Jorg Haider, leader of Austria's opposition party, spoke Thursday to an informal group of students and professors about his party's plans for the future of the country / Daily photo L. Scott Robinson

Jorg Haider, Austrian visionary and devoted fan of Gingrich politics, has found himself

LEADING THE OPPOSITION

Los Angeles journalist examines media's emerging role

The media is a constant subject of debate and criticism. For Latino author and journalist Ruben Martinez, it is a field that both motivates and troubles him.

Martinez spoke at Cal Poly Wednesday night about media issues and the need for addressing the state's emerging multicultural reality.

In his lecture entitled, "Writ­ing and Imaging the New California: The Challenges of a True Pluralism," Martinez said few people even know that more than 4 million Latinos live in Los Angeles County today.

"I (practice journalism), because it's an act of love and loving history. The journalist is the first person on the scene when history is being made."

While Martinez' love for the field is deeply rooted, he said the media tends to contribute to negative images of minorities — images which Martinez said helped fan the flames of the Los Angeles Riots while re-enforcing racial stereotypes.

Martinez added that when people think of Los Angeles today, they think of gang or O.J. Simpson, and that the media tends to perpetuate that perception while ignoring more important issues like the

The task force also wants the university to commit to three years of stable funding rather than continue to raise the student health fee. See MEETING, page 6

What does ASI do? Responsibilities are great and varied

By Karen E. Spander

Behind all the gavel-hanging and bill-writing, there is a corporation working for Cal Poly students.

For two hours each Wednesday night, the ASI Board of Directors sorts through agenda items and decides, in part, what type of environment Cal Poly students will spend their college days in.

But their decision making stretches outside the walls of the University Union. Board members attend countless meetings and interact with the ASI Executive Staff to stay apprised of student issues.

Ag representatives to protest stadium site at senate meeting

By Jasmyne Penrose

Controversy continues over the placement of a new football stadium, despite the acceptance of the location by the campus planning committee headed by President Warren Baker.

Representatives of the College of Agriculture plan to visit the Academic Senate at its next meeting to protest losing some of their best land to the construction.

"The site for the football stadium and baseball field is bordered by Highway 1 and High­land Drive, (Drive)," said Robert Kitamura, the facilities planning director.

"We want the health fee to stay at $28 a quarter for the next three years," Cooke said.

The plan also includes renovation of Mott Gym as part of the facelift for Cal Poly athletics, and is currently being reviewed by the Master Plan Committee for a final consent.

Although the site has already been approved, the College of Agriculture, which is losing what they term "class one" land for the stadium, is proposing alternative sites to the senate.

"The resolution (to the senate) requests that President Baker move the location (of the stadium) to a location that is less important to the College of Agriculture," said environmental

INSIDE TODAY'S MUSTANG DAILY

SPORTS

Mustangs baseball heads to Hawaii to try to extend winning streak

Opinion

Nathan Abler believes Mother's Day isn't enough for moms

Read Us

Graphic Arts, 230 Cal Poly Union
Senior Assistant Graphic Designer / Ad Agency
Advertising: 756-1143
Editorial: 756-1794
Fax: 754-4744
Today's Weather: Partly cloudy, breezy

Today's high/low: 68/47

Tomorrow's high/low: 64/NA

CAPTURE Open for Summer Term

CAPTURE schedule for complete information. Fees must be received three days prior to your scheduled registration day. Also, last day to file petition to withdraw complete information.

Today's High/Low: 68/47

Tomorrow's High/Low: 64/NA

Disability Campus Parking Permit Changes

FBI affidavit lays out alleged bomb-making plot

The affidavit also said Nichols wrote McVeigh a letter, to be delivered in the event of Nichols' death, telling McVeigh to clear out two sheds and "Go for it!" alone.

The affidavit was unsealed in a court hearing.

Land:

College of Agriculture, athletics at odds over new stadium site

From page 1

Hannings contends that only 86 acres are "class one" land and half of that would be taken up by the stadium.

Most of agriculture's land is not class-one land, Hannings said. "Agriculture doesn't have to build the stadium on the best farm land we have."

The site of the stadium is very accessible and the site is suitable for that type of facility, said Athletics Director John McCutcheon. "The proximity to the campus core and to student residents makes it more suitable for Cal Poly."

Hannings hopes to suggest alternate land sites to the senate at the next meeting.

There are several other sites that would cause less problems for agriculture.

"One is the rodeo and sheep unit or the 100 acres that is near Cuesta College."

McCutcheon responded that the rodeo site was earmarked to be used for university expansion.

"The (rodeo) site has been identified for other uses—campus growth and expansion," McCutcheon said. "We have to look five to 10 years ahead at more academic growth, like the construction of more buildings."

"The affidavit also suggested the current track could be a possible site that "would save money by building the bleachers into the hillside," he said. "The stadium parking lot near that site would serve more people."

McCutcheon disagreed. "The proximity of the track is too close to the neighborhoods," he said. "Especially with the planned parking garage, there isn't enough room and it is more cost-prohibited."

With the site for the stadium already accepted, the athletics department is interviewing various architectural firms to propose the stadium's plan.

Kitamura said that once a firm is chosen, the fund-raising aspect of the project will begin.

"Right now, when the raising of funds is completed, some phase (of construction) will be completed in three years," Kitamura said.

"The administrators (who are handling the plan) are a little bit hesitant to talk," Hannings said. "We are talking about a football stadium that will cost $60 million."

Hannings added that he felt the stadium has been better informed of the stadium's progress.

"The land was bought and given to Cal Poly for good quality agriculture programs," Hannings said. "Campus planning has ignored the pleas of our college (even though) agriculture is part of the heritage of Cal Poly."
MARTINEZ: Oklahoma City discussion

From page 1

over-changing culture of the city.

"The rate of intermarriage today is higher than ever," Martinez said. "The story I want to tell and write about is the real majority. The real majority does not vote."

MARTINEZ addresses multicultural issues and the media / Daily photo by L. Scott Robinson

MARTINEZ also talked of how certain political groups have used the media in the past for their own gain while claiming to represent the "majority."

"Republicans have used our media for their political purposes," Martinez said. "They have used the media at its worst and best.

"I felt more American than I have in a long time," he said, referring to sympathy he felt for the victims of the bombing and their families.

But he criticized the media for jumping to the conclusion that the bombing suspects were Middle Eastern.

"I felt like I was sharing the tragedy until I realized they were immediately searching for Arab suspects," he said. The media's attempt to place the blame on foreigners was soon discredited when, shortly after, a rent bomb suspect Timothy McVeigh, a Caucasian from Middle Eastern descent, was charged with the bombing.

"We all need to come and sit at the same table," he said.

BOMBING: Nichols is questioned

From page 2

fertilizer-fuel oil bomb, "the affidavit said.

The 10-page document also stated that "sulfur was found in fuel meter which can be used to obtain "the proper volume of diesel oil to manufacture for a bomb."

Nichols' appearance before U.S. Magistrate Ronald Howland in a makeshift courtroom at the federal prison in El Reno came 24 hours after authorities transferred him to Oklahoma City from Kansas, where he had been held as a material witness.

Timothy McVeigh, Nichols' Army buddy, business partner and political compatriot, has been held at the El Reno prison since being charged with the bombing two days after the April 19 attack.

Clad in a dingy white T-shirt and polka-dotted blue jeans, Nichols sat hunched over the defense table, answering the magistrate's questions with "Yes, your honor," and "No, sir."

The attorneys did not contest prosecutors' requests that Nichols be held until a May 18 preliminary hearing.

According to the affidavit, investigators found a reason for the September 1994 purchase of a ton of ammonium nitrate fertilizer from a Kansas farm supply store. The receipt, under the name "Haynes," bears McVeigh's fingerprint, the FBI said. An additional 16 pounds of fertilizer was purchased at the same store the next month by "Mike Havens."

"The affidavit also linked Nichols and McVeigh with a large quantity of bomb paraphernalia, including fertilizer, fuel oil, boosters, detonators or blasting caps, detonation cord, fusing systems and containers," the affidavit said.

Thurman said the bomb "would have been constructed over a period of time utilizing a large quantity of bomb paraphernalia," including fertilizer, fuel oil, boosters, detonators or blasting caps, detonation cord, fusing systems and containers, the affidavit said.

According to the affidavit, Nichols also said he met McVeigh in downtown Oklahoma City on April 16, and again in Junction City, Kan., on April 18.

"The use of Internet services such as the World Wide Web is obviously spread across a more diverse population than previously believed," said Smoot Carl-Mitchell of Matrix Information & Directory Services, an Austin-based Internet market research firm which did the survey.

For the Internet at large, the survey found the ratio of male to female users was 64 percent to 36 percent.
Mothers deserve more than one day of thanks

By Nathan Abler

Mother’s Day is the celebration of motherhood. The problem is, motherhood doesn’t just last one day; once begun, it lasts a lifetime.

It’s not just a job; it’s a career.

My mother began her career on Feb. 12, 1968, when she gave birth to my older sister, Danielle. On that day, she embarked on a 27-year (and counting) journey through the trials and triumphs of motherhood.

Since then, she has given birth to myself and my three little sisters, Sarah (14), Mary (12) and Veronica (9).

She will complete her child-rearing years and begin her “golden years” around 2004 (that is, if Veronica doesn’t stay at home during college).

My mother has never complained to me about being a mother. She was always there when we needed her, never complaining (but not always smiling, either).

When she was sick, she was there. When I was sick, she was there. The only times I remember her not being there were when she was in the hospital after giving birth to my little sisters. And, when I wanted to play sports, she would say: “Don’t come crying to me,” when I was slightly injured.

Even now, when I am 206 miles away from her, she is there, supporting me in my college career.

Thanks to the miracle of the Internet and the fact that I can keep in touch with parents and friends through the ‘Net, I am able to save money (a mother’s best solution, Moy 11). Through the ‘Net I am able to buy books, save money (a mother’s best solution, Moy 11), and even avoid the lowlights and the highlights — like there is a week of celebrating motherhood, the ups and downs and the good and bad moments.

The only times I remember her not being there were when she was in the hospital after giving birth to my little sisters. And, when I wanted to play sports, she would say: “Don’t come crying to me,” when I was slightly injured.

Even now, when I am 206 miles away from her, she is there, supporting me in my college career.

Thanks to the miracle of the Internet and the fact that I can keep in touch with parents and friends through the ‘Net, I am able to save money (a mother’s best solution, Moy 11).

Mothers should be celebrated more than once a year. It’s great to celebrate motherhood, but one day isn’t enough.

Mothers should be celebrated more than once a year. It’s great to celebrate motherhood, but one day isn’t enough.

Think back to when you scraped your knee. Who kissed it to make it better? Probably your mother. Who helped you with your homework when it was due the day before?

Mothers are the type of people who give up their sleep to handle problems at three in the morning. There should be a Month of the Mothers — one full month of celebrating motherhood, the ups and downs and the good and bad moments — like there is a week devoted to women (the annual Cal Poly Women’s Week).

Although all mothers are women, not all women are mothers. Therefore, there should be a longer celebration for those who are responsible for bringing us into this world.

I understand there are some mothers that are prettier, happier, nicer, and those who cook better than other mothers, but mom is mom. I know I wouldn’t trade a moment she has done.

Mothers should be celebrated more than once a year. It’s great to celebrate motherhood, but one day isn’t enough.

Mothers should be celebrated more than once a year. It’s great to celebrate motherhood, but one day isn’t enough.

Mothers should be celebrated more than once a year. It’s great to celebrate motherhood, but one day isn’t enough.

Mothers should be celebrated more than once a year. It’s great to celebrate motherhood, but one day isn’t enough.

Mothers should be celebrated more than once a year. It’s great to celebrate motherhood, but one day isn’t enough.

Mothers should be celebrated more than once a year. It’s great to celebrate motherhood, but one day isn’t enough.

Mothers should be celebrated more than once a year. It’s great to celebrate motherhood, but one day isn’t enough.
Mustang Daily

FRIDAY, MAY 2, 1995

Poly Wheelmen getting set to host championship race

By Kally Koring

West Coast championship title important race of the year, the Wheelmen and this year’s race runs from February to April, and we are fighting with UCSB and UCLA for the number five spot. “This is the biggest race of the year,” said Mike Esquibel, Poly Wheelmen’s publicity director, said they expect over 1,000 people to attend the race and about 350 racers.

According to environmental engineering junior Mike Salcido, the Wheelmen will be racing at Cal Poly this weekend. “We have a lot to prove,” said Mitch Mitchell, the Wheelmen’s public relations coordinator. “This race will be off a portion of Grand Avenue may get tricky because Greek Week functions are happening concurrently, but he said his doesn’t think traffic will be a big problem.

“Although the road is a little narrow, the whole area is closed off,” Mitchell said.

According to the students, there will be a slight delay for those driving around campus, Mitchell said.

“We are off campus. The Power Road Bar near Happy Saturday will start at the KOA campground in Santa Maria and finish in the Paso area.”

In addition, Sallaberry said the race will be the last to Motor Ion Team Trial, which has taken place and will be a combination of a safety event and a racing event. According to Sallaberry, all three races are tallied and added together for the best overall score.

Sallaberry said the teams race against all club teams and the school hosts a weekend race each season. This is Cal Poly’s first time hosting the championship.

This is the last race.

For those who are thinking about driving to the race, decide who go to Reno for nationals and who doesn’t.

By Unicorn Deutsch

Los Angeles - A scientist inextricably linked O.J. Simpson's story to Tuesday's one sock found near O.J.'s home contained the DNA type of Simpson’s slain ex-wife, Nicole Simpson, said his lawyer.

The results, while presenting a powerful courtroom show for the prosecution and questions raised already by Simpson's sometime serious legal team, also focused on the DNA of a bloody sock found near two bodies, concluding that there was less than a one-in-170-million chance that anyone other than Simpson left that gene fingerprint.

Robin Cotton, director of the Criminalistics Dept., also suggested that calculations to closely link Simpson to four other drops of blood collected from the crime scene and his mansion.

The most astronomical figures involved a pair of socks found near O.J.'s home. One sock contained the DNA type of Simpson’s ex-wife, Nicole Brown Simpson. Asked how many other whites shared that DNA type, Cotton said one in 9.7 billion.

Prosecutor George Clark noted the figure was larger than the Earth's population, estimated at 5.5 billion, meaning that Simpson was the only person whose blood and that of the two victims

Simpson's DNA type 'Thursday to

HAIDER: Warns of immigration wave into Austria from the 'East'

HAIDER: Warns of immigration wave into Austria from the 'East' which is not good democracy. While Lutrin said the change in the social welfare system is one of the biggest challenges Austria is facing.

With America — both parties want to decrease the amount of immigration into the country as well as steps to limit the amount of illegal immigrants.

One of the more controversial statements made is that of limiting the number of children in schools who do not speak the "German mother tongue." The total number of children who do not speak German as their native language would be limited to 30 percent. If the number. The defense has suggested a defense expert Mr. Simpson's blood on the sock that someone else scattered Simpson's blood in a sample he provided to police.
MEETING: New services may be added to Health Center, but students want university to commit to stable funding

"We want to fork out more and more money," Spoto said. "We want to included implementation of anonymous HIV testing for students' and men's health services and a board and ASI president if discussed.

The council held a forum in which students aired their experiences with racial discrimination on campus. This presented the council to draft a certificate which faculty and staff were happy and hang in their offices if they are committed to promoting diversity on campus.

"We're anxious to start the debate," ASI President Erica Brown smiled as she described the feelings and the positive experiences at Cal Poly, he said. "I'll miss the people (on ASI) too." While Lew is looking forward to completing his tasks range from administrative duties. The ASI president also update different clubs on ASI work. "They're humorous and fun — those like I do on the board."

"I make sure information is spread throughout the people who have become very involved in ASI or Facilities and Operations that could provide ... bone to it." McShane, who has drafted an analysis of students who've par.

"People need to change their minds and CSU issues and advises on their progress."

"I really enjoy working with students," he said. "But it's still very important ... and CSU college of Engineering representatives James Huffman conducted ASI's cabinet meetings regularly attend Monday night workshops, where board members discuss all agenda items for the Wednesday board meetings."

"It will be more of a pain for us to attend workshops," vice president for student services, said ASI Executive Director Polly Harrigan.

"To do this. Brown researches method of communication. She then takes that research to the state Legislature, the CSU Chancellor's Office, and the California Senate. The presiding officer of the state Legislature, the CSU Chancellor's Office in Long Beach, the community or administration."

"A lot fits in, too, in bringing information to the right place," she said. If people have other priorities, he said, that's fine — but don't cover our ASI with paper.

"I think it could be a great fresh idea is implemented."

"It will be more of a pain for us to attend workshops," said vice president for student services, said ASI Executive Director Polly Harrigan.
JORDAN: Bulls fined $25,000 for not informing league of jersey change

BASEBALL: NLBR comes down hard on owners

Under labor law, management can't alter the key rules of an expired collective bargaining agreement through negotiations. The key rules are called mandatory, and the union, as opposed to permissive terms.

Winter again suggested overpaying the key take when they rescinded the salary guarantee. "Why haven't you argued there has been an impassé?" he asked Leslie.

Newman proposed that the deal with the NLBR locked the teams into all the terms of the old collective bargaining agreement.

Campus Clubs

SPORTS

JORDAN: Bulls fined $25,000 for not informing league of jersey change

BASEBALL: NLBR comes down hard on owners

Under labor law, management can't alter the key rules of an expired collective bargaining agreement through negotiations. The key rules are called mandatory, and the union, as opposed to permissive terms.

Winter again suggested overpaying the key take when they rescinded the salary guarantee. "Why haven't you argued there has been an impassé?" he asked Leslie.

Newman proposed that the deal with the NLBR locked the teams into all the terms of the old collective bargaining agreement.

Campus Clubs

SPORTS

JORDAN: Bulls fined $25,000 for not informing league of jersey change

BASEBALL: NLBR comes down hard on owners

Under labor law, management can't alter the key rules of an expired collective bargaining agreement through negotiations. The key rules are called mandatory, and the union, as opposed to permissive terms.

Winter again suggested overpaying the key take when they rescinded the salary guarantee. "Why haven't you argued there has been an impassé?" he asked Leslie.

Newman proposed that the deal with the NLBR locked the teams into all the terms of the old collective bargaining agreement.
No time to vacation in Hawaii

Mustangs try to extend longest winning streak of the season; disappointing Rainbows look to end four-game skid

By Anthony Po<lopotti

Riding the crest of a five-game winning streak, Cal Poly travels to Oahu, Hawaii to face the University of Hawaii in a three-game series beginning tonight.

The Mustangs (21-24) are coming off a three-game sweep of San Diego State last weekend, in which the pitching staff allowed just 11 runs in the series. Senior Shannon Stephens and Sophomore R.J. Simone both had complete game wins for Cal Poly and a solid pitching performance by Rob Murakami allowed him a win in the final game Sunday.

For the Mustangs, it was a tough week as the team lost at San Luis Obispo Stadium, Cal Poly swept a then 13th-ranked and undefeated Rainbows squad. The Mustangs offense pounded out 49 hits in the series off of Hawaii pitching. It was a tough wake up call for Hawaii Coach Les Murakami and his ball club on the wet fields of SLO Stadium.

It was hard to figure out what Cal Poly did wrong in the season," Murakami said. "But it wasn't a real field and bad weather conditions that I don't think it was a true showing of our club.

For Hawaii offensively, Chris Webb, Cory Ishigo, and Jody Narhage each had four hits and a home run in the March series.

However, the Rainbows (27-24) were swept by Sacramento State last weekend are losers of four straight.

But they are a strong team at home. On the mainland Hawaii is 3-13, but at Rainbow Stadium, they are 4-1.

The Mustangs offense is led by Junior Jeff Marsten holding a .358 batting average heading into the Thursday, the day after the world's most famous athlete found yet another way to grab attention — by switching his uniform number from 45 to 23.

The move is already bringing considerable attention to the Los Angeles Lakers and the NBA. "When I was 11 years old, I remember when they put that number 45 jersey on the retired number 23 jersey." said Murakami.

McMurley has caught fire this last month and now leads the team in hits(67), triples(6), home-runs(6), and RBIs(30). The rest of the team is 24-11.

Junior Jeff Marsten holds a .358 batting average and sophomore Jon Macaluso is hitting .313 with 20 runs scored.

"It's obviously doing a good job with his team, if they went down and beat up San Diego State," said Marsten. "That's a very highly motivated team and they definitely play above their talents."

Cal Poly coach Ritch Price will stay with the same rotation he used in last weekend's series.

Friday, Stephens (6-5, 3.91 ERA) will take the mound. Simoncs (6-5, 3.91 ERA) will pitch Saturday, and Dodder and freshman out­fielder Tommy Louise have helped lead the Mustangs to a four-game winning streak. (Daily photo by L. Scott Robinson)

CAL POLY is currently six games back of Western Division leader Fresno State — which clinched a playoff spot — while Hawaii is in last place in the standings 9 1/2 games back.

DEERFIELD, ILL. — Michael Jordan simply wanted to prove that he was still No. 23, the greatest basketball player on the planet, and didn't care that he had to break NBA rules to do it.

Or he was superstitious. Or he was playing mind games with the Orlando Magic. Or he was playing money games with the adoring masses who had been buying new No. 45 Chicago Bulls jerseys by the millions. Or he had been forced to wear a number that had been retired into the basketball hall of fame. Or he was superstitious. Or he was playing mind games with the Orlando Magic. Or he was playing money games with the adoring masses who had been buying new No. 45 Chicago Bulls jerseys by the millions. Or he had been forced to wear a number that had been retired into the basketball hall of fame.

"We can't have a situation where a player can decide every night what number he wants to wear," NBA Deputy Commissioner Russ Granik said in a statement.

The judges didn't say who will issue their decision. The same panel rejected the owners' attempts to stop the change.

Douglas Leslie, a University of Virginia law professor, met skeptical questioning from the three-judge panel of the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

CSUN, UCLA up next for No. 24 Mustangs

By Ronald Ross

NEW YORK — The new lawyer for baseball's owners didn't appear to convince a federal appeals court Thursday that it should overturn the injunction issued against the players.

The judges didn't say when they will issue their decision. The same panel rejected the owners' attempts to stop the change.

Here is the story, 39 games down and four to go — four of the most crucial games of the season as Cal Poly attempts to make a final surge at an NCAA playoff berth.

With Long Beach State on tap for an afternoon doubleheader today.

Here is the story, 39 games down and four to go — four of the most crucial games of the season as Cal Poly attempts to make a final surge at an NCAA playoff berth.

With Long Beach State on tap for an afternoon doubleheader today.

Top 25 Softball Coaches Poll

The NCAA selection committee will announce the invitations for the 32 team-tournament Sunday.