Dunin hopes to better city-campus relations

By Susan Harris

Mayoral candidate Ron Dunin said he hopes to change city-campus relations from a confrontational attitude to a cooperative one.

Dunin, a current city councilman, said he has seen a deterioration of city-campus relations in the last several years.

"The city has to realize that a third of the community are students, and that can't be ignored," said Dunin.

He said he would like to devise programs to promote good student-neighbor relations with the community.

"I'd like to greatly encourage and develop programs, specifically through clubs and the Greek houses, who could undertake projects in the community," Dunin said.

He said as an example he would like to see the ornamental shrubbery around the city, while fraternities could help paint, or do yard work.

"I'm not a newcomer. I have lived here for a long time. Last year I worked with students as a city and student liaison," Dunin said.

He said one way relations could be improved is by having an advocate appointed to the city-student public relations position, which would be gowned before taking office. Dunin complained that with student representatives graduating, their replacements come in unprepared and not knowing any councilmen.

Dunin said, "We need a constant exchange of thought to prevent problems from developing.

He said the main difference between himself and his opponent, Mayor Melanie Billig, is style. "I am an excellent listener and will respond to and value any input," he said.

An idea that has been criticized by Billig in Dunin's desire to start a kitchen cabinet to advise the mayor.

Dunin said it would be comprised of people with strong concerns and opposing views and membership would be on a strict voluntary basis.

Billig has said a kitchen cabinet should be made up of special interest groups wanting special favors.

The council is the governing body, Dunin said, and the mayor is only the chairman. "This is not to say the mayor should not be a leadership position but by suggestion rather than imposition," he said.

Downtown expansion and revitalization are needed to ensure the economic stability of San Luis Obispo, Dunin said.

"We are losing our leadership position in the community. We have to regroup by developing a stronger base downtown," Dunin said.

Dunin said his main plan was the downtown area, which has no specific directions, and is being left to chance.

"There must be more of an emphasis on the mixture of businesses in an area. There must be expansion of retail shops, not conversion of retail space to restaurants and businesses," Dunin said.

He said the economic strength of the city is also looking into purchase of lockdown devices. "There is a plan for a feasibility study, which will be done." said Dunin.

The idea is to prevent break-ins of buildings, Dunin said. "Security devises are fairly expensive initially: $50 to $100 per unit. Security devises are double locked and there are few keys issued to open the doors. Only security, fire and office personnel have keys. Custodians don't have a key, they have to come in during early office hours to clean.

All science and math computer equipment is marked "all mine," some students said, and locked down. Paras said the school has been hit with three break-ins.

"Security devises are fairly expensive initially; $50 to $100 for a lock system. We have to have good security for good education," Dunin said.

Even though everything in the school of science and mathematics is locked up, Paras said she is still afraid of breaking into the classrooms. "I don't feel 100 percent safe, not with the doors locked," she said.

In general people need to know how to lock up.

Actions taken to stop theft

By Debbie Ross

Panic ensued on campus as several computer thefts occurred.

Detective Ray Benton, working with the Counseling Center, said there was an increase in break-ins.

"The computer lab is now being watched," Benton said.

Investigator Ray Benton is working to secure equipment at the Counseling Center, which had two computers stolen during recent break-ins.

Dunin and Benton said that the computer lab is being monitored by a security system that was retrieved after the theft last week.

"Somebody wants to take it and they do it," Dunin said. "If you really want it, you'll get away with it. These measures prevent the amount of thefts," Benton said.

Before the Counseling Center break-in, about $40,000 worth of computer equipment was taken from the School of Science and Mathematics during a two-month period.

Administrative Operations Manager Pam Parsons said she knows who the office work habits broke in every other week from May to July. "We have to watch the computer equipment that is delivered," Parsons said.

"People are stealing because they can, and they find it's not stolen," Parsons said.

In the School of Science and Mathematics, a computer was stolen on April 4, and a second computer was stolen on May 18.

"There must be more of an emphasis on the mixture of businesses in an area. There must be expansion of retail shops, not conversion of retail space to restaurants and businesses," Dunin said.

The Mustang Daily editorial

Embarrassing Settle not in our best interest

Editor — I have to question one of your endorsements for City Council.

First, though your choice of Ron Dunn for mayor was a good one, Mr. Dunn has worked hard to re-represent the students.

For City Council, Gene Finzer, even though I do not know much about him, seems to be a good choice because he is a former Cal Poly student.

Another former Cal Poly student, though, was left out entirely, Ron Beare. A successful downtown businessman and long-time active in city wide political issues, deserves the students' vote.

He received much student support and was nearly elected mayor in 1983. Even before that, he has worked hard to gain student support for the City Council. Remaining students should encourage their friends to vote for him.

In short, to endorse Allen Settle, who came across the University Union Plaza forum last Thursday as all the students who were there, will not be fair to Ron Beare.

Editorial board.

Improvement money best spent elsewhere

Editor — Can someone please make those school representatives and the hundreds of dollars on what is not truly, "improvements". The Sandhills Plant is a case in point. What a bunch of changes were made. They were not even needed because the linoleum was cracked and the ice machine was old. Planning the walls never improved the food anywhere and it certainly will not lower the exorbitant prices at the Sandhills Plant.

The Foundation should do something new and different (you know, a wise investment). Donate a few hundred thousand dollars to a cause that many students would applaud. Two examples that come to mind include improving the existing weighmen or building a new one. There are no "basketball" court needs resurfacing nine years ago and the only improvements they have been was a coating of sand to increase traction.

These would be pleasant surprises from a school whose favorite pastime is paying over millions of acres of fields for parking places.

Lewis unhappy with Daily endorsements

Editor — I have always tried to avoid criticism of the Mustang Daily staff, even when I disagree with them. I think I understand that it is a learning lab for student journalists in their educational goals. But when the Mustang Daily gets a lousy grade, I get mad.

The candidate endorsements for the Mustang Daily Editorial Board made their recommendations based completely on what they had read or heard from others. The Editorial Board relied on hearsay and second hand sources in making their recommendations. When they are in such a powerful position to influence a large readership, one would think that they might make the effort to contact and meet with all the candidates.

The Council endorsements to me and many others who have talked to me, do not make sense. If the Editorial Board has supported two candidates, then they must be basically diametrically opposed on many issues.

The first candidate is one who has come under intense scrutiny by the public recently in a few months, in reference to his stand on student issues.

The reasons for the second candidate are that the Mustang Daily is weaker than the first. They support him, for his position on the noise ordinance (the one that the Mustang Daily is unconstitutional) and that as a California Supreme Court Justice, he is in a position to know. Had the Editorial Board given his homework, instead of relying on their boards, they might have found out that the noise ordinance has been upheld in the California Supreme Court and found to be constitutional.

Since when have we students not been involved with dealing with the noise ordinance and the problems that it causes? And in multier enforcement on the freeways, except on the television show (CHIPS)?

As a student I am running against one of the candidates in this City Council election. To run for public office I have worked hard and a lot of guts. I am sacrificing my time and a substantial part of my studies in an effort to help students receive a more comprehensive representation in this ci-

Poly alumni Agnew is reader's choice

Editor — On Nov. 5, election day, all of us have the opportunity to make a change in our local government. San Luis Obispo is a wonderful community that has the tools and skills and talents that qualify him to be a community leader. He needs our support in order to improve and develop our city.

Although he is not perfect, he is not being more fair to students and those who represent the largest voting bloc in the parks, the noise ordinance and lack of support for the SLO Group/Housing/Grant project could be a reason for a surprise come Tuesday night.

F A A  investigates near-miss

S A N T A  A N A, Calif. (A P ) —  A near collision between a commercial jet with 64 people aboard and a small private plane near John Wayne Airport was under investigation over the weekend by Federal Aviation Administration officials.

A Jet America MD-80 airliner was flying at 1,300 feet on its approach to the airport to land at 10:33 a.m. Thursday when an unidentified private plane crossed its path, F A A  spokeswoman Barbara Abels said Friday.

Jet America's Flight S03, which originated in Chicago with a stop in Las Vegas, came within 200 feet of the light-colored private plane, possibly a single-engine Cessna, before the pilots of both planes swerved sharply to safety, she said.

The airliner landed safely after the near miss about 4Vi miles north of the airport.

Senate approves two resolutions

By Mary Anne Talbott

Senate to approve additional funding.

The Student Senate approved two resolutions Wednesday, one that puts limits on the Children's Center reserve fund and one asking the Parking and Traffic Committee to study the feasibility of installing a bike lane on Poly View Drive.

The first resolution provides a Children's Center reserve fund policy, limiting the reserve to not less than five percent and not more than fifteen percent of its annual operating budget.

If the reserve fund goes over 15 percent, the excess money goes back into the ASI fund. If the reserve goes below five percent, the issue comes before the Senator to approve additional funding.

Right now, the reserve fund is about 22 percent of the annual budget, or seven percent over the limit set by the resolution. The immediate effect of the resolution is that $7,000 will be returned to ASI.

Roger Conway, executive director of ASI, said the resolution "sets reasonable limits" on the amount of the Children's Center reserve and insures that the center will have some reserve funding. The resolution sets the first reserve fund policy the Children's Center has had.

The Inner Perimeter Poly View Drive bike lane resolution asks that the Parking and Traffic Committee study the feasibility of installing a bike lane.

Kevin Swaifson, senator from the School of Engineering, said the resolution is an attempt to make Poly View Drive safer for bicyclists and pedestrians.

• Attended Cal Poly-1979
• Downtown businessman
• Mayor candidate in close 1983 election
• Supports:
  1) Immediate startup of Small Group Housing
  2) Investigation into the alcoholic ban in parks
  3) Study of impact of noise ordinance.

With many issues, the City Council has not worked hard enough to receive valuable student input. As a former Cal Poly student, I would listen to all viewpoints.

The Bruins played 18th-ranked Brigham Young Friday to start the tournament, and also came out ahead in a straight three-set victory. UCLA managed to up 15-13, 15-7, 15-4 without all-American setter Michelle Boyette, who is recovering from mononucleosis.

With Poly's Strand questionable and UCLA's Boyette weak, the two teams faced yet another tough challenge. The Bruins would not be felled, but Poly and UCLA each came into the finals with 20 wins and three losses on the season — something worth defending.

In front of a full house, Cal Poly did not come out fired up. The Bruins jumped out to a 13-1 lead in the first set. The Poly volleyball players threw frisbees into the crowd before the match, but UCLA's Liz Masakayan flew in from the left, right and center to overpower the Mustang defense. Poly got as close as 8-11, but lost a cold first game 15-8.

The crowd of 2,417 saw the Lady-Mustangs rise to the occasion to tie the Bruins four times in the second set. After zerosing in on the "Flyin' Masakayan," Poly's middle blocker Tschasar served six aces to start all. The Mustangs battled three more points for their only win of the match points.

"We played with a lot of confidence, but we made too many errors," UCLA's "Ace the Wiz" contest, as she rounded off the tournament with six service aces — three in each match.

UCLA's Masakayan led all the hitters with 24 kills in 53 attempts for a .302 hitting mark, while teammates Lisa Ettesvold and Lori Zeno combined for 27 more hits. Masakayan was unanimously voted the First Team All-Tournament Most Valuable Player for her outstanding efforts throughout the tournament.

The all-Tournament team boasted two Cal Poly standouts, Carol Tschasar and Lynn Kessler receiving the best in beach chairs from Volleyball Magazine in a Monthly magazine. Other all-Tournament selections were Sari Virtanen (BYU) and Ann Boyer (UCLA). In an earlier match on Saturday, BYU took third place over France in a quick 15-3, 15-7, 15-11 triumph.

A third Mustang-Bruin match will take place Nov. 27 at UCLA to start the Thanksgiving vacation off with a bang. And as Poly's middle blocker Tschasar fought the Bruins with one past beach pro Jon Stevenbank, Utah. The Mustangs couldn't hold off the Bruins for a 13-15, 15-9 UCLA romp.

After a team cheer of "Play together," Poly's efforts in the fourth and final game were worthy of a win — only the score didn't show it. The Mustangs took the lead nine to six, to have UCLA even it out at 11. Poly out of the lead nine to six, to have UCLA even it out at 11.

Poly's Ellen Bugalski should have entered the "Ace the Wiz" contest, as she rounded off the tournament with six service aces — three in each match.

The ASI will be drawing voter registration stubs in a raffle to motivate students to vote Tuesday in the San Luis Obispo city election.

Students are asked to keep the stubs proving they voted. Stub numbers will be collected in a receptacle that will be set up in the University Union.

"It's ASI's answer to the California Lottery," said Mark Reichel, raffle coordinator.

Although there's no $2 million payoff, "it's ASI's answer to the California Lottery," said Mark Reichel, raffle coordinator.

The drawing will be held Nov. 13 or 14. The deadline to enter the raffle is Nov. 8.2.

The raffle is another method so get students to the polls, Reichel said.

"It's free, but you can get all these prizes. All you have to do is vote," said Reichel.

Prizes were donated by local and campus merchants. "There'll be cash prizes and maybe a trip given by Gulliver's Travels."

The deadline to enter the raffle will be Nov. 8.2. The drawing will be held Nov. 5 or 14.

Since the beginning of the year ASI has been involved in a massive voter registration drive and has collected 2,500 to 4,000 new voter forms. The raffle is another method to get students to the polls, Reichel said.
