a six-game losing streak. Davis, the Cincinnati Reds' speedy center fielder, took off for the second game against St. Mary's was a bit different from the first. There were more runs for each team and more walks given away.

The Mustangs scored four runs in the first inning while St. Mary's scored six.

Neither team scored in the second, but in the third, however, the Mustangs scored four more runs, making it 9-6.

The scoring blase prevailed through the third, fourth, and fifth innings for both teams. But St. Mary's moved even further ahead as they scored three runs in the sixth and four in the seventh.

The Mustangs were only able to score once more in the seventh. Not enough to match the opposing 13 runs by St. Mary's.

Final score of game two: 13-9.

"We're not playing real well as a team right now," said left fielder Jason Maas. "We didn't get our hitting, pitching, or fielding. That about sums it all up."

"We gave up ten walks," said Berucher. "Our pitching and hitting were down and we made four errors."

"We have to combine pitching, hitting, and fielding to win a game. We're just not doing that."

The Mustangs travel to UC Riverside for Tuesday and Wednesday games, returning "home" Friday to host UC Riverside. The San Diego chicken is scheduled to be at the game in San Luis Stadium, 7:30 p.m.
