Fed's begin to define new law for Pell Grant students

By Neil Farrell

The government is piecing together an "enforcement package" to deal with federal law designed to remove illegal drugs from the workplace and schools, an official from the Department of Education said yesterday.

Rodger Murphy, public affairs specialist with the department in Washington, D.C., had few answers as to how the government would carry out enforcing policies established by the Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988.

The law took effect March 18 and is being applied to students receiving Pell Grants for the 1989-90 school year.

"We're working with other federal agencies to get a consistent enforcement package," Murphy said during a telephone interview.

Very soon, students in the federal government do business with the private sector, he explained, and the law applies to those students and any contracts or agreements the student signs.

Pell Grant recipients receive direct federal funds, therefore the law applies. The law does not apply to Guaranteed Student Loan recipients.

Pell Grant recipients at Cal Poly are being required to sign a certificate stating they will not be involved with controlled substances for the duration of their grants. That certificate will be placed into student files and subject to review by the department.

"The Department of Education will visit campuses," Murphy said. "We look at files to check on students. We look at whether the student is attending classes, whether Pell Grant students is being used properly and as a part of the regular program review, the certificates will be checked. It will be by just another aspect of the review."

Murphy explained there is no set schedule for reviewing, but complete review of students about the school's administration and the time frame between visits for a particular campus are reasons that could prompt a review.

The reviews are a part of the education department's regular program," he said. "That makes it a cost effective, but it causes the government for the school's administration and the time frame between visits for a particular campus are reasons that could prompt a review."

Violations of the act could result in charges filed in federal court. The position held by the violator.

"Students, faculty and administration could be charged with fraud," Murphy said. "The cases would be turned over to the Justice Department and handled as a part of the regular enforcement."

He said the scenario may not be an unreasonable one. See PELL GRANTS, page 6

Riot aftermath prompts debate

Police say 'large, ugly party' most violent in SLO

By Sharon Sherman

The lawn glistens in the sunlight and the walkways softly crunch as people walk through.

No, this is not some remote path campus. It is the main roadway of a party turnover at Cedar Creek Village condominiums late Saturday.

Broken glass, trash dumpsters overturned, condominum doors covered with dings from them in the impact of a baton, broken car and construction workers and walking way lights are just some of the destruction at the 75 Stenner St. complex.

A party on the main pathway at Cedar Creek turned into a rock-and-bottle throwing event shortly after the San Luis Obispo Fire Department responded to a standard structural fire alarm call there at about 10:45 Satur- day night.

"It's really uncharacteristic of Poly Royal," said Capt. Gary Hagerty, whose engine responded to the call. "I haven't seen a house party like that before."

Capt. Cliff Chelquist of the San Luis Obispo Police Department said he has seen bigger parties during his 19 years with the department, but this was violent.

"It was a large, ugly party," Chelquist said.

About 50 police officers from departments throughout the area were sent to help Chelquist. It took about two hours to clear the scene.

Citations were issued to six people, three from San Luis Obispo, three from out of area. About six or seven people were treated and released at Sierra Vista hospital.

The amount of force used by the police in clearing the party has been a source of debate.

"It's not a controversy in my mind," Hagerty said. "We were called there, we didn't just go out there." Hagerty said many of the false rumors are the result of those in attendance not actually seeing what happened.

"Those kids were not aware of what was going on everywhere," Hagerty said. "They were not able to see everything."

Residents at Cedar Creek who were canvassing the evening's activities generally agreed.

Freshman business major Jeff Miller said, "The cops did everything they could to control it. People were blasting the cops on the news, but they were just trying to do their job."

"One bottle gets thrown and then another and then they're getting showered."

Home Economics junior Sharris Owen, whose window was broken during the party, said, "They were just doing their job. It would have been very easy for the people to go around."

"Police probably would have done the same thing," Senior government major Vic Vasini felt the action taken by the police was inappropriate. "I think the cops abused their power, making a big deal out of nothing." See RIOT, page 6

ASI groups get raise under new budget

By Cas Casfield

Most ASI groups will be given a 20 percent increase in funding next year, according to the 1988-89 ASI budget introduced Wednesday at the Student Senate meeting.

The ASI Finance Committee put the increase into the budget to compensate for the 20 percent cut in subsidy these groups incurred during the 1987-88 year, said ASI Controller Sean Tuite.

Groups that had to cut a two years ago because of rising insurance costs, but according to Tuite, insurance costs have been brought under control this year.

However, in two years these groups may not be so lucky. Insurance, operational, and other mandated costs will probably tighten the budget and not allow for any money to be given back to groups, he said.

This is kind of a one year deal," said Tuite.

The groups that did not receive an increase were those groups that have received an overall in- crease in the past two years and groups that did not demonstrate a need, said Tuite.

The Rally Committee and Television Programming will not receive any funding next year because they did not submit a budget and have been inactive according to ASI, said Tuite.

The Finance Committee did give the Films Committee a need, said Tuite.

The Finance Committee did give the Films Committee a need, said Tuite.

The Finance Committee did give the Films Committee a need, said Tuite.

The Finance Committee did give the Films Committee a need, said Tuite.

The Finance Committee did give the Films Committee a need, said Tuite.

The Finance Committee did give the Films Committee a need, said Tuite.

The Finance Committee did give the Films Committee a need, said Tuite.
Editorial

Drug law contains holes

Pell Grant recipients — about 3,000 Cal Poly students — find themselves the latest target in the war on drugs.

Passage of the federal Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988 requires grant recipients to certify they will not make, sell, hold or use "a controlled substance" while receiving the grant. If convicted of a drug offense, the recipient can be charged with fraud for the misuse of federal funds.

Moral question aside, the law contains too many gray areas to be considered enforceable. The federal government does not provide any money, manpower or guidelines to university financial aid offices, the designated watchdogs.

If the money is to be from a dried-up supply of university funds, then universities will likely raise fees. Pell Grants, therefore, will be worth less.

Enforcement of the law presents a dilemma. Law enforcement agencies have not been directed to report arrests to financial aid offices. Courts have not been told to report convictions. Students have not been told to submit to drug testing. Cal Poly's Financial Aid Office sidestepped the problem by saying it has no time to patrol students, so it will trust them, thereby proving the law is unenforceable.

Perhaps the largest hole in the law is the lack of guidelines. Financial aid offices have not been told what constitutes a controlled substance or misuse of such. The Department of Education says alcohol and cigarettes are not considered controlled substances because they are legal. Does that mean students convicted of drunken driving are less guilty of fraud?

We believe in a drug-free university, but this law will not make it so. It merely pays lip service to a serious problem. With such weapons as this law, we are losing the war.

Letters to the Editor

Piglet deaths are result of neglect

Editor — I was quite disappointed at the apparent lack of concern shown at the Swine Unit over Poly Royal weekend. During my running workouts, which include the "pig loop" several times a week, I have recently noticed several opportunities to observe the sow and new piglets in the swine maternity barn.

Each time I have stopped by, there has been someone, either a faculty member or student, also attending the pigs.

However, when several friends and I ran by on Saturday during a time that was scheduled as "swine showmanship," we were distressed to see that a sow was giving birth to her piglets and that she had already killed two of them by inadvertently falling her 500-plus pounds onto the one-pound piglets. No one was there to assist. It was an unfortunate sight that was also witnessed by several visitors and the public relations office.

My friends and I postponed our workout to search the nearby buildings and arena areas for someone to assist, but to no avail. We also discovered that there was no phone listing for the Swine Unit and no operators to answer the switchboard.

I hope that this type of neglect will be prevented in the future — particularly at times when it will affect the impressions of visitors and the public relations of Cal Poly.

Kim McGrew

BLOOM COUNTY

by Berke Breathed

Reporters' Notebook

Macabre magnetizes millions

Horror is mass culture in America. Our fear of death and our fascination with blood and guts is seen everywhere in society. Especially at the box-office.

The film industry has known for some time that there is no better place to be scared than in the dark. Horror movies "grossed" over $200 million in 1987.

What is it about these thrillers that keeps us coming back for more? Perhaps it is the magnetism of the macabre. Perhaps people just like seeing people getting eaten, slashed and ripped apart. Horror movies are a part of growing up. Fear is fun.

Clive Barker, a British novelist and director of "Hellraiser I and II," makes his living by scaring people. He writes about "fear for the thrill of it, for the chill of it. Fear as pleasure."

But blood alone is not enough. "Rambo" had plenty of blood but was not classified as "scary." Black-and-white movies werework anymore either. We've come a long way from the shower scene of "Psycho."

Now it seems only color can quench our visual thirst for blood.

But movies focusing on nature unleashed need not be excessively gory. Neither "The Birds" nor "Jaws" was overly graphic by today's standards. They didn't have to be. It seems graphic gore is most appropriate when the focus of our fear is the horror man, the fear of ourselves. Without blood and guts, Freddy Kruger and Jason Voorhees would just be a couple of unsightly fellows who don't date a lot.

Freddy opened new gates to horror. Nightmares explain everything. He makes it real, almost. He's a regular hero of horror. Now he's a TV star.

If the money is to be wrung from a dried-up supply of university funds, there has been someone, either a faculty member or student, also attending the pigs.

Without blood and guts, Freddy Kruger doesn't have to be. It seems graphic gore is most appropriate when the focus of our fear is the horror man, the fear of ourselves. Without blood and guts, Freddy Kruger and Jason Voorhees would just be a couple of unsightly fellows who don’t date a lot.

Freddy opened new gates to horror. Nightmares explain everything. He makes it real, almost. He’s a regular hero of horror. Now he’s a TV star.

Then there are horror films with little substance. Troms Films Inc. made five movies and a $3 million profit last year. They brought us sorority slice 'n' dice favorites like "Bloodsucking Freaks" and "Class of Nuke 'Em High."

Low budgets, big profits. The secret? Video. People won't buy it, but they will rent it.

Some horror flicks are downright grim. William Friedkin’s "The Exorcist" has been described as child-hating, downbeat and relentless. Tobe Hooper’s "Texas Chainsaw Massacre" was an all-out assault on the viewer, and the low budget acting made this haunting flick based on a true story all the more effective.

The Fly I and II" depicts high-tech gore with minimal impact to the audience. David Cronenberg was after shock value. He got it.

Stephen King’s "Pet Sematary" will reign as an all-time horror classic. Here King mixes fright with gore in a film based on his novel by the same name. After watching a well-made horror flick, some say: "That was the worst movie I have ever seen."

Others say: "That was the best." To the moviemakers, the meaning is the same. People love to be scared.

In life, nothing will gather a crowd more quickly than a fight. As it grows bloodier, we are torn between our fascination with the spectacle and our desire to have it stopped.

On the freeway, a wreck in the northbound lanes will create traffic jam in the southbound lanes. Enter the "rubberneck principle." Humans are curious, even if it means they will be late for work.

The next time you sit down to a bowl of Frankenberry or Count Chocula cereal, ask yourself why you’re not eating Cheerios.

Letters Policy

The Mustang Daily welcomes your letters. Letters to the editor must be signed and should contain no more than 150 words. All letters may be edited for length and clarity and become the property of the Daily. Personal attacks will not be printed. Letters to the editor may be deposited in GQA 226.
Unwanted pregnancies: women's stories

Timely reflections as the high court reexamines a landmark decision

April 26, 1989

We write this on the day the Supreme Court begins reexamining Roe v. Wade. Perhaps today we all need to be reminded of the common thread which holds all women together; they become pregnant and they alone bear the responsibility of having a child.

Unfortunately, we live in an imperfect world. Human beings, by design, are fallible; procedures fail, technology fails, people fail.

If you could interview your mothers, your grandmother's mothers, and the grandmother's mothers and their friends, you will find that they have stories, stories that tell of the desperation that led to unwanted pregnancies — and what they did about them. Some of these secrets lie hidden deep in hope chests never shared — except, perhaps, in the hearts of women. Their stories range from tales of mental anguish to those that are physically grotesque.

Many of us became pregnant the first time we ever had sex — a dirty trick it seemed — and some of us believed somewhere deep inside that the pregnancy served as punishment.

I must speak of the stories I know, for the power of these stories is stronger than logic, for they touch our hearts, the center of our compassion, the soul of our community.

I became pregnant during the summer before my senior year of college. My plans included college, the first in my family to attend, and an especially amazing feat because my father thought it was a waste of time for a woman.

I have blocked out many of the details of that event that occurred over 20 years ago but I will try to bring the images back. Seventeen, terrified and pregnant, I remember lying on my back at the gynecologist's office, unconscious from the injection, nurses standing around, my mother there. My spirit left my body and hovered somewhere in the corner of the room, watching and sobbing quietly. But my body lay like stone. The doctor must have announced my pregnancy — that I remember lying on my back at the gynecologist's office, unconscious from the injection, nurses standing around, my mother there. My spirit left my body and hovered somewhere in the corner of the room, watching and sobbing quietly. But my body lay like stone. The doctor must have announced my pregnancy — that I

When nothing happened (and I checked every few minutes), my mother gave me enemas. From somewhere in my mind, I know I must have remembered the Crochet Hook abortion and the fear that it carried. I remember holding the large, oblong capsules with black lettering. I remember whispering a prayer after each swallow; I made deals with God and the Virgin Mary.

When nothing happened (and I checked every few minutes), my mother gave me enemas. From somewhere in my mind, I know I must have remembered the Crochet Hook abortion and the fear that it carried. I remember holding the large, oblong capsules with black lettering. I remember whispering a prayer after each swallow; I made deals with God and the Virgin Mary.

When nothing happened (and I checked every few minutes), my mother gave me enemas. From somewhere in my mind, I know I must have remembered the Crochet Hook abortion and the fear that it carried. I remember holding the large, oblong capsules with black lettering. I remember whispering a prayer after each swallow; I made deals with God and the Virgin Mary.

When nothing happened (and I checked every few minutes), my mother gave me enemas. From somewhere in my mind, I know I must have remembered the Crochet Hook abortion and the fear that it carried. I remember holding the large, oblong capsules with black lettering. I remember whispering a prayer after each swallow; I made deals with God and the Virgin Mary.

When nothing happened (and I checked every few minutes), my mother gave me enemas. From somewhere in my mind, I know I must have remembered the Crochet Hook abortion and the fear that it carried. I remember holding the large, oblong capsules with black lettering. I remember whispering a prayer after each swallow; I made deals with God and the Virgin Mary.

When nothing happened (and I checked every few minutes), my mother gave me enemas. From somewhere in my mind, I know I must have remembered the Crochet Hook abortion and the fear that it carried. I remember holding the large, oblong capsules with black lettering. I remember whispering a prayer after each swallow; I made deals with God and the Virgin Mary.

When nothing happened (and I checked every few minutes), my mother gave me enemas. From somewhere in my mind, I know I must have remembered the Crochet Hook abortion and the fear that it carried. I remember holding the large, oblong capsules with black lettering. I remember whispering a prayer after each swallow; I made deals with God and the Virgin Mary.

When nothing happened (and I checked every few minutes), my mother gave me enemas. From somewhere in my mind, I know I must have remembered the Crochet Hook abortion and the fear that it carried. I remember holding the large, oblong capsules with black lettering. I remember whispering a prayer after each swallow; I made deals with God and the Virgin Mary.

When nothing happened (and I checked every few minutes), my mother gave me enemas. From somewhere in my mind, I know I must have remembered the Crochet Hook abortion and the fear that it carried. I remember holding the large, oblong capsules with black lettering. I remember whispering a prayer after each swallow; I made deals with God and the Virgin Mary.
POLY QUALITY
ARMY ROTC/CaliforHia National Guard

NAME: ALEX GREENWICH
MAJOR: ARCHITECTURE
STATUS: SINGULAR
AGE: YOUNG
HOMETOWN: CORNING, CA

INTRESTS:
- CALIFORNIA ARMY NATIONAL GUARD
- FLIRTING

HONORS:
- GEORGE C. MARSHALL AWARD
- CAL POLY COMMANDER, SPRING '89
- DISTINGUISHED MILITARY STUDENTS

Stop by Dexter Hall, Military Science, for info on Summer Leadership Training opportunities. Ext 7682 Captain Earley or Major Christensen.

ARMY ROTC/CaliforHia National Guard

NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR FALL '89
"Too Much Privacy?"

Most college students would agree that there is no such thing! That's why Mustang Village is offering you the ultimate in independent living... your own apartment!

Our private studios start at an affordable $350 a month, so now you won't ever have to deal with roommates again! In college, privacy is one good thing you just can't have too much of, and Mustang Village has it. You can too!

PRIVATE STUDIOS

1 MUSTANG (Adjacent to Poly) 543-4950

Set Yourself Apart... next year, enjoy quiet and privacy at

STAFFORD GARDENS and
Las Casitas

DElUXE ONE
AND TWO BEDROOM TOWNHOUSES
3 blocks from campus

NOW LEASING FOR FALL QUARTER
CALL 543-2032 for more information
OFFICE AT: 1377 STAFFORD ST #2, SLO, CA

START YOUR CLIMB TO CAREER SUCCESS THIS SUMMER.

Apply now for Army ROTC summer leadership training. You'll develop confidence and decisiveness essential for success. And you'll qualify to earn officer credentials while completing college.

Find out more. Contact Captain Mark Earley, Room 115, Dexter Building. Or phone SLO ROTC (786-7682).

ARMY ROTC TWO-YEAR PROGRAM
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.
White wolf’s owner found

LANOES (AP) — A white wolf that ran wild in an affluent residential area and ate a pet bunny belongs to Sam J. Jones, who played comic book hero Flash Gordon in a 1980 movie, animal regulation officials said Monday.

“We believe he purchased it as a pup from a breeder so it was raised in a sort of domestic environment. But still, you can’t have them,” said Lt. Marshall Vernon of the city’s West Valley Animal Shelter.

The 100-pound wolf, a full-grown female named Hurricane, was captured April 14 near the Encino Reservoir in the San Fernando Valley.

Residents of the hillside neighborhood had complained that a huge white dog had been roaming the south Calneva Drive area for about two months and gobbled down a rabbit. Vernon said the predator is probably an endangered gray wolf. Her nearest wild relatives are in Alaska or Minnesota.
From page 1

out of it," he said. "There was no reason for the cops to be here because the party was pretty mellow."

Cedar Creek resident Kevin Harley said, "The cops were p.o.'d because people were throwing things. But I think they could have handled it a little better."

Hagerty said the reason the party erupted as it did was because of a "lack of maturity..."

"Most of the people outside weren't residents here or even Cal Poly students," Gilliam said.

Chelquist said, "I don't think the people who were causing the problems even live here."

Hagerty said the fire department responded to the alarm as they would any structural alarm, not knowing a 400-person party was in progress.

"The trucks took incoming rocks and bottles," said Hagerty. "I took incoming rocks and bottles."

Hagerty said that before he was able to report that rocks and bottles were being thrown, someone in the complex had called 911. Police were slow to respond because of the high volume of calls throughout the city that night.

"As soon as our officers showed up they were greeted with rocks and bottles," Chelquist said.

Hagerty said he went over to the location where the alarm sounded to determine if there was actually a fire.

"I determined there was no fire and I retired," Hagerty said. "This is not the first time we've had false alarms that would give me a reason to believe the Cedar Creek resident Kevin Harley said, "Every time there's a party here the fire alarm gets pulled."

The fire department was not able to respond quickly enough to an initial number of false alarms at the complex. Hagerty said they are frequent and the department will probably begin to be charged each time another false alarm is reported.

Many of the condominiums are privately owned and then rented. An assessment of the total damage was not yet available.

PELL GRANTS

From page 1

"He believes there is no room for drug-abuse in an effective learning environment. But he wants the enforcement package to be one that doesn't violate a student's rights." Moroney explained that no drug tests would be required for students, and no "Big-Brother" surveillance would be associated with the law.

Moroney said student rights are something the department is keenly aware of and wishes to protect. After an enforcement package is formulated, he said, "We're working on that with the other agencies to get a consistent enforcement package."

"The Secretary has a very strong anti-drug stance," he said. "In Moscow, the group visited Red Square, Lenin's tomb (along with the other 39,000 Soviets who visit the tomb daily), the Lenin Museum, St. Basil's Cathedral, the Bolshoi for a performance. The University of Moscow and the Kremlin Armory with all the jewels of the Carrs and Czarinas."

The students saw a ballet in the Winter Palace where the Czars and Czarinas."

the metro stations were kept so clean he could have eaten off the floor.

In Moscow, the group visited Red Square, Lenin's tomb (along with the other 39,000 Soviets who visit the tomb daily), the Lenin Museum, St. Basil's Cathedral, the Bolshoi for a performance. The University of Moscow and the Kremlin Armory with all the jewels of the Carrs and Czarinas."

The students saw a ballet in the Winter Palace where the Czars and Czarinas."

the metro stations were kept so clean he could have eaten off the floor.
Jews assemble to remember Holocaust

By Mark Ashlemyer
Staff Writer

More than 70 citizens gathered at the San Luis Obispo County Library Sunday night to remember the lives lost in the Holocaust and to share ideas of how a similar tragedy could be avoided in the future.

The theme for this year's meeting, "The Courage to Care," reflected how each have put their lives on the line to save a fellow human. Although the Holocaust provided many examples, the speakers also mentioned how people today are also courageous.

Six Cal Poly students attended the ceremony to speak about how their generation views the events of the Holocaust.

During their presentations, each shared the idea that the purpose of the meeting was not only to remember the Jews killed in the Holocaust, but also to remember all those who have died in past holocausts and in the holocausts to come.

The students emphasized that although they were only one of many holocausts, David Rabb, a member of the Haverim, traveled through Hungary, Poland, and Germany. See HOLOC'AUST, back page.

HUBERSTEIN, back page
A hot hit from IBM!

On top of the charts with IBM PS/2 Model 50 Z

Your Special Price* $3,099.00

The 8550-021 includes 1 Mb memory, 8513 Color Display, 80286 (10 MHz) processor, one 3.5" diskette drive (1.44 Mb), 30 Mb fixed disk drive, IBM Mouse, IBM Micro Channel Architecture\(^\), DOS 4.0, Microsoft\(^\) Windows/286, Word, Excel and IOD Windows Express\(^*\).

A straight up deal that is simply irresistible. The IBM Personal System/2\(^*\) Model 50 Z delivers top of the chart quality and value. This powerful performer comes with IBM Micro Channel Architecture with extra speed to help you organize your notes, write and revise papers and produce high-quality graphics. Right now, your campus price saves you more than ever. So, stop in and see us today!

Stop by El Corral Bookstore for more details and financing options, OR come see us on campus in May at these times and locations:
- Tuesdays 10am - 2pm University Union Square
- Wednesdays 8am - 4pm UU 219

This offer is limited to qualified students, faculty and staff who order an IBM PS/2 Model 8500-321, 8500-021 or 8517-651 on or before June 30, 1989. Prices quoted do not include sales tax. Orders are subject to availability. IBM may withdraw the promotion at any time without written notice.

NEW LASER PRINTER CARTRIDGES

Super Sale Price $79.50 Exchange THE LASER RECHARGE FACTORY

5¢ SECONDS

Lower Level, University Union

(805) 736-2848

- Canon Color Laser Copies
- Resume Service
- Placement Center Interview/Resume Forms Laser Printed
- Personal Accounts-Billed once a month no hassles
- Free pickup and delivery on campus

YOUR CAMPUS COPY CENTER

EL CORRAL BOOKSTORE

Hollywood flare is theme of new amusement park

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Disney-MGM Studios opened its $400 million theme park on Monday, hoping to lure the nostalgic to its version of Hollywood's golden era and thrill-seekers to rides that will take them to places like Catastrophe Canyon.

The 135-acre complex blends filmmaking with backstage studio tours and ride-through, walk-through attractions. Movie and TV production began last summer on its three sprawling sound studios and backlot street scenes.

The new attraction on the entertainment giant's 43-square-mile Central Florida resort complements its other two theme parks: the Magic Kingdom and Epcot Center. It has its own admission fee: $29 for adults and $23 for children 3 to 9.

The 8550-031 includes 1 Mbyte memory, 8513 Color Display, 80286 (10 MHz) processor, one 3.5" diskette drive (1.44 Mb), 30 Mbyte fixed disk drive, IBM Mouse, IBM Micro Channel Architecture\(^\), DOS 4.0, Microsoft\(^\) Windows/286, Word, Excel and IOD Windows Express\(^*\).

On top of the charts with IBM PS/2 Model 50 Z delivers top of the chart quality and value. This powerful performer comes with IBM Micro Channel Architecture with extra speed to help you organize your notes, write and revise papers and produce high-quality graphics. Right now, your campus price saves you more than ever. So, stop in and see us today!

Stop by El Corral Bookstore for more details and financing options, OR come see us on campus in May at these times and locations:
- Tuesdays 10am - 2pm University Union Square
- Wednesdays 8am - 4pm UU 219

This offer is limited to qualified students, faculty and staff who order an IBM PS/2 Model 8500-321, 8500-021 or 8517-651 on or before June 30, 1989. Prices quoted do not include sales tax. Orders are subject to availability. IBM may withdraw the promotion at any time without written notice.

Laser Printer Cartridges 5¢ Exchange THE LASER RECHARGE FACTORY

- Canon Color Laser Copies
- Resume Service
- Placement Center Interview/Resume Forms Laser Printed
- Personal Accounts-Billed once a month no hassles
- Free pickup and delivery on campus

Your Campus Copy Center

EL CORRAL BOOKSTORE

HOLOCAUST

From page 4

I saw four different concentration camps, including Auschwitz," Rabb said. "These tours not only helped me to be a better Jew, they helped me to be a better person. When I walked through the streets of Germany, people would stop me and apologize for what they did."

Liz Mann said today's generation "needs to learn about the Holocaust. The Holocaust unites the young and old in remembrance."

One student, Dan Carrel, said he didn't want to talk about the Holocaust.

"A lot of people ask how could God allow such a thing to happen," Carrel said. "I don't think that God should bear any of the responsibility. The Holocaust was the act of a man — not God."

During her presentation, Holly Shane brought a little girl on stage to accompany her with her speech.

"My roommate asked me one time, 'Why remember the Holocaust?' This confused me for a while," Shane said. "I finally came to the conclusion that if we remember just the pain, we're martyrs. However, if we remember and act, then we're teachers. We need to teach children to be challenged with the knowledge and pain of what happened and the hope that we have seen tonight," said Shane.

"Freedom's a lot of work," said the girl. "But I'm five years old, and when I grow up I want to live in a world of freedom."

Political science professor Richard Kranzdorf said, in general, the world is ignorant.

"People die and no one seems to care, refugees flee, but no one wants them," Kranzdorf said. "The Jewish Holocaust is important as a remembrance of all other holocausts throughout history. The significance is not to remember the executions of the '40s, but of all things in the past, and, God forbid, in the future," said Kranzdorf.

The meeting closed with a benediction from Rabbi Harry Manhoff of Congregation Beth David. Manhoff said if there was an 11th commandment, it should read 'Remember the Holocaust, and to keep it holy.'

BAJA PROUDLY PRESENTS

THE SUN

WEDNESDAY MAY 10 AT 9 PM

"It's Only Three Bucks Dude"

COMING MAY 10 PETER CASE AND MAY 24 THE OPHELIAS

0.25 Drafts Every Thurs & Fri 4-7 pm
Now Serving Soft Tacos, salads & Quesadillas

5¢ SECONDS

- Canon Color Laser Copies
- Resume Service
- Placement Center Interview/Resume Forms Laser Printed
- Personal Accounts-Billed once a month no hassles
- Free pickup and delivery on campus

YOUR CAMPUS COPY CENTER

EL CORRAL BOOKSTORE