Petition drive launched over response time

Students want patrol officers to have more medical training

By Gladis Lynn Daily Senior Editor

Frustrated by what they call slow emergency response to Cal Poly’s campus, a group of students began posting petitions in dorms calling for new safety steps by Public Safety and pledged Tuesday to take their case to ASI.

Environmental engineering freshman Jennifer Bitting and industrial engineering freshman Rob Connelly said they and several other students will take their case to the ASI Board of Directors meeting tonight at 7 p.m.

They said their concerns were sparked by a Sept. 22 incident in the Rec Center pool where a woman had an allergic reaction to cold. Due to other medical calls at the time, an ambulance responded from Arroyo Grande. The student’s concern was furthered by a head-on riot on campus last week left two men injured. The students said they felt neither incident received prompt emergency attention.

“The (university police) are supposed to be certified (as Emergency Medical Technicians), and they haven’t done it,” Connelly said. “So we want to be part of the cops to get certified. And we want at least one person, full time, to cover the (fire) station and use the equipment that the station has alongside the police officers.”

Public Safety Director Joe Risser said the group was misinformed about EMT requirements for university police.

See PETITION, page 2

Yeltsin purges traitors as calm, order return

Associated Press

MOSCOW — President Boris Yeltsin consolidated his victory over hard-line enemies Tuesday, sacking three officials even as tanks rolled back from Russia’s smoldering parliament and soldiers searched for more dead.

The city of 9 million struggled back to workaday life after a 13-day crisis led to street battles that claimed more than 100 lives and left hundreds wounded.

Sniper fire from the blackened parliament building, where an armed challenge by Communist holdover lawmakers was crushed Monday, died down during the day. But Russian television said authorities suspected some 10 gunmen remained in the 19-story building, known as the White House.

Officials were considering what charges would be filed.

See RUSSIA, page 8

New map simplifies county bus transit

By Cynthia L. Webb Daily Staff Writer

Cal Poly bus riders baffled by confusing schedules, take heart: the San Luis Obispo Regional Transit Authority unveiled a new bus schedule on Tuesday that they said will make taking a bus more convenient.

Formerly, there were seven different bus schedules for San Luis Obispo County. The new map has the same routes as before. The difference is that all routes are on one schedule, said Tom Fulks, the county’s regional rideshare program manager.

The revamped map was announced as part of Rideshare Week.

"It will make it much easier," Fulks said. "Our goal is to get more people to ride the bus."

Fulks said he hopes that people will see taking the bus as a solution to traffic and pollution problems.

The revised schedule will convince people that they can use another mode of transportation, he said.

And Cal Poly students are given another incentive to take the bus — it’s free. All students with a school I.D. can take the SLO Transit busses without charge.

For students complaining about parking at Poly, there are other options, "Fulks said.

Cal Poly Commuter Services Coordinator Jacques Rossi said she wants to see more Cal Poly students ridesharing and taking the bus instead of driving alone.

"One day a week is a start," Rossi said. "Hopefully, it will become a habit.

"The ironic thing is that we (public safety) encourage you to ride a bus," she said. "But we’ll be glad to give you a ticket and take your money." Rossi pointed out that ticket fees help subsidize the cost Cal Poly pays for free student bus service.

See BUS, page 2

SLOW HEALING

Poly’s differing perspectives on Mideast developments showcase the complexity of the region’s problems. By Brooke Richardson.

On Sept. 13 in Washington, D.C., Israeli and Palestine Liberation Organization leaders shook hands, hoping to end bitter years of fighting and bloodshed.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, and Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat signed a Declaration of Principles on the South Lawn of the White House that called for peace.

Under terms of the agreement, Palestinian self-rule will be introduced in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank city of Jericho. In a sense, this will provide the Palestinians with what they have always wanted: a state of their own. For its part, the PLO recognized Israel’s right to exist.

"There’s friction within the PLO leaders," she said. "So if there is friction... how are they going to be able to put quiet and peace into an area of such turmoil?"

Aeronautical engineering professor Faysal Kolkailah said he does not think the PLO will be able to maintain that peace. Kolkailah, who came to the United States from Egypt in 1977 after spending six years as a captain in the Egyptian Air Force, is the president of the Muslim Community in San Luis Obispo.

"I’m very positive on the agreement," he said. "There’s a desire on both sides for this terrible conflict to come to an end."

However, Manhoff knows that peace will not occur overnight.

"That’s going to take time," he said. "But there’s been 100 years of warfare. So if it takes two or three years to work out the details, it’s worth every minute of it."

Rabbi Harry Manhoff of Congregation Beth David in San Luis Obispo said he and his congregation are taking heart: the San Luis Obispo Regional Transit Authority announced a revamped map was announced as part of Rideshare Week.

"The city of 9 million struggled back to workaday life after a 13-day crisis led to street battles that claimed more than 100 lives and left hundreds wounded.

Sniper fire from the blackened parliament building, where an armed challenge by Communist holdover lawmakers was crushed Monday, died down during the day. But Russian television said authorities suspected some 10 gunmen remained in the 19-story building, known as the White House.

"There will not occur overnight. So if it takes two or three years to work out the details."

minute of it."
PETITION: Students feel two full emergencies show inadequate response time

From page 1

"Our peace officers are not EMTs," he said, "Police officers are required to have the equivalent of First Aid or CPR. EMT is basically the entry-level into the medical profession and it takes a lot of consistent training and experience to maintain those skills."

Rosser said he felt a high level of medical response skill was not necessary for the officers on his force. He said, "You're not going to do brain surgery on the sidewalk." ASI President Marquam Piros said he agrees with the students' position. "We'd like to see Public Safety following through (on the petition) and getting EMT certification, " he said. "Or maybe the university could find the budget to get one or two people in the fire station who are trained to utilize the equipment."

Rosser said the latter would be a difficult option to fund. "I would love to have more police officers," he said, "I would love to have a fire department. It's a question of what we can afford. My question would be: What priority does that have in terms of funding?"

The students organizing the petition said they would be satisfied with an additional EMT-certified person during evenings and weekends. At those times, the campus currently supports only a single police officer.

"We're still saying we want (San Luis Obispo emergency services) to come, we still want the ambulance to be called immediately," Bitting said. "But this (extra emergency respondent) is just for the time that it takes for the ambulance to get there."

"If people have a concern, I would be happy to sit down with them and talk about it," said Rec Sports Director Rick Johnson, who manages the Rec Center. He said no one has contacted him regarding the petition.

"Quite often, we're starting out from misinformation," he said. "This area is something that people get very emotional about. If people have a concern, I would be happy to sit down with them and talk about it." The maps can be purchased for $1 at city halls throughout the county or from the ASI office in the University Union.
The image is all too familiar. A battered and scarred American speaks tersely to his faceless captors for a worldwide audience. On Friday, the hostage-tormentor—Kenneth O. Durant—appeared to be the focus of a military man; a husband; a father. A man who, at age 32, had battled up the enlisted ranks to chief warrant officer, piloting a hot helicopter in an elite special operations unit. Before this weekend, Michael Durant was known as a man who fought to take them back. The official, demanding anonymity, said he was a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said. When asked whether he agreed to the killing of innocent people, Durant answered, "Innocent people being killed is not good."

"You could see the familiar man, the man who fought so hard against the system to save lives," said another friend of Durant's. "It's just overwhelming to see the yellow ribbons and the flags," said Nancy Labrie-Dawson of her cousin. Durant, a pilot with the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment based in Fort Campbell, Ky., was captured Sunday after his Blackhawk helicopter was shot down during a raid to capture militia members loyal to Somali warlord Mohammed Farah Aidid. Another helicopter also was shot down during the raid that saw heavy fighting between U.S. troops and Somali militia. Twelve Americans were killed.

In a videotaped release by his captors, Durant appeared to be wounded, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It was a pretty tough guy," said Leo Landers, a classmate from the helicopter flight school. "We were impressed at how tough he was." Other friends recall Durant as a straight-A student, an amateur artist who painted and spoke tersely to his faceless captors, Durant appeared to be feminine, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It's just overwhelming to see the yellow ribbons and the flags," said Nancy Labrie-Dawson of her cousin. Durant, a pilot with the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment based in Fort Campbell, Ky., was captured Sunday after his Blackhawk helicopter was shot down during a raid to capture militia members loyal to Somali warlord Mohammed Farah Aidid. Another helicopter also was shot down during the raid that saw heavy fighting between U.S. troops and Somali militia. Twelve Americans were killed.

In a videotaped release by his captors, Durant appeared to be wounded, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It was a pretty tough guy," said Leo Landers, a classmate from the helicopter flight school. "We were impressed at how tough he was." Other friends recall Durant as a straight-A student, an amateur artist who painted and spoke tersely to his faceless captors, Durant appeared to be feminine, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It's just overwhelming to see the yellow ribbons and the flags," said Nancy Labrie-Dawson of her cousin. Durant, a pilot with the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment based in Fort Campbell, Ky., was captured Sunday after his Blackhawk helicopter was shot down during a raid to capture militia members loyal to Somali warlord Mohammed Farah Aidid. Another helicopter also was shot down during the raid that saw heavy fighting between U.S. troops and Somali militia. Twelve Americans were killed.

In a videotaped release by his captors, Durant appeared to be wounded, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It was a pretty tough guy," said Leo Landers, a classmate from the helicopter flight school. "We were impressed at how tough he was." Other friends recall Durant as a straight-A student, an amateur artist who painted and spoke tersely to his faceless captors, Durant appeared to be feminine, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It's just overwhelming to see the yellow ribbons and the flags," said Nancy Labrie-Dawson of her cousin. Durant, a pilot with the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment based in Fort Campbell, Ky., was captured Sunday after his Blackhawk helicopter was shot down during a raid to capture militia members loyal to Somali warlord Mohammed Farah Aidid. Another helicopter also was shot down during the raid that saw heavy fighting between U.S. troops and Somali militia. Twelve Americans were killed.

In a videotaped release by his captors, Durant appeared to be wounded, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It was a pretty tough guy," said Leo Landers, a classmate from the helicopter flight school. "We were impressed at how tough he was." Other friends recall Durant as a straight-A student, an amateur artist who painted and spoke tersely to his faceless captors, Durant appeared to be feminine, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It's just overwhelming to see the yellow ribbons and the flags," said Nancy Labrie-Dawson of her cousin. Durant, a pilot with the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment based in Fort Campbell, Ky., was captured Sunday after his Blackhawk helicopter was shot down during a raid to capture militia members loyal to Somali warlord Mohammed Farah Aidid. Another helicopter also was shot down during the raid that saw heavy fighting between U.S. troops and Somali militia. Twelve Americans were killed.

In a videotaped release by his captors, Durant appeared to be wounded, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It was a pretty tough guy," said Leo Landers, a classmate from the helicopter flight school. "We were impressed at how tough he was." Other friends recall Durant as a straight-A student, an amateur artist who painted and spoke tersely to his faceless captors, Durant appeared to be feminine, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It's just overwhelming to see the yellow ribbons and the flags," said Nancy Labrie-Dawson of her cousin. Durant, a pilot with the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment based in Fort Campbell, Ky., was captured Sunday after his Blackhawk helicopter was shot down during a raid to capture militia members loyal to Somali warlord Mohammed Farah Aidid. Another helicopter also was shot down during the raid that saw heavy fighting between U.S. troops and Somali militia. Twelve Americans were killed.

In a videotaped release by his captors, Durant appeared to be wounded, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.

"It was a pretty tough guy," said Leo Landers, a classmate from the helicopter flight school. "We were impressed at how tough he was." Other friends recall Durant as a straight-A student, an amateur artist who painted and spoke tersely to his faceless captors, Durant appeared to be feminine, with a blanket covering his twisted legs. His face was bloodied and bruised. He seemed confused and frightened as an unseen interviewer asked about his role in the fighting. "I'm a soldier. I have to do what I'm told," Durant said.
LETTERS

Republicans should grow up

In their infinite wisdom, the College Republican Club should have checked their classified ad: "Impale Clinton — Liberals Suck" XIX XIX College Republican Club

I am dumbfounded. The people who wrote that are in college?

It was a rude awakening to their stupidity.

I am truly sick of all the Clinton-bashing. If you ask me, the poor man was doomed before he ever had a day in office. Those same "college students" who wrote their comment on the classified section were the ones who figured civilization as we know it was a day in office. Those same "college students" who ask me, the poor man was doomed before he ever had a chance to

Maybe they should take that as a hint.

— XOXO College Republican Club.

---

Take another look at rush

I am writing concerning Samuel Robinson's letter in Monday's Daily "Rush: Just a childish game or a flat game?"

All fraternity and sorority pride and just plain pride contribute thousands of man-hours toward charitable organizations. Al mutual fraternities and sororities do not stop there. They also help each other with their public relations department.

I, for one, do not mind the noise of the rushings before the week even begins. I don't even mind the parties after rush. I do mind the parties before rush.

I am writing concerning Samuel Robinson's letter in Monday's Daily "Rush: Just a childish game or a flat game?"

All fraternity and sorority pride and just plain pride contribute thousands of man-hours toward charitable organizations. Al mutual fraternities and sororities do not stop there. They also help each other with their public relations department.

I, for one, do not mind the noise of the rushings before the week even begins. I don't even mind the parties after rush. I do mind the parties before rush.

— XOXO College Republican Club.

---

'Crazy Dude:' Blatant or bogus racism?

We came to college to learn new things and widen our horizons and perspectives. It seems to us that "educated" people would have such ideas and beliefs. This diversity of ideas is the spice of our lives. It saddens and angers us to see educated people squawk the flames of diversity because they do not agree with someone else's beliefs.

We do not agree with someone else's beliefs as to which couple will hook up next or which couple will break up. We do, however, believe that we should respect the rights of individuals with similar beliefs to congregate and share their ideas, just as we respect their rights to congregate and share their ideas. I invite readers to go through rush and find out what the greek system is all about before you blindly condemn us all.

— Jean-Ann Erta & Kristy Koch

---

MUSTANG DAILY's POLICIES

MUSTANG DAILY welcomes letters and commentaries from students, staff, and other community members. Letters should be typed, double spaced and under 250 words. Comments should be typed, double spaced, and under 750 to 1,000 words. All authors must include a name, signature, and phone number. Students should include their major and class standing. MUSTANG DAILY reserves the right to edit letters for clarity, brevity, and content.

Submissions can be brought, mailed, faxed or E-mailed to: MUSTANG DAILY

Graphic Arts Bldg #226, Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, CA 93407

FAX: (805) 756-7784

E-mail: goyon@cob.calpoly.edu

---

COMMENTARY

90210: More than just sideburns 'n' spellings

By Brooke Richardson

I’m not embarrassed or ashamed to say it. My name is Brooke and I’m a Wednesday night Fox fanatic. Brenda, Dillon, Brandon and Kelly, Allison and Billy. The whole gang on Beverly Hills 90210 and Melrose Place.

I’ve been with them through romantic breaks, breakups, dances, death and psychotic boyfriends. The good story lines and the bad.

Actually, it isn’t the story lines that keep me coming back for more — it’s the whole experience. Wednesday night TV has been a tradition with my friends and I since we came to Cal Poly.

I remember freshman year and the dorms before each room had cable. I know what you’re all thinking: You poor kids, how did you survive without cable? Well, we’d all sit into the TV room in the old brick hall of Santa Lucia 20 minutes early just to snag a chair. I’m talking 50 or more people jammed into a room, watching, well, watching a basically cheesy TV show. It was great.

I mean, I laughed so hard watching 90210. (That was in the old days before Melrose had been invented.)

Maybe that wasn’t the purpose of the show, but it was definitely the effect. Remember the storylines? Kelly used to be the bitch who left Brenda stranded at the beach. Brandon lost his virginity. David was the freshwater dork.

We wouldn’t miss an episode. It was always the same gang. There were always a few wisecracks in the room that would liven things up by shouting the comments that everybody else was thinking, like Andrea has got to be like 20 years old and "Look — Brenda’s face really is crooked!"

Last year Melrose came on and things got serious. I’d gather with my neighbors to watch the show, with my neighbor’s hand pushing the volume button until all the background noise was drowned out. The wise comments were saved for our own private ears. That’s the year we all got emotionally involved with the shows. Brandon’s gambling habit, Steve’s heart of gold, of course, Allison and Billy made love.

Logically we all knew these shows weren’t real, not even in the kind of silly at times. But we were hooked.

Anyway, now I’m sad. My outlook on every situation is to keep the house busy Wednesday nights. If I’m lucky I can get back for the last half hour or so. I have friends who tape the shows I can see them, but it’s just not the same thing.

So it’s not the same because I’ve realized that it’s not the shows I love. (OK — actually I do love them, but that’s besides the point.) It’s the experience of it all.

Seriously, the number of college students that flip on the TV on Wednesday night is unbelievable. Girls and guys, serious students and partiers. I don’t know what it is about them, but those two shows have become a good time for friends to bond.

So even though it’s not the same, I keep on watching those precious taped episodes, trying to keep up on all the 90210 and Melrose gossip.

And I’m hoping next quarter, things will be good. I think I plopped on a couch next to good friends, trying to predict who Dillon will choose next or which couple will hook up in those Melrose apartments.

But I’m looking for more. I’m looking for that almost surreal, "you can’t make this up" feeling that comes from watching 90210. And I’m hoping that the show that is on Wednesday night is Melrose Place.

It was a rude awakening to their stupidity.

— XOXO College Republican Club.

---

Letters Policy

MUSTANG DAILY welcomes letters and commentaries from students, staff, and other community members. Letters should be typed, double spaced and under 250 words. Comments should be typed, double spaced, and under 750 to 1,000 words. All authors must include a name, signature and phone number. Students should include their major and class standing. MUSTANG DAILY reserves the right to edit letters for clarity, brevity, and content.

Submissions can be brought, mailed, faxed or E-mailed to: MUSTANG DAILY

Graphic Arts Bldg #226, Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, CA 93407

FAX: (805) 756-7784

E-mail: goyon@cob.calpoly.edu

---

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

We understand that the university must take action if a member of our community is being harassed or abused. This diversity of ideas is the spice of our lives. It saddens and angers us to see educated people squawk the flames of diversity because they do not agree with someone else's beliefs.

We do not agree with someone else's beliefs as to which couple will hook up next or which couple will break up. We do, however, believe that we should respect the rights of individuals with similar beliefs to congregate and share their ideas, just as we respect their rights to congregate and share their ideas. I invite readers to go through rush and find out what the greek system is all about before you blindly condemn us all.
F. McLintocks Historical Timeline

1973 » Bruce Breault and Tutter English purchased Mattis', a 10 year old farmhouse restaurant in Higuera and Shell Beach. With trends working for 'beer and barbecues', the partners moved the building from the bottom up, adding the ranchera motif and even naming a wine to set the restaurant's theme true.

1974 » Bruce Breault is served turkey nuts on a trial basis from a local turkey producer, and the signature appetizer at F. McLintocks.

1975 » The company introduces a line of steak sauces in 1975. F. McLintocks, a western hub in downtown San Luis Obispo features burgers, salads, and sandwiches and is in an ideal location.

1976 » The company launches the first in line of steak sauces in 1976. F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House is in an ideal location.

1977 » Other recipes first developed in the restaurant are added to the F. McLintocks line of food - Hungry Horse Homestyle Cooking, New Times Publishers spotlights of F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House in the New Times.

1978 » F. McLintocks launches the F. McLintocks Fine Food Products. F. McLintocks celebrates its 20th Anniversary.

1980 » F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House, for the third time, is among California's top 10 and the nation's top 50 highest independent restaurants.

1982 » F. McLintocks "Charlotea Cowboy Sauce", a red hot chile pepper seasoned sauce, the sixth item in the F. McLintocks Fine Food Product line.

1983 » F. McLintocks introduce "Turkey What's" and "island style" cardhold' gift basket and gift box selections of F. McLintocks products and gifts.

1984 » As the first time, about F. McLintocks restaurant locations make it into Restaurant Hospitality magazine's Top 50 Independent restaurants.

1985 » F. McLintocks opens "Caliente Cowboy Steak" in SLO County. F. McLintocks announces plans to open in Atascadero.

1986 » F. McLintocks celebrates 20th Anniversary. F. McLintocks' first cookbook, Hungry Horse Homestyle Cooking, is released.

1987 » F. McLintocks wins national acclaim with the prestigious national "Restaurant of the Year" award, awarded by the Best Industry Council of America. F. McLintocks is awarded the "Best Restaurant in the Nation" by the California Restaurant Council's "Best Restaurant Award".

1988 » F. McLintocks ``Best Steak’ in SLO County.

1989 » F. McLintocks opens "Best Steak in SLO County.

1990 » F. McLintocks launches "Best Steak in SLO County.

1991 » F. McLintocks announces plans to open in Atascadero.

1993 » F. McLintocks named for "Best Steak from the Chantilly Lace Line Dance Team."

1994 » F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

1995 » F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House wins "Best Steak" Best brief in a featured recipe in April article entitled "Homestyle Hospitality".

1996 » F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House once again enters a top 10 spot statewide, a top 10 nationwide in an April article. F. McLintocks Fine Food Products tastes.

"Top 500" ranking Restaurant Hospitality magazine's Top 50 independent restaurants, number 30 among the top 50 nationwide for "Best Steak' in SLO County.

1997 » F. McLintocks kicks off a year-long celebration leading up to the 25th anniversary of F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House on October 1, 1992.

1998 » F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House is ranked number 1 in the nation. Award garnered for the company's marketing, and for the company's community and education program.

1999 » F. McLintocks featured in Best Industry Council's "Top New Restaurants, and on the cable network programming nationwide in Best Restaurant of the Year.

2000 » F. McLintocks publishes its first cookbook, Hungry Horse Homestyle Cooking, is released.

2001 » F. McLintocks Fine Food Products.

2002 » F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House featured on Norwegian television.

2003 » F. McLintocks features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2004 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2005 » F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House featured on Norwegian television.

F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House featured on Norwegian television.

2006 » F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House featured on Norwegian television.

2007 » F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House featured on Norwegian television.

2008 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2009 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2010 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2011 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2012 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2013 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2014 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2015 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2016 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2017 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2018 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2019 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2020 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2021 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2022 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2023 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2024 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2025 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!

2026 » "Restaurant Hospitality" magazine features F. McLintocks Saloon & Dining House with "Taste of the Best" in "The Taste" in April issue - 3.5 million readers!
TONIGHT!
WOMEN AND MEN CYCLISTS OF ALL LEVELS WELCOME TO THE FIRST MEETING.
BUILDING 52 ROOM E27 AT 7PM.

HOT COUNTRY NITE!
EVERY WEDNESDAY 9PM........ON
18 AND OVER WELCOME
$1.50 LONGNECKS
$1.50 MARGARITAS
Dance to the Hottest Country Music!
Downtown S.L.O. 1051 Nipomo 544-7575

RUSH ΛXΑ
Info/Rides Call Robbie 544-8437
WEDNESDAY 10/6
Tri-Tip BBQ Dinner
1617 Santa Rosa (ΛXΑ House) 6 pm

ΣΕ
SIGMA NU
"IT'S YOUR MOVE"
Fall Rush Schedule 1993

Wednesday, October 6
Pizza & Bowling Night - 5:00 pm
Mt. Blue's Games, Cal Poly

Friday, October 8
Knight Vision Slide Show - 5:30 pm
Staff Dining Lounge, Cal Poly

Saturday, October 9
"The Smoker" - 6:00 pm
Alpha Chi Omega Sorority House
1464 Foothill Blvd.
(Cost & Time Change noted)

Sunday, October 10
Interviews
(By Invitation Only)

Monday, October 11
Alphar & Omega IPBQ
(By Invitation Only)

For Information or Rides, contact: Jason Toves 542-0647

the fabric of AIDS

If you are HIV positive or know someone who is, we want to talk to you for our upcoming series on AIDS.

Please call Mustang Daily at 756-1796 and ask for Krystn Shrieve or Silas Lyons

You may also call Krystn at 541-8296
or Silas at 541-4936
Coming Thursday,
a guide to the best locations in San Luis Obispo to get your daily injection of caffeine or just enjoy a cup of java.

See the ARTS section in Thursday's
MUSTANG DAILY

NEW

Julian's Travel Mug

Same great price: $3
refills only 80¢

Julian's is located downstairs in the U.U.
Open Monday-Thursday 7:30am to 9:00 pm
Friday 7:30am to 4:30pm

Julian's Travel Mug

Same great price: $3
refills only 80¢

Julian's is located downstairs in the U.U.
Open Monday-Thursday 7:30am to 9:00 pm
Friday 7:30am to 4:30pm
RUSSIA: Yeltsin works to return order to tumult-laden country against the leaders of the rebellion, former vice president Alexander Rutskoi and parliament speaker Ruslan Khasbulatov. The two men sat behind bars, along with their followers.

From page 1

Yeltsin on Tuesday dismissed Russia's chief prosecutor Valentin Stepankov, apparently hoping to avoid a repeat of Stepankov's botched prosecution of the 1991 coup attempt.

Yeltsin also fired two provincial leaders who had opposed him during the crisis, which arose out of long tensions between Yeltsin and the Soviet-era parliament opposed to his reforms.

The Bainet, led by Defense Minister Pavel Grachev, formally thanked some 1,300 soldiers and commandos who had pummelled the parliament building for 10 hours Monday, igniting fires that blackened the top third of the so-called White House. An odor of smoke still hung over parts of Moscow.

"A wave of hatred and death was stopped in Moscow. The bloody rebellion was suppressed," the Cabinet said in a statement. "The seeds of a political split in Russia have uprooted. Now, creative work is needed."

Yeltsin's "creative work" could include living up to promises to improve the economy, holding elections and convicting the parliament leaders who sought for more than a year to hinder him.

The president, who had sped up his economic reforms even before Monday's clash, was sure to accelerate them now in hopes of reviving Russia's economy, which will be his key to winning the future elections.

Still, Yeltsin's opponents are not likely to fade away. Hundreds rallied in St. Petersburg to support a Russian nationalist TV commentator whose program was canceled Tuesday.

"Yeltsin is a murderer!" the crowd chanted.

The violence grew out of Yeltsin's effort to halt parliamentary incursions by dissolving the body on Sept. 21. Hard-liners barricaded themselves inside for nearly two weeks, until their supporter's riot prompted Yeltsin to attack the parliament building.

At least 300 people were killed during two days of fighting at the White House and the national broadcasting complex in Moscow, according to media reports. Moscow's chief medical administrator confirmed only that 128 people had been killed, but added the figure would rise.

"Moscow has never before seen such bloodshed," said the administrator, Anatoly Solovyov.

Other officials said 520 people were wounded since Sunday, when hard-line supporters rampaged through the capital, overwhelmed riot police and reinforced the parliament before being blasted out Monday.

Up to 200 gunmen escaped from the parliament before it was taken by government forces, according to Russian press reports.

Soldiers hunted for snipers and other hard-liners who had fired at troops and firefighters early Tuesday while they were trying to put out fires in the building.

A soldier was killed and another wounded overnight in a clash with gunfire in the city center, officials said.

At least 10 tanks that had faced the White House on Monday were pulled out Tuesday, although it was unclear whether they were redeployed elsewhere in the city.

Heavily armed troops with armored personnel carriers still stood guard at key government offices and installations to prevent possible attacks. A state of emergency and overnight curfew remained in effect.

But activity slowly returned to normal around the White House. Cars were allowed to drive past the building, kicking up pebbles and broken glass as they rattled over asphalt torn up by tank treads on Monday.

"These are troubled times, and nobody knows what will happen, not you, not me, not Boris Yeltsin, not Bill Clinton," said Valentin Sveshnikov, 61, sitting on a park bench and enjoying a day off because of the unrest.

An estimated 1,500 parliament fighters were arrested. About 140 were being held at the former KGB's Lefortove Prison, including Khasbulatov, Rutskoi, and the men whom the renegade lawmakers had appointed as security, defense and interior ministers.

The parliament rebels may be charged with inciting mass disorder, murder and hostage-taking, said Genrik Resnik, a former defense lawyer in the treason case against leaders of the 1991 Soviet coup attempt.

The murder charges carry a maximum penalty of death, which is usually delivered by a bullet to the back of the head.
Jennifer Kaylor leads the Mustangs in blocks with 67 / Daily photo by Kent Eimers

KAYLOR: WIN, WIN, WIN

By Kristi Rampold

Hers intense attitude may have intimidated her high school team-mates, but sophomore middle blocker Jennifer Kaylor said college is a whole different ball game. "They feed off it," said Kaylor, a nutrition science sophomore. College volleyball is much more competitive than high school, she added. "I've always been that in everything I do," Kaylor said. "She knows what she wants and how to get it," Lucadam said. "She's really strong," Cummings said. "It's very frustrating," Kaylor said. "I'll do anything in my power to win." Cummings said Kaylor is a real competitor and always wants to do well. "She's very driven and intense," Lucadam said. "She never gives up." Kaylor said this is the reason she plays a team sport.

"She's taken big steps towards becoming a leader on and off the court," Cummings said.

"There is no limit on how good you can be," she said.

"She's very focused when she plays," said Kaylor is very focused when she plays. "She's driven and intense," Lucadam said. "I'll do anything in my power to win." Cummings said Kaylor is a real competitor and always wants to do well. "She's come a long way," he said. Last year Kaylor was a part-time starter behind former four-year standout Laos Perlstrom, but this year she has played full time. "She's been big steps towards becoming a leader on and off the court," Cummings said.

Runners-up: Kristen Leonti, Robby Smith.

Soccer hosts must-win game

Women's soccer team has put in the scoring opportunities necessary to enjoy a 6-4 overall record and a share of the California Collegiate Athletic Association lead with a 1-0 mark.

Robby Smith- football

Senior defensive back Robby Smith played a big role in the Mustang's 53-13 rout of CSU-Sanoma. Smith tied a school record by picking off three passes. The 5-foot-10-inch, 180-pound Mission Viejo native was named American West Defensive Player of the Week. He has three interceptions for the year, which places him 11th in the nation in Division II. He picked one pass off last year.

Runner-up:Sophomore Angela Orofin finished ninth at the Stanford Invitational with a time of 17:38. It was the best Mustang finish at the Division I meet attended by UCLA, Brigham Young University and Stanford. Her top-10 finish helped the women's team place fifth.

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK

Kristen Leonti- soccer

Freshman forward Kristen Leonti scored the only goal of the contest in the Mustangs' 53-13 rout of CSU-Sanoma on Saturday. The goal was Leonti's first game-winner. The 5-foot-7-inch San Jose native has three goals and one assist for the year. In the seven games she has played, she has put seven shots on goal.

Runner-up:Junior forward Rahiem Henderson anchored the men's soccer team's 3-0 victory over Cal Poly Pomona Saturday. The 6-foot-3-inch, 205-pound San Jose native scored the Mustangs' first two goals in the game. Henderson has tallied five goals and four assists.

Robby Smith- football

Senior defensive back Robby Smith played a big role in the Mustang's 53-13 rout of CSU-Sanoma. Smith tied a school record by picking off three passes. The 5-foot-10-inch, 180-pound Mission Viejo native was named American West Defensive Player of the Week. He has three interceptions for the year, which places him 11th in the nation in Division II. He picked one pass off last year.

Runner-up: Junior forward Rahiem Henderson anchored the men's soccer team's 3-0 victory over Cal Poly Pomona Saturday. The 6-foot-3-inch, 205-pound San Jose native scored the Mustangs' first two goals in the game. Henderson has tallied five goals and four assists.
The next time you're determining a viral DNA sequence or visualizing a black hole collision, here's something to keep in mind. For the most demanding work in universities, the popularity of Sun® SPARCstation® systems is absolutely unprecedented. From mathematics to biotechnology, earth sciences to engineering, more experts choose our systems for exceptional multitasking and networking power. Remarkably fast I/O throughput and 2-D and 3-D graphics acceleration. Built-in expansion and upgrade paths to future levels of even higher performance. Not to mention access to more than 4000 solutions for SPARC® systems, plus on campus support. May we suggest you test our assumptions by visiting your university store today. And discover for yourself why computers are causing such a sensation in scientific circles.

See yourself tomorrow, October 7, from 10am to 3pm in room 219 at the University Union. From mathematics to biotechnology, earth sciences to engineering, more experts choose our systems for exceptional multitasking and networking power. Remarkably fast I/O throughput and 2-D and 3-D graphics acceleration. Built-in expansion and upgrade paths to future levels of even higher performance. Not to mention access to more than 4000 solutions for SPARC® systems, plus on campus support. May we suggest you test our assumptions by visiting your university store today. And discover for yourself why computers are causing such a sensation in scientific circles.

COUNTRYWIDE FUNDING CORPORATION
CAREER OPPORTUNITIES
Countrywide Funding Corporation is the nation's largest home mortgage lender headquartered in Pasadena, California. Countrywide Funding originates and services single family home mortgage loans. Countrywide Funding has experienced unparalleled growth with over 4,000 employees and 300 branches nationwide.

Countrywide's Corporate Quality Assurance department is a recognized leader in developing and implementing Total Quality Management (TQM) and Business Process Reengineering. Countrywide's Corporate Quality Assurance department ensures that the company maintains its competitive edge through a quality culture that continuously improves both internal and external customer satisfaction.

Countrywide's Quality Assurance department:
• Develops and administers Total Quality Management (TQM) and process reengineering initiatives
• Develops and implements process measurement tools and performance tracking systems
• Trains and administers divisional and departmental quality administrators and staffs in TQM and process reengineering techniques

Countrywide Funding Corporation is currently conducting a nationwide search for candidates to join our Corporate Quality Assurance department in Pasadena. Countrywide seeks candidates with diverse backgrounds in: Production Operations Management, Industrial-Engineering, Business Management, or Finance for both graduate and undergraduate majors to fill several positions in our headquarters. Currently, we have openings for full-time consultants, co-operative consultants, and summer/fall internships.

The Corporate Quality Assurance department will be conducting private, one-on-one interviews on October 18th and 19th in San Luis Obispo. Interviews are limited and by appointment only. Please fax your resume with current work history, salary history, position you are applying for, along with a daytime telephone number to the address below. The deadline for submitting resumes is Wednesday, October 13th.

Lyn Meade, Corporate Quality Assurance Administrator
Countrywide Funding Corporation
155 North Lake Avenue, MSN 35-21
Pasadena, California 91109
(818) 666-4273 FAX
(800) 669-6655 Extension 2265

You will be notified by telephone of your appointment time and location.
TO ADVERTISE IN MUSTANG DAILY CLASSIFIEDS, CALL 756-1143

 Greek News

 RUSH NAK
 Alpha Chi Omega 1464 Foothill
 Call Mike: 543-8106

 RUSH DX
 MON CASINO NIGHT W/ THE HOUSE 7PM TUE ICE CREAM W/ WITZ 7PM TUE SCHOOL
 WED BINGO W/ GET LUCKY 6PM THURS SUBS & INFO NIGHT 7PM FRI
 RIDES & INFO NIGHT 8PM AT AXA HOUSE
 GO DELTA CHI

 RUSH ΦΕ
 MON TIP-BBQ W/ THE HOUSE 7PM SAT SAPPHIRE SATURDAY INVITE ONLY
 MON 7PM 6000 SPINNER INVITE ONLY
 ΦΑΟ RUSH
 TUE ICE CREAM W/ AXA 7PM WED POLO NIGHT 6PM THURS SUBS & INFO NIGHT 7PM FRI
 SAT SWIM PARTY W/ KONA 12 noon @ KONA HOUSE SUN INTERVIEWS @ 6PM INV.

 ΣAE RUSH
 TODAY TIP-BBQ W/ AXA HOUSE 4PM SAT BAND & ΒΟ HOUSE 4:30PM SLO VETS HALL 801 GRAND
 6:30PM SUBS & INFO NIGHT 7PM WED 10-6 TRI-TIP BBQ 6PM AXA HOUSE
 FRIDAYS AT WOODSTOCKS
 8PM AT WOODSTOCKS
 FIRST MTG TONIGHT!

 ΤΙΚΑ RUSH
 PIZZA FEED
 TONIGHT AT 7PM HOUSE AXA 4PM
 CALL 544-6334 for a ride BE THE BEST... RUSH EZA

 ΣΝ RUSH
 Monday Oct. 4, 11PM-12AM MON 5:00PM-6:00PM MON-BBQ 5PM-6PM SLO VETS HALL 801 GRAND
 MON moonlighters at Alpha Chi Omega 7PM 6PM-8PM Cal Poly
 SAT 6:00PM Call 544-6334
 Sat. Oct. The Smoker 6:00 Pat Alpha Chi Omega. Meet Tued Night Sat 10 Intermons
 Sun Oct 12 interviews Tued night Oct. 12 Intermons Two 542-3047

 LOST & Found
 LOST: Northgate High School class ring. Lost near English gold with a ruby, and initials TKM 750-594 with information.
 THERE IS A REWARD FOR RETURN!

 Services

 NEED MONEY FOR COLLEGE? WANTED: ANY? OR NEED A RIDE
 SNAP APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE
 ANY?, OR NEED A RIDE
 AIMEE LEE FREDERICK 544-8437

 Word Processing

 Typing/Design/Printing & Multicultural Fraternity
 PC or MAC Papers/Janet: 772-5471

 Travel

 New Year’s Bahama Cruise
 Outrageous Student Discount
 Call for details 305-235-6490

 Employment

 INTERNATIONAL EMPLOYMENT-Annie’s money teaching basic conversational English abroad. Japan, Taiwan, and
 S. Korea. Make up to $2,000-$4,000+ per month. Many provide room & board + other benefits. No previous training or certificate required. For more information call:
 (206)632-1146 ext.J6005
 RAISE $550 IN 6 DAYS. Groups, house parties, individuals.
 489-0961 or 650-800

 SAIL-GO-2 HOME VIDEO HOLIDAY NEWSLETTER IN 30PM 5PM 12/16

 For Sale

 KAYAK RENTALS & SALES
 772-WIND

 1987 HONDA 250 SCOOTER
 500 EACH GREAT 5000

 2003 HONDA 400 MTN
 500 REAR LOCKHELD-JK $700

 BABY CORN SNAKES - Captive Bred
 (206)632-1146 ext.J6005

 NO GPA or Financial need requirements. All students qualify and will receive
 Average Value: $1000-31500

 Computer Condensed with Printer
 542-6087

 FOR SALE

 NEARLY NEW MONT BLANC 18K & KING SIZE MATTER & BOX SPRING
 FESTIVE RATES Specials
 CALL 544-3000 ON 461-1079

 RAM SHARK ARMLE & BLT REDUCED TO 350
 SELLING AS IS 15% off on the Sea Bear Aria Beach
 555-5145

 FOR RIDES AND INFORMATION CALL JEFF 541-5062
FLEECY. CUSHY. BUILT LIKE A HIMALAYAN YURT. What you may ask, does a shirt have to do with a yurt for crying out loud. Well, we've had occasion to sleep in a yurt or two in 25 years of field-testing our products, and believe us, the comparison is not all that far-fetched.

For one thing, both are incredibly rugged. Both are cozy, warm and relentlessly well-made. Some differences: our sweatshirt is made of classic, heavyweight fleece. The cut is generous. The seams are cover-stitched. And the piece holds up, if not to the ravages of a Himalayan winter, at least to the punishment of dorm dryers, which can be bad enough, heaven knows. So, next time you're in Tibet, sipping yak butter tea inside a local yurt, take a moment to admire its superb construction.

It's built like the JanSport 50/50 fleece sweatshirt.