Lack of help stalls drug law implementation

By Neil Farrell Staff Writer

New federal requirements implemented with the Drug-Free Workplaces Act of 1988 have left local organizations who receive federal grants working to piece together programs and policies in compliance with the law.

In the past year, citizens concerned in August of 1988, the law requires that all federal contractors and grant recipients take active steps to insure a drug-free workplace for the duration of the contract or grant.

The second initiative would limit the authority of the Architectural Review Committee (ARC), in order to ease the process of building in San Luis Obispo. "This City Council has used water to create a water crisis to control growth," said Ron Beare of The Concerned Citizens group.

"Obviously if you haven't found water in 15 years, it's not because there is no new water, it's because you have a lack of effort on the part of City Council. There are better ways to control the impact of growth than punishing a whole city with a water crisis and a building ban. That's going to hurt renters, college students especially, more than anyone in town."

Copyright freedoms questioned in lawsuit against NY Kinko's

By Laura Daniels Staff Writer

If eight publishing companies have their complaint heard, Kinko's will not be allowed to photocopy copyrighted materials for classroom use, said a Kinko's spokesperson.

"The suit isn't about reinterpreting the copyright law; it's about enforcing it," said Jon Baumgarten, a Washington D.C. lawyer representing the eight publishing companies.

In a lawsuit against two New York City Kinko's stores, the publishing companies charge the national photocopying chain is not following copyright laws.

In a telephone interview, Jon Baumgarten, a Washington D.C. lawyer representing the eight publishing companies, told the Mustang Daily, "They're (Kinko's) trying to make us out to be attacking education," but he said this has nothing to do with the lawsuit. Baumgarten added some of the complaints registered against Kinko's are from faculty members who have written books or articles which were subsequently copied by Kinko's.

If the publishers win the lawsuit, Baumgarten said, "We feel the whole industry will be affected, as well as the educational process."

Copyright, as the Supreme Court debated the issue, five Cal Poly students who had abortions describe their experiences. See IN SIGHT, page 5.

Copyright laws now are made so that one man's trash is another man's treasure, the University Union Plaza was in need of cleaning. Cal Poly Building Superintendent Matt Weiner said the Pig Patrol will be made up of a group of students who pick up trash in the UU. The students will be employed by the groundskeeping division on campus.

Weiner came up with the idea of the Pig Patrol after noting the success of a similar program at the University of Oregon.

"We received a flyer through the bookstore describing the program at the University of Oregon," Weiner said. "I thought it was a great idea, and had the same problem that we do. They started this Pig Patrol program and been very successful for them so far.

The Pig Patrol program is just beginning, but Weiner said there has already been some improvement.

"Some more important pro-

Copyright freedoms questioned in lawsuit against NY Kinko's

By Laura Daniels Staff Writer

If eight publishing companies have their complaint heard, Kinko's will not be allowed to photocopy copyrighted materials for classroom use, said a Kinko's spokesperson.

"The suit isn't about reinterpreting the copyright law; it's about enforcing it," said Jon Baumgarten, a Washington D.C. lawyer representing the eight publishing companies.

In a lawsuit against two New York City Kinko's stores, the publishing companies charge the national photocopying chain is not following copyright laws.

In a telephone interview, Jon Baumgarten, a Washington D.C. lawyer representing the eight publishing companies, said: "They're (Kinko's) trying to make us out to be attacking education," but he said this has nothing to do with the lawsuit. Baumgarten added some of the complaints registered against Kinko's are from faculty members who have written books or articles which were subsequently copied by Kinko's.

If the publishers win the lawsuit, Baumgarten said, "We feel the whole industry will be affected, as well as the educational process."

Copyright, as the Supreme Court debated the issue, five Cal Poly students who had abortions describe their experiences. See IN SIGHT, page 5.

Copyright laws now are made so that one man's trash is another man's treasure, the University Union Plaza was in need of cleaning. Cal Poly Building Superintendent Matt Weiner said the Pig Patrol will be made up of a group of students who pick up trash in the UU. The students will be employed by the groundskeeping division on campus.

Weiner came up with the idea of the Pig Patrol after noting the success of a similar program at the University of Oregon.

"We received a flyer through the bookstore describing the program at the University of Oregon," Weiner said. "I thought it was a great idea, and had the same problem that we do. They started this Pig Patrol program and been very successful for them so far.

The Pig Patrol program is just beginning, but Weiner said there has already been some improvement.

"Some more important pro-

Copyright freedoms questioned in lawsuit against NY Kinko's

By Laura Daniels Staff Writer

If eight publishing companies have their complaint heard, Kinko's will not be allowed to photocopy copyrighted materials for classroom use, said a Kinko's spokesperson.

"The suit isn't about reinterpreting the copyright law; it's about enforcing it," said Jon Baumgarten, a Washington D.C. lawyer representing the eight publishing companies.

In a lawsuit against two New York City Kinko's stores, the publishing companies charge the national photocopying chain is not following copyright laws.

In a telephone interview, Jon Baumgarten, a Washington D.C. lawyer representing the eight publishing companies, told the Mustang Daily, "They're (Kinko's) trying to make us out to be attacking education," but he said this has nothing to do with the lawsuit. Baumgarten added some of the complaints registered against Kinko's are from faculty members who have written books or articles which were subsequently copied by Kinko's.

If the publishers win the lawsuit, Baumgarten said, "We feel the whole industry will be affected, as well as the educational process."

Copyright, as the Supreme Court debated the issue, five Cal Poly students who had abortions describe their experiences. See IN SIGHT, page 5.

Copyright laws now are made so that one man's trash is another man's treasure, the University Union Plaza was in need of cleaning. Cal Poly Building Superintendent Matt Weiner said the Pig Patrol will be made up of a group of students who pick up trash in the UU. The students will be employed by the groundskeeping division on campus.

Weiner came up with the idea of the Pig Patrol after noting the success of a similar program at the University of Oregon.

"We received a flyer through the bookstore describing the program at the University of Oregon," Weiner said. "I thought it was a great idea, and had the same problem that we do. They started this Pig Patrol program and been very successful for them so far.

The Pig Patrol program is just beginning, but Weiner said there has already been some improvement.

"Some more important pro-

Copyright freedoms questioned in lawsuit against NY Kinko's

By Laura Daniels Staff Writer

If eight publishing companies have their complaint heard, Kinko's will not be allowed to photocopy copyrighted materials for classroom use, said a Kinko's spokesperson.

"The suit isn't about reinterpreting the copyright law; it's about enforcing it," said Jon Baumgarten, a Washington D.C. lawyer representing the eight publishing companies.

In a lawsuit against two New York City Kinko's stores, the publishing companies charge the national photocopying chain is not following copyright laws.

In a telephone interview, Jon Baumgarten, a Washington D.C. lawyer representing the eight publishing companies, told the Mustang Daily, "They're (Kinko's) trying to make us out to be attacking education," but he said this has nothing to do with the lawsuit. Baumgarten added some of the complaints registered against Kinko's are from faculty members who have written books or articles which were subsequently copied by Kinko's.

If the publishers win the lawsuit, Baumgarten said, "We feel the whole industry will be affected, as well as the educational process."

Copyright, as the Supreme Court debated the issue, five Cal Poly students who had abortions describe their experiences. See IN SIGHT, page 5.

Copyright laws now are made so that one man's trash is another man's treasure, the University Union Plaza was in need of cleaning. Cal Poly Building Superintendent Matt Weiner said the Pig Patrol will be made up of a group of students who pick up trash in the UU. The students will be employed by the groundskeeping division on campus.

Weiner came up with the idea of the Pig Patrol after noting the success of a similar program at the University of Oregon.

"We received a flyer through the bookstore describing the program at the University of Oregon," Weiner said. "I thought it was a great idea, and had the same problem that we do. They started this Pig Patrol program and been very successful for them so far.

The Pig Patrol program is just beginning, but Weiner said there has already been some improvement.

"Some more important pro-

Copyright freedoms questioned in lawsuit against NY Kinko's

By Laura Daniels Staff Writer

If eight publishing companies have their complaint heard, Kinko's will not be allowed to photocopy copyrighted materials for classroom use, said a Kinko's spokesperson.

"The suit isn't about reinterpreting the copyright law; it's about enforcing it," said Jon Baumgarten, a Washington D.C. lawyer representing the eight publishing companies.

In a lawsuit against two New York City Kinko's stores, the publishing companies charge the national photocopying chain is not following copyright laws.

In a telephone interview, Jon Baumgarten, a Washington D.C. lawyer representing the eight publishing companies, told the Mustang Daily, "They're (Kinko's) trying to make us out to be attacking education," but he said this has nothing to do with the lawsuit. Baumgarten added some of the complaints registered against Kinko's are from faculty members who have written books or articles which were subsequently copied by Kinko's.

If the publishers win the lawsuit, Baumgarten said, "We feel the whole industry will be affected, as well as the educational process."

Copyright, as the Supreme Court debated the issue, five Cal Poly students who had abortions describe their experiences. See IN SIGHT, page 5.

Copyright laws now are made so that one man's trash is another man's treasure, the University Union Plaza was in need of cleaning. Cal Poly Building Superintendent Matt Weiner said the Pig Patrol will be made up of a group of students who pick up trash in the UU. The students will be employed by the groundskeeping division on campus.

Weiner came up with the idea of the Pig Patrol after noting the success of a similar program at the University of Oregon.

"We received a flyer through the bookstore describing the program at the University of Oregon," Weiner said. "I thought it was a great idea, and had the same problem that we do. They started this Pig Patrol program and been very successful for them so far.

The Pig Patrol program is just beginning, but Weiner said there has already been some improvement.

"Some more important pro-
My father has worked for the Panama Canal Commission for about 25 years, and as a civilian, he is not getting any protection at a time when he needs it most. I am familiar with the situation, as I resided in Panama for nearly 20 years and was an employee of the commission.

At this time, all civilian dependents have been evacuated or are on a military base. Embassy employees have also been transferred to a 10-story building and are receiving a 40-cent per pound increase called "hazardous duty pay" while they are on base.

My father currently resides in Diable Heights, which is between Panama City and the first base, Albrook Air Force Base. His house is about a 15-minute walk from the heart of downtown Panama, where many demonstrations have taken place. In short, the Panamanians will cross through civilian housing to get to the first base, leaving my father as a hostage.

Despite being on the front line, he is not receiving any "hazardous duty pay" unlike the Embassy employees. In addition, since former President Jimmy Carter returned the canal, housing has been slowly turned over to the Panamanian government, and it was the Guarda "thugs" who got it not for the city, it's certainly not good for the students, the university and it's not good for my officers.

Police Chief Jim Gardiner, on the Cedar Creek tic.

Editor — I must respond to Prof. O'Connor's letter ("Daily ad hits prof.," May 16) and answer the rhetorical question "Does the Mustang Daily exercise discretion in ad copy?"

Of course we do. We don't accept fraudulent, racist, sexist or obscene ads. It is my opinion that the ad in question is not offensive. The ad is OK. His letter indicates to me that the ad was quite "noticeable," which means may seem inconsiderate to him. As for entrusting them with our money (at least in the old days), we got services. An ATM card! Super double-plus NOW accounts! Hot jello baths while-u-wait for extended credit! Smiling tellers and give me freebies, like a color TV or Yugo.

For those of you who have not been exposed to this act, which showed no class at all, is that it is a disgrace. If you don't like Mr. Bush, that is fine and everyone must respect your beliefs, but to defame the most powerful man in the world in front of an entire town is absurd and childish. If you people were truly changed and you believe that the "P" is that unhappy with the way the United States is being run, then leave. I'm sure I speak for the majority when I say that we do not want to see our nation suffer from such a lack of patriotism. There are millions of people trying to get into the United States. Make it easier by leaving. Soon.

Michael Machen
Economics

Letters to the Editor

Margarita ad reflects 'free press'

Editor — I am writing in reference to the recent alterations to the "P." In case you didn't notice, on May 16 a few individuals changed the "P" in such a way to defame President George Bush. Talk about immature. The only way to describe this act, which showed no class at all, is that it is a disgrace. If you don't like Mr. Bush, that is fine and everyone must respect your beliefs, but to defame the most powerful man in the world in front of an entire town is absurd and childish. If you people were truly changed and you believe that the "P" is that unhappy with the way the United States is being run, then leave. I'm sure I speak for the majority when I say that we do not want to see our nation suffer from such a lack of patriotism. There are millions of people trying to get into the United States. Make it easier by leaving. Soon.

Michael Machen
Economics

Letters to the Editor

Margarita ad reflects 'free press'

Editor — I must respond to Prof. O'Connor's letter ("Daily ad hits prof.," May 16) and answer the rhetorical question "Does the Mustang Daily exercise discretion in ad copy?"

Of course we do. We don't accept fraudulent, racist, sexist or obscene ads. It is my opinion that the ad in question is not offensive. The ad is OK. His letter indicates to me that the ad was quite "noticeable," which means may seem inconsiderate to him. As for entrusting them with our money (at least in the old days), we got services. An ATM card! Super double-plus NOW accounts! Hot jello baths while-u-wait for extended credit! Smiling tellers and give me freebies, like a color TV or Yugo.

For those of you who have not been exposed to this act, which showed no class at all, is that it is a disgrace. If you don't like Mr. Bush, that is fine and everyone must respect your beliefs, but to defame the most powerful man in the world in front of an entire town is absurd and childish. If you people were truly changed and you believe that the "P" is that unhappy with the way the United States is being run, then leave. I'm sure I speak for the majority when I say that we do not want to see our nation suffer from such a lack of patriotism. There are millions of people trying to get into the United States. Make it easier by leaving. Soon.

Michael Machen
Economics
Library book sale starts

The Cal Poly Library Associates' annual book sale will take place today and tomorrow in Room 509 in Kennedy Library from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Prices will range from 10 cents for magazines to 50 cents for hardcovers and trade paperbacks. Other paperbacks are 25 cents each. Proceeds from the event will be used to buy special materials for the Cal Poly library.

Notables
San Luis Obispo artist Anne Nybak and his wife Margaret received the Cal Poly President's Art Award at the ArtSalute gala on campus. Nybak was instrumental in spearheading the Gray Wing of the downtown Art Center, of which he also served as curator.

Furnished 2-Bedroom Apartments

- 10 OR 12 MONTH LEASE!
- $195 PER MONTH
For Information Call
544-7772

Set Yourself Apart...

next year,

enjoy quiet and privacy at

STAFFORD GARDENS

and

Las Casitas

DELUXE ONE

AND TWO BEDROOM

TOWNHOUSES

3 blocks from campus

NOW LEASING FOR FALL QUARTER

CALL 543-2032 for more information

OFFICE AT: 1377 STAFFORD ST #2, SLO, CA

BASSENIAN architects

LAGONI

Award Winning
Residential Architectural
and Land Planning Firm

Career opportunities available for professionals with or without Type V experience. Mr. Eric Loyter, AIA, Director of Production, and Mr. Lee Rogaliner, Vice President, General Manager, will be participating at the Springboard Job Fair on May 22nd. If interested in residential production architecture, please stop by table or send resume to:

2031 Orchard Dr., Suite 100,
Santa Ana Heights, CA 92707
(near OrangeCounty Airport in Newport Beach.)

PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOPS IN DANCE, THEATER, MUSIC, VISUAL ART, CREATIVE WRITING AND NEW TECHNOLOGIES

CSU Summer Arts creates a unique environment for art education. Professionals and students gather in an intimate setting ideally suited for creation, collaboration, and performance. This two- to four-week resident arts program is sponsored by the California State University system and held on the Humboldt State University campus in Arcata.

All courses are directed by guest artists and master teachers, including the most talented CSU faculty members and renowned arts professionals.

GUEST ARTISTS WILL INCLUDE:

REGISTRATION DEADLINES HAVE BEEN EXTENDED. REGISTRATION UNTIL JUNE 5 WILL INCREASE YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING INTO A CLASS, BUT WE WILL ACCEPT REGISTRATION UNTIL JUNE 23 WITHOUT PENALTY.

Mustang Daily: Make it your daily habit

61
BROAD

COURT

Each two-week course generates 3 semester units of credit.
Graduate and undergraduate credit available.

California residents: 0-6 semester units $220
Graduate and undergraduate credit available.

Extension: students per semester unit: $90
room and board, double occupancy (2-week session, 30 meals) $290

For registration and scholarship information (213) 590-5768 or (707) 826-4314

We believe Valencia is the finest student housing in San Luis Obispo. But we don’t want you to just take our word for it. We invite you to look at our competition (Cedar Creek, Mustang Village, Fitness Center, Olympic Free Weights, Basketball Court, Heated Swimming Pool, Free Aerobic Classes, Tennis Court, Free Parking, Laundry Facilities, Study Room w/ Computers, Study Room, Free Parking, Laundry Facilities, Study Room w/ Computers, Study Room).

They steal couches, They kidnap ducks.

They question before us is: Can they play an honest game of ball?? You decide.

Set Yourself Apart...

next year,

enjoy quiet and privacy at

STAFFORD GARDENS

and

Las Casitas

DELUXE ONE

AND TWO BEDROOM

TOWNHOUSES

3 blocks from campus

NOW LEASING FOR FALL QUARTER

CALL 543-2032 for more information

OFFICE AT: 1377 STAFFORD ST #2, SLO, CA

BASSENIAN architects

LAGONI

Award Winning
Residential Architectural
and Land Planning Firm

Career opportunities available for professionals with or without Type V experience. Mr. Eric Loyter, AIA, Director of Production, and Mr. Lee Rogaliner, Vice President, General Manager, will be participating at the Springboard Job Fair on May 22nd. If interested in residential production architecture, please stop by table or send resume to:

2031 Orchard Dr., Suite 100,
Santa Ana Heights, CA 92707
(near OrangeCounty Airport in Newport Beach.)

PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOPS IN DANCE, THEATER, MUSIC, VISUAL ART, CREATIVE WRITING AND NEW TECHNOLOGIES

CSU Summer Arts creates a unique environment for art education. Professionals and students gather in an intimate setting ideally suited for creation, collaboration, and performance. This two- to four-week resident arts program is sponsored by the California State University system and held on the Humboldt State University campus in Arcata.

All courses are directed by guest artists and master teachers, including the most talented CSU faculty members and renowned arts professionals.

GUEST ARTISTS WILL INCLUDE:

REGISTRATION DEADLINES HAVE BEEN EXTENDED. REGISTRATION UNTIL JUNE 5 WILL INCREASE YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING INTO A CLASS, BUT WE WILL ACCEPT REGISTRATION UNTIL JUNE 23 WITHOUT PENALTY.

Mustang Daily: Make it your daily habit

61
BROAD

COURT

Each two-week course generates 3 semester units of credit.
Graduate and undergraduate credit available.

California residents: 0-6 semester units $220
Graduate and undergraduate credit available.

Extension: students per semester unit: $90
room and board, double occupancy (2-week session, 30 meals) $290

For registration and scholarship information (213) 590-5768 or (707) 826-4314

We believe Valencia is the finest student housing in San Luis Obispo. But we don’t want you to just take our word for it. We invite you to look at our competition (Cedar Creek, Mustang Village, Fitness Center, Olympic Free Weights, Basketball Court, Heated Swimming Pool, Free Aerobic Classes, Tennis Court, Free Parking, Laundry Facilities, Study Room w/ Computers, Study Room, Free Parking, Laundry Facilities, Study Room).

They steal couches, They kidnap ducks.

They question before us is: Can they play an honest game of ball?? You decide.
PATROL

From page 1

a.m. to noon on Thursdays, and then go around picking up trash in the UU at noon.

"These students can be identified by the Pig Patrol T-shirts that they will be wearing," he said. "We're also hoping to receive help from El Corral Bookstore, the Cafeteria services, and possibly even the Mustang Daily, since all of them are the major source of the mess."

Weiner added that the Pig Patrol is also trying to develop an incentive program where if a Pig Patrol member witnesses someone throwing away trash, that person could receive a chit (coupon) for 25 cents off ice cream or a similar coupon.

"The only part of the campus I'm allowed to try this on is the Downstairs University Union," Weiner said. "Because it's the only part of the campus that's not state-owned. If this program works, then the state might give us the go-ahead to try it on the rest of the campus. They also might be interested in trying it at other campuses."

Weiner said that the pig was not really his choice for the campaign symbol.

"The pig is what the University of Oregon used in their program, so I just brought it down from there," he said. "The only thing we added was the phrase 'Take it to the hole.'"

"The phrase is one used in basketball," he said. "We could develop backboards with baskets that would fit on the cans so that it would be like playing a game of basketball."

Weiner said another reason for use of "pig" is simply that it is commonly associated with trash.

"Besides, go out there on a Thursday afternoon and see if it doesn't look like a pigsty," he said.

LAWSUIT

From page 1

prevent professors from providing up-to-the-minute course materials.

"It is an opportunity to force students to purchase textbooks," said Tagliarino. Tagliarino said Kinko's was selected as the target for this lawsuit because the company has the best record for obtaining copyright permissions in the industry, therefore making an example of Kinko's for the entire industry to follow.

Foss said when professors bringing materials in to be copied, a determination is made if the materials fall under the fair use doctrine. Whenever materials are not covered by the fair use clause, Kinko's refuses the business.

"Some (Kinko's centers) refuse up to $50,000 a year in business," Foss said.

John Concha, manager of the Kinko's store on Foothill Blvd., said his store refuses business everyday. Speaking about how he determines when photocopying materials constitutes violation of copyright, Concha said, "There's no sure-fire way to do it. We have to judge it on a case-by-case basis."

If there is some question about possible copyright infringement, Kinko's Rights and Permissions national headquarters' office in Ventura contacts the copyright holder and tries to obtain permission to reproduce the copyrighted materials. If a copyright holder gives permission but demands royalties, Kinko's pays the fees.

"We pay about $1 million a year for (royalties), and we handle about 10,000 requests a day," said Foss.

Kinko's expects to file a statement in response to the lawsuit within the next six weeks.
My body, my choice?

In the midst of the controversy, Poly women talk about their abortions

I was sitting there in a white robe on the bed-things and the doctor came in and I was crying. He knew I was really upset and he said, 'Why are you so upset, most people come in here and they don't even shed a tear or show any emotion.' And I said, 'Well, I don't want to kill my baby.'

Those who are against it call it murder or baby killing. Those who support it say the bottom line is choice — a woman's right to choose for herself what to do with her own body. Those who have been there know it best. They say the arguments for and against abortion are meaningless to those who don't know the reality.

This is the story of five women who know what abortion is firsthand. They've been there, and back. Each has had a pregnancy that was ended; each now has a child.

They are all Cal Poly students, ranging in age from 18 to 37. What they have in common are their experiences with abortion and their children, who range in age from 15 months to 10 years.

Jessica got pregnant for the first time when she was 20. She was using birth control. "I didn't want to have that child," Angie said. "I was engaged to this guy ... and I had gotten pregnant and I didn't want to be pregnant at the time.

"Things kind of didn't work out and that's when I found out I was pregnant. I was just praying I would abort the child naturally, and I did.

"The doctor said I just wasn't right inside me, (my body) just rejected it." About a year after Angie had the miscarriage she got pregnant again. And again it was unexpected.

She planned to end the pregnancy. The abortion clinic account above hers.

"I was thinking I didn't want to kill it," Angie said. "I thought to myself, 'I'm old enough to take good care of this child, I've got a good head on my shoulders.' I knew I'd be a good mom."

She walked out of the abortion clinic with the child still in her womb. Her son is now six years old.

"I've always been proud of it," she said. "I feel good about taking care of the situation and not being a victim." Despite her own decision not to have an abortion, Angie believes the choice should continue to be available to women.

"If the person didn't have the option to get rid of the child, it could be worse for the child in the long run," Angie said. "I think there's a lot of mothers that should be able to have the choice."

Admittedly a difficult decision to make, Angie said a woman's willingness to abort a pregnancy depends on what she considers a human being.

"To me, it's the life at the time it was conceived." Angie got pregnant for the first time when she was a teen-ager. The relationship was a casual one; the pregnancy was unplanned. The decision to abort the pregnancy was based on timing.

"I figured that to bring a child into this world is one of the greatest privileges that we have as people, as parents, and intuitively I just didn't feel right about it," she said. "The timing just wasn't right." She was thinking I didn't want to kill it," Angie said. "I'm old enough to take good care of this child, I've got a good head on my shoulders."

"I was thinking I didn't want to kill it," Angie said. "I thought to myself, 'I'm old enough to take good care of this child, I've got a good head on my shoulders.' I knew I'd be a good mom."

She walked out of the abortion clinic with the child still in her womb. Her son is now six years old.

"I've always been proud of it," she said. "I feel good about taking care of the situation and not being a victim." Despite her own decision not to have an abortion, Angie believes the choice should continue to be available to women.

"If the person didn't have the option to get rid of the child, it could be worse for the child in the long run," Angie said. "I think there's a lot of mothers that should be able to have the choice."

Admittedly a difficult decision to make, Angie said a woman's willingness to abort a pregnancy depends on what she considers a human being.

"To me, it's the life at the time it was conceived." Angie got pregnant for the first time when she was a teen-ager. The relationship was a casual one; the pregnancy was unplanned. The decision to abort the pregnancy was based on timing.

"I figured that to bring a child into this world is one of the greatest privileges that we have as people, as parents, and intuitively I just didn't feel right about it," she said. "The timing just wasn't right." She was thinking I didn't want to kill it," Angie said. "I'm old enough to take good care of this child, I've got a good head on my shoulders."

"I was thinking I didn't want to kill it," Angie said. "I thought to myself, 'I'm old enough to take good care of this child, I've got a good head on my shoulders.' I knew I'd be a good mom."

She walked out of the abortion clinic with the child still in her womb. Her son is now six years old.

"I've always been proud of it," she said. "I feel good about taking care of the situation and not being a victim." Despite her own decision not to have an abortion, Angie believes the choice should continue to be available to women.

"If the person didn't have the option to get rid of the child, it could be worse for the child in the long run," Angie said. "I think there's a lot of mothers that should be able to have the choice."

Admittedly a difficult decision to make, Angie said a woman's willingness to abort a pregnancy depends on what she considers a human being.

"To me, it's the life at the time it was conceived." Angie got pregnant for the first time when she was a teen-ager. The relationship was a casual one; the pregnancy was unplanned. The decision to abort the pregnancy was based on timing.

"I figured that to bring a child into this world is one of the greatest privileges that we have as people, as parents, and intuitively I just didn't feel right about it," she said. "The timing just wasn't right." She was thinking I didn't want to kill it," Angie said. "I'm old enough to take good care of this child, I've got a good head on my shoulders."

"I was thinking I didn't want to kill it," Angie said. "I thought to myself, 'I'm old enough to take good care of this child, I've got a good head on my shoulders.' I knew I'd be a good mom."

She walked out of the abortion clinic with the child still in her womb. Her son is now six years old.

"I've always been proud of it," she said. "I feel good about taking care of the situation and not being a victim." Despite her own decision not to have an abortion, Angie believes the choice should continue to be available to women.

"If the person didn't have the option to get rid of the child, it could be worse for the child in the long run," Angie said. "I think there's a lot of mothers that should be able to have the choice."

Admittedly a difficult decision to make, Angie said a woman's willingness to abort a pregnancy depends on what she considers a human being.

"To me, it's the life at the time it was conceived." Angie got pregnant for the first time when she was a teen-ager. The relationship was a casual one; the pregnancy was unplanned. The decision to abort the pregnancy was based on timing.

"I figured that to bring a child into this world is one of the greatest privileges that we have as people, as parents, and intuitively I just didn't feel right about it," she said. "The timing just wasn't right."
This week's pick hit!

On top of the charts with IBM PS/2 Model 30 286

Your Special Price*
$2,599.00

![Store Image]

The IBM Personal System/2 Model 30 286 has long been on top of the charts. As a top performer, it's fine-tuned to give you the right combination of features and options to help you work faster, easier and smarter at the flip of a switch. Right now, the PS/2 Model 30 286 with selected software is being offered at a great campus price. So, come see us today!

Stop by El Corral Bookstore for more details or come see us on campus in May at these times and locations:
- Tuesdays 10am - 2pm University Union Square
- Wednesdays 9am - 4pm UU 219

IBM

This offer is limited to qualified students, faculty and staff who order an IBM PS/2 Model 30 286, 30 386 and 60 386 on or before June 20, 1989. Prices quoted do not include sales tax. Orders are subject to availability. IBM may withdraw the promotion at any time without written notice.

IBM Personal Systems and PS/2 are registered trademarks of International Business Machines Corporation. IBM Micro-Chrome Architecture is a trademark of IBM Corporation. Microsoft is a registered trademark of the Microsoft Corporation. IBM Windows and Windows for Workgroups are registered trademarks of the IBM Corporation.

Microsoft Word and Excel Academic Editions.

---

OFF EVERYTHING IN STOCK

Except Gold Medal Service Items

TAKE 20% OFF CURRENT PRICES ON ALL REGULAR PRICED ITEMS!

TAKE 20% OFF SALE PRICES ON ALL SALE ITEMS!

DURING SALE 2 ITEM AND QUANTITY PRICING NOT IN EFFECT.

JUST A FEW EXAMPLES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ATHLETIC SHOES</th>
<th>CURRENT</th>
<th>RETAIL</th>
<th>PERCENT</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Special Group Disc Styles</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Men's Women's Reeboks</td>
<td>20%</td>
<td></td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Group Disc Styles</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Men's Court &amp; Basketball Shoes</td>
<td>20%</td>
<td></td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Group Disc Styles</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walking &amp; Hiking Shoes</td>
<td>20%</td>
<td></td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Group Disc Styles</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Baseball Shoes</td>
<td>20%</td>
<td></td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Group Disc Styles</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Children's Shoe</td>
<td>20%</td>
<td></td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

EXERCISE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>CURRENT</th>
<th>RETAIL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Altus 4&quot; Leather Weight Belts</td>
<td>13.99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pacific Deluxe 110 Barbells Set</td>
<td>39.99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BMI 410 Incline Bench</td>
<td>55.99</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ATHLETICS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>CURRENT</th>
<th>RETAIL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Special Group Disc Styles</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reebok Cycling Shorts</td>
<td>50%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Group Disc Styles</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adidas Jackets</td>
<td>50%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Group Disc Styles</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nylon Lycra Fitness Shorts</td>
<td>11.99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Group Disc Styles</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nike Day Packs</td>
<td>50%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Group Disc Styles</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yamaha Tennis Frames</td>
<td>50%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

MAY 18 ONLY!

GOLD MEDAL SERVICE ITEMS WILL NOT BE DISCOUNTED DURING THIS SALE

Copeland's Sports

962 Monterey
San Luis Obispo 543-3663
"I have never told anyone they didn’t have a right to feel that people shouldn’t have abortions," she said. "They can feel that way, but I wouldn’t want to have another one. But I never would tell anyone else that... of the way I feel, ..." they’re dictating what you should do because of how they feel. I don’t think that’s right."

"I have never told anyone they didn’t have a right to feel that people shouldn’t have abortions," she said. "They can feel that way, but I wouldn’t want to have another one. But I never would tell anyone else that... of the way I feel, ..." they’re dictating what you should do because of how they feel. I don’t think that’s right."
DRUG POLICY

From page 1 office employee Ilona Hermanson said the college had sent out its drug-free certification statements in April and further steps in its compliance program were pending.

"We've sent everyone information of what the law is," Hermanson said, "and what a drug-free workplace is. They were sent to all of the staff."

One of the compliance measures is already in place at Cuesta.

"A substance abuse committee has been set up for a long time," Hermanson explained. That committee will draft guidelines as to what actions will take place if the law is violated. If an employee were to be convicted of a drug related offense in the workplace then it would become a disciplinary action to be handled by the Cuesta College Board of Trustees.

The director of personnel for the Economic Opportunity Commission of San Luis Obispo, Bonnie Connelly, said her department hadn't done anything yet because information she has received from the government has raised a lot of questions for her.

"When do you refer them to rehabilitation? What if someone comes in to me and says they have this problem, it hasn't affected their work but they need help?" Connelly said she was unsure if an employee in that situation would have to be reported.

Connelly said attorneys are jumping on the bandwagon by putting on seminars to inform companies as to what they must do to comply with the law. Several companies are publishing brochures explaining sample programs that comply with the law.

"They (federal government officials) aren't telling how to disseminate information," Connelly said. She is gathering information and EOC's policy is pending until further discussion.

The legal council will review any policy drafted and approval by the EOC Board will be required before implementation, Connelly said.

EOC will reference their insurance policy which contains drug counseling provisions to help comply with the law. Connelly said she received notice from the Department of Health and Human Services that EOC would need to comply with the Act.

HHS funds the Head Start Program EOC also receives funds from the Department of Energy for the weatherization program.

EOC is a private non-profit organization which runs several programs for the poor, elderly and homeless in the county.

Cal Poly is using a referral system in their interim policy, Negrandi said. Drug counseling is available through the Cal Poly Health Center, but for the purposes of the policy, county agencies would be used as referrals, he added.

Negrandi shook his head in frustration when he explained that the Drug-Free Workplace Act was adding responsibilities to the personnel office without providing the means to implement them.

"New things get added," he explained, "but there's no additional funding. It's just one more thing to absorb. We just do it."

HIS funds the Head Start Program EOC also receives funds from the Department of Energy for the weatherization program.

EOC is a private non-profit organization which runs several programs for the poor, elderly and homeless in the county.

Cal Poly is using a referral system in their interim policy, Negrandi said. Drug counseling is available through the Cal Poly Health Center, but for the purposes of the policy, county agencies would be used as referrals, he added.

Negrandi shook his head in frustration when he explained that the Drug-Free Workplace Act was adding responsibilities to the personnel office without providing the means to implement them.

"New things get added," he explained, "but there's no additional funding. It's just one more thing to absorb. We just do it."