Bringing cultures together

May 17 is no longer just another day. Saturday in the University Union Plaza, Mayor Allen Settle proclaimed May 17 to be International Day in San Luis Obispo.

The mission of the day, as written in the proclamation, is to bring together cultures through food and information booths and performances.
Professor discusses philosophy of film

By Founds Khosro
Special to the Poly

A crowd of about 50 students, instructors and film enthusiasts were treated Friday afternoon to the third and final lecture of the "Philosophy at Poly" speaker's series, titled "Resistance to Cinema: Philosophy and the Fear of Film."

Professor Thomas Y. Levin of the German language and literature department of Princeton University, presented a 90-minute presentation on a paper followed by a question-and-answer period. Levin began by discussing how he believes "philosophical writing on cinema is ignored." He concentrated on cinema authority on film theory in Stanley Cavell's recent work, "The World Viewed," and explained how, despite the recent explosion of texts on the subject, the primary attitude taken by authors remains one of "recognize and ignore." In other words, philosophy in film theory is only seen with respect to reflecting existing philosophical issues and "problems," and not for its own unique mode of communication.

"What is so scary about film representation that philosophizers seem intent on avoiding the issues it raises?" Levin asked. "Cavell writes as though no one ever written on the subject before.

Paul Miklowitz, Cal Poly philosophy department chair and event-organizer, cited "Pulp Fiction" as a movie in which philosophy of film, concepts regarding cinema were presented and thus could be led into discussion about the philosophical potential of the medium.

"Levin was one of my best friends from graduate school and his research is always interesting to me," Miklowitz said.

Miklowitz also invited Levin to co-teach a single session of his PHIL 429, Modernism and Postmodernism, class on Sunday.

Cal Poly English professor Jim Cushing described the event as "lovely.

Both Levin and Miklowitz were surprised by the turnout on what Levin called a "beautiful, but Friday," to ask "Resistance to Cinema," is due to be published next year by Princeton University Press. The lecture was sponsored by the philosophy department.

AIDS Walk brings memories, millions

By Katherine Roth

NEW YORK — As friends and lovers who lost their lives to AIDS were among 35,000 people who joined in the 12th Annual AIDS Walk in New York Sunday to honor the memories of the dead — and raise millions of dollars for the Gay Men's Health Crisis, it's such a beautiful day and such an important cause," said Eva Friedman, 43, of Queens, who was walking the 6-mile route through Central Park with two teen-age gold-diggers.

Asked why she was participating, her sunny face suddenly clouded with sadness and tears welled up in her eyes.

"I lost a very incredible and wonderful friend to AIDS. He was only 26," she said, explaining how she and her brothers had scattered her friend's ashes at Orchard Beach in the Bronx two months ago, to honor his memory.

"I'm a second-class citizen," said Kazu Kumagai, '20, of Sendai, Japan, who was walking the 6-mile route through Central Park in memory of friends who contracted AIDS through tainted blood in Japan.

"Last year I walked in Japan's first AIDS Walk. This is my first time in New York's walk," he said. "AIDS is a very big thing in Japan, I guess it's big everywhere.

"Walking with about 50 other Sony employees, George McGlincher, 64, of Deer Park, said that as he walked through the sunny park he remembered his 41-year-old son, who succumbed to AIDS two years ago.

"If everybody did more, it would be a much better world," he said, then juggled ahead to catch up with his office mates.

But Mark Bosworth, executive director of GMHC, said the group had to work much harder this year to drum up support for the walk than it had in the past.

"It's sad, but it's much harder now to get people interested. Too many celebrities and journalists have declared the crisis over. But it's not over. We're helping 10,000 people with AIDS-related services — and the vast majority of people with AIDS still have no access to treatment."

See WALK page 10

AIDS Walk brings memories, millions

By Katherine Roth

NEW YORK — As friends and lovers who lost their lives to AIDS were among 35,000 people who joined in the 12th Annual AIDS Walk in New York Sunday to honor the memories of the dead — and raise millions of dollars for the Gay Men's Health Crisis, it's such a beautiful day and such an important cause," said Eva Friedman, 43, of Queens, who was walking the 6-mile route through Central Park with two teen-age gold-diggers.

Asked why she was participating, her sunny face suddenly clouded with sadness and tears welled up in her eyes.

"I lost a very incredible and wonderful friend to AIDS. He was only 26," she said, explaining how she and her brothers had scattered her friend's ashes at Orchard Beach in the Bronx two months ago, to honor his memory.

"I'm a second-class citizen," said Kazu Kumagai, '20, of Sendai, Japan, who was walking the 6-mile route through Central Park in memory of friends who contracted AIDS through tainted blood in Japan.

"Last year I walked in Japan's first AIDS Walk. This is my first time in New York's walk," he said. "AIDS is a very big thing in Japan, I guess it's big everywhere.

"Walking with about 50 other Sony employees, George McGlincher, 64, of Deer Park, said that as he walked through the sunny park he remembered his 41-year-old son, who succumbed to AIDS two years ago.

"If everybody did more, it would be a much better world," he said, then juggled ahead to catch up with his office mates.

But Mark Bosworth, executive director of GMHC, said the group had to work much harder this year to drum up support for the walk than it had in the past.

"It's sad, but it's much harder now to get people interested. Too many celebrities and journalists have declared the crisis over. But it's not over. We're helping 10,000 people with AIDS-related services — and the vast majority of people with AIDS still have no access to treatment."

See WALK page 10
Downtown streets filled with thousands marching for Jesus

By Jason Scott
Daily Staff Writer

An estimated 2,000 religious enthusiasts crowded San Luis Obispo's Mission Plaza Saturday for the "March for Jesus," a showing of prayer and praise on behalf of dedicated Christians and passive believers to acknowledge and celebrate Jesus Christ.

"Anyone who loves Jesus is welcome to attend," said Cheryl Hancock, a local march organizer.

The annual event marked San Luis Obispo's third year of participation. March for Jesus is organized by PrayerWalk USA, a national network of 100 churches and their representative neighborhood churchgoers.

Hancock, all smiles, rushed about in the plaza to address the crowd and fuel passions.

Despite sweltering summer-like weather and the gaze of unenthusiastic and sometimes perplexed onlookers, participants were overtly joyous, profoundly boisterous.

Following a path not unlike a parade route, marchers walked a block of closed-off streets, from Mission Plaza's Chorro Street border onto Monterey, Morro to Higuera streets, and through the plaza to Monterey Street again.

"Seven times for Jesus," they chanted, the goal being to complete seven laps. Several participants carried wooden staffs with colorful streamers, waving them about as they walked, as well as banners for various religious organizations.

The group wholeheartedly belted out the lyrics to Christian classics, referring to colorful prayer script pamphlets provided by PrayerWalk USA.

According to the pamphlet, the group hopes and believes that all denominations from all cities and countries will melt into one "true" faith, "removing the walls of churches," allowing citizens to prepare for Christ's arrival.

"Oh, magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt His name together," said Pastor Derrill Rogers of the Jubilee Praise Center of San Luis Obispo, later leading the elated group in prayer.

"Apparently the event isn't always as thrilling to downtown onlookers as it is for its participants."

"Anytime you close the streets, you can feel the effect to business in the area," said Peter Eberle, promotion coordinator for the San Luis Obispo Business Improvement Association.

Eberle was "uncomfortable releasing the names of business owners" who looked down upon the event, but cited several complaints to the BIA from Higuera Street business owners who felt the march interfered with business.

San Luis Obispo's march was organized by Hancock and Caroline Manchauer of the San Luis Obispo Parks and Recreation Department, with the aid of the City of San Luis Obispo, KGDP and K-LIFE radio and Harvey's Honeyhuts. The event was broadcast live over both radio stations.

An estimated 10 million worldwide were scheduled to celebrate Saturday, with all event marches beginning at 10 a.m. in lieu of the Christian faith's Pentecost weekend.
McShane's campaign promises included a more accessible ASI, increased involvement in ASI and more personal development opportunities. I think that Steve has accomplished these things, and he, with the help of his executive staff, have done a good job this year. For next year Steve McShane promises more accessible ASI, ongoing communication, increased involvement and effective representation. These are all exactly the same things that he promised last year. I want to know why it will take him two years to accomplish what he promised to do in one.

All the promises that Steve McShane has made are in the job description of what an ASI president should do. Cindy Entzi will go above and beyond this. She is sincere and will do anything she can to help students, and she will give you the results you want. Cindy may be soft-spoken, but I have always liked the saying "actions speak louder than words."

Whomever you decide to vote for on May 21, it is really important that you go vote. Your vote will make a difference!

No money to cut grad costs

McShane's worthy of second term

By Kimberly Rany

Two days until the run-off election and president is Cindi Entzi all over campus. Steve McShane advertises change, but Steve McShane advertises continued commitment to students.

The facts speak louder than opinions. Steve has worked all year long on improving the communication between ASI and the student and administration and the community.

Students wanted more information about clubs. Steve helped publish the first thing a club can do with information with contacts for the over 400 clubs on campus.

Students wanted more involvement in ASI. He established the Mustang Messenger, a bi-monthly publication to keep students informed. Campus clubs can advertise their activities for free and the university can list students without a reporter interpreting the words.

Students wanted more say in the political future. Steve and his staff organized the first ever Political Activism Week bringing candidates to Cal Poly to speak to students so they could make informed decisions.

Students wanted to share their different cultures with others. He helped bring in the 200 world students, and they serve on new task forces to add accessibility to on campus dining, mass transit, administrative marketing, alumni and more.

Students wanted to know the people who make up the administration. Steve helped President Baker get a job. Light house at the beginning of the year so he could talk with students. Baker even joined WOTV activities for an evening.

Students were concerned about the way ASI is run and who the decision is going. Steve organized the first ASI Advisory Council. The council is comprised of former ASI members, Cal Poly staff, key community figures and alumni. The group will help ASI run its business, offer new ideas and resources and create additional ideas on how ASI can better handle students' money.

Students wanted more Mustang for their buck. Steve helped appoint the first Director of Advancement for ASI to bring in additional money outside of student contributions. The director will help network and find resources for clubs. The director is looking into textbook scholarships for students each quarter and credit card payment for capture registration starting in the fall.

No other candidate offers a resume like Steve McShane's. Entzi shares McShane's views, but she lacks the experience. I have dealt with both candidates and we will never find a better representative than Steve McShane to express student needs to the administration, community, alumni and other universities.

Kimberly Rany is a journalism junior and Daily staff writer.

Vote for Entzi is a vote for action

Editor

It seems as if the elections for ASI pres­ident will never end. There have been signs and slogans for Cindy Entzi and Steve McShane all over campus. On May 21 it will be time for students to make the final decision on who will be the next ASI president.

I have worked with both Entzi and McShane. They are both motivated people who care about ASI and Cal Poly students. However, I feel that ASI needs a new vision and Cindy Entzi is the person who will make ASI work well for the students.

The reason I feel this way is because I think that other students besides me would experience being ASI president. Cindy Entzi's accomplishments have already proven that she can get things done.

She is dedicated, hardworking and always has the best interests of students in mind. Cindy Entzi is involved in many Cal Poly activities that make her experienced for the job. She is sincere and will do anything she can to help students, and she will give you the results you want. Cindy may be soft-spoken, but I have always liked the saying "actions speak louder than words."

Whomever you decide to vote for on May 21, it is really important that you go vote. Your vote will make a difference!
A member of Cal Poly's staff is considered a walking miracle. And on Thursday, the community was invited to find out why.

Kandy Hart, a trust and investment administrator at Cal Poly, suffered a stroke last March at age 41. She shared her story of recovery to raise awareness of heart disease and strokes at the Women and Heart Disease Heartstyle Luncheon held by the American Heart Association (AHA).

About 250 attended the second annual luncheon held at the Embassy Suites in San Luis Obispo.

"A stroke is kind of like a brain attack," she said. "It's considered a cardiovascular disease — like a heart attack."

Before her stroke, Hart had led a normal, healthy life. She wasn't overweight, didn't have high blood pressure or hypertension, and had a normal cholesterol and fat level.

Around Christmas of 1996, Hart began having horrible headaches. She went to a doctor who told her she probably had a migraine and that it was due to stress.

Hart said that didn't seem right because she didn't feel stressed. The headaches continued to get worse.

"I would wake up with them every morning," she said. "I could hear the blood coursing in my head, a swooshing sound."

The headaches continued for three months and after seeing three separate doctors and experiencing an episode of lost speech, Hart took herself to the hospital.

The doctor seemed concerned and suggested she stay the night in the hospital for tests and scans.

"I'm really glad I stayed at the hospital because that afternoon I had a stroke," she said. "It wasn't painful. I don't remember anything because I wasn't conscious."

When Hart began to recover, the doctors said she should consider going on retirement disability and not put herself in any uneasy situations. She said they were painting a grim picture of her future.

After being released from the hospital, Hart returned in June for a angiogram. The doctors were surprised at the completeness of her recovery and were left clueless as to what caused the stroke.

"I have a strong spiritual life and I certainly believe in miracles," Hart said. "That is the only thing that makes any sense based on what the medical profession can tell me."

Hart said the stroke has been a good lesson in slowing her life down and enjoying the moment. She doesn't live in fear that it will happen again.

"My message to people is that when something happens to your body that you know isn't right, partner with your doctor in a way that creates information for you to take in," she said.

Hart has completely recovered and returned to work after four months to a very supportive boss. She said a support network was set up at work which allowed her to act more as a manager.

Final Exam Question #2

The Collect Call

What's the only number to use for all your collect calls that could instantly win you cool stuff (like hip Planet Hollywood jackets and packs of 24 free movie passes) every hour, every day?

a) d
b) d
c) d
d) 1 800 CALL ATT
e) HELLO-d

For all your collect calls — even local.

[Image of a phone with a number: 1-800-cALL-ATT]
Boardwalk celebrates 90th birthday, retains old while adapting for future

By Carolyn Orts
Associated Press

SANTA CRUZ - Couples still push babies in strollers past hot-dog stands. Tyn young people still play volleyball on golden sand. Kids still grab for the brass ring from the old-fashioned carousel.

After nearly a century, some things at the Santa Cruz Beach Boardwalk just don't change. And that's the way fans like it.

"Santa Cruz has always been important to me. It's really the last traditional amusement park on the West Coast," said Dwayne Leary, a 37-year-old historian of such attractions.

"California used to be spotted all over, but now it's really the last one."

It was in the summer of 1907 that the Boardwalk, along with a casino and ballroom, opened in this coastal town 75 miles south of San Francisco. The Boardwalk, a state historic landmark, celebrates its 90th anniversary when it opens for the season on May 23.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

But the Boardwalk also has been changing, in recent years adding chuck-wagon cook-offs, summer concerts and high-tech attractions to compete against other parks, shopping-center arcades, VCR movies and video games.

"We are in competition for the leisure dollar. We've got to be creative enough to capture the interest of people out there," said Charles Canfield, chairman of the Santa Cruz Seaside Co.

The plans, the subject of hearings this summer, highlight the importance of the park. While the city boasts a beautiful setting, a downtown rebuilt since the Loma Prieta earthquake and a major university, it's probably the Boardwalk that comes to mind when most Californians think of Santa Cruz.

The Boardwalk, the state's oldest amusement park, opened in June 1907. It had a casino, ballroom and indoor swimming pool as well as an promenade where hatted gentlemen in suits could take the ocean air with conseted ladies shielded from the summer sun by parasols.

The first ride, a scenic railway, opened in 1906. Three years later, the park added its hand-carved carousel. The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.

The family-owned company that runs the Boardwalk is determined to retain the rare, old-fashioned atmosphere in which an 86-year-old hand-carved carousel spins, accompanied by an even older pipe organ and riders of the 1924 wooden roller coaster shriek with terror and delight.

The Giant Dipper, a huge wooden roller coaster, opened in 1924 and has since carried more than 44 million riders. Both it and the carousel are national historic monuments.
MUSTANG DAILY

MondA, May 19, 1997

MUSTANG DAILY

The only thing is that Rick is notorious for getting cold feet at the last minute."

The newspaper said that

Majerus traveled to Oakland to take a look at the Warriors' new practice facility and arena, both under construction.

Neither Cohan nor Majerus

could be reached for comment.

"There are a lot of reports on what might happen and what won't happen," Warriors assistant general manager Al Attles said

Sunday. "When the times comes everyone will know what we will do. At this point in time we can't discuss that."

Team counsel Robin Baggett

said Cohan and Majerus had held conversations but had not negotiated a contract. "If there was (contact negotiations), I'd be involved."

Baggett said.

The Warriors finished last in the Pacific Division with a 30-52

record and fired coach Rick

Adelman on April 28.

The Mercury News reported that Majerus was apparently eager to return to the NBA for the first time since serving as an assistant coach with the 1986-87 Milwaukee Bucks.

It was on April 29, 1992, that young men, angry at the acquittal of four white policeman for beating black motorist Rodney King, began burling bricks and bottles at motorists. That sparked three days of deadly rioting.

Days earlier, two sets of the Bloods and Crips that rule housing projects signed a truce aimed at revitalizing South Central neighborhoods devastated by the riots. New stores and supermarkets have risen from the ashes. But little of that largess has reached the housing projects.

"There are valid Reasons why

businesses are not located in high­ risk areas," said Alan Isaac, supervisor of a failed athletic shoe venture by Eurostar Inc. that grew out of the gang truce. "The perception

is that the inner city is dangerous. Sometimes you can feel it in the air."

Thanks to the truce, random

attacks on rivals have virtually disappeared from the projects, residents and police said. But the larger problems of crime and poverty

remain.

A consulting firm estimated that in 1996, per capita income in Watts was $5,014, compared to $18,331 in Los Angeles overall.

Last year, Watts had 33 murders, making its homicide rate five times as high as the overall rate for

Los Angeles.

De Wayne Holmes, a PJ Crip

instrumental in putting the truce

together, said gang members were

alienated by riot recovery efforts

that seemed out of touch with their needs.

"I don't know what we are seeing now is the effect of that," he said. "We are seeing people going back to what we thought was normal in the eighties."

AIDS Project

Los Angeles

To see an interactive version of this article, please visit our website at:

http://www.mustangdaily.com

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bloods-Crips truce holding

"When they get killed, a lot of people run away and didn't stick with the peace process," Sherrill said.

"The thing died down due to the simple fact people didn't understand that things just couldn't change overnight."

Sherrill now works as a conselor for a Woodlands Hills anti­ violence organization.

In 1992, a man called Ray-Ray and a friend opened a combination shoe store and community center.

But it failed after a year. On a recent afternoon, the 28-year-old sat shirtless and hawked beer, soda and junk food from a cardboard box.

Politicians and civic leaders say some progress has been made to revitalize South Central neighborhoods devastated by the riots. New

stores and supermarkets have

risen from the ashes. But little of

that largess has reached the housing projects.

"There are valid Reasons why

businesses are not located in high­
risk areas," said Alan Isaac, supervisor of a failed athletic shoe venture by Eurostar Inc. that grew out

of the gang truce. "The perception

is that the inner city is dangerous. Sometimes you can feel it in the air."

Thanks to the truce, random

attacks on rivals have virtually disappeared from the projects, residents and police said. But the larger problems of crime and poverty

remain.

A consulting firm estimated that in 1996, per capita income in Watts was $5,014, compared to $18,331 in Los Angeles overall.

Last year, Watts had 33 murders, making its homicide rate five

times as high as the overall rate for

Los Angeles.

De Wayne Holmes, a PJ Crip

instrumental in putting the truce

together, said gang members were

alienated by riot recovery efforts

that seemed out of touch with their

needs.

"I don't know what we are seeing now is the effect of that," he said. "We are seeing people going back to what

we thought was normal in the eighties."

AIDS Project

Los Angeles

To see an interactive version of this article, please visit our website at:

http://www.mustangdaily.com

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bloods-Crips truce holding

"When they get killed, a lot of people run away and didn't stick with the peace process," Sherrill said.

"The thing died down due to the simple fact people didn't understand that things just couldn't change overnight."

Sherrill now works as a con­
selor for a Woodlands Hills anti­ v
Jazz like this tune: Malone's the MVP

By Bob Mills
Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — Karl Malone, the muscular power forward who helped send the Utah Jazz to the conference finals, edged Michael Jordan on Sunday to win his first NBA most valuable player award.

In the second-closest balloting since the media vote began in 1981, Malone beat Jordan, 2,000 points for an NBA record 10th consecutive season and moved ahead of Moses Malone and Elvin Hayes, who have 25,000 points and 10,000 rebounds. The others are Wilt Chamberlain, Abdul-Jabbar, Moses Malone and Elvin Hayes.

“His played great all year and he came into this year with the attitude that we’re going to take that next step,” Jazz guard Jeff Hornacek said. “Karl was definitely the leader, the one who carried us.”

A star from Louisiana Tech when Utah drafted him in 1985, Malone quickly proved he belonged in the NBA with his bruising play. Still, when he decided he needed more power in the post, he embarked on a grueling weightlifting regimen that has stacked 256 pounds of muscle on his 6-foot-9 frame.

He also added to his offensive arsenal. Coming early and staying late at practice, he developed fadeaway and perimeter jump shots while improving his once-horrid foul shooting.

Never averaging less than 25 points a game after his rookie season, Malone became the quintessential power forward.

He has led Utah to 12 of its 14 straight playoff appearances (a second only to Portland’s 15), and with teammate John Stockton won two Olympic gold medals.

This year in playoffs, in which the Jazz eliminated the Clippers and Lakers, Malone has averaged 28.4 points and 12.1 rebounds. His career averages are 25.5 points and 10.8 boards.

Approaching his 34th birthday in July, Malone remains Utah’s iron man.

“I’m not finished yet,” Malone said. “And I have this good feeling, if we keep our nose to the grindstone.”

“Malone was presented the Maurice Podoloff Trophy by Jazz owner Larry Miller. Another ceremony is scheduled for Tuesday night at Chicago.

Career Opportunities

ARK Telecom, Inc. (ARK) is a unique California high-tech company, dedicated to the application of the most exciting satellite telecommunications technologies to business, government, health & education services. We specialize in the design of advanced satellite & broadcast wireless communications products & networks. Established in 1993, ARK is an international business with most of its customers overseas. The company's design works. The facility is primarily staffed with technical product designers & developers, technicians & CAD staff. ARK is expected to grow to 3-4 times its size in the next 5 years. We are seeking qualified individuals for the following positions:

Hardware Design Engineers

Seeking recent or soon to be graduated candidates:
Will be involved in design, development and testing of hardware for new telephony and datacom products and support of existing products.

Qualifications:
Experience in complex SMT electronic equipment and the ability to design and debug with logic analyzers, scopes and have knowledge of high speed ECL, CMOS, FPGAs, microprocessors and RF circuits.
Experience with T1/E1, VF, 68302/68360s, DSPs and other telephony devices desired. Good communication and documentation skills a must.

Software Design Engineers

Seeking recent or soon to be graduated candidates:
Will be involved in design, development and testing of software for new telephony and datacom products and support of existing products.

Qualifications:
Experience in software design, familiar with UNIX, Windows, Notes and LAN and WAN operations and C++ development.
Experience with T1/E1, VF, 68302/68360s, frame relay, ATM, V.35Works DSPs and other telephony devices desired. Good communication and documentation skills a must.

Immediate full-time openings available, international travel possible, wages dependent upon experience. Qualified applicants only, please.

Jazz like this tune: Malone’s the MVP

Heat kick Knicks out of playoffs

By Steven Wine
Associated Press

MIAMI — The Miami Heat rendered the final ruling: The New York Knicks must sit out the rest of the playoffs.

Tim Hardaway scored 30 points and the Heat outscored New York by 15 points from 3-point range Sunday to win Game 7 101-90, completing a rare comeback from a 3-1 series deficit.

Miami’s dubious reward will be a date against Michael Jordan and the Bulls in the Eastern Conference finals beginning Tuesday night.

New York never recovered from a Game 5 brawl that resulted in the suspension of five Knicks, including starters John Starks and Larry Johnson for Game 7. Guard Chris Childs symbolized the Knicks’ frustration — and lack of composure — when he angrily punted the ball into the stands midway through the final period.

Hardaway hit six of 3-pointer, and his total point was a franchise playoff record. He had 24 points in the third quarter, when Miami led 71-50 even with Alonzo Mourning on the bench because of foul trouble.

New York closed to 92-85 with 1:13 left, but Miami hit nine of 12 free throws the rest of the way.

Patrick Ewing led New York with 37 points and 17 rebounds. But Ewing, who had promised a championship this year, instead remains without a ring after 12 NBA seasons.

The Heat became just the sixth team to overcome a 3-1 series deficit. Only five other teams have ever done it.

“This year was special to me, but I’m not finished yet,” Malone said. “And I have this good feeling, if we keep our nose to the grindstone.”

Career Opportunities

ARK Telecom, Inc. (ARK) is a unique California high-tech company, dedicated to the application of the most exciting satellite telecommunications technologies to business, government, health & education services. We specialize in the design of advanced satellite & broadcast wireless communications products & networks. Established in 1993, ARK is an international business with most of its customers overseas. The company's design works. The facility is primarily staffed with technical product designers & developers, technicians & CAD staff. ARK is expected to grow to 3-4 times its size in the next 5 years. We are seeking qualified individuals for the following positions:

Hardware Design Engineers

Seeking recent or soon to be graduated candidates:
Will be involved in design, development and testing of hardware for new telephony and datacom products and support of existing products.

Qualifications:
Experience in complex SMT electronic equipment and the ability to design and debug with logic analyzers, scopes and have knowledge of high speed ECL, CMOS, FPGAs, microprocessors and RF circuits.
Experience with T1/E1, VF, 68302/68360s, DSPs and other telephony devices desired. Good communication and documentation skills a must.

Software Design Engineers

Seeking recent or soon to be graduated candidates:
Will be involved in design, development and testing of software for new telephony and datacom products and support of existing products.

Qualifications:
Experience in software design, familiar with UNIX, Windows, Notes and LAN and WAN operations and C++ development.
Experience with T1/E1, VF, 68302/68360s, frame relay, ATM, V.35Works DSPs and other telephony devices desired. Good communication and documentation skills a must.

Immediate full-time openings available, international travel possible, wages dependent upon experience. Qualified applicants only, please.

Visit us at the Springboard Job Fair

or

Send your résumé via fax to (805) 349-2793 or via e-mail to ralph@arktel.com

ARK TELECOM

124 Carmen Lane, Suite K Santa Maria, CA 93454

Don’t forget to check out Mustang Daily’s Religion Issue tomorrow.

Landsystems Career Day May 20

Career Day is for Landscapers, Contractors and Creditors. We specialize in Commercial, Native and Capable Landscaping Design and Construction.

We will be accepting applications for the following positions:

1. Sales Support/Project Coordinator
Individual will have thorough knowledge of the land scape industry and will be responsible for assisting the sales team by formulating design proposals, interfacing with clients to help with governmental agencies in regards to plan approval and meeting clients to assist the design process in all aspects.

2. Site Supervisor
This position calls for an individual with a great deal of “hands on” experience who can use the academic skills learned at a university to help expedite a vast array of residential projects towards completion. A willingness to learn and to work hard in the field is essential. The applicant will be able to shoulder responsibility at an early stage.

3. Maintenance Manager/Maintenance Crew Leader
Landsystems opened a new management division in 1996 and is now looking for a dedicated individual to supervise 3-4 crews working on larger residential projects. A knowledge of all aspects of maintenance including plant identification, irrigation, chem cal application and personnel management is essential. A great opportunity to start on the ground floor with growing concern.

We look forward to meeting you!

3113 Middlefield Road
Redwood City, CA 94063
(415) 851-2793 or (408) 377-8336
Fax (415) 367-9982
event there was a need for the event at Cal.

Along with providing food, performance and fun, Culture Fest served as the perfect opportunity to recognize and award the cultural community leaders and the school poster contest winners.

State Sen. Jack O’Connell (D-San Luis Obispo) and a representative for Congressman Walter Capps’ office presented awards to the recipients, ranging from two kindergarten students to former San Luis Obispo Mayor Ron Dunin, who had survived the war camps of Krakow during World War II, and included Cal Poly students and instructors.

With these kinds of students trying to promote this (cultural awareness), we have the technology, the resources, and the opportunity to do it. We have the best and the brightest, and we have the best and the brightest leaders in this town to implement this program. And we have the resources, the technology, and the people to do it. We have the talent, the skills, and the ability to do it. And we have the passion and the enthusiasm to do it. And we have the desire and the determination to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it. And we have the commitment and the commitment to do it.
BILLS from page 6
Taxation Committee on Wednesday hears income and newspaper tax cut bills.

Senate Minority Leader Rob Hurt, R-Garden Grove, has a bill that would reduce the personal income tax rate for single filers by 1 percent in 2019 and over, the rate would be cut by 5 percent in 1997, by 10 percent in 1998 and by 15 percent in 1999. For taxpayers in lower brackets, the rate would be reduced 15 percent beginning in 1997.

According to the committee analysis, a family with an adjusted gross income of $40,000 would save $879 a year; one with an income of $80,000 would save $2,620; and one with an income of $500,000 would save $53,390. But Entzi said the measure would lose the state $3 billion in revenue a year from the personal income tax and the sales tax.

The same committee will hear a bill by Sen. Charles Calderon, D-Montebello, that would restore the sales tax exemption that newspapers had before the recession of 1991 by lifting the sales tax on newspapers to raise many taxes.

Until 1991, newspapers were not subject to a sales tax, which ranges from 7.25 percent to 8.25 percent around the state, but businesses that want to raise their newstand prices to cover the tax.

AIDS from page 1
Clinton also was expected to appeal for more international cooperation in the fight against AIDS.

Although researchers have found vaccines for polio and other diseases, Dr. Robert Redfield, the overseer of the AIDS virus, said last week that "nobody can say definitively whether we will [eventually] have a vaccine against HIV, the virus that causes AIDS."

Gallo, now head of the Institute of Human Virology at the University of Maryland, was and a star researcher at NIH when he helped discover the HIV virus, along with French researchers.

"We have to say it is a serious possibility that we will never succee with a vaccine against HIV," Gallo said at a vaccine symposium last Tuesday. "We have to be realistic.

Dr. Anthony Fauci, head of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Disease, said at the same symposium that lack of preclinical scientific knowledge about HIV is the major stumbling block preventing development of an AIDS vaccine.

Fauci, whose agency takes the lead in AIDS research at NIH, said a "full court press" by scientists led to that keeps HIV in check once a person is infected, but that making a vaccine to the virus "may be a major challenge." The "biggest challenge" is the virus, he added.

Fauci himself has said that the key to AIDS is not simply a vaccine, but also that "when we discover a virus, we must know the disease, the biology of the virus, the mechanisms of infection."
MUSTANG DAILY

Monday, May 19, 1997

Classified Advertising

Graphic Arts Building, Room 226 Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, CA 93407 (805) 756-1143

advertisements

MOTORCYCLISTS
Cal Poly Penguins MC Club
Last mtg of the year: Officer Elect 8 p.m. Mon. Soil North 201

ANNOUNCEMENTS
Calvin's New Consignment Shop
Buy or Consign Lady-Pant-skirt-
Black-Play-Dressey-Vintage
Stowell Plaza 1547 S. Broadway 5M

HEY CHRIS
How did that torch work?

LOOKING FOR AFS RETURNEES
If you're a returnee from AFS, we want to know who you are.
Contact Carol Lack at 546-0994 or cackle@calpoly.edu.
A gathering is being planned for Sunday afternoon, June 1.

GREEK WEEK COMPETITION!!
the MCC. Call 547-8749 for info.

(ii)

IIKA would like to Congratulate our club! Volunteers in the industry! Cruise Information
pottery, volleyball, and male groups. A great summer weekend off accessibility to

AMERICAN TRAVEL WORKSHOPS
May 21 1-8 pm, Bldg 52 Room E47
or
May 27 7-8 pm Unit 219
For more info call 796-1750

Opportunities

MUSTANG DAILY

Looking for AFS returnees
Caroline's New Consignment Shop

Motorcyclists
Princeton Review (805) 995-0176

Greek Week Competition!!
the MCC. Call 547-8749 for info.

IIKA would like to Congratulate our club! Volunteers in the industry! Cruise Information
pottery, volleyball, and
male groups. A great summer
weekend off accessibility to

Summer Work
Are you competitive? Do you love a challenge?
Make $5000 this summer
Call 1-800-320-6435

Test Engr to write procedure for new & exist products. Major in EE, COMP & Electronics Co on CC seeking self-starting & independent players. Please fax to 805-237-4048 Atm. $5000
incentives & salary pkg.

For Sale
Get Blazing x2 $660 savings NOW!
www.theqnd.com 888-333-4743

Mattress & Bed Discount Center
Full $98, Queen $138, King $158 Sets
$25/hr. 772-8899 -Iv msg

Credit Manager
Needed next yr for Mustang Daily. Prefer senior business major, MBA, or business oriented student.
Pay starts at $6.00hr. Send resumes and letter to Bldg. 26 Room 226
ATM: A. J. Schuerrmann

MISTER BOFFO

by Joe Martin

Citizen Dog

by Mark O'hare

Mister Boffo

by joe martin

In the Bleachers

by Steve Moore

Citizen Dog

by Mark O'hare

"Go for it, Stan. No guts, no glory."
SPORTS

Mustangs hurt themselves, lose to Cal State Fullerton

By Jennifer Cornelius

LONG BEACH — It wasn’t supposed to end the way it did.

On a bad defensive play, Cal State Fullerton scored five runs in the eighth inning of Saturday’s Big West Conference tournament game to send the Mustangs home with little hope of gaining a spot in regionals this season. The Mustangs had the Big West title within inches of tagging him when Alviso dropped to the ground to avoid the tag. Rohimeir then threw to second to try and get Beck and missed. Mustang second baseman Scott Kidd threw to third to get Alviso but threw into the Cal Poly dugout. Alviso scored and Beck, who had reached second safely, was allowed two bases on the overthrow, giving Fullerton another run and a 6-4 lead. Two more runs came in on a throw to the plate by Ankrum and Steve Chatham to make the score 6-4.

By the time the Mustangs came off the field, the momentum had switched sides as a Cal Poly win was deflected. "It was a huge blow, no doubt about it. One play gave them two runs," Kidd said.

A glimmer of hope was seen when Mustang designated hitter Marty Camacho hit his 14th home run of the season in the bottom of the eighth, but Titan Scott Hild finished up the eighth and ninth innings with no runs scoring to give Fullerton the 6-4 victory.

"It was a tough loss, no doubt about it," said Cal Poly head coach Ritch Price. "I was pleased with the way we competed and how hard we played. When you play somebody as good as Oregon, you have to play perfectly and we made a couple of mistakes and like all good clubs they took advantage of it. Price added.

Price felt with Porto on the mound the Mustangs had the best opportunity to win. Porto kept Fullerton off balance with his slider and off-speed pitches, but ran into some trouble in the fifth inning when he hit three batters and walked one in the fourth inning. He escaped with only one run scoring and the score tied at three. He was replaced by Kevin Mohr in the eighth after allowing two more hits after the Mustang’s error.

Fullerton starter Brandon Duckworth went six innings, allowing four runs on seven hits with five strikeouts and five walks. Scott Hild entered the game in the seventh to pick up his fourth win of the season.

Porto went seven and two-thirds innings, allowing eight runs on 10 hits with three strikeouts and two walks. Cal Poly finished at 1-2 in the tournament, losing to University of Nevada, Reno, in the first round Thursday, 10-6, to fall into the losers bracket. The Mustangs defeated U.C. Santa Barbara Friday, 11-10, to send the Gauchos home. Cal Poly finishes the season at 37-21.

Although the wins and losses records are numerous this season, it doesn't replace the pain and emptiness felt by the Mustangs after the loss.

"Anytime you have a winning record, it’s successful," said third baseman Steve Rohimeir, "but with the team we had, I thought for sure we would go to regionals, but things just didn’t go our way.

"I played with some of the best ball players in the country. I can’t be more proud of the best coaching staff too," Rohimeir said.

Kidd finished the season as the Big West Conference batting champion and is only the fifth player in Big West history to have more than 100 hits in a season with 105. Second baseman Taber Maier, who holds the Cal Poly record for doubles in a season, hit his 26th on Saturday. Marty Camacho hit his 14th home run of the season to tie him with Scott Kidd for third place on the all-time Cal Poly home run list. First baseman Reid Dodder finished second in the record books with 16 home runs.

Wrestling recruiting class ranked ninth -- Cowell not done

By Martin Blackwell

Daily Sun Writer

The Cal Poly wrestling team is ranked fifth in the nation.

As of May 18, 1997, the 1997 recruiting class was nationally ranked ninth by InterMat, an online amateur-wrestling news source, behind such nationally recognized teams as Iowa State, Oklahoma State and Penn State universities.

Arizona State, which was ranked fifth, and the University of Oregon, at seventh, were the only other two West Coast schools ahead of Cal Poly.

Cal Poly’s class had previously been ranked 12th, but a re-evaluation on Friday evening updated the team to the ninth spot, and coach Les Mizzell isn’t even finished with the recruiting process.

"InterMat is continuously updating," said Cowell. "I hope to move up even further before it’s over.

Since his coaching career began at Cal Poly 11 seasons ago, Cowell said he couldn’t remember a time when the recruiting class had ever been so strong.

Coming off a strong season, which ended in March, with seven weight classes qualifying and competing at Nationals in Waterloo, Iowa, Cowell said he believes the team will be ranked fifth in the nation this season.

University of Iowa, which dominated the wrestling nation with 170 points and five national champions, was ranked behind Cal Poly at 16th.

"The number of quality athletes is what gave Cal Poly its ranking," Cowell said.

"We got on a roll," he said. "Because we got this guy, we got another, then another."

A total of seven student-athletes have signed national letters of intent to enroll and wrestle at Cal Poly. Besides Strange, Cal Poly has signed two 145-pounders, Jason Olmos from St. Francis High School in Mountain View and Dave Bettencourt from Del Oro High School in Rocklin.

"I can’t be more proud of the current team members seem excited about the ranking and are anxious to get the new class in on the practice mata.

"We’re very excited to have them," said Mike French, a 177-pound sophomore and national qualifier. "We’re going to feed each other. They’ll push us, and we’ll push them."

InterMat also recently released its 1997 All-Rookie Team, which included a fifth place for Cal Poly heavyweight Gino McGee. McGee, a 6-feet-10-inch tall redshirt from Iowa, went 16-14 in his first season at Cal Poly.

All-Big West Conference Softball Team - Cal Poly

First Team
Desiree Knipfer - Pitcher
Sara Stockton - Outfield

Second Team
Anna Bauer - First base

Honor Roll Mention
Kelly Sack - Outfield

All-Big West Conference Baseball Team - Cal Poly

First Team
Scott Kidd - Second base
Marty Camacho - Designated hitter

Second Team
Matt Priess - Catcher
Boyd Dodder - First base
Taber Maier - Shortstop

Honorable Mention
Steve Rohimeir - Third base
John Arnold - Left field
Scotti Ziere - Pitcher