Unlikely allies back measure to recall 3 councilmembers

By David Holbrook

If politics does indeed breed strange bedfellows, then the alliance behind the recall drive to remove three San Luis Obispo City Councilmembers is a case in point.

Richie Ray Walker described himself as a biologist and environmental activist whose ideology has remained solidly on the left "since the '60s and throughout the '70s, '80s and '90s." He is the recall leader of the group, Citizens for Sensible Priorities, that has begun the drive to unseat Councilmembers Peg Pielow, Penny Rappa and Jerry Reiss.

Gary Kunkel is an economic libertarian who said he believes that the "environmental movement is being misdirected by the socialist ruse of big government." He is a fellow recall proponent of Walker.

What has brought these two individuals with broad, ideological differences together is their exasperation over what they allege is the City Council's tendency to focus on trivial issues, such as smoking, Spanish-style sidewalks and streetcars, at the expense of what Walker and Kunkel feel are the city's major priorities, namely, water, traffic and growth.

Both of these men have been active in local politics (they ran unsuccessfully for Council last year) and have interacted extensively with the City Council. Yet they both feel that neither they nor their concerns have been taken seriously by the council.

"I've been going to the City Council for over five years with three issues and my solution," said Walker, who first moved to San Luis Obispo in 1955 while he was in his early teens. "But the (City) Council philosophy is not to listen. If they're going to take care of city priorities, then they must change their smug and complacent attitude."

Kunkel also feels that the council is out of touch with his and other voters' concerns, but he takes a more diplomatic approach.

City says it will cover cost of keeping trolleys

By Erika DiIsi

The Sun Luis Obispo City Council decided by a 3-2 vote last week that the city will pay to keep trolley on the streets of downtown SLO.

Assistant City Administrator Ken Hampian presented the council with a four-month pilot program, which was introduced in August, had approximately $237,000. He said that the city has applied for a grant that would provide more than that money will come through.

The trolley program, which was established by the City Council for over five years with three issues and my solution," said Walker, who first moved to San Luis Obispo in 1955 while he was in his early teens. "But the (City) Council philosophy is not to listen. If they're going to take care of city priorities, then they must change their smug and complacent attitude."

Kunkel also feels that the council is out of touch with his and other voters' concerns, but he takes a more diplomatic approach.

City says it will cover cost of keeping trolleys

By Erika Dills

The San Luis Obispo City Council decided by a 3-2 vote last week that the city will pay to keep trolleys on the streets of downtown SLO.

Assistant City Administrator Ken Hampian presented the council with a four-month pilot program, which was introduced in August, had approximately $237,000. He said that the city has applied for a grant that would provide more than that money will come through.

The trolley program, which was established by the City Council for over five years with three issues and my solution," said Walker, who first moved to San Luis Obispo in 1955 while he was in his early teens. "But the (City) Council philosophy is not to listen. If they're going to take care of city priorities, then they must change their smug and complacent attitude."

Kunkel also feels that the council is out of touch with his and other voters' concerns, but he takes a more diplomatic approach.

City says it will cover cost of keeping trolleys

By Erika Dills

The San Luis Obispo City Council decided by a 3-2 vote last week that the city will pay to keep trolleys on the streets of downtown SLO.

Assistant City Administrator Ken Hampian presented the council with a four-month pilot program, which was introduced in August, had approximately $237,000. He said that the city has applied for a grant that would provide more than that money will come through.

The trolley program, which was established by the City Council for over five years with three issues and my solution," said Walker, who first moved to San Luis Obispo in 1955 while he was in his early teens. "But the (City) Council philosophy is not to listen. If they're going to take care of city priorities, then they must change their smug and complacent attitude."

Kunkel also feels that the council is out of touch with his and other voters' concerns, but he takes a more diplomatic approach.

City says it will cover cost of keeping trolleys

By Erika Dills

The San Luis Obispo City Council decided by a 3-2 vote last week that the city will pay to keep trolleys on the streets of downtown SLO.

Assistant City Administrator Ken Hampian presented the council with a four-month pilot program, which was introduced in August, had approximately $237,000. He said that the city has applied for a grant that would provide more than that money will come through.

The trolley program, which was established by the City Council for over five years with three issues and my solution," said Walker, who first moved to San Luis Obispo in 1955 while he was in his early teens. "But the (City) Council philosophy is not to listen. If they're going to take care of city priorities, then they must change their smug and complacent attitude."

Kunkel also feels that the council is out of touch with his and other voters' concerns, but he takes a more diplomatic approach.
Student thanks Poly supporters

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the students and faculty at Cal Poly for their support since I learned of my illness last May.

I would especially like to recognize Alpha Omicron Pi so­ called of the people who donated and merely mention the activities people are tearing them down.
This troubles our club a great desire for their posters say nothing offensive whatsoever.
and merely mention the activities
we are involved in and the times when we meet.

We understand very clearly that the mere mention of the words "pro-life" can anger some people.
It freezes that every mature adult would agree that destroying someone else's life is murder.

It accomplishes nothing and merely makes people feel self-righteous.

The destruction of our proper­ ity out of anger for our pro-life stated in the Los Angeles Times.
Since we have been available at our booth in the U.O.
for the sole purpose of discussing the issues calmly and maturely with people if they disagree.

We also encourage anyone who is interested to stop by our meetings every Monday night in Arch 204 at 7:30 p.m. We would be happy to talk to anyone,
whether they agree or disagree.
I am sure that these angry people who disagree with us would be very surprised by our respectful and courteous attitude about their ideas and viewpoints in a letters to the editor.
Environment

East Europeans may face winter hardships

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union and its former allies are likely to face the hardest winter since World War II as recession, compounded by rising oil prices, continues to deepen, U.N. economists said Tuesday.

The economists drew a grim picture of increasing food shortages in the Soviet Union, Bulgaria and Romania, scooting unemployment rates throughout the region and double-digit inflation. These threats could stall the whole reform process of moving from a command to a market economy.

"The consequences of such a failure are incalculable and would not only be economic," they warned in a 147-page report, which also pointed to "increasing signs of social unrest in the East."

"One certain effect would be to raise enormous pressures for emigration from the East to the West," said the survey, compiled by experts of the U.N. Economic Commission for Europe.

It noted that new Soviet legislation would soon allow unrestricted travel abroad.

Major elected as new British prime minister

LONDON (AP) — John Major, endorsed by Margaret Thatcher as the politician closest to her heart, was elected by the Conservative Party Tuesday night to succeed her as prime minister.

Major, 47, fell two votes short of winning a majority in voting among the 372 Conservative Party members of Parliament, but his two opponents quickly conceded defeat and the party confirmed Major as the winner.

See WORLD, page 6

Politics

Beijing will send top diplomat to capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — China's foreign minister will make an official visit to Washington on Friday, the first such encounter since before China's crackdown on pro-democracy demonstrators in June 1989.

But the State Department said the visit does not signal any change in the U.S. policy of barring high level exchanges with China. The policy does not preclude contacts but does not "signal any change," spokesman Michael Sullivan said.

See NATION, page 12

Crime

Walnut Creek woman recounts abduction

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Donna Oh, a Walnut Creek woman who vanished for nearly a month, told police Tuesday she was released in Southern California four days after being abducted but "traveled around" because the kidnappers threatened to kill her daughters if she went home.

Much of what happened to Oh remained a mystery on Tuesday as authorities tried to unravel the story.

See STATE, page 11

Consumer group says PG&E may raise rates

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A consumer group is warning Pacific Gas & Electric Co. customers that their bills next year are likely to go up, up, up.

Four years of drought and rising natural gas prices could push electric and gas rates up more than 11 percent and 17 percent, respectively, according to the ratepayer advocacy group Toward Utility Rate Normalization, or TURN. The utility has already asked the California Public Utilities Commission to approve $745.7 million in electric rate increases and $205.9 million in gas rate increases, said TURN Executive Director Andris Krause.

No one yet knows just how much residential utility rates will increase, but TURN, PG&E and PUC rate watchers agreed that electric rates will probably jump between 11 and 12 percent. Jan. 1.

Estimates for gas rate hikes vary from TURN's 17.5 percent to the utility's estimate of 9 percent.

The PUC is scheduled to act on the rate requests in late December and early next year.

By Karen J. Winkler

A newly emerging criticism of research by humanities scholars on race, class and gender sparked heated debate at the annual meeting of the American Studies Association this month.

For several years, conservative scholars have been the chief critics of what has come to be called "multicultural" scholarship — research that has added the study of various minority groups and the working class to the analysis of culture. But at the meeting here, several of the pioneers of such research said it was time to ask how well it had addressed the problems of the groups it had sought to help.

In particular, they and others have faulted recent multicultural scholarship for:

• A "political correctness" that has substituted oversimplified rhetoric and literary theory for an analysis of society.

• A "particularism" that has divided researchers into separate camps.

For several years, conservative scholars have been the chief critics of what has come to be called "multicultural" scholarship — research that has added the study of various minority groups and the working class to the analysis of culture. But at the meeting here, several of the pioneers of such research said it was time to ask how well it had addressed the problems of the groups it had sought to help.

In particular, they and others have faulted recent multicultural scholarship for:

• A "political correctness" that has substituted oversimplified rhetoric and literary theory for an analysis of society.

• A "particularism" that has divided researchers into separate camps.

• A "politics of style" that has substituted over-simplified rhetoric and literary theory for an analysis of society.

• A "political correctness" that has divided researchers into separate camps.

• A "politics of style" that has substituted over-simplified rhetoric and literary theory for an analysis of society.
North Dakota State demolishes Mustangs 47-0 to end 10-2 year

Bisons topple Poly with potent rushing offense
By Neil Pascale

---

The Cal Poly football team's bid to advance in the NCAA Division II playoffs was abruptly halted Saturday by a stomped-on North Dakota State Bison in a 47-0 loss.

In near-freezing temperatures and 35-40 mile-per-hour winds at Daodon-Stadium in Fargo, N.D., the Mustangs' No.2-ranked rushing defense in the nation yielded slightly more than 60 yards per game was unable to stop the Bison's option offense.

"We're not on an easy path, but I believe we're on the right one," said Salinas.

Bisons gain a comfortable 21-lead and amassed 224 rushing yards from a handful of ball carriers.

Head Coach Lyle Setencich said before Saturday's contest that the Bisons' option offense concerned him.

"The option can shred defenses as with lesser talent," Setencich said. "I'm not sure what could happen. They could blow us out, we could blow them out.

Unfortunately for Setencich and company, the latter wasn't the case.

The Bisons ground out two long drives and returned an interception for its third first-half touchdowns.

North Dakota State's second possession - a 11-play, 99-yard scoring drive - was an early indication of how the Bisons would go against Poly's defense.

All 11 North Dakota State plays on its first series of plays were via the ground.

Bison quarterback Chris Simondor opted to keep the ball six times in that series. His six attempts for 52 yards included 25, nine and 23-yard runs and a three-yard touchdown run.

Simondor, a finalist for the Harlon Hill Trophy, capped an 11-play, 82-yard, second-quarter Bison drive with a six-yard run into the end zone to extend North Dakota State's lead to 14-0.

The Bisons' final first-half score came with less than two minutes remaining in the second quarter.

On third and third at North Dakota State's 44-yard line, Poly quarterback David Lafferty hit Wes as he released the ball. Lafferty's pass was intercepted by Bison linebacker Bob Greenwood, who brought it back 39 yards for the touchdown.

North Dakota State also scored off another Mustang turnover early in the third quarter.

The Bisons recovered a fumble on Poly's 35-yard line as running back Joe Fragokisdakis hit just as he received a handoff from Lafferty.

North Dakota State needed only three running plays to run the score to 28-6 by a two-yard gain by running back Ted Moranz as tailback Tony Satter and fullback Marty Robb's 33-yard dash.

See Football, page 11

CITY COUNCIL

From page 1

approach to the recall.

"We'd like to see these people get the opportunity to see if they have majority support," said Kunkel, who graduated from Cal Poly in 1981 with a degree in mechanical engineering. "The recall election simply asks the voter to decide 'yes' or 'no' on whether or not they support the councilmember." All three councilmembers targeted by the recall won their seats by pluralities.

Kunkel acknowledged, however, that none of the recall petition drive reached its goal of 1,500 registered voters and thus qualifies for a special election, there is once again not likely to be any candidate on the ballot. To require candidates to receive the signatures of voters, would require a charter amendment to city law, Kunkel said.

Kunkel and Walker first joined forces on the successful petition drive led by Kunkel's group W.A.T.E.R., Water Action to Eliminate Ratification, which on Dec. 4 will give the City Council the option of accepting the recall petition or putting it on the ballot for the next election for the voters to decide. Kunkel expects the council to do the latter.

But the City Council's approval of the smoking ordinance last summer, the water issue, was the "straw that broke the camel's back," Kunkel said.

Besides its "intrusion" into how people run their businesses, the ordinance also will have a "cultural effect" on the "local economy that isn't strong," Kunkel said, citing Bob's Big Boy Restaurant's recent filing for bankruptcy and a 70 percent loss of business at Laurel Bowl.

While Kunkel emphasized the plight of economic liberties (like his smoking ordinance exacted, Walker chastened it for its violation of constitutional and personal rights.

"When you tell people how to run their own lives," he says, "then you have dictatorship controlled by a small body of people telling you what you should and what you shouldn't do."

Kunkel and Walker said Mayor Ron Dunn was spared from the recall drive because of his opposition to the smoking ordinance and because he was re-elected by a majority of the voters in last year's election. Kunkel said that even if the recall drive went through, it would be a majority of the voters in last year's election who would decide the outcome.

Councilmember Bill Rollman, who won a seat in last year's election, was not being targeted for recall, although Walker said he will support his fellow environmentalist.

"If it seems to support the people who made it, much of the city hall in recent years," said Walker when he will quickly become the focus of recall himself.

WATER, Water Action to Eliminate Ratification, which on Dec. 4 will give the City Council the option of accepting the recall petition or putting it on the ballot for the next election for the voters to decide. Kunkel expects the council to do the latter.

But the City Council's approval of the smoking ordinance last summer, the water issue, was the "straw that broke the camel's back," Kunkel said.

Besides its "intrusion" into how people run their businesses, the ordinance also will have a "cultural effect" on the "local economy that isn't strong," Kunkel said, citing Bob's Big Boy Restaurant's recent filing for bankruptcy and a 70 percent loss of business at Laurel Bowl.

While Kunkel emphasized the plight of economic liberties (like his smoking ordinance exacted, Walker chastened it for its violation of constitutional and personal rights.

"When you tell people how to run their own lives," he says, "then you have dictatorship controlled by a small body of people telling you what you should and what you shouldn't do."

Kunkel and Walker said Mayor Ron Dunn was spared from the recall drive because of his opposition to the smoking ordinance and because he was re-elected by a majority of the voters in last year's election. Kunkel said that even if the recall drive went through, it would be a majority of the voters in last year's election who would decide the outcome.

Councilmember Bill Rollman, who won a seat in last year's election, was not being targeted for recall, although Walker said he will support his fellow environmentalist.

"If it seems to support the people who made it, much of the city hall in recent years," said Walker when he will quickly become the focus of recall himself.

"When you tell people how to run their own lives," he says, "then you have dictatorship controlled by a small body of people telling you what you should and what you shouldn't do."

Kunkel and Walker said Mayor Ron Dunn was spared from the recall drive because of his opposition to the smoking ordinance and because he was re-elected by a majority of the voters in last year's election. Kunkel said that even if the recall drive went through, it would be a majority of the voters in last year's election who would decide the outcome.

Councilmember Bill Rollman, who won a seat in last year's election, was not being targeted for recall, although Walker said he will support his fellow environmentalist.

"If it seems to support the people who made it, much of the city hall in recent years," said Walker when he will quickly become the focus of recall himself.
Insight

Hospice...

Shedding light in the face of death

By Kathy Kenney

The holidays are a celebration of life. And that celebration will be brought home to San Luis Obispo County residents again this year by Hospice, a local, independently-run chapter of an international support organization that helps people deal with issues of death.

In Hospice’s sixth-annual Light Up A Life memorial, a spreading olive tree in Mission Plaza will shine with hundreds of lights, each bulb symbolizing the remembrance of a loved one.

“The lights are a way of remembering special people in our lives,” said Marcy Adams, coordinator of the memorial program. Family and friends can make a symbolic purchase of a light in remembrance of someone who has died or in honor of someone living, she said.

The tree will be lit during a celebration on Dec. 14 that will include a performance by The Joy of Music, a local children’s choir.

Trees in eight other communities in San Luis Obispo County also will be lit during the same week in December.

The Light Up A Life ceremonies are a way of bringing people together, Adams said, during a time of year that can be difficult if people have lost friends or family members.

Hospice is a non-profit organization incorporated in 1977 to serve the residents of San Luis Obispo County. The organization helps terminally ill people and their families deal with the physical, emotional and spiritual issues of death and dying. The holiday celebration, to be held in Mission Plaza, is a part of the Hospice services that provide bereavement care for people who are dealing with grief.

Hospice Program Director Susan McArthur said it is also a time to remember the real meaning of Christmas by celebrating life and love for one another.

Adams said the tree lights will shine through New Year’s as a symbol of how the memories of loved ones are kept alive throughout the holidays.

But Light Up A Life is not only a memorial service, it is also a celebration to honor the living, Adams said.

Within the Hospice philosophy is a belief that there should be dignity in whatever stage of life people are in, even when of death has come. “In our culture,” she said, “the dying stage is not always dignified.”

The Hospice staff, McArthur said, is dedicated to helping people go through the process of dying with as much control and dignity as possible.

While the Light Up A Life celebration is a way of celebrating the lives of people who may die soon, it is also an important fundraiser to help provide funds for more Hospice services. Hospice, a grassroots organization, is entirely supported through private donations.

Anyone can purchase a light on one of the nine memorial trees throughout the county with a $15 Hospice donation, Adams said.

Silver paper ornaments shaped as stars are given to donors to hang on their own trees as a reminder of the remembrance, Adams said, or they can be given to a person who is being honored.

Hospice is run by a staff of professionals and volunteers. The majority of care for clients, however, is provided by volunteers who go through an eight-week training program.

According to Hospice, volunteer care focuses on the joy of life while serving as a guide through emotionally and physically stressful times.

“You learn how to live your life in the context that you know you are going to die,” McArthur said. Hospice in-home care is provided free to anyone who is diagnosed as having six months or less to live.

Volunteer training covers such necessary issues as emergency procedures, listening skills and learning how to work as a team with nurses and, often, clergymen. The teamwork approach integrates the emotional, physical and spiritual aspects of total care for a person. But a lot of the training program, McArthur said, is devoted to helping volunteers get in touch with how they personally feel about death.

Arlene Ogata, a Cal Poly human development senior, went through the training as part of her experience as a Hospice intern. Although administrative interns do not actually work with clients, Ogata said her view of death has changed since she first came to Hospice.

Ogata said she thought working at Hospice would be scary and frightening since the services are for people diagnosed to die soon. “Now I see death not as a bad thing, but as a natural process,” she said.

Ogata said that seeing the daily attitudes of the Hospice staff changed her view about a topic many people want to avoid. It is obvious, she said, the people of Hospice come to work motivated by their love and dedication, and they want to be there.

When people are allowed to spend their last days at home instead of the hospital, she said, they have more control. Examples of that control include making decisions about when to eat and go to bed and having privileges such as allowing the grandchildren and the dog to sit on the bed. There is also the decision of whether to call the doctor if they want to be there.

In the profession of helping others enjoy what life they have left, McArthur said she also trains volunteers to help give clients the freedom to make choices.

When people are allowed to spend their last days at home instead of the hospital, she said, they have more control.

According to Hospice, volunteer care is provided to people who are almost a year and a half. The woman lived longer than doctors predicted, Allen said, so she was able to become close friends with her.

Characterizing herself as a non-judgmental listener, Allen said she would visit twice a week to offer the client a compassionate ear and emotional support.

“It’s like everything else ... when you have trouble, your friends vanish,” Allen said, because no one likes to be around when someone in the house is sick.

As the dying woman became less aware of people around her, Allen said she devoted more of her time and support to providing company and reassurance.

Anyone can purchase a light on one of the nine memorial trees throughout the county with a $15 Hospice donation, Adams said. Silver paper ornaments shaped as stars are given to donors to hang on their own trees as a reminder of the remembrance, Adams said, or they can be given to a person who is being honored.

Hospice is run by a staff of professionals and volunteers. The majority of care for clients, however, is provided by volunteers who go through an eight-week training program.

According to Hospice, volunteer care focuses on the joy of life while serving as a guide through emotionally and physically stressful times.

“You learn how to live your life in the context that you know you are going to die,” McArthur said. Hospice in-home care is provided free to anyone who is diagnosed as having six months or less to live.

Volunteer training covers such necessary issues as emergency procedures, listening skills and learning how to work as a team with nurses and, often, clergymen. The teamwork approach integrates the emotional, physical and spiritual aspects of total care for a person. But a lot of the training program, McArthur said, is devoted to helping volunteers get in touch with how they personally feel about death.

Arlene Ogata, a Cal Poly human development senior, went through the training as part of her experience as a Hospice intern. Although administrative interns do not actually work with clients, Ogata said her view of death has changed since she first came to Hospice.

Ogata said she thought working at Hospice would be scary and frightening since the services are for people diagnosed to die soon. "Now I see death not as a bad thing, but as a natural process," she said.

Ogata said that seeing the daily attitudes of the Hospice staff changed her view about a topic many people want to avoid. It is obvious, she said, the people of Hospice come to work motivated by their love and dedication, and they want to be there.

When people are allowed to spend their last days at home instead of the hospital, she said, they have more control. Examples of that control include making decisions about when to eat and go to bed and having privileges such as allowing the grandchildren and the dog to sit on the bed. There is also the decision of whether to call the doctor if they want to be there.

In the profession of helping others enjoy what life they have left, McArthur said she also trains volunteers to help give clients the freedom to make choices.

When people are allowed to spend their last days at home instead of the hospital, she said, they have more control.

According to Hospice, volunteer care is provided to people who are almost a year and a half. The woman lived longer than doctors predicted, Allen said, so she was able to become close friends with her.

Characterizing herself as a non-judgmental listener, Allen said she would visit twice a week to offer the client a compassionate ear and emotional support.

“It’s like everything else ... when you have trouble, your friends vanish,” Allen said, because no one likes to be around when someone in the house is sick.

As the dying woman became less aware of people around her, Allen said she devoted more of her time and support to providing company and reassurance.

See INSIGHT, page 16
MEAL TICKET PAYMENTS ARE DUE
DECEMBER 3, 1990

- PLEASE MAKE ALL CHECKS PAYABLE TO CAL POLY FOUNDATION.
- YOU MAY BRING YOUR CHECK TO THE FOUNDATION CASHER OR DEPOSIT YOUR PAYMENT IN ONE OF THE DROP BOXES LOCATED NEAR THE SNACK STOP IN THE U.U. AND IN THE LOBBY OF THE FOUNDATION ADMINISTRATION BUILDING.

Change in meal plans may be requested by completing a meal change request form available at the Foundation Cashier. Sorry, but change forms cannot be accepted after December 3, 1990.

Payments received after 5:00 p.m. on December 3, 1990 are subject to a $15 late fee, so please pay early!
Poor lighting on campus was one of the concerns raised by statistics professor Joyce Curry-Daly. Curry-Daly said current security programs are not doing enough to assure safety at Cal Poly.

Berrett said that three attacks were reported on campus during the summer quarter. He said that statistics indicate that one woman in three will be raped in her lifetime, and that a rape happens in the United States every six seconds.

Because of these facts and because of the low awareness that people have to the possibility of being victimized, Berrett developed and copyrighted a program called Violent Crime Avoidance Response, the only program of its kind in the world.

This is a program, offered on campus once a month, designed to cover the whole spectrum of crime and avoidance and, Berrett said, to teach people to use their heads while thinking on their feet.

"People learn the importance of having a plan," he said. "Knowledge makes people stronger and less fearful." Berrett said his program, which has been taught countrywide and in Europe, also teaches people how to think and how they select their victims. "The motivation for attack varies from attacker to attacker," he said. "You need to know how you will respond in a variety of situations." Berrett said that although the program incorporates a limited amount of physical defense tactics, "We put you in those positions where you have to think about it. Once you've done it, you won't forget."

Berrett said the program has been successful judging by the feedback he gets from people who have taken the course and found that it really did work when they had to use it. "It's better than a video, brochure or a speaker," he said of the program, because people retain the knowledge they get from being involved.

The program also addresses such traditional recommendations as carrying car keys in hand to use as a weapon if attacked.

"It's dangerous to give people confrontational advice," he said. "There is a real science to dealing with attackers and crazy people. Sometimes using keys to hurt someone will just make them madder and sometimes using keys to hurt someone will just make them madder and panic sets in. What do you do?"

"As you get closer to your car, the bushes rustle suspiciously and panic sets in. What do you do?"

Curry-Daly quoted the rule of campus administration when it comes to student safety. "Every other light in the parking lot is turned off, and the new lot up by the Agriculture building is quite dark," she said. "It seems that our campus is large and sprawling, and the administration has a responsibility to provide for students' safety."

There are, she said, entire stretches of campus parking lots with no lighting, and there are some tall hedges which can block one's view and provide an easy hiding place. "This being the case, the scenario mentioned earlier could happen," Curry-Daly said.

So what should students do if they suspect danger in such a situation? "The smart thing would be to run to a place that has light and people," said Ray Berrett, Cal Poly Public Safety investigator. "The crime rate here is the same as L.A., on a per capita basis," he said Monday. "In fact, you're probably safer in L.A. because people in big cities are more security-conscious."

FACTS ABOUT YOUR PEERS
FACT: Over 55 California students managed their own business last summer.
FACT: Their average earnings for the summer of 1990 were $10,700.
FACT: They continued to prove a decade long track record in business success.
FACT: Over 55 California students managed their own business last summer.
FACT: Their average earnings for the summer of 1990 were $10,700.
FACT: They continued to prove a decade long track record in business success.

By Deborah Holley

You leave the library just as it turns dark. Arms full of books, you're walking to your car and you notice that it's parked in an area that does not have much light. You hear a sound in the bushes by your car, and you begin to feel a little nervous. As you get closer to your car, the bushes rustle suspiciously and panic sets in. What do you do?

"One of my students is from Los Angeles, and she would not walk alone to her car, so she waited for me to go with her," Curry-Daly said. "She knows what kinds of things can happen."

Curry-Daly quoted the rule of campus administration when it comes to student safety. "Every other light in the parking lot is turned off, and the new lot up by the Agriculture building is quite dark," she said. "It seems that our campus is large and sprawling, and the administration has a responsibility to provide for students' safety."

There are, she said, entire stretches of campus parking lots with no lighting, and there are some tall hedges which can block one's view and provide an easy hiding place. "This being the case, the scenario mentioned earlier could happen," Curry-Daly said.

So what should students do if they suspect danger in such a situation? "The smart thing would be to run to a place that has light and people," said Ray Berrett, Cal Poly Public Safety investigator. "The crime rate here is the same as L.A., on a per capita basis," he said Monday. "In fact, you're probably safer in L.A. because people in big cities are more security-conscious."

FACT: These students all managed with Student Painters and gained valuable management expertise.
FACT: Their average earnings for the summer of 1990 were $10,700.
FACT: Over 55 California students managed their own business last summer.
FACT: Their average earnings for the summer of 1990 were $10,700.
FACT: They continued to prove a decade long track record in business success.
FACT: Over 55 California students managed their own business last summer.
FACT: Their average earnings for the summer of 1990 were $10,700.
FACT: They continued to prove a decade long track record in business success.

Berrett said the program has been successful judging by the feedback he gets from people who have taken the course and found that it really did work when they had to use it. "It's better than a video, brochure or a speaker," he said of the program, "because people retain the knowledge they get from being involved.

The program also addresses such traditional recommendations as carrying car keys in hand to use as a weapon if attacked.

"It's dangerous to give people confrontational advice," he said. "There is a real science to dealing with attackers and crazy people. Sometimes using keys to hurt someone will just make them madder and panic sets in. What do you do?"

"As you get closer to your car, the bushes rustle suspiciously and panic sets in. What do you do?"

Curry-Daly quoted the rule of campus administration when it comes to student safety. "Every other light in the parking lot is turned off, and the new lot up by the Agriculture building is quite dark," she said. "It seems that our campus is large and sprawling, and the administration has a responsibility to provide for students' safety."

There are, she said, entire stretches of campus parking lots with no lighting, and there are some tall hedges which can block one's view and provide an easy hiding place. "This being the case, the scenario mentioned earlier could happen," Curry-Daly said.

So what should students do if they suspect danger in such a situation? "The smart thing would be to run to a place that has light and people," said Ray Berrett, Cal Poly Public Safety investigator. "The crime rate here is the same as L.A., on a per capita basis," he said Monday. "In fact, you're probably safer in L.A. because people in big cities are more security-conscious."

FACTS ABOUT YOUR PEERS
FACT: Over 55 California students managed their own business last summer.
FACT: Their average earnings for the summer of 1990 were $10,700.
FACT: They continued to prove a decade long track record in business success.
FACT: Over 55 California students managed their own business last summer.
FACT: Their average earnings for the summer of 1990 were $10,700.
FACT: They continued to prove a decade long track record in business success.

Berrett said the program has been successful judging by the feedback he gets from people who have taken the course and found that it really did work when they had to use it. "It's better than a video, brochure or a speaker," he said of the program, "because people retain the knowledge they get from being involved.

The program also addresses such traditional recommendations as carrying car keys in hand to use as a weapon if attacked.

"It's dangerous to give people confrontational advice," he said. "There is a real science to dealing with attackers and crazy people. Sometimes using keys to hurt someone will just make them madder and panic sets in. What do you do?"

"As you get closer to your car, the bushes rustle suspiciously and panic sets in. What do you do?"

Curry-Daly quoted the rule of campus administration when it comes to student safety. "Every other light in the parking lot is turned off, and the new lot up by the Agriculture building is quite dark," she said. "It seems that our campus is large and sprawling, and the administration has a responsibility to provide for students' safety."

There are, she said, entire stretches of campus parking lots with no lighting, and there are some tall hedges which can block one's view and provide an easy hiding place. "This being the case, the scenario mentioned earlier could happen," Curry-Daly said.

So what should students do if they suspect danger in such a situation? "The smart thing would be to run to a place that has light and people," said Ray Berrett, Cal Poly Public Safety investigator. "The crime rate here is the same as L.A., on a per capita basis," he said Monday. "In fact, you're probably safer in L.A. because people in big cities are more security-conscious."

FACTS ABOUT YOUR PEERS
FACT: Over 55 California students managed their own business last summer.
FACT: Their average earnings for the summer of 1990 were $10,700.
FACT: They continued to prove a decade long track record in business success.
FACT: Over 55 California students managed their own business last summer.
FACT: Their average earnings for the summer of 1990 were $10,700.
FACT: They continued to prove a decade long track record in business success.
New club gives Poly students chance to move in ‘SLO Motion’

By Natalie Guerrero

Students who want to produce their own films and videos have been invited to join a new campus club called SLO Motion Pictures.

"Since Cal Poly does not offer any real film courses, hopefully we can fill this gap for people who are interested in the film industry," said Dave deVos, a speech communications major and the co-founder of the film club.

Black and white flyers put up by the club members are encouraging actors, writers, directors, photographers and assistants to get involved. The club stresses that no experience is necessary.

SLO Motion Pictures’ main goal is to give students a hands-on experience of the entire film-making process. From the beginning stages of an idea to filming scenes, club members will be able to put together their own commercials, films and movies.

"It takes a lot of work, but it is rewarding to learn the film process," deVos said.

Like photography, film-making is expensive. Members are responsible for their own project expenses. deVos said the club plans to help out members by fund raising, such as selling T-shirts.

Although expenses do add up, SLO Motion Pictures is finding ways to keep costs within a budget. The club is using video cameras and video editing equipment from Cal Poly’s audio visual department and film editing equipment is provided by the club.

SLO Motion Pictures is preparing now for the first California State University Film Festival. The event will be held next year at San Francisco State University and Humbolt State University. Any and all styles of films are accepted.

Also, a spring film festival just for Cal Poly students is in the planning stages. deVos said films made by students would play at Chumash Auditorium.

"The audience would become more conscious of the dangers of the situation." Berrett said he has been asking the administration for seven years to install call boxes in the parking lots. “I think the University needs to address the lighting and call box issues,” he said.

In fact, he said, San Luis Obispo as a town does not do much in the way of crime prevention. "It's a shame," he said. “Very few people know how to deal with dangerous situations.”

Steve Seybold, San Luis Obispo Crime Prevention officer, said that as a rule, people should be alert and ready to run if they are attacked while walking alone.

He advocated taking mental preparatory courses like the one offered at Cal Poly.

Seybold said San Luis Obispo doesn’t have as many kinds of assailants as one might find in a big city, "but we have our share of bizarre people." Seybold also recommended that people not act like victims. "Always act and walk assertively, don’t hunch," he said. “Be ready to fight. Most attackers expect a passive victim.”

Berrett said the classes are limited to 35 people and the reservation list fills up quickly. He encourages students to take advantage of the course, including men. Sexual assaults and attacks affect not only the women who are attacked but everyone else in their family, Berrett said.

Besides learning crime avoidance techniques, Berrett said that the program also builds confidence in other areas of life.

“One lady said she was able to play the piano better,” he said. “Some people are able to resolve old anxieties and fears.

"You can really find out about yourself in this program," Berrett said, “and find out what your capabilities are.”
WE DELIVER
CALL
544-3544
7 DAYS A WEEK
Delivery Available
Lunch and Dinner

Shakey's
PIZZA Restaurant

1015 Olive St. SLO
(next to Kentucky Fried Chicken)

BUNCH OF LUNCH
Lunch Buffet Served Daily 11:30am-2pm
Buffet Includes:
- Pizza
- Garlic Bread
- Chicken
- Pasta Bar
- Salad Bar
- Seconds on Shakey's

$3.49 plus tax
Selections May Vary
Expires 1/10/91

$4.00 OFF
ANY LARGE PIZZA
Expires 1/10/91

FREE
MEDIUM
PIZZA
Buy any medium pizza at reg. price and get another medium pizza of equal or lesser value free with this coupon
Expires 1/10/91
YOUR UNCLE WANTS TO PAY FOR COLLEGE. BUT ONLY IF YOU'RE GOOD ENOUGH.

Army ROTC scholarships pay tuition and provide an allowance for fees and textbooks. Find out if you qualify.

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL
CAPTAIN DAVE SINGLETON
AT 756-7682
OR DROP BY DEXTER HALL, #130

HOLIDAY SALE!
AT CALENDAR GIRL

9 MONTHS ONLY $99*

SALE

ENDS MON - DEC 3 !!!

(INCLUDES: 2-MONTH HOLD N/C)

Look your BEST with:
Low and High Impact Aerobics, Cardiofunk,
Body Sculpting, Brand New Weight Room,
Jacuzzi, Sauna, And More!!!

Calendar Girl
OPEN 7 Days a week
964 Foothill Blvd.
543-3465

*Price does not include $20 Membership Fee.

The City Council's decision to fund trolley maintenance and upkeep means tourists and residents alike can continue to ride trolleys like this one.

From page 1

one-year overview ... to continue to observe the service," he said. "It would be a good idea to have tokens (to use the trolleys) that could be purchased — maybe in the stores, or handed out with purchasing."

Reiss also suggested that not all tokens purchased would be used, because residents and tourists might buy extras as souvenirs, and the purchase of extra tokens would help pay for the trolleys.

The other councilmembers opted for city funding of the trolleys. The bulk of the money would come from the Transportation Development Act fund.

In a recent survey, ridership was shown to be about 18,000 per month in the tourist season, but that number has declined since the end of summer. The study indicated that 41 percent of the people were able to either park outside of the city core or not have to move their cars to go to another part of town.

The study's results strengthened Councilmember Peg Pinard's argument that the trolley is environmentally sensitive.

"If we are going to make a commitment to anything, this should be it," said Pinard, emphasizing that mass transit use helps to reduce exhaust created by car fumes.

This decision provides funding for the purchase of a used trolley and a new trolley. Both of the trolleys currently in use are leased from a company in San Diego.

For a used trolley, Hampian said that the price tag would be approximately $70,000. He said the most money the city would spend to buy a new trolley would be $140,000. Hampian notes that these are one-time operating costs, and that the trolleys would last approximately 10 years. He concluded that the yearly operating cost is about $44,000.
STATE

From page 3

piece together her story. The woman was last heard from on Nov. 2, but investigators have been unable to find her since then.

On Nov. 2, detectives from the Berkeley police department received a call from a woman who claimed to have seen Oh in Berkeley the previous night. The woman said Oh had told her that she was being taken to a hospital in Salt Lake City.

When detectives arrived at the location where Oh was supposed to be picked up, they were unable to find her. The woman who called the police said Oh had disappeared.

Detectives searched the area surrounding the hospital but were unable to locate Oh. They continued their search until Nov. 5, when they received a call from the FBI.

The FBI had located a woman who had been held captive in Utah for several days and was now in Salt Lake City. The woman said she had been held by the same individual who had taken Oh.

Detectives immediately flew to Salt Lake City to investigate the case. They found that Oh had been held captive by the same individual who had taken the woman from Utah.

Detectives were able to track the individual down and arrest him. They then took Oh to the hospital where she was reunited with her family.

Oh is now recovering from her injuries and is expected to make a full recovery. She has been praised for her courage and determination in surviving the ordeal.

The Berkeley police department is continuing to investigate the case and is urging anyone with information to come forward.

Legislative aides plead innocent to federal charges

SACRAMENTO (AP) - A legislative aide and a former aide pleaded innocent Tuesday to federal charges of shaking down special interests for money and dispensing money in return for special favors.

Darryl Freeman, a former legislative aide, pleaded innocent to two counts of conspiracy and money laundering. He is currently on administrative leave from the Assembly Rules Committee.

Freeman was arrested in connection with a case involving state Assemblywoman Gwen Moore, D-Long Beach.

Moore is charged with nine counts that include theft and money laundering.

Freeman's attorney, Jack Earley, said that based on juror affidavits the panel had ruled out first-degree murder charges against his client.

The six-man, six-woman jury deliberated four days before telling Whelan that they were deadlocked.

Prosecutors argued that she killed the couple in their bedroom after harassing and threatening them for several years.

Judge sets date for proceedings in murder trial

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Elisabeth Broderick, accused of killing her ex-husband and his new wife, returned to court Tuesday, a week after a mistrial was declared in her double-murder trial because of a deadlocked jury.

Presiding Superior Court Judge Jesus Rodriguez ordered Broderick to appear on Dec. 6 for two motions before Superior Court Judge Thomas J. Whelan, who presided over Broderick's first trial.

A new trial date will be set on Dec. 17.

Judge sets date for proceedings in murder trial

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Elisabeth Broderick, accused of killing her ex-husband and his new wife, returned to court Tuesday, a week after a mistrial was declared in her double-murder trial because of a dered.

The trial is expected to last six weeks.

Natters and Freeman are accused of shaking down special interests for money, of soliciting and accepting money to ease the legislative path for a special-interest bill sought by a dummy company set up by the FBI.

Natters is a former top aide to Assemblywoman Gwen Moore, D-Long Beach, whose office was searched two years ago by the FBI.

Broderick was named as a target in the search warrants.

The FBI is investigating the case involving state capital corruption.

In that probe, FBI agents posed as businessmen for a West Sacramento shrimp processing company and dispensed money in return for special favors.

Earlier this year, 11 people were arrested in the corruption convictions of former state Senators Joseph Montoya, D-Whittier, and Paul Carpenter, D-Long Beach.

Get the A&T Calling Card and your first call is free.

There's no better time to speak your mind. Because when you get your first free A&T Calling Card, you'll get your first 5-minute call free! With your A&T Calling Card, you can make calls from almost anywhere. And you can keep your card, even if you move and get a new phone number.

Our Calling Card is part of the A&T Student Services program, a whole package of products and services designed to make a student's budget go further.

So look for A&T Calling Card application brochures on campus the week of Nov. 20. Or call us at 1-800-525-7955, Ext. 655.

And let freedom ring.

A&T. Helping make college life a little easier.

A&T

The right choice.
FOOTBALL

From page 4
touchdown run up the middle.
Cal Poly, however, could not turndown mistakes into points.
After recovering a fumble at its 26-yard line in the first quarter, Poly moved the ball into Bliss territory with consecutive first downs and a personal-foul penalty against North Dakota
State.
One of those first downs, a 15-yard run by receiver Jason Brown, came on a third-and-six play.

An offensive-holding penalty and a sack on quarterback David Laflitty on Poly's next series of downs forced the Mustangs to punt.
The Mustangs recovered another Bliss fumble at its own 49-yard line in the second quarter.
That drive, however, was stalled by the first of two Laflitty interceptions.
The Mustangs ended the season 10-2 overall and were co-champions of the Western Football Conference with a 4-1 conference record.

By Angie Carlevato

Cal Poly's livestock judging team has finished another successful season.
The six-member team competed all year against other colleges and universities in judging beef cattle, sheep and swine. The contest not only involves placing livestock into classes but also oral pres-tation of reasons for those placements.
"The livestock is judged on breed type, market purposes,
visual appraisal and market value," said Coach Jim
Hyer, a Cal Poly animal science instructor and alumnus.

Ten hours of judging and preparing oral presentations is a typical day at a contest.
"From 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.,
the students judge 12 classes
of livestock, in both breeding and market classes within each breed," Hyer said. Then from 1 p.m. to 5 or 6 p.m., the students prepare and give eight
two-minute oral presentations.
"It's a very structured format they use to describe the livestock," he said.

It's a lot like a debate. The judges are looking for accur-cy, presentation and how well you can convince the judge of your placing," Hyer said.
Hyer's duties as a coach are to teach his team such things as the traits of a particular livestock species. Traits such as growth, size, structure, breed characteristics, muscle and fat content, condition, bone structure, body capacity and the incorporation of performance data.
"Cal Poly consistently has one of the top five programs in the U.S.," Hyer said.
This is exemplified by the team's performance at the following contests this year:
At the Junior and Senior Grand Nationals in San Fransisco, they won first place in Phoenix, Ariz., they tied for first place; they placed second at the Pacific International in Portland, Ore., and fifth at the American Royal in Kansas Ci-y, Mo.
The team practices year round. Next year's team will start practicing in December.

Two Great Gift Books

Livestock judging team ends another successful season

By Angie Carlevato

Cal Poly's livestock judging
team has finished another successful season.
The six-member team competed all year against other colleges and universities in judging beef cattle, sheep and swine. The contest not only involves placing livestock into
classes but also oral pres-
tation of reasons for those placements.
"The livestock is judged on
breed type, market purposes,
visual appraisal and market
value," said Coach Jim
Hyer, a Cal Poly animal science instructor and alumnus.

Ten hours of judging and preparing oral presentations is
a typical day at a contest.
"From 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.,
the students judge 12 classes
of livestock, in both breeding
and market classes within each breed," Hyer said. Then from
1 p.m. to 5 or 6 p.m., the
students prepare and give eight
two-minute oral presentations.
"It's a very structured format they use to describe the
livestock," he said.

The contest season starts Jan.
1 and goes through Nov. 15.
The team will compete every month, Hyer said.
"During January and February, we are planning to go to Phoenix, Denver, Fort Worth and Houston," he said.

To become a livestock judging team member, a 43-year-old Cal Poly tradition, students are required to complete two courses in livestock evaluation.
"Most students have had previous experience, but unlike many of the teams that com-cal Poly often trains students who have very little background in judging livestock," Hyer said.

The team members change every year, and each member has one year of eligibility. The team size varies from about six to 12 members. This year's team was: Mike Bianchi, ag-cultural management senior;
Mark Campbell, animal science freshman; Sean Costa, animal science senior; Polly Culbreath,
cultural management senior;
and Kristen Starkey, ag management junior.

The team practices year round. Next year's team will start practicing in December.

NATION

From page 3
does rule out exchanges of a "goodwill and common sense"
stance, a spokesman said.
Foreign Minister Qian Qichen will be in New York on Wednesday and Thursday for the U.N.
Security Council deliberations on the Persian Gulf. He will travel to Washington on Friday. On Monday, China announced that a vice minister of trade will visit
Washington next month.
As a member of the Security Council, China has been the target of a U.S. campaign for support for a resolution authorizing the use of force against Kuwait. The resolution would support the proposal, along with the four other permanent Council members.

"China's vote on the U.N. Security Council resolution will be based on its own national interest determination," said State Department deputy spokesman Boucher.
"To date, China has consistently held to the Security Council consensus on the gulf crisis and has voted for every one of the 10 Security Council resolations on Iraq's continuing aggression," Boucher said.
Boucher said that since the June 1989 rights crackdown, there have been four meetings between Qian and Secretary of State James Baker. There were two in New York, one in Paris and one three weeks ago in Cairo.
"While Minister Qian is in Washington we intend to explore ways to strengthen cooperation on global and regional issues and sincerely hope that ways to achieve improvement in bilateral relations, including further progress in the area of human rights that would permit a gradual return to normal high-level exchanges," Boucher said.
He said the U.S. approach is consistent with the policies of the European Community, Japan, and other countries.

The types of bilateral gatherings which no longer take place,
Boucher said, include cabinet level exchanges under the Joint Commission on Commerce and Trade, and the Joint Economic Commission. High-level military exchanges continue to be banned
as well.
SCIENCE

From page 6

Analyses of Society

The humanities are at a crisis point in today's multicultural scholar­ship. He called on cultural critics to pay more attention to analy­ses of society and social condi­tions to help them better under­stand issues of race, color and gender.

Originally, when American studies began in the 1930s as the interdisciplinary analysis of American culture, it represented a radical challenge to assump­tions about the inferiority of American art and literature. West said. Then, in the 1960s, scholars began to "scrutinize the dominant ideology" within that culture as they pursued new research on women and minority groups.

"I support this inclusion," West said. "But I think we also have to be critical of the nature of the process."

He claimed that research on race, class and gender had led to "a vast balkanization and fragmentation" of scholarship.

"An Invasion of Theories"

Since 1965, he said, "there has been a kind of de facto segreg­ation in academe.

There has been a German, French and Italian occupation of the American mind and an inva­sion by the theory of Derrida, Foucault, Gramsci and the Frankfurt school," he said. "These traveling theories have gone to different places, and people are having a difficult time speaking to one another."

Moreover, he said, "multicultural debates in literary and cultural studies today are "felled to the pit crisis," he said. "The scholarship is obsessed with canon formation over a canon bashing - it has become a battle between cultural sur­vivals."

The battle, he said, "plays the question - What are the critical approaches we should bring to bear on whatever canon we deal with?"

Moreover, he said, "debates about the canon and academic curriculum have become substitutes for analyses of the problems of women and minority groups in the world outside the academy."

Arguing that American in­fluence is declining abroad, that its political leaders are mediocre, and that violence against women and members of minority groups is increasing, West said that "never before in the history of this country has there been such a coincidence of national decline and cultural decay."

"We have to go beyond the ac­ademic politics of difference to look at these issues," he said. He called for new research to:

1. Put "social theory at the center."
2. Scholars should begin analyzing the structures and in­stitutions that have an impact on culture - such as market forces or the worldwide accumulation of capital by international corpora­tions, he said.
3. Undertake comparative study of those forces in different cultures.
4. Provide a synthesis that would look for the common concerns and issues that affect women and members of minority groups. Such a synthesis might focus on the "struggle on the part of minority groups."
5. "We need to ask, 'What do we mean by modern democracy and does American have the cultural resources to pursue that ques­tion?'" West concluded.

Panelists and members of the audience at the meeting here were sharply divided over the criticism.

Leo Marx, a professor of humanities at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, de­nounced recent scholarship in American studies for "signs of stultification in the use of jargon and the knee-jerk incantation of race, class and gender - as if that were all you had to say."

Marx, a pioneer of American studies, called for a return to a "holistic approach to culture that assumed American society and culture were definable, if segmented - that the parts con­stituted the whole." Other scholars disagreed. Annette Kolodny, dean of humanities at the University of Arizona, said the curriculum of American culture had to be intellectually responsible to the new scholarship and socially responsible to a new cohort of students."

"Spiraling Diversity"

Praising "the spiraling diver­sity" of recent research in American studies, she nevertheless urged scholars to go even further than they have in reconceptualizing American culture.

In literary studies, for exam­ple, Kolodny suggested a new definition of the American fron­tier as a "borderland" where differ­ent groups and populations have confronted new terrains.

Such an approach would span the cultural response to frontier experience of diverse groups as women, American Indians and immigrants, she said.

"It's too early to criticize the fragmentation of scholarship," Kolodny said in an interview after the meeting. "There are so many aspects of American culture that have yet to be ex­plored."

"The kind of work I outlined will generate a new core of ques­tions, but we are at too early a stage to tell what they will be." Many others also defended re­cent work on race, class and gender as a revitalizing force in the humanities. Some scholars argued that, far from becoming dominant in academe, such research had yet to gain legitimacy and acceptance.

Some said that, before the work can be synthesized and a conversation among cultural groups began, scholars would have to learn far more about the marginalized groups.

Still other scholars said recent research - such as that by many feminist scholars - did, indeed, use social theory and address real social problems.

Nevertheless, some scholars noted that this new criticism of multicultural scholarship was not likely to go away but would rather become more widely discussed.

SCHOLARSHIPS!

Study at a university in a country of your choice for one academic year 1992-93.

S.L.O. Rotary Club

is now taking applications for graduate / undergraduate students and teachers of the handicapped

Valued at:
$15,000.00 to $20,000.00

Contact:
• Elaine Dutra - Commerce Bank S.L.O. • 541-4166
• F. E. McNamara - 390 Higuera S.L.O. • 543-7778

Christmas comes early to

Valencia

December is FREE!

SIGN A LEASE FOR JANUARY TO JUNE AND MOVE IN DECEMBER 1.

Monthly payments for only $340/mo.

PRIVATE ROOMS!

•OLYMPIC WEIGHT ROOM
•FREE AEROBICS
•COMPUTER/STUDY ROOM
•HEATED POOL
•COMPLETELY FURNISHED APARTMENTS

CALL OR COME BY TODAY!

555 Ramona Drive
San Luis Obispo, CA 93405

543-1450

*Only for Leases Signed After 11/15/90

As our gift to you, El Corral Bookstore will deduct 20% from the price of selected merchandise during the Annual Christmas Sale.

Discounted 20% for the sale will be Christmas gifts, Gift Books, School Supplies, Stationery, Art, Craft and Technical Equipment, Photo Supplies, Gift Wrap, Greeting Cards, Calendars, Clothing, Jewelry, Food Items and much more from our regular stock. Also save 15% on books at the already discounted price in our entire General Book Department.

Computer products, class rings, class schedules, university catalogs, magazines, textbooks and special orders are not included due to their already low prices. Hurry for best selection! Sale limited to stock on hand. Free gift wrapping.
Attention all long-haired models:

COMPUTER RENTALS
Pick up your K-Bear bumperstickers here!

Men's Haircut Special

WHEN YOU HAVE SLIDES-Come in and register for our san luis obispo, ca 93401
295 Santa Rosa St.

Red Cross offers
CPR instruction

The San Luis Obispo chapter of the American Red Cross is offering a class in CPR on Saturday, Dec. 1. The class will be held at Sierra Vista Hospital from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The course teaches essential CPR techniques which include rescue procedures for choking victims. Those who complete the course will receive an American Red Cross Certification which is valid for one year. Pre-registration is mandatory at the chapter office located at 1256 March St. The fee for the class is $30. For further information, call the chapter office at 543-0696.

Red Cross holds water safety class

The American Red Cross will be sponsoring an Emergency Water Course on Saturday, Dec. 1. The class is scheduled to be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the San Luis Obispo Swim Center (Shraheim Pool) in San Luis Obispo. The Emergency Water Safety Course helps participants become fully familiar with the potential hazards of water activities and how to prevent accidents and respond effectively if an emergency does occur. Participants must pass a skills screening test at the intermediate swimming level and demonstrate competency in basic water safety skills. The pool fee will be $10, and the Red Cross book fee is $14. To enroll call 543-0696.

Special tour held at Hearst Castle

A holiday tour of Hearst Castle is being planned by Cuesta College on Dec. 13. It is open to the public. Participants will have an opportunity to see the castle decorated for the holidays as it was during the days of William Randolph Hearst. A Hearst Castle expert, historian and former castle guide will accompany the group. He will present a short slide show about Hearst Castle from his private collection before the tour departs from Casa. The tour will include the ground floor of the castle, the assembly room, refectory, billiard room and theater to the Roman pool. Following the guided tour, participants will journey to Cambria for lunch with time afterward to shop and wander through the decorated village. Fee for the one-day tour is $49.50 and includes morning refreshments, slide show presentation, motor-coach transportation, castle tour and lunch. For reservation information, call Cuesta’s Travel Among Friends at 546-3128.

Holiday weekend held at mission

On Dec. 1-2, the SLO Recreation Department will be sponsoring “Christmas in the Plaza” at the SLO Mission from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. Food and craft booths as well as entertainment will be on hand for the public’s enjoyment. Entertainment will include a variety of dance groups, wandering entertainers, musical groups and solists such as Doc Stoltey and Jill Knight. For further information contact Rich Ogden or Jaime Elkins at 549-7985.

Demonstration polo match held

The Cal Poly Polo Club will hold a demonstration polo match at the Cal Poly Horse Unit on Dec. 1. The match will begin at 10 a.m. There will be a donation of $2 requested at the front gate. If you have any questions, contact Mallan Yen at 543-7929.

Adoption issues group gathers

The Central Coast Adoption Support Group will meet Dec. 4 at 7 p.m. at the PG&E Promenade located at 406 Higuera. The SLO chapter meets on the first Wednesday of each month. For more information, call 543-3039 (Ext. 535) or contact Mallen Yen at 543-7929.
COMMUNITY

From page 14

TUESDAY OF EVERY MONTH PROVIDING OPPORTUNITY TO SHARE EXPERIENCES AND FEELING ABOUT ADOPTION, SEARCH AND REUNION ISSUES. SEARCH ASSISTANCE IS AVAILABLE. MEETING OPEN TO ALL MEMBERS OF ADOPTION FAMILY. FURTHER INFORMATION, CALL CARLYN AT 485-4065 OR JANET AT 498-9287.

Bookstore hosts 'Women's Night'

Mark your calendar for the December gathering at Coalesce Bookstore's 'Women's Night.' The featured guest speaker will be transpersonal psychologist Karen Seelen Cooen, PhD. Seelen will present an evening of therapy, meditation and ceremony preparing for the season's descent into the introspective winter season. The event will be held Tuesday, Dec. 4 at 7 p.m. in the Coalesce Bookstore Chapel located at 845 Main Street in Morro Bay. The event is free and open to the public. For details, please call Coalesce Bookstore at 772-2880.

Craft courses held for children

Join the SLO Recreation Department for three fantastic days with Holiday Crafts for children ages 6 to 12. The fun starts Wednesday, Dec. 4 at 9 a.m. and concludes on Friday, Dec. 6 at 5 p.m. The cost is $3.50 per day, and all supplies will be provided. The program is held at the Civic Center. Sign-up in advance and call 549-6225. Program location is 845 Main Street. For more information, call 549-7303.

Classified

Campus Clubs

PERSONAL

SAM

M T U R N I N G 7:45 P.M.

M T U R N I N G 7:45 P.M.

called An Intercollegiate Club

WE WILL BE HERE SUNDAY NOV. 24.

called An Intercollegiate Club

Coalesce Bookstore's Winter Women's Night. The featured guest speaker will be transpersonal psychologist Karen Seelen Cooen, PhD. Seelen will present an evening of therapy, meditation and ceremony preparing for the season's descent into the introspective winter season. The event will be held Tuesday, Dec. 4 at 7 p.m. in the Coalesce Bookstore Chapel located at 845 Main Street in Morro Bay. The event is free and open to the public. For details, please call Coalesce Bookstore at 772-2880.

Craft courses held for children

Join the SLO Recreation Department for three fantastic days with Holiday Crafts for children ages 6 to 12. The fun starts Wednesday, Dec. 4 at 9 a.m. and concludes on Friday, Dec. 6 at 5 p.m. The cost is $3.50 per day, and all supplies will be provided. The program is held at the Civic Center. Sign-up in advance and call 549-6225. Program location is 845 Main Street. For more information, call 549-7303.
Part of Hospice care is to include support for the families as well as the clients. Sometimes that means being with the client to free up family members to run errands or take breaks from the house.

Allen said it is hard to see people die after they have become friends, but as a volunteer she knows why she is there — to be a friend and help whenever possible. Hospice volunteers are prepared for the loss of a client, McArthur said, but that does not make the hurting stop. The only way to make it not hurt, she said, is to not love. There are about 80 in-home volunteers in San Luis Obispo willing to give love to people who might otherwise spend their final days in loneliness. McArthur said volunteers range in age from 20 to 80, and many people who go through the training use it to help deal with a family member who is terminally ill.

But in-home care is not the only service offered by Hospice. The Light Up A Life celebration is an example of the care provided for family and friends by Hospice after a loved one dies. “You do not have to be dying to come to Hospice,” Adams said. More than 1,000 people are served through Hospice bereavement programs, she said, while about 200 are helped by in-home care.

The Full Circle Program, organized by Hospice and located at Cal Poly, is an example of a group that provides support for people who have lost someone they love. Other support groups offered include people who suffer from a loss through miscarriage and stillbirth and people who test positive for the HIV virus.

AIDS is also a topic that will become increasingly a part of another type of Hospice service, educational outreach for the community. Bringing speakers to Cal Poly to talk about issues such as AIDS or death and dying are part of the Hospice community education services. McArthur said Hospice volunteers will also go into the university dorms to facilitate group talks if one of the residents dies.

Dealing with death is one of the last great taboos of our society, McArthur said. People view death as something to be taken care of cleanly and quickly, instead of working through the grief process.

“We convince ourselves that we do not know how to help a friend who is dealing with death,” she said.

Years ago when people died, their bodies were put in the parlor for viewing, McArthur said. Friends and relatives came to the house to support the family and share memories of the person’s life. People experienced the grieving process surrounded by a full circle of friends and family.

Hospice hopes that as people gather around the memorial tree for the Light Up A Life celebration, they, too, will come together to share in remembrance of loved ones.

Kathy Kenney is a journalism senior with a concentration in public relations. This is her second quarter reporting for Mustang Daily.
WE DELIVER
CALL
544-3544
7 DAYS A WEEK
Delivery Available
Lunch and Dinner

1015 Olive St. SLO
(next to Kentucky Fried Chicken)

Shakey's

Pizza Restaurant

BUCH OF LUNCH
Lunch Buffet Served Daily 11:30am-2pm
Buffet Includes:
- Pizza
- Garlic Bread
- Chicken
- Pasta Bar
- Salad Bar
- Seconds on Shakeys

$3.49 plus tax
Selections May Vary
Expires 1/10/91

Mustang Daily Coupon

$4.00 OFF ANY LARGE PIZZA
Expires 1/10/91

FREE MEDIUM PIZZA
Buy any medium pizza at reg. price and get another medium pizza of equal or lesser value free with this coupon
Expires 1/10/91

Mustang Daily Coupon
Save These Mustang Coupons
Save These Mustang Coupons
Save These Mustang Coupons
Save These Mustang Coupons
Save These Mustang Coupons
Save These Mustang Coupons
Save These Mustang Coupons
Save These Mustang Coupons

PIZZA • SANDWICHES • SPAGHETTI

HOURS
Mon • Tues • Wed Thurs • Fri • Sat 11am-12pm 11am-8pm
★ Entertainment ★
Thurs • Fri • Sat 9pm-1am

179 N. SANTA ROSA, SLO • 541-2285

Lunch Special:
All You Can Eat!
only $4.99 plus tax
Daily 11am-2pm

Sunday Night Spaghetti Dinner!
With salad & garlic bread
only $2.50 plus tax
Not valid on take-out.

FREE DINNER
Buy any dinner entrée at the regular price and get the second dinner entrée FREE.
Valid after 5:00 pm Mon • PH All day Sat & Sun
With Coupon
Expires 1/1/91

25% OFF Any Size Sundae!
Not Valid on Shacker Doodles
With Coupon
Expires 1/1/91

Super Cut

SUPER COUPON

$2 OFF The Price of a SUPERCUT

Offer good only 265 Madonna Rd. SLO CA exp 12/31/90

SUPER COUPON

$2 OFF The Price of a SUPERCUT

Offer good only 265 Madonna Rd. SLO CA exp 12/31/90

When you buy your first Medium 1-topping Pizza for $6.55 Get Another Medium 1-topping pizza
$3.00 for only with coupon

EXP. 12/8/90

ALL YOU CAN EAT LUNCH SPECIAL for $2.50
When you buy one lunch special for $4.99 with coupon

EXP. 12/8/90

New & Improved Skinny Lite*
7 calories per fluid oz.
Always low-calories, low-fat and sugar-free!

San Luis Obispo 696 Marsh 541-4711
Paso Robles 104 Riverside 238-5429
Two Fresno locations to serve you

HAIR BY SUPERCUTS

And when you look good you feel good. That's our belief! It's why we employ Stylists instead of Hair-cutters.

No Appointment Necessary!
549-8588

WHEN YOU LOOK GOOD YOU FEEL GOOD.
Relieve Your Stress!

TAKE A BREAK AT OSOS STREET SUBS
SANDWICHES AND SANDWICHES

1060 Osos St.  541-0955

FREE SODA with purchase of large sandwich
EXP 12/8/90  1060 Osos St.

50¢ OFF ANY SIZE SANDWICH
(one coupon per person)
EXP 12/8/90  1060 Osos St.

10% OFF any of our services
Offer expires 12/31/90 Not valid with any other offer

10% OFF any of our services
Offer expires 12/31/90 Not valid with any other offer

FREE TRY ON — Throughout Nov. & Dec., call for an appointment and you can try on any colored contact lens. We stock them all.
• FREE TRY ON — Throughout Nov. & Dec., call for an appointment and you can try on any colored contact lens. We stock them all.
• We’re also giving away a free pair of Durasoft 3 opaque contact lenses. Just drop by and register. $265 Value.

Mustang Daily Coupon
FREE ASEP DISINFECTION SYSTEM WITH THIS COUPON
$15.00 VALUE
EXP. 12/31/90

REGISTER TO WIN DURASOFT 3 COLORS OR COMPLEMENTS!
Name__________________________
Address________________________
Phone #________________________

Drop off coupon at 778 Marsh St.—Downtown SLO Exp. 12/31/90

Keep in Contact
778 Marsh St.  543-5200

DuraSoft Colors
By Wesley Jenson

Change Your Eye Color
For vision correction, or just fun.

AT ALPHAGRAPHICS!
• High Speed Duplicating
• Offset Color Printing
• Binding Services
• Lazergraphics/Typesetting
• Self-Service Macintosh Rentals
• MUCH MORE!

AT ALPHAGRAPHICS!
• High Speed Duplicating
• Offset Color Printing
• Binding Services
• Lazergraphics/Typesetting
• Self-Service Macintosh Rentals
• MUCH MORE!

You spend enough time on your projects! Why waste time running around putting them together? Get it all done in one stop -

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5

158 Higuera Street
San Luis Obispo
(805)546-0704

Hours: M-F 8:00 - 6:00
Saturday 10:00 - 5:00
Sat. 10 - 5
The Best Deli Sandwiches
in Town!

- Homemade Salads
- Groceries
- Garden Patio Seating

Gus's grocery
the movers...the shakers...the sandwich makers
1638 Osos St., San Luis Obispo
543 - 8684

H I T S
For The Holidays

Satisfaction Guaranteed!

The Wherehouse has taken all the risk out of buying music, movies and more. It's simple. We guarantee you'll be totally satisfied with whatever you buy at the Wherehouse. If you're not completely satisfied with your purchase, return it within ten days with the register receipt and original packaging, and we'll exchange it. At the Wherehouse, you're certain to love what you buy because WE SELL SATISFACTION!

WHEREHOUSE
Music movies and more
445 Madonna Rd. 541-0817

WHEREHOUSE Daily Coupons
Exp. 12/16/90

Regular Sandwich & a Cup of Soup
$4.95

Not valid with any other offer.

WHEREHOUSE Daily Coupons
Exp. 12/16/90

Regular Sandwich, Medium Soft Drink & a Bag of Chips
$4.50

Not valid with any other offer.

WHEREHOUSE Daily Coupons
$2.00 Off Any Compact Disc

Redeem this coupon for $2 OFF the regular non-sale price of any compact disc priced at $10.99 or above. This coupon may not be combined with any other coupon or offer. Not redeemable for cash. Valid at any Wherehouse location through December 31, 1990.

WHEREHOUSE Daily Coupons

Rent 2 Movies, Get the 3rd Free

This coupon is good for one FREE movie rental of your choice for one day when two other movies are rented at the regular price. If movie is kept longer than one day, the regular rental fee will apply for the extra day(s). A $75 deposit is required for each videocassette. A $1 Video Express processing fee is required for new rental accounts. Not good with any other offers. Not redeemable for cash. Valid at any Wherehouse location through December 31, 1990.

WHEREHOUSE Daily Coupons

$2.00 Off Any Music Cassette

Redeem this coupon for $2 OFF the regular non-sale price of any music cassette priced at $7.99 or above. This coupon may not be combined with any other coupon or offer. Not redeemable for cash. Valid at any Wherehouse location through December 31, 1990.

WHEREHOUSE Daily Coupons

1 Free Rental Video

This coupon is good for ONE FREE video rental for ONE DAY. If movie is kept longer than one day, the regular rental fee will apply for the extra day(s). A $75 deposit is required for each videocassette. Only one coupon can be used per visit. Not redeemable for cash. Valid at any Wherehouse location through December 31, 1990.

WHEREHOUSE
Chiropractic is a healing science which places emphasis on maintaining the structural integrity of the body.

Altman Chiropractic Center
Call Today 544-8884

FREE SPINAL EXAMINATION

Dr. Mark R. Steed, Chiropractor
"Feel The Relief"

FREE SPINAL EXAMINATION

"Feel The Relief"

Pain?

"The doctor of the future will give no medicine but will interest his patients in the care of the human frame, in diet, and in the cause and prevention of disease." - Thomas Edison

S.L.O.'s Downtown Chiropractor has been helping people with headaches, neck pain, low back pain, and sports injuries for almost 10 years.

We can help you, too.

1308 Garden Street • San Luis Obispo

The Ultimate Fit
Computer-fitted swim and exercise wear.

A HOT holiday gift idea!
Personal & Practical T CERTIFICATES!

The Ultimate Fit
722 Marsh St., SLO 541-9091 Exp. 12/31/90

The Ultimate Fit
FREE ACCESSORY WITH THE PURCHASE OF CUSTOM SWIM AND EXERCISE WEAR!
Choose Fresh, not frozen chicken
Choose Quality, not quantity Choose El Pollo Loco.

only at

El Pollo Loco.

The fast food habit worth having.

795 Foothill Blvd.

There's A New Bicycle Shop Near Cal Poly!

Foothill Cyclery

• Gift Certificates Available
• Christmas Lay-Away

Cal Poly

775-B Foothill Blvd., SLO
In the Foothill Plaza (Next to Lucky's)
541-4101

FAST & EASY CHRISTMAS MAILING!
Postal, Business and Communication Services
MAIL BOXES ETC.

SHIPPING OUT?
Heading home for the Holidays? Shipping Christmas gifts? Mail Boxes Etc. will get your things there safer, faster, and all in one piece. We can even pack your boxes for you!

MAILROOM BLUES?
Need mail holding or forwarding service? Need a Long-Term S.L.O. address? Invest in a Mail Boxes Etc. private mailbox.

763 B Foothill Blvd. (next to Thrifty's) • Call us at 541-9333 or just stop by!
FREE MOVIE
FREE DAY
FREE MEMBERSHIP

Mustang Daily Coupons

Captain Jack's VIDEO
FREE MOVIE FREE DAY
Rent any 2 movies and get a 3rd movie FREE
Then keep all 3 movies an extra day FREE
1255 Monterey
546-8228 Not good with any other offer expires 12/31/90

Mustang Daily Coupons

Captain Jack's VIDEO
FREE MOVIE FREE DAY
Rent any 2 movies and get a 3rd movie FREE
Then keep all 3 movies an extra day FREE
1255 Monterey
546-8228 Not good with any other offer expires 12/31/90

Mustang Daily Coupons

Captain Jack's VIDEO
1/2 PRICE ANY MOVIE ANY DAY
1 per day with coupon
1255 Monterey
546-8228 Not good with any other offer expires 12/31/90

Mustang Daily Coupons

Captain Jack's VIDEO
1/2 PRICE ANY MOVIE ANY DAY
1 per day with coupon
1255 Monterey
546-8228 Not good with any other offer expires 12/31/90

Mustang Daily Coupons

Captain Jack's VIDEO
$4 Off the purchase of VIDEO any previously viewed movie
1255 Monterey
546-8228 Not good with any other offer expires 12/31/90

Mustang Daily Coupons

Captain Jack's VIDEO
$4 Off the purchase of VIDEO any previously viewed movie
1255 Monterey
546-8228 Not good with any other offer expires 12/31/90

Mustang Daily Coupons

Captain Jack's VIDEO
ANY ADULT MOVIE ANY DAY 69¢
1 per day with coupon
1255 Monterey
546-8228 Not good with any other offer expires 12/31/90

Mustang Daily Coupons