Luis Obispo County CHP officer located the white car, observed the driver's actions and the car's reactions for a short while, and due to excessive speed and slight weaving, pulled the driver (Duffy) over for suspected drunk driving.

The arresting officer said he administered several field sobriety tests, including standing on one foot and counting backwards, and determined Duffy may have been operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Duffy was administered two breath tests at county jail which registered 0.08 percent and 0.07 percent. The minimum blood-alcohol level in California for an adult to be considered legally drunk is 0.08.

"No breath tests given in the field can be used as evidence," Henn said. "The risk of contamination is too high.

Henn said the CHP is in the process of bidding farewell next month.

By Michael Kaufman
Santa Ynez Valley

Cal Poly will lose one of its senior administrators to the University of Northern Iowa next month.

Senior Vice President and Vice President for Academic Affairs Robert D. Koob will return to his alma mater on August 15, after being selected as UNI's next president.

Koob was selected for the position by the Iowa State Board of Regents for his excellence in leadership and his communication abilities, according to Regents President Marvin Pomerantz.

Before coming to Cal Poly in 1990, Koob, 63, was vice president of academic affairs at North Dakota State University (NDSU) in Fargo, N.D. from 1985-90. He served as the university's interim president for a year of that period.

According to a UNI press release, Koob was selected as one of four finalists in a pool of 92 nominees and applicants. He will be replacing Constantine W. Curtis, who became president of Clemson University in South Carolina on June 1.

Koob graduated from UNI with a bachelor's degree in chemistry. He earned his doctorate, also in chemistry, from the University of Wisconsin.

Koob was chair of the chemistry department at NDSU for six years and chair of the physics department there before he was promoted to vice president.

Koob was selected for the position for his excellence in leadership and communication abilities.

In a written statement, President Baker commented on Koob's service record at Cal Poly.

"Bob's great energy, intelligence and skill have been of enormous benefit to Cal Poly," the statement said. "He has provided strong academic leadership and helped the university move forward under the most dif-cult circumstances."

According to Daniel Howard-
Greene, executive assistant to the president, an interim vice president will be named in the near future. Howard-Greene could not specify further.

Selection of a permanent replacement for Koob will be subject to a formal search process but no date has been set for this either.

Students without new photos find trouble at the Rec Center

According to Marry Maloney, assistant director of Rec Sports, Student Life and Activities extended its hours for the first few weeks of the quarter, and they are allowing students who were enrolled during any quarter last year to get their IDs taken during summer quarter.

"We called all the students back who had the problem, but we are not offering face-to-face and Activities only a few have gone to get their new IDs," she said.

Another campus facility developed a different solution to handle the transition between old and new cards.

According to Sharon

Andreon, circulation supervisor at Kennedy Library, the library's assistant dean made the decision to honor the old IDs through June 30, since many students

See IDs page 8
Israel to leave West Bank

By Diana Cohn
Associated Press

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel confirmed new details Wednesday of an emerging breakthrough on expanding Palestinian self-rule, but it also added a warning: attacks on Israelis by militants opposed to the peace process must stop.

Foreign Minister Shimon Peres delivered the warning with the announcement that Israel's withdrawal from the West Bank will expand with phased troop pullouts from four towns before Palestinian elections this year.

"I think that the Palestinians who enter the cities understand very well that if there will be terrorism, everything that was agreed upon will not stand the test of reality," Peres told reporters.

Scores of Israeli soldiers have been killed in attacks in the 14 months since Palestinian self-rule was established in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank area of Jericho under the first stage of a September 1993 Israel-PLO accord.

The West Bank pullout is far more complicated than the first stage because 135,000 Jewish settlers live throughout the territory — compared to 5,000 in Gaza and none in Jericho.

Nonetheless, Peres and Arafat set July 25 as a target date for signing an agreement on a troop withdrawal.

Israel Foreign Ministry director Uri Savir and Palestinian Economic Minister Ahmed Queira met Wednesday in Jerusalem to begin working out final details of the accord.

Clinton administration officials said the agreement probably would be signed in Washington. A final decision depended on the outcome of the negotiations, said State Department spokesman Nicholas Burns.

Israel plans a phased pullout from parts of the West Bank over two years, starting with four towns — Nablus, Jenin, Qalqilya and Tulkarm — before Palestinian elections this year.

Whatever the Fed decides is likely to be an extremely close call. Private economists have been vacillating between predictions of an immediate rate cut and a belief that the central bank will prefer to wait until its August meeting because of mixed signals in recent economic reports.

"It could go either way. The Fed is divided and the economic data is confusing," said Allen Sinai, chief economist at Lehman Brothers Global Economics.

The most scenic views in California, Just 30 minutes from the coast and Hearst Castle.

Train and jump the same day. Group rates and gift certificates U.S. Parachute Association Certified School.

LEARN TO SKYDIVE
FREE VACATION FOR 2!

The most scenic views in California, just 30 minutes from the coast and Hearst Castle.
Train and jump the same day. Group rates and gift certificates. U.S. Parachute Association Certified School.
BLUE SKY ADVENTURES (805) 774-3933

The Fastest Contact Lenses Service Anywhere!

Daily & Extended Wear
Intact & Opaque
Disposal and Planner
Replacement
Hard Gas Permeable
and more!

Dr. Dave Schultz
Optometrist
CONTACT LENSES * UNLIMITED EXEMEAL
1001 Highlands St. SLO 543-5200 • FAX 543-8043

$15 OFF
COMPLETE CONTACT LENS FITTING OR REFITTING
EXAM, FITTING & LENSES
not good with insurance or other offers
New Patients Only

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State operations continued despite the lack of spending authority as Gov. Pete Wilson and legislative leaders reported progress Wednesday in their efforts to break a budget impasse.

After a 1½-hour private meeting with the Democratic and Republican leaders of the state Senate and Assembly, Wilson predicted that they would agree on a new spending plan for the state's 1995-96 fiscal year before the Legislature's scheduled summer recess on July 14.

Major issues dividing Democrats and Republicans include: Democratic proposals to cut the state prison budget, GOP proposals to cut deeper into welfare grants, Wilson's proposal for a tax cut and a new division of state-local responsibilities for welfare and other shared programs.

The state has been operating without the spending authority of a budget bill since the new fiscal year began last Saturday. But there has been no disruption of services or payments, since most state employees were paid last Friday and many other payments are authorized by court orders.

Wilson and leaders of both parties were cautiously optimistic about resolving the budget impasse after their meeting Wednesday.

"I think there is a will to get it done," said Assembly Speaker Doris Allen, R-Cypress, adding that no agreement was reached Wednesday on any of the big items that have been stalling agreement on the $56 billion annual budget.

"There is not just a willingness, but an eagerness," added Wilson, whose campaign for the Republican nomination for president has been hampered by the budget impasse. "I think there will be a product that will allow the Legislature to recess on time (July 14)," Wilson added.

Wilson and legislative leaders planned to reconvene their private budget negotiations Thursday afternoon, after hearing reports from two special legislative task forces created to work on the prisons budget and financing of shared state-local programs.
Study finds most lactose intolerant people can still drink milk daily

By Daniel Q. Nenny
Associated Press

BOSTON (AP) — Can a single glass of milk cause gas, cramps and bloating? Millions of Americans think so, but according to a new study of lactose intolerance, conclusions like that are wrong.

"The final result is, there is virtually no one out there who cannot tolerate a glass of milk," said Dr. Michael Levitt, the study's senior author.

Those who blame milk for digestive ills are likely to be surprised and dubious. About one-quarter of people in the United States, and three-quarters worldwide, are lactose intolerant. They lack an enzyme that allows them to digest lactose, the sugar in milk.

Drinking large amounts of milk, such as a liter at one sitting, will almost certainly cause intestinal misery for many people. But many claim tiny amounts cause problems. They say they cannot even put milk on cereal or in coffee.

"Lactose intolerance is an example of a dietary advice that is not significant to knowledge is reviewed by a panel of judges from the society and an award is to be considered a significant contribution to knowledge," said computer communications professor Patrick Munroe. "It is a quite distinguishing honor for a colleague in our department, who has labored for a number of years in the area to receive."

This award credits Field for a 25-year career of research and publishing in the department of color and image-quality analysis. Scientists who give a significant contribution to knowledge are reviewed by a panel of judges from the society and an award of $1000 and membership in the Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain. In 1987 Field received his first fellowship in the area of education for writing and lecturing.

"It is quite a distinguishing honor for a colleague in our department to receive," said human development senior professor Christina Fahlen.

"The society was established in 1853 and it publishes professional awards, exhibitions, sponsors scientific symposiums, and promotes excellence in all aspects of the imaging arts and sciences."

Field has been teaching subjects technical knowledge are reviewed by a panel of judges from the society and an award is to be considered a significant contribution to knowledge for over 25 years without that (award) particularly in mind. I kept working, publishing and accumulating knowledge, the main force that drives that kind of activity," Field said.

"It is quite a distinguishing honor for a colleague in our department to receive," Patrick Munroe

As a professional engineer of the imaging arts, Field does research on what constitutes the quality in images such as photographs, video and pictorial displays.

"Quality is based on the usual perception, details the human eye dissolves," Field said.

This is Field's second distinction from The Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain. In 1987 Field received his first fellowship in the area of education for writing and lecturing.

The society was established in 1853 and it publishes professional awards, exhibitions, sponsors scientific symposiums, and promotes excellence in all aspects of the imaging arts and sciences.

"There are four women in our family, and we're all doing well," Miss Gabor said in a 1961 Associated Press interview. "We worked very hard, but we were also very lucky."

"She didn't deserve that sickness and she didn't deserve to die," he said. "She was the most wonderful woman I have ever known. She was always sweet, kind to everybody, always friendly, never a bad word."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Eva Gabor, youngest of the celebrated Gabor sisters best known for her role as a socialite stuck on a farm on television's "Green Acres," died Tuesday. She was 74.

"Green Acres" Eva Gabor dies at 74 among loved ones

By Dan Bal
Associated Press

Gabor, who received high praise for her role as soap opera star Magda on "Green Acres," had been suffering from pneumonia, her husband said.

"I've been doing research for about 15 years that milk is very important to people," Field said. "Some people say they can't tolerate a glass of milk, even a liter at a sitting."

Field, who has received a number of honors and awards from the Council of the Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain, said he was pleased to receive the award.

"I like people to enjoy the mountain and use the mountain and use people's lawns as a bathroom and let their dogs go on it, or they use their water," Madonna said. "There have been 10s of wire fences have been cut, fences and who have left the gates open."

"It's a big hassle when the cat get out and get mixed up be­cause the gates being left open," he said.

According to Madonna a number of wire fences have been cut, because "it's more than just a prank, it takes some strength to prank, it takes some strength to get those wires off."

"I feel people were trying to take the mountain," said Madonna. "I feel people were trying to take the mountain."

"I like people to enjoy the mountain, but it has gotten so bad that we had to do something about it," he said. Although there are "No trespassing" signs at those entrances, they say they haven't bothered any one who is ignoring the signs and walking on the property.

"A lot of people come down the mountain and use people's lawns as a bath­room or let their dogs on it." Alex Madonna

"It's a great place to get away for some exercise and nice views. I like how it's in such a con­venient location for a great hike," said human development senior professor Christina Fahlen.

People who wish to visit the mountain can still obtain access at other places. Madonna recom­mended people walk at Laguna Lake Park, where there are restrooms and parking, to enter the mountain.

"There are four women in our family, and we're all doing well," Miss Gabor said in a 1961 Associated Press interview. "We worked very hard, but we were also very lucky."

"She didn't deserve that sickness and she didn't deserve to die," he said. "She was the most wonderful woman I have ever known. She was always sweet, kind to everybody, always friendly, never a bad word."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Eva Gabor, youngest of the celebrated Gabor sisters best known for her role as a socialite stuck on a farm on television's "Green Acres," died Tuesday. She was 74.

Miss Gabor died from respiratory distress and other in­fections, said Ron Wise, a spokesman for Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

She entered the hospital on June 21 after falling and break­ing her hip. She was also found to be suffering from pneumonia, Wise said.

Several family members were at Miss Gabor's bedside when she died, Wise said.

The Hungarian-born Eva — pronounced AV va; sisters Zsa Zsa and Magda; and their mother, Jolie, all emigrated to the United States in the 1930s and '40s. By the 1950s, the family, especially Eva and Zsa Zsa, had achieved worldwide celebrity.

"There are four women in our family, and we're all doing well," Miss Gabor said in a 1961 Associated Press interview. "We worked very hard, but we were also very lucky."

"She didn't deserve that sickness and she didn't deserve to die," he said. "She was the most wonderful woman I have ever known. She was always sweet, kind to everybody, always friendly, never a bad word."
Gender separation should be consistent ... or not at all

By Randy Halstead

I just read that female-only math classes are getting more reviews all over the country.

My question is: Where are all the outraged feminists on this one? Why does it seem that the same people who deplore segregation of the sexes in, say, the military academies have no problem with men being excluded from fitness centers, math classes and colleges?

Whenever there are reports of women being kept out of male institutions, there is always the required quote by Gloria Steinem, Patricia Ireland or someone else representing the National Organization for Women (NOW) condemning such practices. However, when men are not allowed into a place traditionally reserved for women, we hear from NOW the sweet sounds of silence.

Does anyone remember the controversy surrounding that happy little feminist breeding ground called Mills College? When financial considerations forced the administration to begin admitting men, feminists were outraged.

Students were in tears threatening hunger strikes and boycotts if men were let in; in short, they were using all the tactics usually reserved for protesting segregation — not defending it. But go ahead and ask those same women if military academies should be allowed to keep out women and you'll see a 180-degree shift in attitude. Suddenly, segregation is bad.

My problem with the feminist position, as I have heard it articulated, is that segregation is only wrong unless it benefits women.

There have been protests recently about golf courses that have wanted to remain exclusively male. One of the arguments for continued exclusion of females is that they slow down play. Now seeing that my golfing argument was dismissed as sexist.

But what are the arguments in support of female-only fitness centers? Women want to feel safe to workout without all the men ogling them. Wait a minute ladies. Isn't there a sexist assumption hidden in that argument? Do all men ogle?

I believe that segregation of the sexes is just fine if it serves a purpose. I have no patience for hypocrisies who pick and choose the segregation they see fit to condemn or condone on grounds of whether it benefits their group.

If military institutions such as the Citadel want to keep men and women separate, it's because of a dirty little secret that some people hate to hear: boys and girls are different. Yes, as hard as that is to swallow, it's true.

When I went to boot camp, I had to do many things that I would have a real hard time doing in the presence of women. If all sexual segregation is wrong, then who is the first woman willing to take a communal shower with a platoon of male Marines.

Another little quirk in the military is the insistence on stressing the existence of bathrooms with either stalls with no doors or no stalls whatsoever. Ladies, the last thing you want to see in the morning is eight men sitting on open toilets discussing the most effective way to fold the toilet paper.

If military institutions such as the Citadel were to adhere to this concept of being totally sex-blind, there would be no way to justify separate bathrooms and showers. Aside from the obvious external differences, studies have suggested that men and women handle stress differently, approach problems differently, and generally react to most situations differently.

Now, am I saying that men and women are not equal? No. Are the differences so great that we have no hope of ever being able to relate to each other? No. Do I ask too many questions? Probably.

If the women of Mills College think their campus is safer without men, so be it. Although, it is located near a part of Oakland where you can hear gunfire all most every night. Oh well, that's probably men shooting those guns, anyway.

If women feel more secure working-out with only other women, fine. Heck, it may do some good to have male-only gyms too. Just think of the doctor bills we would save by not getting muscle strains from trying to impress the ladies and keeping every major muscle group fixed for the entire time we've at the gym.

If girls do better in math classes without boys there intimidating, oppressing, or whatever-ing them, that's fine too. But don't dare try to justify these examples then turn around with righteous anger and denounce the institutions that exclude women.

LETTERS POLICY

Mustang Daily welcomes letters and commentaries from students, staff, and other community members. Letters should be typed, double spaced and under 250 words. Commentaries should be typed, double spaced, and about 750 words.

All authors must include a name, signature and phone number. Students should include their major and class standing. Mustang Daily reserves the right to edit letters for clarity, grammar, and length.

Submissions can be brought, mailed, faxed or E-mailed to:

Mustang Daily
Graphic Arts Bldg #225, Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, CA 93407
FAX: (805) 756-6784
E-Mail: emossary@trumpet.calpoly.edu

Garrca M. Mejier, Opinion and Arts Editor
Erin Massey, Editor in Chief
Garrca M. Mejier, Managing Editor
Terry Garcia, Information Systems
Brett Mello, Circulation
J. Schuerman, Advertising Director
Matt Boyd, Advertising Manager
Wendy Wood, Advertising Manager
George Boyd, Adler
Opinion and Arts Editor
Erin Massey, Editor in Chief
Garrca M. Mejier, Managing Editor
Terry Garcia, Information Systems
Brett Mello, Circulation
J. Schuerman, Advertising Director
Matt Boyd, Advertising Manager
Wendy Wood, Advertising Manager
George Boyd, Adler
"Flapping" album soars toward a quality mix of sounds
By Heather McDonald
Summit Staff Writer

They call themselves, "Hap-Happiness," FLAPPING.
"This off-the-wall Santa Barbara band released its first protected last month entitled "Tex" into their intricate layers of its thirteen songs.
The band's sound is reminiscent of Crowded House or Squeeze, and its style is a combination of the Gin Blossoms and Weeder. With songs ranging from slow, mellow rhythms to one entitled "100 MPH," the band pretty much covers the spectrum, playing a wide variety of sounds.

Band members refer to the word "flapping" as a term that is a perfect niche between the two extremely effective in refreshing and entertaining verses to sing along with.
The four members of this
funky band - Tom Lackner, Bruce Winter, Josef Woodard,
and Rob Taylor - met at a benefit concert where they were playing with different groups.
Through "flapping," FLAPPING,
the members have found a reconnection with their musical roots.

According to Woodard, the band developed unique 'flapping' sections in their songs that created and explored new sounds and textures in their music.

"The world doesn't need any more lonesome guitar solos," Woodard said. "But, I think it would stand a lot more explorations of group ideas.

One of the more interesting features on the album is the ambient sounds that surface
throughout the songs. For example, in the background one can hear the voices of children playing, wacky answerning-machine messages, women
speaking foreign languages, and studies reciting

"'Flapping,' " is the name of the house
winder dog, and after a few
photographs of the mutt, the cover and title were created.
"'This' is featured on the front
and back cover lounging on his
plush red chair.
The members take turns sing-
ning to achieve variety among the songs. One of the more interest-

// singing to listen to is "Elbow
Greeen," sung by guitarist Rob
Taylor. Taylor is totally off-key throughout the song, the band, somehow this band manages to pull
off the clash of vocals and melody to produce a catchy song with a
good beat.

"Flapping, FLAPPING, PULING" celebrated the release of
their new CD last month by staging a small "world tour" around Santa Barbara. The band hopes
to be signed by an independent
label and looks forward to another CD in the future.

According to Woodard, the
group is just a "bunch of Southern Cali-nomians trying to make the world safe for
oddballs."

While at Cal Poly, Cochran
studied business and agriculture.
He took some photo courses, also,
but did not pursue a career
in this field because of other people's resistance that he would
not be able to support himself
away from that way.

Cochran is grateful for his
education in agriculture however
because, "It is what has enabled
my exposure to the landscape.

These photographs are on display accompanied by quotes from different sources. Music chosen by Cochran enhances the atmosphere.

"The combination helps to put the viewer in a state of mind
where my message is better understood," said Cochran.

Art and design senior, Todd Borah, was asked, "What is the
particular style that this show
likes Cochran's attention to detail.

"The artist allows you to see
detail through his photographs
that average pictures would
allow to go unnoticed," Borah
said. "It takes you to a different
place.

The exhibit, will be on display
through Thursday, July 20.

"'Flapping' is the name of the house
winder dog, and after a few
photographs of the mutt, the
cover and title were created.
"'This' is featured on the front
and back cover lounging on his
plush red chair.
The members take turns sing-
ning to achieve variety among the songs. One of the more interest-

// singing to listen to is "Elbow
Greeen," sung by guitarist Rob
Taylor. Taylor is totally off-key
throughout the song, the band, some-
how this band manages to pull
off the clash of vocals and melody to produce a catchy song with a
good beat.

"Flapping, FLAPPING, PULING" celebrated the release of
their new CD last month by stag-
ning a small "world tour" around Santa Barbara. The band hopes
to be signed by an independent
label and looks forward to
another CD in the future.

According to Woodard, the
group is just a "bunch of Southern Cali-
nomians trying to make the world safe for
oddballs."

While at Cal Poly, Cochran
studied business and agriculture.
He took some photo courses, also,
but did not pursue a career
in this field because of other
people's resistance that he would
not be able to support himself
away from that way.

Cochran is grateful for his
education in agriculture however
because, "It is what has enabled
my exposure to the landscape.

These photographs are on display accompanied by quotes from different sources. Music chosen by Cochran enhances the atmosphere.

"The combination helps to
put the viewer in a state of mind
where my message is better understood," said Cochran.

Art and design senior, Todd
Borah, was asked, "What is the
particular style that this show
likes Cochran's attention to detail.

"The artist allows you to see
detail through his photographs
that average pictures would
allow to go unnoticed," Borah
said. "It takes you to a different
place.

The exhibit, will be on display
through Thursday, July 20.

"'Flapping' is the name of the house
winder dog, and after a few
photographs of the mutt, the
cover and title were created.
"'This' is featured on the front
and back cover lounging on his
plush red chair.
The members take turns sing-
ning to achieve variety among the songs. One of the more interest-

// singing to listen to is "Elbow
Greeen," sung by guitarist Rob
Taylor. Taylor is totally off-key
throughout the song, the band, some-
how this band manages to pull
off the clash of vocals and melody to produce a catchy song with a
good beat.

"Flapping, FLAPPING, PULING" celebrated the release of
their new CD last month by stag-
ning a small "world tour" around
Santa Barbara. The band hopes
to be signed by an independent
label and looks forward to
another CD in the future.

According to Woodard, the
group is just a "bunch of Southern Cali-
nomians trying to make the world safe for
oddballs."

While at Cal Poly, Cochran
studied business and agriculture.
He took some photo courses, also,
but did not pursue a career
in this field because of other
people's resistance that he would
not be able to support himself
away from that way.

Cochran is grateful for his
education in agriculture however
because, "It is what has enabled
my exposure to the landscape.

These photographs are on display accompanied by quotes from different sources. Music chosen by Cochran enhances the atmosphere.

"The combination helps to
put the viewer in a state of mind
where my message is better understood," said Cochran.

Art and design senior, Todd
Borah, was asked, "What is the
particular style that this show
likes Cochran's attention to detail.

"The artist allows you to see
detail through his photographs
that average pictures would
allow to go unnoticed," Borah
said. "It takes you to a different
place.

The exhibit, will be on display
through Thursday, July 20.

"'Flapping' is the name of the house
winder dog, and after a few
photographs of the mutt, the
cover and title were created.
"'This' is featured on the front
and back cover lounging on his
plush red chair.
The members take turns sing-
ning to achieve variety among the songs. One of the more interest-

// singing to listen to is "Elbow
Greeen," sung by guitarist Rob
Taylor. Taylor is totally off-key
throughout the song, the band, some-
how this band manages to pull
off the clash of vocals and melody to produce a catchy song with a
good beat.

"Flapping, FLAPPING, PULING" celebrated the release of
their new CD last month by stag-
ning a small "world tour" around
Santa Barbara. The band hopes
to be signed by an independent
label and looks forward to
another CD in the future.

According to Woodard, the
group is just a "bunch of Southern Cali-
nomians trying to make the world safe for
oddballs."

While at Cal Poly, Cochran
studied business and agriculture.
He took some photo courses, also,
but did not pursue a career
in this field because of other
people's resistance that he would
not be able to support himself
away from that way.

Cochran is grateful for his
education in agriculture however
because, "It is what has enabled
my exposure to the landscape.

These photographs are on display accompanied by quotes from different sources. Music chosen by Cochran enhances the atmosphere.

"The combination helps to
put the viewer in a state of mind
where my message is better understood," said Cochran.

Art and design senior, Todd
Borah, was asked, "What is the
particular style that this show
likes Cochran's attention to detail.

"The artist allows you to see
detail through his photographs
that average pictures would
allow to go unnoticed," Borah
said. "It takes you to a different
place.

The exhibit, will be on display
through Thursday, July 20.

"'Flapping' is the name of the house
winder dog, and after a few
photographs of the mutt, the
cover and title were created.
"'This' is featured on the front
and back cover lounging on his
plush red chair.
The members take turns sing-
ning to achieve variety among the songs. One of the more interest-

// singing to listen to is "Elbow
Greeen," sung by guitarist Rob
Taylor. Taylor is totally off-key
throughout the song, the band, some-
how this band manages to pull
off the clash of vocals and melody to produce a catchy song with a
good beat.

"Flapping, FLAPPING, PULING" celebrated the release of
their new CD last month by stag-
ning a small "world tour" around
Santa Barbara. The band hopes
to be signed by an independent
label and looks forward to
another CD in the future.

According to Woodard, the
group is just a "bunch of Southern Cali-
nomians trying to make the world safe for
oddballs."

While at Cal Poly, Cochran
studied business and agriculture.
He took some photo courses, also,
but did not pursue a career
in this field because of other
people's resistance that he would
not be able to support himself
away from that way.

Cochran is grateful for his
education in agriculture however
because, "It is what has enabled
my exposure to the landscape.

These photographs are on display accompanied by quotes from different sources. Music chosen by Cochran enhances the atmosphere.

"The combination helps to
put the viewer in a state of mind
where my message is better understood," said Cochran.

Art and design senior, Todd
Borah, was asked, "What is the
particular style that this show
likes Cochran's attention to
detail.

"The artist allows you to see
detail through his photographs
that average pictures would
allow to go unnoticed," Borah
said. "It takes you to a different
place.

The exhibit, will be on display
through Thursday, July 20.
British right-wing punished in latest government shake-up

By Norman Johnson
Associated Press

LONDON (AP) — Armed with a leadership race victory, Prime Minister John Major shook up his Cabinet on Wednesday, giving little to his party's bruised right wing and keeping the big jobs for liked-minded loyalists.

But apart from firing the chairman of the governing Conservative Party, Major's approach was cautious for a leader who has won a last chance to save his unpopular government from electoral disaster.

In an extensive Cabinet shuffle, Major named a trusted ally, Malcolm Rifkind, as the foreign secretary. Rifkind was previously defense secretary.

"It is a Cabinet behind which the whole party can and must unite," Major said after summoning officials by telephone to his office.

Rifkind, 49, shares Major's view of keeping an open mind about closer ties to the European Union — a stance that right-wing Tories staunchly oppose. He succeeded Douglas Hurd, who retired.

Michael Portillo, the flamboyant trade secretary and a likely contender from the left if Tuesday's leadership race had gone to a second ballot, was named as the new Cabinet secretary.

Major did not spell out Heseltine's new duties as deputy prime minister. However, officials said he would take a larger role as a party spokesman, handling among other issues a wave of trouble expected this fall after a judge releases a report on Britain's policy on European policy.

"If we have policies ... that do not hold on board the view of the 111 (legislators) then the situation is in my view less tenable than it was before," he said.

Major's victory, after telling his fractious party to back him or sack him, means he will almost certainly now lead the Conservative Party into the general election, which must be held by the spring of 1997.

However, William Walker, a Redwood backer, noted that most one-third of the 329 Conervative legislators had not supported Major.

"If we have policies ... that do not hold on board the view of the 111 (legislators) then the situation is in my view less tenable than it was before," he said.

Major's rival busy and out of the Cabinet member, 34-year-old Michael Hanley, the party chairman, and razor-sharp, 41-year-old Brian Mawhinney, the former transport secretary.

The two new right-wingers brought into the Cabinet, Michael Portillo as Scotland Secretary and the youngest Cabinet member, 44-year-old William Hague as Welsh Secretary, are mistrusted with areas where the Tories have lit-
ttle hope of electoral gains.

Model's death puts focus on inhalants

"The only drawback of this motion picture is the lack of depth to the main characters. The actors do a good job of trying to get into the skins of the true life astronauts, but the screenplay fails slightly at creating a three dimensional aspect to the characters.

At a time when the space program is losing some public support, "Apollo 13" brings the drama and heroism of the American astronaut back to vivid life. It was the first time in NASA's best triumphs, this event is a spectacle to what can be done when a group of people put their minds to it.

This film accomplishes the tricky task of bringing a historical event to life and making it exiting for many of us who were not there, or who were too young to remember.

Overall this film rates a bag of popcorn, a large soda and a side order of chocolate-covered raisins.

EARTH, and the views of the moon. The scenes of weightless ness that were filmed aboard a high-flying Air Force plane af-furred the actors brief moments of true lift and add an undeniable sense of realism to the picture.

Hanks is a perfect cast as Lovell. His most powerful scene comes late in their journey when he brings down together his two partners as their dilemma threatens to destroy their work as astronauts, but the screenplay

fails slightly at creating a three dimensional aspect to the characters.

Medical examiner Joshua Perper cautioned Wednesday it may take several weeks for urban specialists to come to the scene to do the work. Though they have contributed to her death," Perper said.

"We have a possibility, because Primatene may have contributed to her death." Taylor, 17, younger sister of 20-year-old supermodel Niki Taylor, was found unconscious in Pembroke Pines, about 20 miles north of Miami. The 6-foot, 136-pound model, who has appeared on the covers of teen magazines such as Seventeen and YM, had been using primatene for about a year because of problems with shortness of breath, family members said.

She was last seen by her family about 3:30 a.m. and was last heard from about 10 p.m. She had left the house, but was not expected back for several hours.

Authorities noted she had used Primatene instead of inhalers she had been using for about a year.

"If we have policies ... that do not hold on board the view of the 111 (legislators) then the situation is in my view less tenable than it was before," he said.

Major's rival busy and out of the Cabinet member, 34-year-old Michael Hanley, the party chairman, and razor-sharp, 41-year-old Brian Mawhinney, the former transport secretary.

The two new right-wingers brought into the Cabinet, Michael Portillo as Scotland Secretary and the youngest Cabinet member, 44-year-old William Hague as Welsh Secretary, are mistrusted with areas where the Tories have lit-
ttle hope of electoral gains.

Model's death puts focus on inhalants

"The only drawback of this motion picture is the lack of depth to the main characters. The actors do a good job of trying to get into the skins of the true life astronauts, but the screenplay fails slightly at creating a three dimensional aspect to the characters.

At a time when the space program is losing some public support, "Apollo 13" brings the drama and heroism of the American astronaut back to vivid life. It was the first time in NASA's best triumphs, this event is a spectacle to what can be done when a group of people put their minds to it.

This film accomplishes the tricky task of bringing a historical event to life and making it exiting for many of us who were not there, or who were too young to remember.

Overall this film rates a bag of popcorn, a large soda and a side order of chocolate-covered raisins.

EARTH, and the views of the moon. The scenes of weightless ness that were filmed aboard a high-flying Air Force plane af-
furred the actors brief moments of true lift and add an undeniable sense of realism to the picture.

Hanks is a perfect cast as Lovell. His most powerful scene comes late in their journey when he brings down together his two partners as their dilemma threatens to destroy their work as astronauts, but the screenplay

fails slightly at creating a three dimensional aspect to the characters.

Medical examiner Joshua Perper cautioned Wednesday it may take several weeks for urban specialists to come to the scene to do the work. Though they have contributed to her death," Perper said.

"We have a possibility, because Primatene may have contributed to her death." Taylor, 17, younger sister of 20-year-old supermodel Niki Taylor, was found unconscious in Pembroke Pines, about 20 miles north of Miami. The 6-foot, 136-pound model, who has appeared on the covers of teen magazines such as Seventeen and YM, had been using primatene for about a year because of problems with shortness of breath, family members said.

She was last seen by her family about 3:30 a.m. and was last heard from about 10 p.m. She had left the house, but was not expected back for several hours.

Authorities noted she had used Primatene instead of inhalers she had been using for about a year.

"If we have policies ... that do not hold on board the view of the 111 (legislators) then the situation is in my view less tenable than it was before," he said.

Major's rival busy and out of the Cabinet member, 34-year-old Michael Hanley, the party chairman, and razor-sharp, 41-year-old Brian Mawhinney, the former transport secretary.

The two new right-wingers brought into the Cabinet, Michael Portillo as Scotland Secretary and the youngest Cabinet member, 44-year-old William Hague as Welsh Secretary, are mistrusted with areas where the Tories have little hope of electoral gains.
Homeless dogs escape death; find jobs

By Steve Ostreicher
Sports Staff Writer

Cal Poly has embarked on a series of summer programs designed to bring its learn by doing motto to members of the local and international community.

Both the Cal Poly Rec Center, through Associated Students, Inc., and the Office of Conference Services are putting on more than 20 combined recreational and instructional activities.

The Rec Center's Sports Summer Programs include tennis and martial arts lessons and four separate swim classes depending on skill level. The goal of the program is to provide children and young adults an opportunity to develop new skills and make new friends in a fun and safe environment.

Summer Programs Coordinator Amy Waldorf said the program has grown considerably in its second year through positive word of mouth.

"It's been wonderful," she said. "It went so well last year, there was a lot more interest this year."

Waldorf added that due to the program's success, it will be tough to get a raise.

"We could see these dogs talk to anyone in English. It gets real lonely without the family around."

"The cultural isolation is extreme," the 52-year-old astronaut said. "If I'd been looking at six months, I would have been worried about the 1960s were always "ready to go fly" and do what needed to be done."

"It's been wonderful," she said. "The dogs are trained to respond to instructions by putting their paws in the lap of a hearing impaired individual and guiding them back to the sound," said SPCA Trainer Shelly Monson.

The dogs were nominated as possible candidates for the program after they were not claimed by previous owners or adopted from the SLO Department of Animal Regulation. Their responsiveness was tested using a pager.

"We could see these dogs might be trainable, so we made arrangements to help them find a better life through the hearing dog program," said SPCA Animal Regulation Director Stephanie Ruggenero. "Most said SCPA's ultimate goal is to save dogs' lives... but it's really rewarding to see a scruffy looking, sick dog turn on its feet and turn itself into a trainable, loving dog."

"We could see these dogs... but it's really rewarding to see a scruffy looking, sick dog turn into a trainable, loving dog." —Shelley Monson

SPCA Trainer

For ask space: astronaut astonishingly frank

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.

"I hope my family will be there and my kids lots of hugs and kisses," Thagard said in a TV interview Wednesday, one day after Atlantis undocked from Mir.
from page 1

still did not have the new IDs. Students who still have an old ID will have to get a new one before they can check out books.

"This is the ideal time for students who still do not have new IDs to get them, since there is currently no line," said Walt Lambert, director of photo ID services.

Rec Sports has also approved Life and Activities about developing a new card for other eligible Rec Center users who do not have a card to run through the scanners at the front door.

"We are working with Student Life and Activities to develop a new card for eligible students, so they can be validated," Lambert said. According to Lambert, the new card will have a different face, so it cannot be used elsewhere, like the library.

"We will have to reprogram the new card," Lambert said. "They all have to open computer lab doors, to re-program the new card, and students who visit the campus during conferences, he said.

Lambert said he has already heard from many students who would like the pictures of all the students on their role sheet.

"Right now, we are not giving out any information from our database," he said, "but the committee will be established to review these types of requests."