Colosio's bodyguards implicated in killing

By John Rice
Associated Press

MEXICO CITY — At least seven people were involved in the assassination of the man who was likely to have become Mexico's next president, a special prosecutor said Monday.

The suspects include the head of local security for presidential candidate Luis Donaldo Colosio, who was slain, as well as three supreme court justice assistants. Montes said Monday that Aburto, 23, is still the confessed gunman, acted in connection with Sunday's assault, which took place at the intersection of Hathaway Avenue and Bond Street.

Two youths were also arrested in connection with Sunday's assault, Joe Antonio Silva, arrested and charged with the strong-arm robbery assault Sunday morning of 19-year-old Vissalia resident Richard Johnston, was being detained in the San Luis Obispo County Jail Monday, according to San Luis Obispo Sheriff's Sgt. David Pietrowiski. Pietrowiski declined to give further information regarding the arrested man.

Montes did not discuss a possible motive, nor directly address the issue of a broader conspiracy that many Mexicans believe existed.

But the announcement dramatically widens the number of suspects in Mexico's most serious political assassination since 1928 and tends to reinforce suspicions of a wider conspiracy.

Colosio, as the candidate of the long-incumbent Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, was seen as a shoo-in for the Aug. 21 election.

Initially, the government insisted that Mario Aburto Martinez, the confessed gunman, acted alone. Officials later said several people might have been involved, while discounting a wider conspiracy.

Montes said Monday that Aburto, 23, is still the man accused of firing the shots that killed Colosio.

No increase for perimeter patrols

Police: No link among recent violent muggings

By Brian Volk
Daily Staff Writer

Despite the similarities in four recent assaults and robberies near Cal Poly, police said they've discovered no reason to head an investigation of a possible link between the crimes — and they aren't planning to step up patrols in the area.

Joe Antonio Silva, arrested and charged with the strong-arm robbery assault Sunday morning of 19-year-old Vissalia resident Richard Johnston, was being detained in the San Luis Obispo County Jail Monday, according to San Luis Obispo Sheriff's Sgt. David Pietrowiski. Pietrowiski declined to give further information regarding the arrested man.

Two youths were also arrested in connection with Sunday's assault, which took place at the intersection of Hathaway Avenue and Bond Street.

They were still in custody Monday at Juvenile Services Center, said Nancy Lindholm, the center's supervisor.

Lindholm said it has not been determined yet if they will be arraigned. By law, she said arraignment dates must set within 48 hours of a minor's arrest.

In the past three months, two earlier assaults have occurred in the same area of Hathaway Avenue and Bond Street and a third assault took place a few blocks away on the railroad tracks near the intersection of California and Foothill boulevards.

The first Hathaway assault occurred Feb. 4, when a Cal Poly freshman was mugged south of campus while walking back to his dorms and was robbed of ice cream and breadsticks.

On Feb. 26, a Cal Poly sophomore was knocked unconscious near the railroad tracks behind Mustang Village. Money was stolen from his wallet and he was robbed of a pound of beef jerky and a six-pack of beer.

A third incident occurred March 5 on the 1300 block of Bond Street, near Hathaway Avenue, where two assailants stole a baseball cap from one victim, and then feared away the man and his friend by firing a gun into the air.

Good day sunshine

Civil engineering senior Mike Hagen studied under the sun on the perimeter of Dexter Lawn on Monday afternoon. Students were treated to warm spring temperatures for much of the day. Forecasters are expecting a high of 69 degrees today.

Diversity proponents call Poly make-up 'lily' white

By Kristine Van Sloan
Daily Staff Writer

Despite efforts to improve faculty and student diversity, Cal Poly remains one of the least diversified campuses in the CSU system.

On-going attempts to diversify the students and faculty of Cal Poly will be further addressed today at a 2 p.m. seminar sponsored by Women's Week organizers in Chumash 204.

Cal Poly ranks as one of the least ethnically diverse among faculty and students compared to all other CSUs, according to Ethnic Studies Professor Willi Coleman.

"Cal Poly is the 'lily' of the (CSU) system," Coleman said.

Compared to other CSU campuses, Cal Poly ranks second or third least ethnically diverse, Coleman said.

Statewide CSU faculty figures from fall 1993 reflected a white majority and a lily-colored faculty.

No increase for perimeter patrols

Police: No link among recent violent muggings

By Brian Volk
Daily Staff Writer

Despite the similarities in four recent assaults and robberies near Cal Poly, police said they've discovered no reason to head an investigation of a possible link between the crimes — and they aren't planning to step up patrols in the area.

Joe Antonio Silva, arrested and charged with the strong-arm robbery assault Sunday morning of 19-year-old Vissalia resident Richard Johnston, was being detained in the San Luis Obispo County Jail Monday, according to San Luis Obispo Sheriff's Sgt. David Pietrowiski. Pietrowiski declined to give further information regarding the arrested man.

Two youths were also arrested in connection with Sunday's assault, which took place at the intersection of Hathaway Avenue and Bond Street.

They were still in custody Monday at Juvenile Services Center, said Nancy Lindholm, the center's supervisor.

Lindholm said it has not been determined yet if they will be arraigned. By law, she said arraignment dates must set within 48 hours of a minor's arrest.

In the past three months, two earlier assaults have occurred in the same area of Hathaway Avenue and Bond Street and a third assault took place a few blocks away on the railroad tracks near the intersection of California and Foothill boulevards.

The first Hathaway assault occurred Feb. 4, when a Cal Poly freshman was mugged south of campus while walking back to his dorms and was robbed of ice cream and breadsticks.

On Feb. 26, a Cal Poly sophomore was knocked unconscious near the railroad tracks behind Mustang Village. Money was stolen from his wallet and he was robbed of a pound of beef jerky and a six-pack of beer.

A third incident occurred March 5 on the 1300 block of Bond Street, near Hathaway Avenue, where two assailants stole a baseball cap from one victim, and then feared away the man and his friend by firing a gun into the air.

Good day sunshine

Civil engineering senior Mike Hagen studied under the sun on the perimeter of Dexter Lawn on Monday afternoon. Students were treated to warm spring temperatures for much of the day. Forecasters are expecting a high of 69 degrees today.

Diversity proponents call Poly make-up 'lily' white

By Kristine Van Sloan
Daily Staff Writer

Despite efforts to improve faculty and student diversity, Cal Poly remains one of the least diversified campuses in the CSU system.

On-going attempts to diversify the students and faculty of Cal Poly will be further addressed today at a 2 p.m. seminar sponsored by Women's Week organizers in Chumash 204.

Cal Poly ranks as one of the least ethnically diverse among faculty and students compared to all other CSUs, according to Ethnic Studies Professor Willi Coleman.

"Cal Poly is the 'lily' of the (CSU) system," Coleman said.

Compared to other CSU campuses, Cal Poly ranks second or third least ethnically diverse, Coleman said.

Statewide CSU faculty figures from fall 1993 reflected a white majority and a lily-colored faculty.

No increase for perimeter patrols

Police: No link among recent violent muggings

By Brian Volk
Daily Staff Writer

Despite the similarities in four recent assaults and robberies near Cal Poly, police said they've discovered no reason to head an investigation of a possible link between the crimes — and they aren't planning to step up patrols in the area.

Joe Antonio Silva, arrested and charged with the strong-arm robbery assault Sunday morning of 19-year-old Vissalia resident Richard Johnston, was being detained in the San Luis Obispo County Jail Monday, according to San Luis Obispo Sheriff's Sgt. David Pietrowiski. Pietrowiski declined to give further information regarding the arrested man.

Two youths were also arrested in connection with Sunday's assault, which took place at the intersection of Hathaway Avenue and Bond Street.

They were still in custody Monday at Juvenile Services Center, said Nancy Lindholm, the center's supervisor.

Lindholm said it has not been determined yet if they will be arraigned. By law, she said arraignment dates must set within 48 hours of a minor's arrest.

In the past three months, two earlier assaults have occurred in the same area of Hathaway Avenue and Bond Street and a third assault took place a few blocks away on the railroad tracks near the intersection of California and Foothill boulevards.

The first Hathaway assault occurred Feb. 4, when a Cal Poly freshman was mugged south of campus while walking back to his dorms and was robbed of ice cream and breadsticks.

On Feb. 26, a Cal Poly sophomore was knocked unconscious near the railroad tracks behind Mustang Village. Money was stolen from his wallet and he was robbed of a pound of beef jerky and a six-pack of beer.

A third incident occurred March 5 on the 1300 block of Bond Street, near Hathaway Avenue, where two assailants stole a baseball cap from one victim, and then feared away the man and his friend by firing a gun into the air.

Good day sunshine

Civil engineering senior Mike Hagen studied under the sun on the perimeter of Dexter Lawn on Monday afternoon. Students were treated to warm spring temperatures for much of the day. Forecasters are expecting a high of 69 degrees today.

Diversity proponents call Poly make-up 'lily' white

By Kristine Van Sloan
Daily Staff Writer

Despite efforts to improve faculty and student diversity, Cal Poly remains one of the least diversified campuses in the CSU system.

On-going attempts to diversify the students and faculty of Cal Poly will be further addressed today at a 2 p.m. seminar sponsored by Women's Week organizers in Chumash 204.

Cal Poly ranks as one of the least ethnically diverse among faculty and students compared to all other CSUs, according to Ethnic Studies Professor Willi Coleman.

"Cal Poly is the 'lily' of the (CSU) system," Coleman said.

Compared to other CSU campuses, Cal Poly ranks second or third least ethnically diverse, Coleman said.

Statewide CSU faculty figures from fall 1993 reflected a white majority and a lily-colored faculty.
The incredible shrinking school

The incredible shrinking school

The incredible shrinking school

Contracting budget... gets bare left Cal
Poly with more problems and fewer students.

Administrators say the numbers can only go up from here. By Troy Peterson.

The number of sections offered in the past three years has fallen from 4,424 in fall of 1990 to 3,386 in fall of 1993.

According to Koob, the administration tried to downsize enrollment to

Whitewater watch: Poly community says the Battle of Bill is now uphill

By Cody Urrut

Whitewater Probe

Whitewater probe: Poly community says the Battle of Bill is now uphill

Whether or not the Clintons have committed any wrongs in their Arkansas land dealings, some members of the Cal Poly community have already decided whether there's anything amiss in Washington.

As his presidency enters its second year, Whitewater is proving to be the primary obstacle President Clinton has faced. A 1970s failed Arkansas land deal, Whitewater is being pursued by independent commission Robert flake.

The Clintons have received media scrutiny for their role in the failed financial venture. Yet in conversations with 20 randomly selected Cal Poly students late last week, respondents said they believe the Whitewater affair has damaged his political reputation.

Clinton's public image is hurt, he still has a chance to redeem himself. Some students said they felt the press is being unfair to Clinton. The Whitewater affair seems like a ploy to discredit him, said business senior Sharon Beko. "We're not going to compromise the quality. We would rather cut a little off the access side to maintain the quality."

Officials say Poly's downsizing is intentional.

"Cal Poly has downsized in order to accommodate a reduced budget for all practical reasons," Koob said. "Our long term goal has always been to maintain the quality of the Cal Poly experience... that's never varied."

For the past three years, Cal Poly has shrunken its student body, its faculty and the number of courses of study.

"That's a consequence of the budget decision the state's made," Koob said. "It's one thing to say we want you to have an affordable education; it's another not to fund it."

Koob also placed some blame with the California taxpayers.

"The people of the State of California say, 'Yeah, we like our kids to be able to go to school, but we're not willing to pay the taxes,'" he said. "They're not talking the talk. They're not doing what they say they want."

Koob believes Cal Poly made the right decision to downsize, thus maintaining the quality of the institution.

"Cal Poly has made that choice," Koob said. "It wants to assure each of its graduates that they've been provided with what they need to succeed in today's society."

According to Koob, the administration tried to downsize enrollment to match the budget decrease. However, the dollars spent per student has dropped 7.5 percent, meaning the cuts in the budget have been more severe than the downsizing in students has been.

But Koob cited two reasons for believing the downsizing trend would be reversed.

"Our expectation is that the Legislature, because of the political pressure that will develop from increasing numbers of students needing to go to higher education, will begin to rebuild some of that dollar base that's been missing," he said.

Aptitudes, degrees are on the rise.

Secondly, Koob said there has been a resurgence in the number of applications, reaffirming an interest in higher education that seemed to be on the decline.

Cal Poly has received 13,876 applications for the "See ENROLLMENT, page 3

MUSTANG DAILY GRAPHIC

GEORGE CHERN/MUSTANG DAILY
ENROLLMENT: Officials say decreases at Poly are intentional, mirror changes in CSU system

From page 2
fall of 1994 as opposed to 11,700 in the fall of 1993.

The CSU won't have an official number of applications until August, but Koob said that, in a meeting with the vice presidents of all the campuses in the system, about half said they noticed trends of increased applications.

Koob suspects there are two reasons for the increase in applications: More people have come out of high school in the past year; and there has been less negative publicity about the CSU system.

"Public information does influence student expectations of the system," Koob said. According to Associate Vice President for Student Affairs Euel Kennedy, Cal Poly expects about half said they noticed applications; More people have reasons for the increase in applications; and there has been the system," Koob said.

"Is there a way to increase access to the university for the same number of dollars that we have?" Koob asked. "Yes, there is a way. It's in the classroom, in the student body by 20 percent. We would ultimately allow more students to attend Cal Poly. Koob feels there are three primary reasons why students stay longer than four years: Students choose to stay longer; there may be some university obstacles that could be responsible; and there are students who change their mind about their field of study.

"I need to make certain the university removes whatever barriers it's putting in place," Koob said. "In that case, we're doing everything we can to meet our obligation as a good public citizen."

"If, in fact, we can design the program so all students can take the same or fewer courses they need to take, then the number of students at that level, then we should allow them to continue to have that floor," Koob said. "If, in fact, we can design the program so all students can take the same or fewer courses they need to take, then the number of students at that level, then we should allow them to continue to have that floor," Koob said. "I need to make certain the university removes whatever barriers it's putting in place," Koob said. "In that case, we're doing everything we can to meet our obligation as a good public citizen."

Social sciences professor Richard Shaffer said he doesn't feel the downturn will have a tremendous effect on the future of students.

"I suspect that we're graduating more students than the economy needs," Shaffer said. "That will not be our problem."

Jim Vegher, head counselor for San Luis Obispo High School, said he hasn't noticed significant changes in the attitudes of graduating seniors toward the college.

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

Vegher noted that more of his students seemed to be going to community colleges.

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

A COMPUTER

The dictionary has at least three definitions for "value." So do we.

Giving people more value for their money has made Macintosh the best-selling computer in the United States, according to Apple Computers. The dictionary has at least three definitions for "value." So do we.

The annual report of the Commission on Judicial Performance listed 33 judges who were given private admonishments, the mildest form of discipline, or advisory letters, non-disciplinary warnings about misconduct.

WHITETWATER

From page 2

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

Vegher noted that more of his students seemed to be going to community colleges.

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob

"We're in a very difficult situation right now, where we'll not be allowed to reduce further if the budget is reduced further. That will not be our choice." Bob Koob
More than two years before the opening of the Performing Arts Center, students are doing their own acrobatics due to the construction.

Take a walk on Grand Avenue and before you know it you may be taking a flying leap to avoid being slammed by a car and turning pirouettes to keep your toes from getting run over.

As the giant construction project kicked in, pedestrians were kicked off the sidewalks and into narrow makeshift paths. Cars cruise Grand Avenue, and as their eyes wander to the construction site, their cars are likely to wander into the unmarked walkways — a recipe for disaster.

The same holds true for Tahoma Road where pedestrians are not even offered the luxury of a makeshift sidewalk. A half-fallen fence overtakes the sidewalk until pedestrians reach the west side of the Music Building, where the sidewalk finally is restored.

And the situation isn't just temporary — many of us will be affected by this project for the rest of our college careers.

The students, faculty and staff who use this area deserve a safe place to walk on campus. Such a huge detour, not a makeshift path — a safe area.

Cal Poly's Director of Planning Bob Kitamura told the Daily he sees the community campus as his "clients" and that he wants to "cater to their needs as much as we possibly can."

We suggest immediate action before Kitamura and other EDC planners lose a client, or have one seriously injured.

Construction "Caution" signs would be a start, and protective concrete barriers would keep cars out of the path.

We all need to adjust a bit for the construction — drive a little slower, pay more attention, walk a safer route. But we need our walkways safe and we need them safe now.

An election you should care about

You've probably seen the sign dotting Cal Poly's lawns — an official notice that ASI elections are fast approaching.

At stake are the jobs of president, the chair of the Board of Directors and two dozen board member slots.

Important positions. People who could change your life at Cal Poly.

And even more, ASI is sponsoring a referendum to see what students think about switching from a quarter system to a trimester or semester system.

Another important choice for Cal Poly. This is a unique chance to show an organized student voice on this issue. Students who are uniformly opposed to a change, and President Baker seem intent on one. Will you please have a voice in this decision?

Elections will be held next week — April 13 and 14. Watch the Daily for details about the candidates.

Thursday, two forums will be held where you can hear the candidates speak — we recommend you attend. The first will be held in the U.U. Plaza during activity hour, the second from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. in Chumash Annex.

We urge all students to attend the forums, to try to involve themselves in these elections.

The key to a successful student government is having students who care about who their representatives are and what they are doing.

A Daily treatment for your thighs

By Matt Hoy

A cursory glance through the ads in the Mustang Daily gives rise to the question: just who do they think they are, trying to sell this crap to us?

In yesterday's paper we had the "Original Patented THIGH CREAM." Thigh Cream? What is this stuff?

Whatever it is, it must be safe because it's been "clinically Tested!"... the kind that just one but two of! It must be really safe.

But what does this stuff do? Does it make one's thighs disappear? Shrink? Grow?

I don't think so. It's just something I'm not supposed to understand. Which includes most things dealing with women.

This stuff must really be famous, because it's just called "THIGH CREAM." If they really want to sell this stuff, they should call it something like: "Dolly Parton's Thigh Cream."

In order for something like this to sell it needs to be endorsed by some drop-dead gorgeous movie star who never needs to use the stuff.

The advertisement asks you to "try it for yourself!"

Two "f" marks, verrry important.

Usually, if you're just going to try something it doesn't cost $50 for a 6 oz. tube. If I'm going to pay $35, I want a truckload of this stuff.

If thigh cream isn't your preferred method of throwing money down the drain, you can "Learn to access the power of your own mind." Mary Sainbury, a SLO Certified Clinical Hypnotherapist, advertises that she will help you: Improve test scores, enhance memory, etc.

Baby come back: Baker's kudos for Open House preparation

I want to say thank you to all the people who are doing a magnificent job of planning and preparing for the Open House.

The initiative, creativity and energy — and responsibility — that I see going into the preparations for the event confirm what exceptional students we have at this university. You are bringing back the best of the past and improving upon it to create a model Open House.

I'm delighted that once again Cal Poly will be able to display the best it has to offer, to demonstrate to the public the ingenuity, skill and responsibility of Cal Poly students. The decision to cancel the former "open house" (Poly Royal) was a difficult one. So much of that tradition was important and beneficial to this university.

If you remember the old saying about the baby and the bath water, you know what I mean when I say: It will be great to have the baby back.

Students and faculty members in every program will be able to show their stuff — and it's very good stuff. On Thursday, two forums will be held where you can hear the candidates speak — we recommend you attend.

Students and faculty members in every program will be able to show their stuff — and it's very good stuff. On Thursday, two forums will be held where you can hear the candidates speak — we recommend you attend.

On Wednesday, April 22, we can show prospective students and their families the excellent programs we have to offer. On April 23, we can show the public the exciting programs we have here at Poly.

The cooperation and coordination among all interested groups, both on campus and off, have been exceptional. My congratulations and thanks to ASI, the Open House Committee, the clubs, the colleges, the local community, and everyone involved.

CORRECTION

In Monday's Daily, ASI Board of Director candidate Danelle Emonts was incorrectly quoted as a candidate in the wrong college due to information provided by ASI. She is a candidate for the College of Humanities. Also, Gregory Royack's name was spelled incorrectly.
Memorial fund is being established by friends, family and associates of Matthew D. Hubal. Donations are being solicited to express their memories of Hubal, Macomber said.

In addition to the service, Sigma Alpha Epsilon will be naming their annual scholarship after Hubal. Additionally, a Matthew D. Hubal Memorial Fund is being established by friends, family and associates and coordinated by Cal Poly. Donations are being solicited for the fund to support the scholarship.

This fund will be used to honor and perpetuate Matt's memory at Cal Poly through annual recognition of deserving students, said Zeljka Bilbija, a city and regional planning professor and Hubal's senior thesis advisor. Contributions to the fund can be made out to: Matthew D. Hubal Memorial Fund Accounting Office Cal Poly Gift Planning Office
Heron Hall room # 216 San Luis Obispo, CA 93407

1994 SUMMER PRE-LAW PROGRAM JUNE 13 - JULY 15

- 5-Week Program for Undergraduates on a Law School Campus
- 3 Classes - 6 UOP Undergraduate Credits
- Optional Guidance Sessions on Law School Applications, Financial Aid, Career Development, Writing Skills, and LSAT
- On-Campus Housing Available

MCGeorge School of Law UNIVERSITY of the PACIFIC
For Informational Materials, Write To: Summer Pre-Law Program • UOP McGeorge School of Law 320 Fifth Avenue • Sacramento, CA 95817 • (916) 739-7015

DIVERSITY
From page 1
A slow, but gradual increase" in percentages of ethnic diversity, according to CSU spokesperson Colleen Bentley-Adler. More than 33 percent are minority groups, she said, while 80 percent are white. She added that 64 percent of newer faculty will come from minority and minorities.

More women are getting their (doctorates), and we're seeing a gradual change in our diversity," Bentley-Adler said.

Statewide CSU figures also reflect a favorable change in diversity among students. More than 43 percent are minorities and 56 percent are white.

"It's great that we're beginning to get more of a representation for the state," Bentley-Adler said.

Affirmative Action Director Anna McDonald said Cal Poly's administration is less diverse than the student population.

Of upper-level administration, 8 percent are white and 18 percent are minorities, McDonald said. The totals also are similar for women in administration, with 17 percent in lower-level administration. Women account for 40 percent of upper-level administrative jobs.

The figure is significantly greater, but still inapplicable to other CSU campus statistics.

The figures still show an imbalance between campus diversity as a whole, Coleman said, as well as with most other CSU schools.

"Ethnic diversity is very practiced to help students live in the real world," Coleman said.

Today's business world demands ethnic awareness as a "pragmatic skill, not a luxury," Coleman said. She added that both students and faculty need to be more diverse.

Cal Poly recently added an ethnic studies minor, but was second to the last CSU campus to approve an ethnic studies curriculum. Cal Poly also has a women's studies minor.

The goal of ethnic studies, Coleman said, is to keep Cal Poly in parity with all CSU campuses to create an environment for ethnic studies to flourish.

"If we're not informed about women and minorities, we're not talking the whole truth," McDonald said. Most current school curriculums are still geared predominantly toward European studies, she said.

MARKET
From page 1
"The outflows from our stock funds are quite small," Jamieson said. At some points during the day, she said "there was more buying activity than selling." Most traders attributed the stock market's behavior to heavy selling in the bond market, a powerful barometer of interest rate trends, where big investors have been dumping bonds on fear rates will continue rising.

Higher interest rates tend to make stocks and bonds worth less.

By the end of the day, several big investment firms were recommending purchases of stocks and bonds, asserting they were underpriced.

The Dow average of 39 premier U.S. stocks plummeted more than 60 points at the outset of trading, put in negative territory and finished at 3,693.95, down 46.91 points from Thursday and the lowest point since Oct. 11.

The average is now off 4.5 percent from a week ago and 9.7 percent from its all-time high of 3,978.36 reached Jan. 31. Broader measurements of stock values also tumbled Monday and declining stocks outnumbered advancing stocks by a margin of 6 to 1.

A report from a national group of factory purchasing managers showing the economy had already slowed and a straight month had little effect on the market.

PERIMETER

"It hasn't happened for a few years, so that's why it's catching the news," he said.

Unilaterally, stock prices are falling, but Lindvall predicted that "volatile" stocks such as semiconductors and bio-drugs are likely to see the sharpest drops.

Though many national newsprint and the Whitewater controversy in the White House has affected the confidence of investors, Lindvall said he believes it had little effect on what's happened in the market.

As for what will happen in the coming days, Lindvall said: "I don't know. I don't think anyone can know. If you know that, you'd be making a lot of money."
Poly breezes to third straight tournament title

By Jeffrey Jen
5th Staff Writer

Cal Poly rolled through the singles matches Sunday against Foothill Community College, winning them 5-1, to claim their third Mustang Invitational title in as many attempts. The doubles matches weren't contested.

"Basically, we blasted them off the court," said Cal Poly Tennis Coach Chris Eppright. Foothill College, a last-minute replacement for Division II second-ranked Hampton University, had fared well in the tournament up to Sunday. They had dispatched Cal Poly Pomona in the first round Friday and won an emotional 5-4 victory over Division I St. Mary's College on Saturday.

Sunday's final of the Mustang Invitational tennis tournament was supposed to be a tough battle between host Cal Poly and Foothill College — the top-ranked community college in the state. That didn't turn out to be the case.

That was never more obvious than the No. 1-singles match between Cal Poly's senior All-American Marc Ollivier and Henrik Wagner, the top-ranked junior college player in the state.

Wagner had a few chances for a service break early in the first set, but couldn't convert. Frustrated, Wagner never could get back into the match as Ollivier rolled to an easy 6-3, 6-2 win.

"It was just my day, not his," Ollivier said. "I have a weird style to my game. If I'm on... then it's difficult for the other player to get into his game."

Unlike Foothill, Cal Poly had breezed through their first two rounds with a 7-2 win over Division III Claremont-Mudd and an 8-1 win over UC-Davis.

"They (Foothill) have seven Division I-caliber players," Eppright said. "They did have a tough one yesterday and may have been emotionally drained. But we didn't let them get into the game."

In other singles matches, junior Josh Johnston justified his move from No. 3 single to the No. 2 spot with a 6-3, 6-3 win. Freshman Casey Wood defeated Nate Furney, 6-4, 6-3 and junior Scott King eventually halted Michael Ngerbrou, 7-5, 6-4.

Only Alex Sugui won for Foothill College, earning a 7-6, 6-1 win at No. 4-singles over junior Dave Mullarkey.

Doubles competition wasn't played because the title was already in hand and Foothill College had to return to Northern California for classes early Monday.

In other action in the tournament, St. Mary's defeated UC-Davis, 7-2, to snag third place. In the consolation final, Claremont-Mudd scored a 7-2 win over Cal Poly Pomona. In the seventh place final, UC-Riverside edged Division I Loyola Marymount, 5-4.

The Mustangs travel to take on California Collegiate Athletic Association foe Cal State Los Angeles Tuesday. The Mustangs (15-4 overall and 6-0 in CCAA) are looking for another sweep of the Golden Eagles to zip through the CCAA season undefeated. With a win Cal Poly captures its sixth consecutive CCAA title and a trip to the NCAA Division II Nationals in Kansas City, Mo.

---

Summer Sessions '94

University of California

Santa Barbara

June 20 - July 29

Main Session

A Note from UCSB Summer Sessions:

Summer Sessions at UCSB offers an enriching academic and cultural experience. It is an ideal setting for making new friends and taking challenging and intriguing courses. The classes are smaller, and the campus less crowded.

Students fees have been kept down again this summer. Students fees have been kept down again this summer. Students fees have been kept down again this summer.

Total fees for the following loads are: 4 units - $314, 8 units - $530, 12 units - $746. The application fee is separate. We are offering over 300 undergraduate and graduate level courses in all disciplines.

June 20 - August 26

- Mathematics 108 A-B (Intro. to Linear Algebra)
- Chemistry - Organic Chemistry 8A-B
- Foreign Languages:
  - Chinese 1,2,3
  - Italian 1,2,3
  - French 1,2,3
  - Russian 1,2,3
  - German 1,2,3
  - Spanish 195,285,385

For a FREE Catalog/Application contact:

UCSB Summer Sessions, Dept. CP
Santa Barbara, CA 93106-2010
(805) 893-2047
Cal Poly - San Luis Obispo
Housing and Residential Life • Student Affairs Division

Are You Interested in Becoming a Summer Resident Advisor?

If so, please attend one of these information sessions.
Applications will be there!

Tuesday, April 5
7 p.m. - Sierra Madre Hall

Wednesday, April 13
8 p.m. - Santa Lucia Hall

For further information, contact the Department of Housing and Residential Life at 756-6125

Ice Cream

Look for the Sweet Persuasions ice cream cart outside the Dexter Building.

Ice Cream Sandwhich
Vanilla Drumstick
Fudge Drumstick
Polar Bar
Snickers
Klondike
It's-It
Cal Poly Ice Cream Cups
• Cookies-n-Cream
• Olallieberry
• Chocolate
• Vanilla

$1

Ice Cream Van

Mustang Daily

Best You Ever Ate

MUSTANG DAILY

CAREER FAIR
April 21, 1994

OLDE, America's Full Service Discount Broker℠ is looking for motivated people to establish a career in the brokerage business.

OLDE offers:
12-18 month paid training program
Potential six-figure income
Excellent benefits

If you possess excellent communication skills, general market knowledge and the desire to excel, see us at the Career Fair on April 21, 1994.

If you are unable to attend the Career Fair call:
1800 937-0606
or send resume to:
OLDE Discount Stockbrokers
National Recruiting
751 Griswold Street
Detroit, MI 48226

OLDE Discount Stockbrokers
Member NYSE and SIPC
An Equal Opportunity Employer

GOT JUICE!

Lucy's

...still the best you ever ate