Huge ramp engulfs U.U. for annual Thrash-A-Thon

By Edie Zuckerman
Daily Staff Writer

Skaters and bikers perched on the edge of the largest ramp ever to take over the U.U. Thursday as this year's Thrash-A-Thon kicked off. The event, which draws professional and amateur skaters and bikers, ended tonight.

This Thrash-A-Thon, sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, marks the event's 14th year.

Assembly of the 12-foot ramp began Tuesday, though fraternity members have been building it for the last month in Pismo Beach.

This year's ramp is brand new, and the fraternity expects to use it for the next 10 years. It is 52 feet wide and over 12 feet high, with just less than two feet of vertical at the top of the ramp. After the event the ramp will be moved to the Pismo Beach skate park until next year.

"It's the biggest ramp we've ever had here. It's the cleanest ramp and perfectly constructed," Cameron Watts, Thrash-A-Thon chairman, said.

Freshman Ryan Nyquist, who placed 3rd in the dirt bike and 5th in the street course for bikes at the X-Games this summer in San Diego, joined the skaters using the ramp.

Nyquist said he had a great weekend proposal. "We have a policy in the City Council," Seltte said. "If there's questions in the community, we go with a ballot.

Legal concerns were addressed during discussion of a possible campus-wide vote.

"I believe it should be brought to a referendum," Martin said. "When the city pulled out, our contract was broken. We have a broken contract, therefore we have no contract." Martin said ASI members could possibly be sued for passing the proposal without a student vote.

That concern was appeased by ASI Executive Director Rick Johnson.

"This project is exempt from the legal responsibility to put it to a vote because it's replacing the fields lost," said Johnson.

The discussion drudged forward as the three options before the board were discussed. Option A was to do nothing with the funds already accumulating and to eventually turn money over to future school-wide needs. Option B was to put the original agreement up for $3 million into the fields. This option would cut the six originally proposed bonds down to an additional $18 for fall, the San Luis Obispo County

Bargain shots can prevent flu

By Burt Cockran
Dailj Staff Writer

There's no escaping it. Flu season is coming. For those people who haven't gotten their flu shots, Dr. Burt Cochran, head of medical services at Cal Poly's Health Center, said having a flu shot is like buying insurance.

"It's a preventive measure for a virus that we have an epidemic of once every winter," Cochran said. "Getting a current vaccine for the flu is the best insurance, we know, in sparing time for being sick as a dog, missing classes and social events."

He said the flu season runs from the later part of November until March. But, Cochran added that there is no way to predict when it comes to the flu.

He said sometimes the flu hits earlier which is why the Health Center began offering flu shots in the first week of October for $19.95.

Kathleen Ruiz, licensed vocational nurse at the Health Center, said so far 300 students have come in to get flu shots.

Barbara Schwenoha, from who may carry the virus to other people over 60 and those with chronic health problems should definitely get flu shots, Warnock also said. Those with chronic health problems because their immune systems are weaker.

However, Warnock said most students don’t really have to get flu shots.

“Students should have every capability to fight the virus on their own,” Warnock said. “Basically, if you’re a student who’s healthy enough to fight off the flu, you should definitely get flu shots.”

Warnock said the flu vaccine helps to boost the immune system and the best time to get the shot is during October and November.

Shirley Head, infection control practitioner at Sierra Vista Regional Medical Center, said a flu shot can only last a couple of months.

“The flu shot doesn’t last forever and you want it to last as long as possible,” Head said. “The flu shot can last through January, so we hope that the flu shot lasts that long.”

Warnock said it is up to the student to decide whether he or she wants to risk the chance of being sick for two weeks and missing school.

For those students who aren’t so confident in their immune systems, Sierra Vista Regional Medical Center is providing free flu shots on Oct. 25 and Nov. 1 at the hospital’s audioscram from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m.

The Health Center will provide flu shots until December or while supplies last.

The College of Engineering will be featured on a national television show as a respected school utilizing a progressive approach in the engineering industry.

The nationally syndicated show “Spotlight on Industry” focuses on schools and companies that excel in their fields.

Daniel Walsh, associate dean of the College of Engineering, will narrate the segment.

The show will air Saturday at 6 a.m. on KCPX (UPN) in Los Angeles and Sunday, Nov. 2 at 6 a.m. on San Francisco’s KHKR (UPN).

On San Luis Obispo’s Nisene Cable, KCOF is Channel 13.

Peter Lee, College of Engineering dean, said Cal Poly welcomed the invitation to participate in the program.

“College of Engineering’s uniquely strong ties to industry helps us prepare our graduates to be successful engineers,” Lee said.

“This show provided an opportunity to explain that relationship with the industry, express our appreciation to our industrial partners and to invite other companies to consider developing a similar relationship with us,” Lee said.

No students will be featured on the show.

Another segment of the program includes New York University’s Stern School of Business.

The show will air on various networks in 13 major markets including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Dallas and Miami between Oct. 25 and Nov. 2.

The College of Engineering gets its big break.

Daily Staff Report

The College of Engineering’s nationally syndicated show “Spotlight on Industry” will feature the College of Engineering, which is being recognized for its progressive approach in the engineering industry.

The nationally syndicated show “Spotlight on Industry” will feature the College of Engineering, which is being recognized for its progressive approach in the engineering industry.

The show will air on San Francisco’s KHKR (UPN) and on San Luis Obispo’s Nisene Cable, KCOF is Channel 13.

“College of Engineering’s uniquely strong ties to industry helps us prepare our graduates to be successful engineers,” Lee said.

“This show provided an opportunity to explain that relationship with the industry, express our appreciation to our industrial partners and to invite other companies to consider developing a similar relationship with us.”

No students will be featured on the show.

Another segment of the program includes New York University’s Stern School of Business.

The show will air on various networks in 13 major markets including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Dallas and Miami between Oct. 25 and Nov. 2.

“The ramp is awesome. I wish it was here permanently,” Nyquist said.

“Some scheduling conflicts about the U.U. hour performances for the plaza during activity hour Thursday, to watch both skaters and musicians perform. Crowds stayed all day in the U.U. entertainment center with music provided by KCPX.

Some scheduling conflicts about the U.U. hour performances for the plaza during activity hour Thursday, to watch both skaters and musicians perform. Crowds stayed all day in the U.U. entertainment center with music provided by KCPX.

“Since 1875 the Eichleay companies have been serving American industry. Eichleay is a multi-disciplined engineering/architectural organization providing leading-edge design and construction services to a wide range of industrial and high-tech clients. From project inception to completion, our expertise includes:

• Conceptual Planning
• Process Engineering
• Architectural Design
• Process Automation
• Seismic Engineering
• BioProcess Design
• Process Safety Management
• Regulatory Compliance

Eichleay offers the service and responsiveness of a local firm, together with the resources and capabilities of a nationwide engineering and construction organization.

Eichleay... Delivers Superior Results

Eichleay Engineers Inc. of California
1390 Willow Pass Road Suite 600 Concord CA 94520
(510) 608-7500 Fax (510) 608-7506

A legacy of Excellence stands behind every project.
O'Laughlin said they had decided to split the activity hour between the DJ and Dodge, but as it turned out, Dodge only got to play about four songs after the hour had already ended.

Another glitch came when the Lambda Chi Alpha brothers were not allowed to sell meat they had barbecued at the plaza because they didn't fill out the required forms beforehand.

The Program Board could not be reached for comment.

All Thrash-A-Then proceeds go to the Minimi Russell Memorial to play about four sons after the meeting. Dredge may give financial assistance to a philanthropic recipient after the meeting.

Watts said the fraternity chose its forms beforehand because Russell, another Lambda Chi Alpha member, lost his mother, Minimi, to cancer. Proceeds from the event's T-shirt sales and raffle tickets also go to the scholarship fund.

Russell, another Lambda Chi Alpha member, lost his mother, Minimi, to cancer. Proceeds from the event's T-shirt sales and raffle tickets also go to the scholarship fund.

Students, athletes, members of administration and other interested parties had opportunities to convey their feelings about the complex to the board during the discussion forum prior to the board's vote.

Russell, another Lambda Chi Alpha member, lost his mother, Minimi, to cancer. Proceeds from the event's T-shirt sales and raffle tickets also go to the scholarship fund.

Freshman baseball player Billy Richardson said: "Last week, our baseball team had to drive 30 minutes to Paso Robles because (an) intramural (team) was playing on our baseball field. We got kicked off our own baseball field. If you guys have any sense, build the complex."

However, baseball players weren't the only ones worried about not having enough fields to play on. Those teams and persons not dominantly represented in past ASI meetings were spoken for at the meeting.

Robber Kassir, intramural coordinator and physical education senior, spoke on behalf of what he called the de-emphasized groups which included intramural sports, club sports and informal recreation.

"I encourage that the complex (plan) be pushed forward," Kassir said. "I believe it's not about limiting school growth, it's about creating positive experiences."

Board members promised they would vote for the students they represent.

Your pleas have been heard," board member Ishmael Hall said. "We need the sports complex now and we need more students to get involved in projects like the sports complex."

He went on to say that the landscape architecture students, who have been analyzing the complex this quarter, were moving in the right direction. He also acknowledged that it was too bad students started making new designs for the complex so late. But, like many other members of the board, Hall pushed for a prompt board vote.

Further discussion progressed down one avenue: option C.

"I'm kind of a logical person," board member Damien Johnson said. "We can either get two fields for $3 million, or six fields for $4.9 million. I'm kind of a bargain shopper."

That bargain was apparently considered important by the majority of the board members.

Tom Spengler, chair of the ASI board, asked for discussion on options A and B, but no ideas followed. The silence prompted a motion to vote on the fee extension.

Option C, the go ahead with the entire $8-million sports complex with ASI providing $4.9 million, was given with a quick approval.

"We can either get two fields for $3 million, or six fields for $4.9 million. I'm kind of a bargain shopper."

Damien Johnson ASI Board Member
LETTERS

Exploitation is everywhere

Editor,

I was reading Sean Brennan's article about the exploitation of women perpetuated by the Mustang Daily. Most of the letters in the newspaper dealt with the capitalistic, anti-feminist messages perpetuated by the Mustang Daily. I feel that the Mustang Daily needs news, readers and advertisement in order to call itself a newspaper. Their choice to publish Spearmint Rhino's advertisement is an example of the type of news that is currently being deemed necessary.

Many have decried the shift in focus from traditional forms of entertainment and asocial individualism. A society's recreation reflects its basic values. What proportion of your recreational time is spent, say, biking the trails of Montana de Oro versus spending tedious hours on television? A society's recreational choices reflect its basic values. Many have decried the shift in focus from traditional forms of entertainment and asocial individualism.

The Mustang Daily should consider this change when choosing what's fit for publication. Of course, we don't have the right to say what's acceptable, but publishing Spearmint Rhino's advertisement is not acceptable. It's not appropriate to publish anything that in any way promotes the exploitation of women.

I believe in it, I have a feeling that Mustang Daily chooses to be the paradigm while we at the Daily do the freedom of the press defense. San Brunn's disappointment out money While we don't believe in it, I hope you understand what is morally right. Thanks to Mustang Daily to similarly censuring us.

Ken Cruz is an aeronautical engineering senior.

Ad manager responds to criticism

Editor,

This letter is in response to Sean Brennan's disappointment that Mustang Daily chooses to advertise for the Spearmint Rhino. Let me think logically for a moment. I'm not going to preach the freedom of the ad, because while we at the Daily do believe in it, I have a feeling that's not going to cut it for you. You brought up an interesting point, though. What exactly is our duty owed to you at the Daily? Is it our role or job to protect Cal Poly students from Spearmint Rhino? Or any other advertisers? By this point in your life, you should already have your own morals, values and viewpoints established. At least, I hope you do. What you decide to make of an ad is your choice. We are a business that can't function without money. While we don't believe in censorship, we make sure our ads are all presented in good taste.

Besides, who are we to decide what is morally right? Thanks to our advertisers, we are able to provide you with stories that can affect your life. That is what we stand by. I think you have it mistaken. It is our advertisers who support us and not we who support them.

Why should we deny a business the opportunity to advertise its product? You live in America where capitalism rules and businesses are allowed to open even if not everyone agrees. We can't hinder their promotions and advertising because it may offend someone. It's not our place to judge our advertisers or their business practices. Just because we run an ad doesn't mean we as an organization endorse that product. It never has and never will. We stand by our stories, our reporting, our journalistic ethics and values, and in a sense so do the businesses that support us. Just a thought... would you like Mustang Daily to similarly censor its stories so they don't offend anyone?

Alison Kaz is a Mustang Daily display ad manager.

Mustang Daily welcomes and encourages contributions from readers. Letters should be submitted complete with name, major, department, class standing and telephone number. We reserve the right to edit grammar, spelling errors and length without changing the meaning of what is written. Letters sent via e-mail will be given preference and can be sent to: jborasi@poly­ mail.calpoly.edu. Fax your contribution to 756-7684 or drop letters by Building 26, Suite 226.

Harley Miller is an aeronautical engineering senior.

How many local birds can you name? How many native plants can you identify? What proportion of your recreational time is spent, say, biking the trails of Montana de Oro versus spending tedious hours on television? A society's recreational choices reflect its basic values. Many have decried the shift in focus from traditional forms of entertainment and asocial individualism. A society's recreation reflects its basic values. What proportion of your recreational time is spent, say, biking the trails of Montana de Oro versus spending tedious hours on television? A society's recreational choices reflect its basic values. Many have decried the shift in focus from traditional forms of entertainment and asocial individualism.

I believe in it, I have a feeling that Mustang Daily chooses to be the paradigm while we at the Daily do the freedom of the press defense. San Brunn's disappointment out money While we don't believe in it, I hope you understand what is morally right. Thanks to Mustang Daily to similarly censuring us.

Ken Cruz is an aeronautical engineering senior.

Ad manager responds to criticism

Editor,

This letter is in response to Sean Brennan's disappointment that Mustang Daily chooses to advertise for the Spearmint Rhino. Let me think logically for a moment. I'm not going to preach the freedom of the ad, because while we at the Daily do believe in it, I have a feeling that's not going to cut it for you. You brought up an interesting point, though. What exactly is our duty owed to you at the Daily? Is it our role or job to protect Cal Poly students from Spearmint Rhino? Or any other advertisers? By this point in your life, you should already have your own morals, values and viewpoints established. At least, I hope you do. What you decide to make of an ad is your choice. We are a business that can't function without money. While we don't believe in censorship, we make sure our ads are all presented in good taste.

Besides, who are we to decide what is morally right? Thanks to our advertisers, we are able to provide you with stories that can affect your life. That is what we stand by. I think you have it mistaken. It is our advertisers who support us and not we who support them.

Why should we deny a business the opportunity to advertise its product? You live in America where capitalism rules and businesses are allowed to open even if not everyone agrees. We can't hinder their promotions and advertising because it may offend someone. It's not our place to judge our advertisers or their business practices. Just because we run an ad doesn't mean we as an organization endorse that product. It never has and never will. We stand by our stories, our reporting, our journalistic ethics and values, and in a sense so do the businesses that support us. Just a thought... would you like Mustang Daily to similarly censor its stories so they don't offend anyone?

Alison Kaz is a Mustang Daily display ad manager.

Mustang Daily welcomes and encourages contributions from readers. Letters should be submitted complete with name, major, department, class standing and telephone number. We reserve the right to edit grammar, spelling errors and length without changing the meaning of what is written. Letters sent via e-mail will be given preference and can be sent to: jborasi@poly­ mail.calpoly.edu. Fax your contribution to 756-7684 or drop letters by Building 26, Suite 226.

Harley Miller is an aeronautical engineering senior.

How many local birds can you name? How many native plants can you identify? What proportion of your recreational time is spent, say, biking the trails of Montana de Oro versus spending tedious hours on television? A society's recreational choices reflect its basic values. Many have decried the shift in focus from traditional forms of entertainment and asocial individualism. A society's recreation reflects its basic values. What proportion of your recreational time is spent, say, biking the trails of Montana de Oro versus spending tedious hours on television? A society's recreational choices reflect its basic values. Many have decried the shift in focus from traditional forms of entertainment and asocial individualism.

I believe in it, I have a feeling that Mustang Daily chooses to be the paradigm while we at the Daily do the freedom of the press defense. San Brunn's disappointment out money While we don't believe in it, I hope you understand what is morally right. Thanks to Mustang Daily to similarly censuring us.

Ken Cruz is an aeronautical engineering senior.

Ad manager responds to criticism

Editor,

This letter is in response to Sean Brennan's disappointment that Mustang Daily chooses to advertise for the Spearmint Rhino. Let me think logically for a moment. I'm not going to preach the freedom of the ad, because while we at the Daily do believe in it, I have a feeling that's not going to cut it for you. You brought up an interesting point, though. What exactly is our duty owed to you at the Daily? Is it our role or job to protect Cal Poly students from Spearmint Rhino? Or any other advertisers? By this point in your life, you should already have your own morals, values and viewpoints established. At least, I hope you do. What you decide to make of an ad is your choice. We are a business that can't function without money. While we don't believe in censorship, we make sure our ads are all presented in good taste.

Besides, who are we to decide what is morally right? Thanks to our advertisers, we are able to provide you with stories that can affect your life. That is what we stand by. I think you have it mistaken. It is our advertisers who support us and not we who support them.

Why should we deny a business the opportunity to advertise its product? You live in America where capitalism rules and businesses are allowed to open even if not everyone agrees. We can't hinder their promotions and advertising because it may offend someone. It's not our place to judge our advertisers or their business practices. Just because we run an ad doesn't mean we as an organization endorse that product. It never has and never will. We stand by our stories, our reporting, our journalistic ethics and values, and in a sense so do the businesses that support us. Just a thought... would you like Mustang Daily to similarly censor its stories so they don't offend anyone?

Alison Kaz is a Mustang Daily display ad manager.

Mustang Daily welcomes and encourages contributions from readers. Letters should be submitted complete with name, major, department, class standing and telephone number. We reserve the right to edit grammar, spelling errors and length without changing the meaning of what is written. Letters sent via e-mail will be given preference and can be sent to: jborasi@poly­ mail.calpoly.edu. Fax your contribution to 756-7684 or drop letters by Building 26, Suite 226.
New initiative would end bilingual education

By Ann Bausch
Associated Press

SACRAMENTO — Even before enough signatures have been gathered to place it on the ballot, a proposed initiative to virtually end bilingual education in California is becoming a campaign issue in the 1998 elections.

On Thursday, San Diego Mayor Susan Golding, a GOP candidate for U.S. Senate, flew to Sacramento to announce her support for the initiative backed by Silicon Valley multimillionaire Ron Unz.

The appearance prompted cries of "late to the party" from Golding's Republican opponents, car alarm manufacturer Darrell Issa and State Treasurer Matt Fong. Both candidates in the race to unseat multimillionaire Ron Unz.

Susan (folding said she will serve as co-chair of the campaign led by Unz, a political conservative who challenged Gov. Pete Wilson in the 1994 Republican primary.

Supporters of the "English for the Children" initiative are collecting signatures in hopes of qualifying for the state ballot next June.

Wilson is honorary chairman of the campaign for the measure.

"We're eagerly seeking Democratic endorsements," said Unz.

Unz has said he is trying to distance the bilingual education battle from the divisive campaigns over Proposition 187 and Proposition 209, which eliminated affirmative action programs for state hiring and school admissions.

Golding was "one of the first people to express an interest" in it, Boxer said in a prepared statement. "However, I agree with Attorney General Dan Lungren that this initiative doesn't fix the problem and lets schools off the hook. We need tough standards to ensure that our schools are held accountable for teaching our children English."

Golding said she will serve as co-chair of the campaign led by Unz, a political conservative who challenged Gov. Pete Wilson in the 1994 Republican primary.

Supporters of the "English for the Children" initiative are collecting signatures in hopes of qualifying for the state ballot next June.

Wilson is honorary chairman of the campaign for the measure.

"We're eagerly seeking Democratic endorsements," said Unz.

Unz has said he is trying to distance the bilingual education battle from the divisive campaigns over Proposition 187 and Proposition 209, which eliminated affirmative action programs for state hiring and school admissions.

The proposal passed with 20 board members approving, one voting against it and three abstentions.

"The need to raise the (U.U.) fee was recognized last year by the U.U. Budget Development Committee," said Bill Ashby, ASI business manager.

Ashby said the U.U. and Rec Center have been operating for the last three years using reserves, but now the reserves have reached the lowest allowable level.

"U.U. Budget Development Committee directed the staff of ASI to determine what level of fee increase would be needed to maintain the U.U. operations. Last spring and this summer ASI did financial analysis. When the board got back this fall, they were educated about this issue and it was put to vote," Ashby said.

ASI also requested a $3 per quarter increase every other year beginning summer 2001, according to the ASI web page. The need for this increase is based on the 10-year budget projection for U.U. funded programs and services.

"We're eagerly seeking Democratic endorsements," said Unz.

Unz has said he is trying to distance the bilingual education battle from the divisive campaigns over Proposition 187 and Proposition 209, which eliminated affirmative action programs for state hiring and school admissions.

More information about this increase can be found at http://www.asi.calpoly.edu/. ASI's website.

Everyone has heard of Halloween
but have you heard about Samhain
or
Day of the Dead?
Join us in a fall harvest celebration with food, fun and talk about a religious community that embraces Christians, Atheists, Pagans and others.

Saturday, October 25th
6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of San Luis Obispo
232 Foothill Boulevard
San Luis Obispo, CA
(805) 544-1669
Attention December Graduates! El Corral Bookstore presents

GRADUATION

3-BIG DAYS
A special event for all December Graduates

Order your graduation:
- Save up to $120 on Class Rings,
- Personalized Graduation Announcements (25 for $39.99),
- Thank You Notes, Custom Seal Note Cards,
- Diploma Plaques.

Don’t miss this event! Information available on graduation & senior portraits. Prize drawing for graduation items.

October 22–24
(Wednesday - Friday)
9AM-4PM
Grad Center opens Nov 12th for cap, gown, tassel, and grad tickets.

Meet and Hear
WILLIAM PERRY PENDLEY
author-attorney and founder/chief counsel of Mountain States Legal Foundation speak on his book:

WAR ON THE WEST
GOVERNMENT TYRANNY ON AMERICA’S GREAT FRONTIER

He will also discuss his landmark affirmative action case

11:00 AM, TUESDAY October 28, 1997
AG. BLDG 10 ROOM 231
presented by:
CAL POLY COLLEGE REPUBLICANS

Mustang soccer teams try to keep winning streaks alive this weekend

Daily Staff Report

The Cal Poly women’s soccer team will try to keep its four-game winning streak alive, while the men’s team tries to keep a two-game streak going.

The women’s team is on the road to play its final league match of the season against Utah State tonight. The men’s team will have to wait until Sunday to play Stanford in Palo Alto.

Utah State is 3-12 overall, and 0-4 in the Big West. The Mustangs are 12-4 overall and 4-1 in their league. The Mustangs secured a spot in the Big West Tournament with a 2-1 victory over North Texas last weekend.

Forward Gina Oceguerra leads the Mustangs in scoring with nine goals. Earlier this week, See SOCCER page 7.

Daily Staff photo by David Wood

The Mustangs’ Shona Stickel dribbles the ball past a Pepperdine defender.

“I want to strongly recommend WAR ON THE WEST ... for its excellent review of why Westerners are totally fed up with Washington DC ... and the way environmental laws have been used to seize more land and destroy a way of life.”

Bookviews

“WAR ON THE WEST: an eye opener to anyone aware of or uninformed on these contentious public land issues. It is also a must for the seasoned activist...”

Blue Ribbon Magazine

“WAR ON THE WEST is an eye opener to anyone aware of or uninformed on these contentious public land issues. It is also a must for the seasoned activist...”

Kay Bailey Hutchinson, United States Senator Introduction to WAR ON THE WEST

“WAR ON THE WEST: Government Tyranny on America’s Great Frontier,” reveals startling, even shocking details behind the brewing Western (as in U.S.) revolt against the federal government.”

The Washington Times
SOCCER

Otcuihui'ra was named the Sport« Federation.

Stanford. The f 'ardinal« are the nation on the SiK.cer America

3-2 victory over I ' i '. Santa the .MI^F, Next year, after the team« are in different division« of

W

have four games remaining.

weekend. The men's team will with seven goals.

five goals.

league form» one division, the league «tandings, since the two hand« full when they face

I)ivi«ion of the .Mountain I'arific

The men'H  team will have it«

The Cal Poly women's team

Vince Harding scored his first gool in the Mostongs' 3-2 win over UCS6.
Poly prepares to pounce on Panthers

By Jeffrey Varner

The Mustang football team will face its biggest test of the season so far this Saturday when it hosts the 16th-ranked Northern Iowa Panthers. The Mustangs (6-0), who moved up to No. 26 in the nation after their 52-12 victory over Simon Fraser, are facing a Panther team (4-3) coming into the game with an upset victory over previous No. 1 Youngstown State 35-32 at home last weekend.

"Our players are pumped but they know we are facing a very talented and well-coached team in the Mustangs this Saturday," Northern Iowa head coach Mike Dunbar said.

MUSTANGS 12, 2-7 OVERALL

The first correct answer I receive will be printed along with your name in the paper the next day.

SPORTS TRIVIA

Wednesday's Answer:

Congrats Ben Garcia!

Today's Question:
What current NFL quarterback has the nickname "Slash"?

Submit your answer to
ktvmailcat@pacific.edu

Wednesday's Answer:

Congrats Ben Garcia!

Today's Question:
What current NFL quarterback has the nickname "Slash"?

Submit your answer to
ktvmailcat@pacific.edu

The first correct answer I receive will be printed along with your name in the paper the next day.

SCHEDULE

TODAY

• Women's Soccer vs. Utah State at Logan, Utah, 1 p.m.
• Volleyball vs. Boise State at Boise, Idaho, 6 p.m.

TOMORROW

• Football vs. Northern Iowa at Mustang Stadium, 1 p.m.
• Volleyball vs. University of Idaho at Moscow, Idaho, 6:30 p.m.

SUNDAY

• Men's Soccer vs. Stanford at Palo Alto, 2 p.m.
• Volleyball hits the road to take on Big West rivals Idaho, Boise State