Finding work in San Luis Obispo

— easier said than done

by Kimberly Koney
Daly Staff Writer

San Luis Obispo County is a beautiful place to live with the ocean, rolling blue sky and temperate weather year round.

Many students move to San Luis Obispo to attend Cal Poly, and they completely fall in love with the area. After graduating they want to stay and raise a family here. However, there is one big problem with this picture — finding a job.

As of 1996, there were only 84,700 total employment jobs in San Luis Obispo County with a population of 232,400, according to U.C. Santa Barbara's County Economic Snapshot study. Anyone who decides they want to live and work in San Luis Obispo is going to have to adapt to survive.

"It's all about marketing, and it's a lot about who you know," said Suzan Martinelli, a professional career consultant in San Luis Obispo. Martinelli uses her background in marketing and personnel placement to teach a series of workshops at Cuesta College.

"This is a very challenging economy to transition around in," Martinelli said.

The first course in the six-part series, "Looking For Work in a SLO Town Economy," is designed to give an update on San Luis Obispo's job market.

Of supply and demand, Martinelli said. In this area there is a huge supply of people who are qualified and want to work. However the demand — the number of job openings — is low and consequently the salaries area are also low. In contrast, the cost of living increases because so many people want to live here.

"You have to get into the employer's shoes," Martinelli said. "Ask not what the employer can do for you, but what you can do for them.

According to Martinelli, recent shifts in the economy have changed the ways employers are available. First, the economy shifted from a durable goods, manufacturing economy to an information-based, technological economy. Now it is a project-based, contracting economy.

In San Luis Obispo County the three largest realms to work in are services, government and retail trade, which are responsible for 68.6 percent of the county's total jobs, according to the U.C. Santa Barbara study. Services include health, legal, hotel, motel and food and beverage services. This area offers more than 20,900 such positions.

There are also 19,800 government jobs in this area. They range from positions at Cal Poly to the California Men's Colony. Retail trade offers 19,200 jobs, according to the Employment Development Department.

Martinelli said there are advantages and disadvantages to each area. Retail positions are generally only part-time. She said public sector jobs pay well, but a person must be able to handle the pressure created by the political infrastructure.

"You have to find your niche," Martinelli said. Large companies only account for one third of the jobs in the county. A person should not limit his or her search to only large employers. It depends on each individual, but small businesses can also offer great jobs.

A person must also take into account that 13 of the top 30 largest companies in San Luis Obispo are governmental agencies. A person has to research every lead and make contacts...

McShane will run for second term as ASI President

by Jenny Justus
Daly Staff Writer

ASI President Steve McShane has decided to run for a second term in office.

The March 13 deadline for candidates' election packets is circled in red on his calendar and he promises that he will get his work paper in on time this year.

"This campaign won't be as big, obvious and crazy as last year," he said. "This year I'll be on the ballot and I will have my papers turned in well ahead of time."

Last year, McShane missed the packet deadline and was forced to run as a write-in candidate. According to Bob Walters, assistant director of Student Life and Activities, McShane has set a precedent as the first person to win an ASI election as a write-in candidate and as the first ASI President to run for a second term.

"Quite often people don't run for a second term of office because they are graduating, either at the end of their term of office or are not planning to be at Cal Poly for another fall year," Walters said.

McShane said that he put a lot of thought into his decision to run for another term.

"I talked to my friends, my family and myself and decided that running again was the right thing for Cal Poly and for me," the soil science senior said. "I want to continue as A SI President as long as I wish to, and I also feel that ASI is at a much better place right now.

Morning-After pill wins FDA approval

WASHINGTON - American women who are raped, whose birth control fails or who just forgot to take their pill can now buy emergency contraception over the counter - and the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology in Washington endorsed it - few physicians know the proper doses and few women even know to seek it.

The FDA's decision could change that. One small company, New Jersey-based Gynetics, is developing a specially packaged version of birth control that it hopes to sell for emergency use next year.

And the FDA's instructions were purposely detailed enough to tell family-planning clinics and private doctors the right dose to hand to women today.

"This should be in everyone's medicine cabinet," said Janet Benshoof of the Center for Reproductive Law and Policy.

The FDA announced Monday that high doses of six popular birth-control brands, when taken within three days of unprotected sex, are 75 percent effective at preventing pregnancy.

For every 100 women who have unprotected sex during the second or third week of their menstrual cycle, eight would normally become pregnant, but only two would if the women took emergency contraception, explained Dr. James Trussell of Princeton University.

His research convinced the FDA that emergency contraception could prevent up to 2.3 million unplanned pregnancies a year, 1 million of which now end in abortion.

"We're going to see a really big change here," said Trussell, who helped set up a hot line and Internet service that offers women information about emergency contraception and addresses of nearby doctors who already prescribe it.

He said women typically pay $21 for a cycle of birth control pills plus the cost of a doctor's visit. To work, two to four birth control pills are taken anytime up to 72 hours after sex - not just the "morning after" - and then the same dose is taken again exactly 12 hours later. The brands include Wyeth-Ayerst Laboratories' Ovral, Lo/Ovral, Nordest and Triphasil, and Berlex Laboratories' Levlen and Tri-Levlen.

The pills prevent a fertilized egg from implanting into the uterus as that it can grow into an embryo. If a woman already is pregnant, the pills will have no effect.

Emergency contraception is different from the controversial abortion pill RU-486, which is awaiting final FDA approval and ends pregnancy by expelling an already growing embryo from the uterus.

"Emergency contraceptive's side effects are nausea and vomiting, sometimes severe enough to prevent the pills from working. Over 4 million women have taken emergency contraception and address of nearby doctors who already prescribe it."

Low fares not taking flight with students

Since American Airlines unveiled new low fares early this week, other airlines have also been slashing fares - leaving travelers across the country scrambling to make reservations.

But University students are not among those crowding airport ticket counters and gobbling up cheap seats at up to 50-percent off the regular cost.

Discounted fares at four major airline companies - Continental, Northwest, United and American Airlines - have not been enough to persuade students to keep their cars in the garage.

The main reasons to stick to the steering wheel? Students blamed long-range planning and lack of knowledge about the changing fares.

"I think too many people made plans too far in advance to change arrangements and try the new fares," LSA senior Allison Kile said.

LSA sophomore Pete Schlenker said he was not a big fan of airline travel at any cost. "I'm never a big flyer so I don't really pay attention to the new rates," Schlenker said.

Jonathan Chaffer, an LSA first-year student, said he plans to travel to Indianapolis for spring break but is driving "because everyone else is," and because his plans are already made.

Chaffer also said he had no knowledge of the current drop in prices.

United Airlines spokesperson Kristine Price said airlines are relying on public knowledge of the possible American Airlines strike and ads in major newspapers to boost sales. But, this may not be enough to capture student's attention.

Jeremy Burns, an Engineering sophomore, said he was "not up-to-date" on the airfare war. "Other students know the details but still opt for the roads. "Yes, I was aware of the low prices but I really can't be bothered about them," LSA sophomore Marek Krzyzowski said. "I don't travel on airplanes."

A Northwest Airlines spokesperson said tickets for students would be $1 (9-11 p.m.)

ABC challenges punitive damages given to Food Lion

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - ABC asked for a new trial Monday on a lawsuit by a supermarket chain that resulted in a $85 million punitive damage award against the network for a 1992 hidden-camera exposé.

The motion was one of several filed in U.S. District Court in Greensboro, the court clerk's office said.

At issue was the jury's verdict that ABC must pay Food Lion punitive damages for lying to get videotaped evidence it used in a "PrimeTime Live" report accusing the chain of selling rottenized cheese and expired meat.

The case was closely watched because it opened a new line of legal attack against the news media and put hidden-camera journalism on trial.

U.S. District Judge Carlton Tilley, who has the authority to reduce the damage award, could schedule a hearing on ABC's motions or could make his ruling based on the court filings, his case manager said Monday.

Neither ABC nor Food Lion officials returned phone calls comment Monday.

The same jury gave Food Lion $81,402 in compensatory damages for fraud, trespass and breach of loyalty for the report that aired Nov. 5, 1992, on "PrimeTime Live." That money was for the cost of hiring and paying two ABC producers who did jobs in Food Lion stores in North Carolina and South Carolina and then wore spy cameras and hidden recorders on the job.

Food Lion did not ask the jury for a specific amount of punitive damages, but during the trial its attorneys suggested a range of $52.5 million to $1.9 billion.

While Food Lion vehemently denied the truth of the exposé, its case focused on ABC's news-gathering methods. Food Lion said it did not file a libel suit because the statute of limitations ran out and it had already filed a fraud suit before the show was broadcast.

Tests confirm three-drug combo effective against AIDS

By Paul Racan
Associated Press

WASHINGTON - AIDS patients live longer and have fewer infections with a three-drug combination that includes a new protease inhibitor drug, a federal health agency announced Monday.

Monday that the three-drug combination was very beneficial on this," he said.

Chairman of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases said that in a drug trial of AIDS patients with advanced disease, those taking a combination of zidovudine, lamivudine and indinavir had only half the cancers, infections and deaths of patients who were taking only a two-drug combination.

Dr. Scott Hammer of Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital at Harvard Medical School in Boston, the chairman of the national drug test, said all patients in the study are now being given the opportunity to switch to the three-drug combination or to findings and offering patients the chance to select a new drug combination.

He emphasized, however, that no patients should change their medication routine until they have consulted with their doctors.

Zidovudine is also known as AZT and lamivudine is known as 3TC. They are in a class of drugs known as reverse transcriptase inhibitors. The third drug, indinavir, is one of a new class of compounds called protease inhibitors.

"Significantly, the current study provides additional evidence that combination approaches using protease inhibitors can reduce the risk of death," - Dr. Anthony Fauci, director of the NIAID - the agency that supported the drug trial.

Hammer said officials directing the national study moved swiftly after an independent data and safety panel monitoring the trials of the three-drug combination recommended early termination and closure of the trials because of the significant benefit for patients taking all three drugs.

The trial had tested a total of 1,166 HIV patients at 33 different hospitals or clinics across the nation. The patients had been enrolled in the study for up to a year, with a median participation of 38 weeks.

Patients in the study were randomly assigned to receive either all three of the drugs, or AZT, 3TC and a placebo.

"Survival and a delay in disease progression were significantly better in patients receiving the triple combination therapy," the NIAID reported.

Among patients on the triple drug combination, there were 33 instances of disease progression while there were 66 instances among patients taking only AZT, 3TC and a placebo. Eight patients on the triple drug combination died, while 18 among the other group died.

For patients with a CD4 T-cell count of fewer than 50 per cubic millimeter, a very low level, "the benefit was statistically significant," the agency said.

U.S. funneled money for POWs held by Japan through Swiss account

WASHINGTON - Desperate to help prisoners of war held by Japan, the U.S. and British governments funneled aid through a secret Swiss bank account set up by the Japanese during World War II, according to Red Cross records and long-classified War Department documents.

A historian who found two crucial War Department documents doubts the POWs got all the aid.

"We have moved very quickly because of charges they dealt in Nazi gold and assets of Holocaust victims.

"This would be just another way to get relief to Japan-held POWs was to buy supplies locally. This became essential in practice," it said.

The Geneva-based Red Cross distributed POW supplies. And neutral Switzerland served as a conduit between enemy nations, and thus the idea of a Japanese Secret account grew.

"The necessary funds came from the Allied Governments, from the Allied Red Cross Societies and other relief organizations. At first they were transferred at pleasure, " See POW page 6

Looking for an escape? It can be done through laughter. Laughing with a friend, listening to the radio, or just daydreaming.

In response to Brian Johnson's Opinion in Monday's Daily, I would like to point out some of the shortcomings of his argument that pregnancy involves a woman's responsibility and that men have the right to control when a pregnancy occurs.

Brian Johnson seems to think that a pregnancy is solely the woman's responsibility, and that men have nothing to do with it. He suggests that the woman should be held responsible for the outcome of the pregnancy, regardless of whether or not she was consensual.

Johnson's argument is based on the idea that a woman cannot possibly consent to pregnancy. But this is not true. Women can and do consent to pregnancy, and it is not always their fault when they get pregnant.

Choking on snot and blood and her own undergarments she loses her virginity to a man she's never seen before.

Imagine this little girl to be the most attractive of her friends. She's talking to her friends today, in the mall. They've just left the Sunshine Express headquarter and are crush ing her throat and holding the air from her lungs. He hits her again.

Now imagine the blood running down her face. Imagine her tears are welled up so heavy in her eyes that she can barely make out the man who is hovering above her. She tries to scream again, but only squeaks. He shoves her panties into her mouth. White cotton underwear she loses her virginity to a man she's never seen before.

One big, dirty hand grabs her by the throat, pulling her into the restroom, her tiny nose bloodied. He hits her again, but only squeaks. He shoves her panties into her mouth. White cotton underwear she loses her virginity to a man she's never seen before.

The only time someone consented to anything is if they agree to it in advance. If a woman walks the street at night, there is a risk of being raped. If she is raped one night, did she consent to the rape because she knew it was a possible risk? I think not.

If a woman gets pregnant accidentally, did she consent to all consequences of the risk of sex? Not likely.

Pregnancy not a choice in every circumstance

Editor,

I wanted to write in regard to the two letters found on the Opinion page today (Feb. 24). I read the question that Dr. Ball's credentials and seemingly oppose logical thought. But, before I come to my point, I want to relate a little story.

Imagine for a second there is a young girl. Let's make her 12. She's with her friends today, in the mall. They've just left the Sunshine Express headquarter, each with little bags of pencil boxes and rubber erasers decorated with cute cartoon animals. They're heading for the food court.

Imagine this little girl to be the most attractive of her friends. She's talking now about her boyfriend. He kissed her for the first time on Saturday (but no tongue, they've only been going out for a month). Now they're talking about the other guy in their sixth grade class. They switch to talking about how one of the other's has just started her period (but not her, she started in fifth grade).

Now they're waiting in line at the pizza booth. Imagine she has to pee. She tells her friends to hold her place and she goes to the restroom. She's thinking about how she's just been chosen to play Mary in the church Christmas play. She pushes open the restroom door.

One big, dirty hand grabs her by the throat, pulling her into the restroom, her tiny nose bloodied. He hits her again.

McShane said that he feels running again would provide continuity for ASI and help keep it stable for next year. McShane said he is looking forward to the campaigning again in the spring. He hopes to focus this year's campaign around consultation and respect, as well as promoting students as customers and not as products at the university.

"Hard work is the yeast that rises the dough," McShane said. "I've worked my tail off this year and I'm ready to do it again."

McShane said he plans to graduate in June of next year so the chances of him running for a third term are slim.

emergency contraception in Britain alone, and studies there have shown no serious side effects.

The FDA stopped short of forcing Wyeth-Ayerst and Berlex to relabel their contraceptives to add the emergency use, deciding instead to take the information directly to consumers and physicians.

It is highly unusual for the FDA to declare new uses for a drug when the manufacturer hasn't asked. The agency did name it potassium iodide a radiation therapy after the Three Mile Island nuclear accident.

Legally, the FDA action is a request for the manufacturers to seek permission to advertise morning-after contraception - essentially a pre-approval pending the filing of the proper paperwork.

Wyeth-Ayerst restated Monday that it won't sell emergency contraception here and said it opposes any efforts to relabel its products. Berlex declined comment before, said the man, who gave only his surname, Tang.

THE KEY TO THE INTERVIEW IS KNOWING HOW TO MARKET YOURSELF, ACCORDING TO MARTINELLI. A PERSON HAS TO KNOW ABOUT THE COMPANY AHEAD OF TIME. SHE NEEDS TO DETERMINE WHAT ROLE SHE CAN FILL WITH A UNIQUE SKILL OR HON.

PEOPLE NEED TO KEEP ALL THESE THINGS IN MIND WHEN SEARCHING FOR A JOB IN A SMALL ECONOMY OR ANYWHERE ELSE, ACCORDING TO MARTINELLI. THE MOST IMPORTANT THING FOR SOMEONE TO KEEP IN MIND IS THAT CONTACTING EMPLOYERS FOR A POTENTIAL OPENING IS A VERY CHALLENGING AND FRUSTRATING PROCESS AT TIMES. A PERSON HAS TO ALWAYS APPEAR ENERGETIC AND UPHOLD TOWARD PROSPECTIVE EMPLOYERS.

"YOU CAN'T GIVE UP. IT CAN BE DONE," MARTINELLI SAID.
The Cal Poly men's lacrosse team played its fifth game of the season, only its third home game, this past weekend. The Mustangs lost their first game Saturday against Humboldt State, 11-9, but won the second game on Sunday against St. Mary's, 14-3.

Softball team quietly gaining name with 16-2 season record

The Cal Poly softball team has quietly, but quickly compiled a 16-2 record during the 1997 season. The Mustangs have spent most of their time on the road, so their success has not been widely publicized.

- Cal Poly has beaten St. Mary's, Santa Clara, San Jose State and have captured the title in the San Jose Mini Tournament held Feb. 15-16. It's only losses came this past weekend in the UNLV tournament in Las Vegas. Its first loss was to the University of South Carolina, 2-1, and the second was to the University of Washington, 6-4, both of whom will likely be ranked in the top 25 when new rankings come out Wednesday.

Cal Poly finished the tournament in a four-way tie for fifth place, with a 3-2 record. Teams that finished ahead of the Mustangs were UCLA, Oregon, Oregon State and Washington.

Head coach Lisa Boyer attributes the team's early success to their overall desire to achieve at a high level. "We have a stronger offense than in years past, so we can score a lot of runs, too," Boyer said.

The team is looking to get ranked when the new rankings are posted. Boyer said that the Mustangs' strong record, coupled with no key losses and strong performances against South Carolina and Washington should get them into the top 25. "I am exceptionally pleased with the way we've been playing to this point in the season," Boyer said. "The 16-2 start says something about this year's team."

The Mustangs return home for only the second time this season to open up Big West Conference play with two games against Cal State Fullerton on Sunday at 12 and 2 p.m.
