Proposed budget hikes yearly fees

By J.W. McPhail

Cal Poly students should expect to pay more tuition next year. A Cal Poly proposal to increase registration fees for the 1989-90 academic year, if approved by the Board of Trustees, will result in fees increases for California State University employees, this year's budget deficit and improvement of CSU programs.

The new budget for 1989-90, if approved by Gov. George Deukmejian, will raise student yearly fees to $948. Students taking more than six units will pay an extra $24 a year to offset the 3.6 percent increase. Out-of-state students will pay $270 more a year.

Steve McCarthy, CSU Chancellor's Office spokesperson, said the fee increase is reasonable. "It addresses the costs that we’re facing," he said.

McCarthy said the $948 students will pay is in minor compared to the 1989-90 CSU-proposed state contribution of $6,399 per student — up almost $700 from this year’s allowance.

"It's still a reasonably bargain," said McCarthy comparing the increase to his wife's constitutional right to abort her pregnancy.

The CSU is now the most expensive college system in the country.

ASI Controller Sean Tuite said the fee increase is "a little tough for us to raise fees," he said.

Tuite said many students do not realize that ASI fees haven't been raised since 1984.

"It's a good time for the fee hike "makes it tougher for us to raise fees," he said.

Professor establishes Poly ACLU chapter

By Anthony M. Romero

A history professor will start up a campus chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) this week.

John Snetsinger said a campus ACLU will provide an outlet for grievances concerning civil liberties and allow students to gain information about their rights as Americans.

He said the country is in the middle of going through self-evaluation and is not going to stand for the abuses that exist in the nation.

"As a historian, I think things are cyclical," Snetsinger said. "You go through periods of reform — how much worse can things like the homeless situation get before righteous people say, 'we've gone too far.'"

Snetsinger also dispelled the idea that Cal Poly students not for social reform.

"There are a lot of special interest groups that are clearly involved in progressive movements," Snetsinger said. "There is the Central American Study Group and Students for Social Responsibility. The students have a very proactive agenda."

Snetsinger said many students don't know their rights on campus concerning issues like a questionable grade or unfair treatment, and that there is a process of appeal for such grievances.

The ACLU's role in these instances would be that of a provider of such information.

Snetsinger said although the organization doesn't take a stand when it comes to human rights, it is not as bad in the McCarthy era. He said the election of George Bush as president will not be as bad as most people think.

"He's not going to be as conservative as Reagan was," Snetsinger said. "ACLU membership is up because of George Bush. There was a running joke that if Bush lost the election we

Voter turnout low in presidential election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Voter turnout for this year's presidential election declined in 48 states and the District of Columbia from four years ago, according to a study by a vote research organization.

Despite the Republican victory, GOP turnout was down sharply while Democratic turnout rose marginally, said the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate.

Overall, approximately 91.3 million Americans — roughly half of the eligible voters — cast ballots in the Nov. 8 presidential election, down from 92.7 million, or 53.1 percent of those eligible, in 1984, the study said.

Turnout was lowest in the District of Columbia, where 36.6 percent of the eligible voters cast ballots, followed by South Carolina with 38.2 percent; Georgia, 38.3 percent; Hawaii, 42.6 percent; and Alaska, 42.8 percent.

The highest turnout was in Minnesota, where 65.3 percent voted for president, followed by Wisconsin, 61.3 percent; South Dakota, 61.1 percent; and Montana and Maine, both 61.0 percent.

Nevada's turnout increased nearly 2 percentage points from four years ago to 43.4 percent while New Hampshire registered a 0.7 percentage point increase to 53.7 percent.

Since 1960, when 62.8 percent of eligible voters cast ballots, turnout has been decreasing steadily, except for a slight increase in 1984, according to the center's analysis.

Turnout of registered voters also has been steadily declining, except for an increase in 1976. This year, an estimated 70.5 percent of registered voters cast ballots in the presidential election.

Republican turnout declined in every state and the District of Columbia and dropped 5 percentage points nationally; while Democratic turnout rose 0.9 percentage points and was up in 38 states, the study said.

Here are some voter groups figures for eligible voters in states not listed previously:

- California, 44.1; New Jersey, 50.1; Washington, 48.1; Delaware, 47.0; Maryland, 46.7; New York, 46.0; New Mexico, 45.2; Alabama, 45.1; Tennessee, 44.8; 43.9; Texas, 43.6; Florida, 43.4;
Letters to the Editor

Column poorly written, edited

Editor — Steve Harmon’s comment “We are the ‘wanna-be’ generation” (Nov. 8), has got to be the most incoherent, un-interesting, un-related, poorly written, and sloppily edited. It is a case where the “wanna-be” generation is to exterminate the species. As for his “solution” of the problem rather than claiming that he was a victim of a tragic accident: Firstly, Mr. Carl did not experience a tragedy, the deer that he hit paid a slight penalty for jaywalking. A year long open season on deer is not an open season for the deer. We might all be surprised. April Karys is the editor-in-chief of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV.

The ‘wanna-be’ generation isn’t a generation, it is a restructured the arguments. I feel like a virtual audience. I have wanted to learn the art of conversation. I long for the soothing sound of people’s voices above the clink of glass and silverware. I want to imagine people this ignorant receiving a Bachelor’s Degree.

April Karys is the editor of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV. If 51 percent of Americans thought and spoke like Steve Harmon, we would have a better world.

Marcel Sedletzky
Architecture Prof.

Price deer paid exceeds $2,300

Editor — Many of us involved in the natural sciences were astounded by Timothy Carl’s Nov. 9 letter. If the animal Tim hit was our local mule deer, it couldn’t have paid a slight penalty for jaywalking. A year long open season on deer is not an open season for the deer. We might all be surprised. April Karys is the editor-in-chief of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV.

The ‘wanna-be’ generation isn’t a generation, it is a restructured the arguments. I feel like a virtual audience. I have wanted to learn the art of conversation. I long for the soothing sound of people’s voices above the clink of glass and silverware. I want to imagine people this ignorant receiving a Bachelor’s Degree.

April Karys is the editor of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV. If 51 percent of Americans thought and spoke like Steve Harmon, we would have a better world.

Marcel Sedletzky
Architecture Prof.

Deer was victim of real tragedy

Editor — In response to Tim Carl’s letter, I would like to thank Mr. Carl for his suggestion as I am sure it will verify, I listen incessantly to Pink Floyd, Led Zeppelin, the Doors and, to a lesser extent, with a 60’s or 70’s mentality, do not for the current generation of wanna-be’s, we are a generation of the misinformed and uninterested, like every generation maugred by something for the past 200 years.

Harmon rambles incessantly from ‘60s music to CIA intervention to Glennon to socialism, adding smug jokes to lighten the tone. “I’m not Marxist, (but I like Groucho).” What kind of commentary is this?

Listening ‘60s music does not mean you are idolizing the ‘60s. It means you are actually living it. And, if you hear it, will you, I listen incessantly to Pink Floyd, Led Zeppelin, the Doors and, to a lesser extent, with a 60’s or 70’s mentality, do not for the current generation of wanna-be’s, we are a generation of the misinformed and uninterested, like every generation maugred by something for the past 200 years.

Harmon’s blatherings were matched with the same lack of editing. The tale probably could have saved by back-and-slash deletion of impatient paragraphs and a rewrite of the article that refocused and restructured the arguments. I find the piece wildly incoherent, poorly written and sloppily edited.

Jim Nelson
Computer Science

A proposal for prof. evaluation

Editor — Kyle Bowers (Nov. 8) letter is the most recent among many students who have asked that student evaluations of the same type of simple answers to the teacher that you offer.

The ‘80 generation isn’t a generation, it is a restructured the arguments. I feel like a virtual audience. I have wanted to learn the art of conversation. I long for the soothing sound of people’s voices above the clink of glass and silverware. I want to imagine people this ignorant receiving a Bachelor’s Degree.

April Karys is the editor of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV.

The ‘wanna-be’ generation isn’t a generation, it is a restructured the arguments. I feel like a virtual audience. I have wanted to learn the art of conversation. I long for the soothing sound of people’s voices above the clink of glass and silverware. I want to imagine people this ignorant receiving a Bachelor’s Degree.

April Karys is the editor of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV.

The ‘wanna-be’ generation isn’t a generation, it is a restructured the arguments. I feel like a virtual audience. I have wanted to learn the art of conversation. I long for the soothing sound of people’s voices above the clink of glass and silverware. I want to imagine people this ignorant receiving a Bachelor’s Degree.

April Karys is the editor of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV.

The ‘wanna-be’ generation isn’t a generation, it is a restructured the arguments. I feel like a virtual audience. I have wanted to learn the art of conversation. I long for the soothing sound of people’s voices above the clink of glass and silverware. I want to imagine people this ignorant receiving a Bachelor’s Degree.

April Karys is the editor of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV.

The ‘wanna-be’ generation isn’t a generation, it is a restructured the arguments. I feel like a virtual audience. I have wanted to learn the art of conversation. I long for the soothing sound of people’s voices above the clink of glass and silverware. I want to imagine people this ignorant receiving a Bachelor’s Degree.

April Karys is the editor of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV.

The ‘wanna-be’ generation isn’t a generation, it is a restructured the arguments. I feel like a virtual audience. I have wanted to learn the art of conversation. I long for the soothing sound of people’s voices above the clink of glass and silverware. I want to imagine people this ignorant receiving a Bachelor’s Degree.

April Karys is the editor of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV.

The ‘wanna-be’ generation isn’t a generation, it is a restructured the arguments. I feel like a virtual audience. I have wanted to learn the art of conversation. I long for the soothing sound of people’s voices above the clink of glass and silverware. I want to imagine people this ignorant receiving a Bachelor’s Degree.

April Karys is the editor of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV.

The ‘wanna-be’ generation isn’t a generation, it is a restructured the arguments. I feel like a virtual audience. I have wanted to learn the art of conversation. I long for the soothing sound of people’s voices above the clink of glass and silverware. I want to imagine people this ignorant receiving a Bachelor’s Degree.

April Karys is the editor of the Mustang Daily and can often be found screaming at the trivia video game at Spike’s. Mustang Daily office is not a social mecca. And, above all, unrequested MTV.
Commentary

Mr. Bush faces bumpy ride ahead

By Matthew Wisbey

Demos must recover, cooperate

By Michael Welch

The 1984 presidential campaign, Walter Mondale commited a costly political faux pas. The senator from Minnesota Mondale said if elected he would never have to raise taxes. Meanwhile, his opponent Ronald Reagan said flat out he would never have to raise taxes. Theyn both are right; the entire country is convinced that raising taxes is a losing political move.

In the 1984 presidential campaign, the Democrats need to keep this in mind if they are to win back the White House. While careful not to fall into the same trap Mondale did, Mondale nonetheless couldn't escape his inclination to offer honest and realistic responses. Mondale's campaign slogan, "He'd raise taxes only as a last resort." This proclamation undoubtedly contributed to his tumble in popularity. Mr. Reagan, however, as his opponent George Bush had prudently followed in the footsteps of his predecessor President Reagan. Reagan said he wouldn't raise taxes. period.

It's plain and simple -- the American people don't want to hear talk of a tax increase. And rightly so. Nobody in his or her right capitalistic mind wants to spend hours poring over personal expenses that will be reduced or abolished by the government.

But Mondale, the candidate who is plain and simple too -- there will have to be a tax increase in order to balance the federal budget. The national deficit, at least that's what some of those with their fingers on the economic pulse of the nation demonstrated it was particularly important to Americn.
ISNA CAL POLY PRESENTS A SERIES OF DIALOGUES ON BRIDGE BUILDING BETWEEN ISLAM AND CHRISTIANITY

SECOND DIALOGUE: WOMEN IN ISLAM AND CHRISTIANITY

DR. I. BADAWI, VISITING PROF. STANFORD UNIV.
REV. E. WOMACK, UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, L.O.

WED. NOV. 16 7pm CAL POLY CHUMASH AUDIT.

REFRESHMENTS AT 6:30 PM ALL WELCOME

THANKSGIVING TURKEY SHOOT

Win A Turkey!!! Turkeys awarded hourly to top shooters

WHEN: Friday, November 18, 1988
TIME: 10:00 to 6:00 pm
WHERE: Campus Indoor Rifle Range (Next to the Aviation Hangar, near the Race Track)

Five shots for $1.50, rifles and ammunition provided.

Sponsored by the Cal Poly Rifle Club and the Mustang Battalion Army Reserve Officer Training Corps.

Calendar

Tuesday
 "Religion and Culture in South Korea," a lecture by professor Moon Ja Min Suhr, will be held at 11 a.m. in UU room 217D.
 "American Advertising Agency — A Question of Values," will be the lecture presented by Chuck Phillips, CEO of Chiat/Day corporations of Canada. The presentation will be held at 7 p.m. in Graphic Arts, room 304.
 "Managing Stress Through the Holidays," will be a class presented by the San Luis Med‑

CLU

From page 1 would make him our (ACLU) president." Snetsinger said the ACLU is characterized by highly educated people who are idealistic, trying to make society better through the preservation of liberties. He said the ACLU has a reputation of fighting liberal causes, yet notes that they are defending Oliver North. Snetsinger said even Dwight D. Eisenhower admired the ACLU’s vigilance against the abuses of the government. The initial meeting of the ACLU will be Thursday in the Agricultural Building, room 115 at 11 a.m... Snetsinger said the meeting will feature open forums concerning human rights.

Champagne Dinner

Drink to your delight!

All the champagne you can handle with any dinner.

Tuesday Nights 5:30-9:00pm must be 21 years or older

Wine Street Inn In the cellar of The Network 543-4488
Dry surfing debuts at Baja: it’s more than a video game

By J.W. McPhail
Staff Writer

What exactly is dry surfing?

“It’s right over there,” said the bartender, pointing to the corner of the tropically appointed, hangar-like room that is the Baja Bar and Restaurant. It was a little before noon and except for tables and chairs, some pin-ball machines, a fluorescent-painted VW bus and the bartender, the place was empty.

The bartender pointed down to a small yellow plastic surfboard on a strip of foam rubber. Where’s the thrill? By glancing at the picture on the television monitor above your head and squinting, you see a computer image of a wave. It’s a video game.

“Everybody says that,” said the bartender.

Wally Barnick, one of the bar’s owners, said it is a video game. He explained that instead of a joystick most games use to control the action, this one used a sensor mounted on the bottom of the board. To move the surfer’s image on the screen, players move their weight around on the board, imitating “wet” surfing moves. To rack up points, players pull off the same moves that surfers use to make points at the beach—cutbacks, off-the-lips, tube-riding and aerials among others.

Barnick, a short, stocky, non-nonsense sort of man with near-shoulder-length hair, stepped onto the board to demonstrate. The overall big “kahuna” (highest scorer), Ron Totah, had scored the most points on the game since its arrival less than a week ago.

“It’s pretty cool,” he said of the game. Totah, who works in the kitchen of the restaurant, said he doesn’t surf but is into video games.

Reluctant to give away his winning secret, Totah would only say that all games have their “little tricks.”

Barnick said “Surfer,” the game’s patented name, has packed people into Southern California bars, and he hopes to do the same here. He said he plans to build competitions around it using the bar’s big-screen TV.

“Surfer” was designed and built by a Southern California surfer/computer wiz, said Barnick.

Barnick refused to disclose the price of the system. This particular system is the only one between San Jose and Newport Beach.

Anyone can catch waves daily at the Baja, five for a quarter. No wax, wetsuit, or towel required.

At last count, there were 125 different colors and textures of paper at

1989 CALENDARS

Get yours while they last
They make great gifts!
(El Corral calendars are slightly more portable than those used by the Aztecs)

What is a SCRAMWICH?
A Scramwich is DELICIOUS!!

Scrambled Eggs, Ham, and Cheese on an English Muffin, Served Monday thru Friday from 7am until 10am

WORK FOR GENERAL ELECTRIC
ON CAMPUS INTERVIEWS NOVEMBER 16
- ETEL and ETME December Graduates
- Work with steam and gas turbines in the field

For more information contact the Placement Center.
Manning signs for $10.5 million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A tired Danny Manning signed a five-year, $10.5 million contract Saturday evening to end his holdout with the Los Angeles Clippers, then admitted he was nervous about beginning his NBA career.

"I haven't felt like this since I was a freshman getting ready to play my first game," Manning, the NBA's No. 1 draft choice, said at a press conference less than two hours before the Clipper's home opener against the Phoenix Suns. When asked if he was nervous, Manning, dressed in a Clippers warmup suit, said: "Yes, that's why my hands are in my pockets. My hands are clammy." He might have thought he was back at the University of Kansas, though, when he said: "Hopefully we can go out and play 40 minutes of good basketball for you." College games are 40 minutes long while NBA games are 48 minutes.

"I'd like to go out and have a great game tonight, but I don't think that's going to happen," the 6-foot-10 forward said.

"Coach (Gene) Shue is going to take his time and be patient with me ... and hopefully I can move along a little faster than people expect," Manning said. The Clippers and Manning's agent, Ron Grinker, negotiated by telephone Friday and agreed in principle to the contract.

Manning said he went to visit a friend in Toledo, Ohio, and didn't find out about the deal until late Friday night. He missed his flight to Cincinnati, where Grinker is based, and had to wait a few days before he could catch up with him in L.A.

The agreement was reached after the Clippers, who had reserved for NCAA championship games, were supposed to be for the United States team.

The Soviet Union changed that with an 82-76 semifinal victory that kept the United States from the gold-medal game for the first time ever. It went on to win the gold medal over Yugoslavia and put on a victory celebration usually reserved for NCAA championship games. It continued when the players arrived home.

"Basketball is No. 1 sport here," said guard Sharunas Marciulionis, the Gail Goodrich Award winner.

The last time U.S. basketball fans saw these guys, Olympic gold medals were being hung around their necks. Medals that kept the United States from the gold-medal game for the first time ever.

Soviets tour U.S.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The last time U.S. basketball fans saw these guys, Olympic gold medals were being hung around their necks. Medals that kept the United States from the gold-medal game for the first time ever.

They want to play in the NBA but can't. "The government said no," Marchulionis said. "I don't know. It's over money, and whatever I get (the) government will get most of it."

Volkov is the only one who wouldn't need the consent of a club team in the Soviet Union since he is in the Army — until early December.
I CAN'T BELIEVE YOU RAN A CLASSIFIED AD REQUESTING ME TO MAIL CHOCOLATE TO YOU IN JAIL!

Don't you know chocolate causes acne?

Sure, I do!

There's no escaping the fact that classified ads get results!

---

Mustang Daily
Tuesday, November 15, 1988
TAKE CHARGE.

Nothing matches the thrill of your first time on the bridge, looking out over the waee, to change. It's a feeling of pride, opportunity and leadership. The way you should feel about your career.

What our training can do: take the adventure as a Navy officer, a lot of good things follow. You work with top-notch men and women dedicated to achievement. Your new management skills and technical training add to the personal and professional development unique to being a Navy officer. The result is challenging work from the start with a lot of rewards along the way.

Enlisted benefits include free medical and dental care. 30 days paid vacation each year, plus six pay increments.

To be considered, you must have a BA or B.S. degree, and be a U.S. citizen. You must be no more than 30 years old and pass an aptitude test and physical examination. For further information, call Navy Management Programs at 800-252-0538.

There's no obligation. Your Navy representatives, LT3G Lynda Zeiman and LT Chris Stein will be on campus Thursday, November 17, 1988, 11am - 1pm in front of the Student Union to arrange for interviews.

NAVY OFFICER
You are Tomorrow.
You are the Navy.

Load up on carbs with potatoes

Three types lend variety to tater fixin

By Stephen Carson

Potatoes — one of the least expensive, most nutritious and possibly the most exciting vegetable there is.

Well, I guess that potatoes are not that interesting, but with a little bit of time, very little, potatoes can be so very tasty and very good.

Potatoes are rich in vitamins, minerals, calcium, carbohydrates, not to mention making, it hard to pass by at the supermarket. So don't.

The three main types of potatoes are the russets, white potatoes and red potatoes. White and red potatoes are often called new potatoes.

The new potatoes are high in sugar and low in starch whereas russets are high in starch and low in sugar. These properties make the taters better for some dishes than others.

Russets are the typical baked, hash or homefry, and french fry potato.

My mother used to make great baked potatoes, but then she started cooking them in the microwave. Originally, all she would do is preheat the oven to 450 degrees, wash the potatoes, coat them with a little oil for a crispy skin, pop them in the oven on a cookie sheet and cook them until a fork went easily through the largest potato.

Often my mother would make the extra potatoes that night, and the next morning, I would cut it up and saute it in a pan with onions, paprika, red or black pepper, and some margarine or oil, until they were nice and brown — then eat these for or with my breakfast.

I like russets the best when they are freshly deep fried. I have an electric wok, so it is easy to keep the temperature at the desired 365 degrees. If the temperature is too low, the fries will be coated with grease. If it is too high, the fries will be cooked on the outside but be raw in the middle. So either get a good thermometer or some kind of electric deep fryer before attempting to deep fry potatoes.

With the red potatoes I like to make what I call oven-baked reds. Start by washing the potatoes then cut them into 1/2 inch pieces — place them into a baking dish with the following ingredients:

- chipped onions
- chipped garlic
- black pepper
- salt
- margarine
- chipped green pepper

Now the amount of these ingredients is up to you, but I like lots of garlic and a good amount of melted margarine to cover the potatoes. Put the taters in the oven at 450 degrees for around 30 minutes or until they are tender. Make sure to turn them every once in a while so as to coat with margarine. These also make great home fries the next morning.

White potatoes are a lot like the reds, but I like to cook them as potatoes anna. For this tasty recipe start by peeling the taters, then cut about 1/4 of an inch off of the ends. Slice the potatoes with wise and fry them in an electric deep fryer until they are nice and brown then place them end to end on their sides in a baking pan that is higher than they are. Spice these as you like, then cover with chicken broth just to the top. Bake in a 350 degree oven until the liquid is gone, 45 and 30 minutes.

Potatoes can be an excellent food with fabulous flavor — serve them for breakfast, with eggs, for lunch in a salad, or for dinner with meats. Load up on these carbohydrates and eat more请。Enough of the tater talk, happy trails and good eating.

CORRECTIONS

Samuel Chuck, a 1988 UCLA, as reported in the Oct. 28 issue.

Alan Yang is not of Japanese ancestry, as reported in yesterday's Daily. He is of Korean ancestry.

Also on yesterday's sports page two photo cutlines were switched. The photo of three wrestlers should have been identified as: John Galkowski, Robert Tabarez and John Martin. Mustang Daily regrets the error.

VIDEO

2161 Broad St.
543-4993

HUNDREDS OF DIFFERENT TITLES

★ Largest Selection
★ No Deposits
★ Night Drop

$ Clip Coupons for Savings $