Poly registration fees going up next fall

4.8 percent raise translates to $36 increase

By Leslie Morris

Cal Poly’s registration fees will go up next fall due to a plan approved Wednesday by the California State University Board of Trustees.

All state universities will experience a 4.8 percent fee increase. That does not include individual campus fees, such as for Associated Students Inc. or the University Union at Cal Poly.

Poly students with 6.1 units or more will pay $744 for the academic year compared to the current $708 fee. Students taking fewer than 6.0 units will pay $630 compared to $408. The fee increases were made to cover individual campus fees, such as for Associated Students Inc. or the University Union at Cal Poly. The fee increase proposed to the board was part of the 1990/91 support budget for the CSU system, said Ambrose. Although the increase was approved by the trustees, the plan must also be approved by Gov. George Deukmejian in the final state budget to be presented in June.

Financial aid will most likely match the increase in fees, according to Larry Wolf, director of financial aid. Out-of-state and foreign students will have to pay the higher registration fees as well as the current non-resident fee of $126 per unit.

The policy for determining fee increases was adopted by the legislature and signed by the governor in 1985. Fee increases are determined by averaging a percentage change over a three-year period in state cost per full-time equivalent (FTE) student. An FTE is equal to a student taking 15 units.

State costs to educate students in 1987/1988 were $5,506 per FTE, a 4.4 percent increase from 1986/87. Fees were reduced in 1988/89 by 0.9 percent to $5,459. But for the current year, state fees jumped 4.8 percent, amounting to $6,049. The percentage changes in state University Fee Levels:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>State University Fee Levels</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>$800.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>752</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>708</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>758</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>708</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SOURCE: CSU Chancellor’s Office

Picture this...

Mind your manners...

Has courtesy left the classroom? Reporter Leslie Morris comments on the increasing rudeness of both the students and professors.

Women’s soccer...

The lady Mustangs unfortunately lost their third game of the year, leaving little hope for a second conference title in two years.

Men’s soccer team receives wildcard berth in playoffs

By Adrian Hodgson

The Cal Poly men’s soccer team lost its crucial California Collegiate Athletic Association game against Dominguez Hills 4-1 Saturday, but the Mustangs used the back door to make the playoffs, gaining their second wildcard berth in three years.

Saturday afternoon’s loss, combined with CSU Northridge’s 2-1 victory over CSU Bakersfield Saturday night, gave the Mustangs a second place finish in the CCAA.

But Sunday, the national playoff selection committee chose Cal Poly as the wildcard team for the Western Region, just hours after the Mustangs wrapped up the regular season by tying 2-2 with the St. Mary’s Gaels, a Division 1 team.

Mustang Head Coach Wolfgang Gartner said Saturday’s game was closer than the score indicated.

After a scoreless first half, both teams came out attacking in the second half. The Toros scored after 20 minutes, but senior midfielder Grant Landy equalized moments later.

Gartner said his team then began to push forward, but strikers Tim Hire and Amin Sedam could not capitalize on scoring opportunities.

The Toros caught the Mustangs going forward and scored three quick goals, two within 30 seconds of each other.

“We were down 4-1 before we even knew it,” said sophomore defender/midfielder Lorenzo Cremona.

The Mustangs then had to wait and see who won the Matador-Roadrunner game, hoping Bakersfield would come out on top. If Bakersfield had won, the Mustangs would still have won the CCAA and Bakersfield would have finished second. Any other result would have given the league title to the Matadors, and second place to Cal Poly.

But the Matadors prevailed 2-1, coming from being 1-0 down at the half, and scoring on a controversial penalty kick 20 seconds from the end.

The Mustangs turned around Sunday and played what Gartner called “a great game against a good St. Mary’s team.”

The Mustangs scored first on a Sedam shot from 25 yards out, but the Gaels tied the score to send the game into overtime. With about seven minutes to go in the second period of overtime, the St. Mary’s squad out in front on a 35-yard shot which blew past a hapless Harry Croich.

However, Landy scored his second goal in as many days three minutes later. Rick Buchini took a long throw which Poe Allan was supposed to head to the far post. Landy said a defender beat Allan to the ball, but he did Allan’s job perfectly, heading the ball to the far post, where Landy headed it in.

One of the reasons Cal Poly made the playoffs may have been its undefeated record against Division 1 schools this season; the team was 2-0-5 against Division I opponents.

The Mustangs must now prepare for the challenge of a game against Northern California Athletic Conference champion CSU Hayward. The game will be played Friday night at Mustang Stadium at 7 p.m. Cal Poly beat Hayward 1-0 in a pre-season game in September.
Students pros forget manners

By Leslie Morris

I once had a math teacher who evoked great fear in his ninth grade students. It was not his great height, for he was a short man. Nor was it his knowledge or presence. Instead, this man was guaranteed to have the attention of every student during his lectures because some of them were caught talking among themselves, this man would put them with a small piece of chalk about 20 miles per hour, aimed at their forehead. Every time it was a perfect hit.

Nevertheless, I learned more in that class than any other since.

Ever since I arrived at Cal Poly over a year ago, I have been shocked at the lack of respect students have for their professors. I have been even more surprised at the lack of respect some professors have for their students.

In just about every class I attend, students do one particular thing that I find especially rude. About five minutes before the class is over, the same group of people start shuffling their papers, closing their notebooks and preparing to leave. The worst part of this premature departure is when they open and close their backpacks. Sounds of zipping zippers fill the room, making it impossible to hear the professor or to concentrate.

I have even been in classes, as much as 10 minutes early, a student decides he is going to pressure the professor into stopping his lecture. Packing up is an informal way of saying, "You are boring us; don't make a fool of yourself any longer. I have better things to do.

In my business class of 250 people in the Cal Poly Theatre, I am unfortunatly, in front of rambunctious freshmen who gab for two hours about who likes who and how they got over the weekend.

In my public relations class the other day, a student stood up and put a chair closer to me. Lo and behold, my hands felt a multitude of chewed gum wads plastered under the seat. Is it so hard to stand up and walk over to the trash can? At home, do those people throw their trash on the floor and under the kitchen table?

If that's not enough, I am sick and tired of reading the dirty words engraved on the chairs. I don't want the hint about mansions.

I think it's long overdue that students and professors be reminded of their manners -- or lack of them. (For students and professors who do have manners, disregard this notice.)

Determining guilt not up to reader

Editor — What in the hell is going on at Cal Poly? That question has been niggling in my mind for a couple weeks now. Recently, articles claiming Wendy Reynoso and Everardo Martinez have been harassed by Armando Pezo-Silva and Edelin Martinez have run in the Mustang Daily.

I'm writing in response to Julie Jacob's letter (responding to the Oct. 30 article) on Nov. 6. Jacobs systematically manufactured a vicious assault on the two men and at one point even had the audacity to write that "they should be arrested or put in mental institutions.

Jacobs based her statements on what she read in the newspaper. She is, I assume, honest or cautious or sometimes even ignorant. This is my theory, which may appear to be, no facts have been presented to me. The job of determining guilt or innocence is with the Chancellor's Office. It's imperative that Jacobs and those like her realize that in America, in 1989, people are still innocent until proven guilty. In this instance, her pernicious words have been aimed toward people who are still innocent.

Sharon Jones
City and Regional Planning

Poly harassment case one of many

Editor — It is National Organization for Women's opinion that harassment allegations will surface in all phases of city, county, state and federal government. This is just the tip of the iceberg.

Cal Poly is stepping into the spotlight. You would think the college would draw a connection between their lack of action and that of county administrators in protecting employees' rights to work in an environment free of sexual harassment.

Similar to the Paul Floyd case, Cal Poly is following the country's example of ignoring sexual harassment despite numerous reports and allegations, thereby setting themselves up for a serious financial catastrophe.

If Cal Poly had handled the case in public place, it would not be in this position or looking at the inevitability of litigation at the federal level.

Pat Renshaw
NOW coordinator

CORRECTIONS

An article Nov. 6 gave an inaccurate version of the last paragraph as to when Allen Severo bought his Lansing house. The purchase was made in 1983.

Also, the center section with all the candidates' profiles was written by Steve Jones. We regret having left off his byline.
Governor, mayor candidates ‘negative’ in state elections

Candidates confident in Virginia, New Jersey, New York

Candidates are sticking to negative themes entering today's final day of the campaign for governor of Virginia and New Jersey and mayor of New York, with Democrats sounding confident the results will give them off-year political bragging rights.

The campaigns of Democrats L. Douglas Wilder and David Dinkins to score racial breakthroughs in Tuesday's elections are sharing attention with the changing impact of abortion as a political issue.

Bidding to become the first black elected governor of any state, Wilder is battling Republican J. Marshall Coleman in a Virginia contest in which the race was rarely mentioned until the closing days.

Republican Rudolph Giuliani said Sunday that if he is elected mayor of New York he will order abortions performed only in a new public hospital.

The two races for governor and the New York mayoral contest are getting the most attention in a light political year being watched for political trends that might impact on the 1990 elections when 34 Senate seats, 36 governorships and 435 House seats are on the ballot.

In New Jersey, 11 candidates are trying to fill the House seat held by the Rep. Mickey Leland who was killed in a plane crash in Africa.

New York is only one of hundreds of cities holding elections around the country. In Detroit, 71-year-old Mayor Coleman Young is trying to fight off a spirited challenge from 46-year-old Tom Barrow, the man he beat 24 years ago.

Cleveland voters are choosing between Clevelandman George Forbes and state Sen. Michael R. White in a contest marked by nasty personal attacks from both sides.

Two cities — New Haven, Conn., and Seattle — are considered likely to elect their first black mayors. State Sen. John Daniels upset the Democratic establishment choice in his party's primary in New Haven, a city that is 30 percent black. Norm Rice is the favorite in Seattle where blacks are only a small percentage of the electorate.

The campaign's list of ballot propositions includes proposals to finance a new baseball park in San Francisco and to express opposition to cruise missile testing in Maine.

Facing the possibility of losses in the three most visible 1989 races, Republican Party chairman Lee Atwater minimized the significance of this year's midterm contests.

"All politics is local," Mr. Atwater told David Brinkley on ABC's "This Week." "We are getting the most attention in a light political year being watched for political trends that might impact on the 1990 elections when 34 Senate seats, 36 governorships and 435 House seats are on the ballot.

The emotional question of legalized abortion showed the strongest potential for a political breakthrough at the gateway to the 1990s. During the past decade opponents of legalization claimed credit for helping elect supporters of their view, including Republican presidential candidates Ronald Reagan and George Bush, and defeat several members of Congress who supported abortion rights.

But last summer's Supreme Court decision opening the way for districts to restrict access to abortions appeared to energize advocates of legalization.

The current crop of ads pro-claiming his support for abortion rights are the work of Denver, Courten and Giuliani all found themselves trying to temper their opposition.

Drug prosecutions in LA down according to report

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A shortage of federal attorneys has caused Los Angeles to trail off other large jurisdictions in prosecution of alleged narcotics violators, the chief U.S. attorney here says.

Gary Fees, acting U.S. attorney for Los Angeles, said fewer federal attorneys are assigned to the district than to some of the other cities surveyed for a private study.

The study, released this week, looked at 1980-87 federal prosecutions in Boston, Manhattan, Brooklyn, N.Y., Baltimore, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco, Newark, N.J., and Hartford, Conn., in addition to Los Angeles.

Seventeen percent of all federal charges against individuals in Los Angeles were drug-related, versus an average of 24 percent for all 11 prosecutors' offices, the report said.

The study also found that the Central California District, which includes Los Angeles, failed to increase its per-capita convictions rate of all federal criminal defendants over the period.

A majority of other jurisdictions surveyed posted increases when the report was prepared by the Transactional Records Clearinghouse, a nonprofit research group at Syracuse University.

In Los Angeles, fees had restored the missing federal attorneys violators, the chief U.S. attorney here says.

The study found that Los Angeles had 100 assistant federal prosecutors, while Manhattan had 128, Fees said. But the Los Angeles district had a population of nearly 12 million, compared to a little more than 4 million for the Manhattan district.

Since 1987, Los Angeles has received about 30 more assistant U.S. attorneys, but Fees said he believes the office is still badly understaffed.

"You come down here and look at people with dark circles under their eyes because they're fighting an avalanche of federal crimes and it gets pretty frustrating," he said.

The lower drug prosecution rate reflected the "tugs and pulls" of other high-priority cases in the Central District, Fees said. The district includes Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties.

DISCOVER HOW YOUR TALENTS FIT IN WITH OUR NEEDS!

R.R. DONNELLEY & SONS COMPANY

the nation's largest commercial printer

$ COMING TO CAL POLY!

Information Session
Sunday, Nov. 12, 6:00-9:00pm
Embassy Suites at Madonna Plaza

ALSO

On Campus Interviewing
Monday, Nov. 13 - all day
Career Placement Center

We are looking for hardworking individuals to join our growing Los Angeles Division as:

 Manufacturing Management Trainee
 Human Resources Coordinator
 Pressroom Training Coordinator
 Programmer/Analyst
 Customer Service Rep./Account Administrator
 Production Coordinator

 If you are unable to attend either of these events you may send a resume to Human Resources Coordinator, R.R. Donnelley & Sons, 19681 Pacific Gateway Drive, Torrance, CA 90502.

R.R. Donnelley & Sons is an Equal Opportunity Employer

R.R. DONNELLEY & SONS COMPANY

R.R. Donnelley & Sons is an Equal Opportunity Employer

* ★

R.R. Donnelley & Son, 19681 Pacific Gateway Drive,
Torrence, CA 90502
WASHINGTON (AP) — The first plane in a Customs Service fleet of radar domes, according to the documents, was ordered to detect enemy submarines, but the new electronics have trouble locating and tracking them.

Deficiencies have included an unreliable computer system that has trouble locating and tracking smugglers; faulty on-board gadgets and color displays — but a lot of the basic requirements for useful detection and tracking are absent.

The documents, problems with the electronics cropped up almost immediately after Lockheed delivered the first four-engine turboprop to the Corpus Christi, Texas, main support center in June 1988.

One Customs source said the plane’s range and speed readings have been so unreliable that crewmen worry that interceptors they send after a drug plane could end up colliding with the target.

"You can't use the system for interception and that's what this magic is all about," said a crew member who would speak only on condition of anonymity.

Magic Mountain building $8 million 'scream machine'

VALENCIA, Calif. (AP) — Fans of white-knuckle thrill rides soon will be undulating on what Six Flags Magic Mountain bills as "the ultimate scream machine" — the world’s tallest, fastest looping steel roller coaster.

"It will dwarf any other roller coaster anywhere in height, size and speed," said Joseph Schillaci, the amusement park’s president.

The $54 million ride, called "The Viper," will spiral riders over a course carrying them upside down seven times, reach speeds of 70 mph and change elevation 16 times. It is scheduled to open this spring.

In 2 and a half minutes, Viper will soar 188 feet above the ground, flip through three vertical loops, career into a 360-degree corkscrew and twist into a 40-foot-high, 200-foot-long head-to-foot loop.

"Viper is, quite simply, the ultimate scream machine that modern technology can buy," said Schillaci.

Viper, which will be located near the Revolution roller coaster on the south side of the 260-acre Magic Mountain, joins the Magic Mountain family of roller coasters, which include such rides as Colossus, Ninja and Gingerbread.

Construction plans for the steel and concrete serpent will be unveiled Friday at Magic Mountain, north of downtown Los Angeles.

Study lists narcotics safe for breast-feeding infants

CHICAGO (AP) — Mothers who breast-feed their babies while taking tranquilizers or other drugs to combat the "baby blues" are subjecting their infants to unknown health risks and should check with their doctors, says a report issued Sunday.

The report, a policy statement by the American Academy of Pediatrics, says drugs that tranquilizers such as diazepam, antidepressants such as imipramine, and 17 other similar medications "may be of concern" to nursing mothers. Diazepam is marketed as Valium and imipramine is marketed as Tofranil, SK-Pramine and Imavate.

The effect of such drugs on babies who ingest them through breast milk is unknown, said the academy, an organization of 37,000 pediatricians which is based in suburban Elk Grove Village.

"It's a dilemma," said Dr. Cheston Berlin, a member of the AAP Committee on Drugs and author of the report. "For some of these women, nursing's important to them. Taking their medicine is also going to be important."

The committee stopped short of advising mothers against using anti-depressants, anti-anxiety drugs and anti-psychotics, recommending rather that women consult their doctors.

The report is the academy's 1983 statement.
Deukmejian signs temporary tax hike into law

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. George Deukmejian ferried hike to raise $800 million. "We will do what we have to do," said Deukmejian, who called the legislative package "absolutely necessary." The bill-signing ceremony took place at the Ferry Building, at the foot of the damaged San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and across the street from a section of the Embarcadero Freeway that has been closed and reinforced with beams.

State lawmakers approved the package over the weekend during a three-day special session, although the deal was nearly derailed by partisan sparring. The governor said he signed the bill because "there was no alternative.

The temblor collapsed parts of the Embarcadero Freeway and across the street from a section of the Ferry Building, at the foot of the damaged San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and across the street from a section of the Embarcadero Freeway that has been closed and reinforced with beams. The temblor collapsed parts of the Embarcadero Freeway and across the street from a section of the Ferry Building, at the foot of the damaged San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and across the street from a section of the Embarcadero Freeway that has been closed and reinforced with beams.

The temblor collapsed parts of the Embarcadero Freeway and across the street from a section of the Ferry Building, at the foot of the damaged San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and across the street from a section of the Embarcadero Freeway that has been closed and reinforced with beams.
By Adrian Hudson

The Cal Poly women’s soccer team used a devastating 1-0 loss to UCLA Sunday, giving it little more than a faint chance to capture the California Collegiate Women’s Soccer Conference for the second straight year.

“They played better than we did,” said Mustang Head Coach Keith Coleman. “They dominated the first half.”

Both teams played cautiously in the first 20 minutes, but the Bruins looked more dangerous. Clean, crisp passing, especially by forwards Sondra Sharkin and Sonya Munear, created many scoring chances for UCLA, but the Mustang defense turned them away each time they threatened.

The Bruins finally broke through five minutes before halftime. A corner kick was headed high in the air, dangerously close to Poly’s goal. Mustang fullback Jennifer Silva tried to clear the ball, but it hit her leg and precariously trickled across the goalline. Bruin midfielder Lisa Vanderburg was waiting at the far post to push the ball into the open net for the game’s only score.

Bruin Head Coach Paul Tanasy was pleased with his team’s performance.

“It took us a while to get going,” he said, “but once we got started we pressured (Cal Poly) and the ball.”

The Mustangs controlled most of the play after halftime, but could not get dangerous shots on Bruin goalkeeper Jennifer Goldstein. The Mustangs’ best scoring chance came soon after halftime when senior midfielder/forward Janet Van Soest was given a through ball by fullback Allison Inman. Van Soest beat a defender and crossed to Diana Branda, but Goldstein reached the ball and pulled it in as Branda was about to level the score.

Poly did not help itself as players failed to communicate between themselves and tried to play everything up the middle instead of out wide to the wings.

Content with Saturday’s 2-0 win over CSU Northridge, the Mustangs are now 9-3 in the CCWSC and 11-3 overall. They finish their league season next weekend with games at UC Riverside and San Diego State.

Cal Poly will then host the CCWSC state tournament Nov. 17 and 18, which will feature all eight conference teams.

Coleman said that his team must raise its intensity level and get back to the basics if it wants to win the tournament.

Los Angeles (AP) —

When Bo Jackson is at the plate or in the backfield, don’t blink.

When Bo Jackson is at the plate he’s through.

He’s played in only 21 NFL games and has surpassed the 100-yard mark in rushing just three times, yet Bo inspires those who watch him to say he’ll be one of the all-time greats before he’s through.

Jackson is already pretty close.

“Bo is as advertised,” Cincinnati Bengals' defensive lineman Bob Golic said. “He’s played in only 21 NFL games and was a blur during a frantic-record 92-yard touchdown run late in the opening period.

“I didn’t even sit down anymore, because I’m afraid I’ll missing something,” Raiders defensive lineman Bob Gollic said. “Thank God for that big replay board at the end of the stadium, so I can see what I missed when I turn my head.”

The 92-yard dash was a simple sweep of left end. Once Jackson turned the corner, he was history.

“My grandmother could have run that play,” he said. “I looked ahead of me, and there was not a man in green.”

Bengals' corner back Eric Thomas chased Jackson for a minute, but it was in vain.

“That’s some run,” Thomas said. “He just sort of dipped inside and ducked outside, and then he outran everybody. Bo Jackson probably is the best back I ever played against.”

Jackson’s personal history has been well documented. The 1985 Heisman Trophy winner at Auburn, he originally opted for baseball as a professional, rejected Tampa Bay after the Buc May 25, 1982.

Jackson responded modestly to the praise.

“When he’s not running for the Raiders, Jackson is hitting for the Royals,” Golic said.

Jackson probably is the best back the Royals have had since George Brett.

“This season, he had 32 homers, 105 RBIs and stole 26 bases,” Golic said. “Jackson responds modestly to all the praise.”

“The people responsible for my runs are really the linemen and my fullback (Steve Smith),” he said. “I do what I do, I don’t try to do things I know I can’t do.”

What those were, Jackson didn’t say.

“I only do what I do because of all these other guys that help me,” he said. “Today was just another day at the office.”

In his four games this season, Jackson has gained 447 yards on 63 carries (7.4) and scored four touchdowns.

“Bo, page 8
Payments ranging from $25,000 a day are typical of the money for varying reasons. For some, the payments may be delayed for several months beyond the February target date. "I don't think it's realistic to expect we'll have money flowing before next year," Pretl said, predicting that individual awards may range from $25,000 to $250,000. Pretl said that many thousands of women with active claims may get relatively little money for varying reasons. For example, they may have used more than one brand of device, he said. And most women who will receive substantial awards likely will have to pay one-third to their lawyers.

Sales of the Dalkon Shield ended in 1974 but the product was not actually recalled until 1984. A.H. Robins, based in Richmond, Va., created the $2.5 billion trust fund as part of its 1985 reorganization under federal bankruptcy law. The bankruptcy was sparked by thousands of lawsuits by women who had used the device. Some 9,000 cases were settled before the bankruptcy declaration. The range of payments made under those settlements are being delayed for a four-member committee that will decide the size of individual awards.

Appointed by U.S. District Judge Louis Merhige of Richmond, the committee is chaired by Virginia Viner of the Fordham University law school in New York. The challenge acted on Monday, contended that the settlement wrongly bars future lawsuits against A.H. Robins officials and others, and that $2.5 billion may not be enough money to compensate all women.

Only Justice Byron R. White voted to grant full review to those arguments. Under the bankruptcy reorganization plan, American Home Products Corp., a New York-based business, has agreed to buy A.H. Robins and fund the trust.

`````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````

Classified

Campus Clubs

AMA
Guest speaker Bill Haller from Sunday Times Travel, Meeting: 11 of Apr 229
S.T.: Thurs 7:00 pm at call
at or call Matt 544-6532

MEETING SKI CLUB
Today 11:00 am at Skis for the Rich

SCE MEETING
WE WILL NOT MEET NEXT WEEK GUEST Speaker for next week TRIP INFO DON'T MISS OUT

WATER SKI MEETING
Meeting: 11 of Apr 229
S.T.: Thurs 7:00 pm at call
at or call Matt 544-6532

Announcements

SISO COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARDS For the class of 1990 or student volunteer projects that have been completed by student groups in the local community. Submit by March 11 to Lanni LMU 217 Applications due No. 5

ARMS AND THE MAN
Sharing our arms and skills in service of the war-disabled. The leader is looking for new members. Calls to the club at 805-772-6288 ext. 5780. Thurs Night 10-11. Meetings at 12:15 pm

Personal Ads

CAMPUS CLASSIFIED

Return last hurdle in Dalkon Shield battle

Baltimore lawyer Michael Pretl, who also represented women who alleged injuries, said payments may be delayed for several months beyond the February target date. "I don't think it's realistic to expect we'll have money flowing before next year," Pretl said, predicting that individual awards may range from $25,000 to $250,000.

Pretl said that many thousands of women with active claims may get relatively little money for varying reasons. For example, they may have used more than one brand of device, he said. And most women who will receive substantial awards likely will have to pay one-third to their lawyers.

Sales of the Dalkon Shield ended in 1974 but the product was not actually recalled until 1984. A.H. Robins, based in Richmond, Va., created the $2.5 billion trust fund as part of its 1985 reorganization under federal bankruptcy law. The bankruptcy was sparked by thousands of lawsuits by women who had used the device. Some 9,000 cases were settled before the bankruptcy declaration.

The range of payments made under those settlements are being delayed for a four-member committee that will decide the size of individual awards.

Appointed by U.S. District Judge Louis Merhige of Richmond, the committee is chaired by Virginia Viner of the Fordham University law school in New York. The challenge acted on Monday, contended that the settlement wrongly bars future lawsuits against A.H. Robins officials and others, and that $2.5 billion may not be enough money to compensate all women.

Only Justice Byron R. White voted to grant full review to those arguments. Under the bankruptcy reorganization plan, American Home Products Corp., a New York-based business, has agreed to buy A.H. Robins and fund the trust.

`````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````

Classified

Campus Clubs

AMA
Guest speaker Bill Haller from Sunday Times Travel, Meeting: 11 of Apr 229
S.T.: Thurs 7:00 pm at call
at or call Matt 544-6532

MEETING SKI CLUB
Today 11:00 am at Skis for the Rich

SCE MEETING
WE WILL NOT MEET NEXT WEEK GUEST Speaker for next week TRIP INFO DON'T MISS OUT

WATER SKI MEETING
Meeting: 11 of Apr 229
S.T.: Thurs 7:00 pm at call
at or call Matt 544-6532

Announcements

SISO COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARDS For the class of 1990 or student volunteer projects that have been completed by student groups in the local community. Submit by March 11 to Lanni LMU 217 Applications due No. 5

ARMS AND THE MAN
Sharing our arms and skills in service of the war-disabled. The leader is looking for new members. Calls to the club at 805-772-6288 ext. 5780. Thurs Night 10-11. Meetings at 12:15 pm

Personal Ads

CAMPUS CLASSIFIED

Return last hurdle in Dalkon Shield battle

Baltimore lawyer Michael Pretl, who also represented women who alleged injuries, said payments may be delayed for several months beyond the February target date. "I don't think it's realistic to expect we'll have money flowing before next year," Pretl said, predicting that individual awards may range from $25,000 to $250,000.

Pretl said that many thousands of women with active claims may get relatively little money for varying reasons. For example, they may have used more than one brand of device, he said. And most women who will receive substantial awards likely will have to pay one-third to their lawyers.

Sales of the Dalkon Shield ended in 1974 but the product was not actually recalled until 1984. A.H. Robins, based in Richmond, Va., created the $2.5 billion trust fund as part of its 1985 reorganization under federal bankruptcy law. The bankruptcy was sparked by thousands of lawsuits by women who had used the device. Some 9,000 cases were settled before the bankruptcy declaration.

The range of payments made under those settlements are being delayed for a four-member committee that will decide the size of individual awards.

Appointed by U.S. District Judge Louis Merhige of Richmond, the committee is chaired by Virginia Viner of the Fordham University law school in New York. The challenge acted on Monday, contended that the settlement wrongly bars future lawsuits against A.H. Robins officials and others, and that $2.5 billion may not be enough money to compensate all women.

Only Justice Byron R. White voted to grant full review to those arguments. Under the bankruptcy reorganization plan, American Home Products Corp., a New York-based business, has agreed to buy A.H. Robins and fund the trust.

`````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````````
Short Takes

From page 5
Architects in San Francisco as the Turn of the Century," was a contributor to Sir Bannister Fletcher's recent edition of the History of Architecture. He is editing the "National Mall in Washington, D.C.," a history of the planning and design of the central plan of that city. He has worked in Richard Neutra's office professionally and is First Vice President of the Vernacular Architecture Forum. His talk is scheduled for Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Gallery of the School of Architecture and Environmental Design Building. His talk is being sponsored by the Architecture Department's Speakers' Forum.

Christmas booth forms available

Applications for food and beverage booths for "Christmas in the Plaza," which will be held in the Mission Plaza on Dec. 2 and 3, are available now, and may obtained at the San Luis Obispo Recreation Department office at 860 Pacific St. Applications will be taken on a first-come, first-serve basis until Nov. 10 at 5 p.m. Groups wishing to apply for food and beverage are required to provide proof of non-profit status. Booth fees are $30 for food and $45 for beer/wine. Ten percent of all profits from all booths must be turned into the city of San Luis Obispo within seven days of the close of the event. For more information, call Kelly Ware at 549-7305.

FEE HIKE

From page 1
over this three-year period were averaged to determine the fee increase for the 1990/91 academic year. Some concerned students have called the CSU office, said Ambrose, wondering why they paid more than $708 for its student union.

BO

From page 6

careers made him the first selection in the entire 1985 draft. But the Raiders took him in the seventh round of the 1986 draft, and he joined them after the 1987 baseball season for the first time.

Jackson, who turns 27 late this month, played in seven games that season and gained 554 yards in 81 carries. His best game as a pro came that year, on Monday night, Nov. 30, when he gained a team-record 221 yards on 18 carries against Seattle. His big play of the season was a 91-yard touchdown run, which stood as a franchise record until Sunday. That was the only game in which he surpassed the 100-yard mark in rushing as a pro until he gained 144 yards on 19 carries in the Raiders' 37-24 win over Washington on Oct. 29.

Jackson played 10 games for the Raiders in 1988, gaining 580 yards on 136 carries.

Simply Wonderful Résumés (fast)

541-6234

THE TECHNICAL SALES PROGRAM OF THE GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY

WOULD LIKE TO INTERVIEW YOU IF:

• YOU'RE AN ELECTRICAL OR MECHANICAL ENGINEER

• YOU'RE INTERESTED IN THE BEST TECHNICAL SALES TRAINING PROGRAM IN THE INDUSTRY

• YOU EXCEL ACADEMICALLY (IN TOP 1/3 OF CLASS), HAVE PROVEN LEADERSHIP SKILLS, POSSESS STRONG COMMUNICATION/INTERPERSONAL SKILLS, AND ARE GEOGRAPHICALLY FLEXIBLE

WE ARE INTERVIEWING ON CAMPUS NOVEMBER 13TH.

PLEASE SIGN UP AT THE PLACEMENT CENTER!!

Buy a 14K Ring at a 10K Price

(five special styles only)

November 6-8 10am-3pm

El Corral Bookstore

El Corral Bookstore

El Corral Bookstore