Racism hits SLO billboard

By Sierra Z. Fish
SUMMER MUSTANG STAFF WRITER

A Tecate Beer billboard on Santa Barbara Street was spray painted with the words "Learn English" in yellow. While the police were unaware of this particular incident, the vandalism was covered by Tuesday night. If the perpetrator is caught, they could get a one year jail sentence and/or a fine.

Petition finds its way to Poly

Written by CSU faculty, the petition brings attention to the injustices in the Middle East

By Bonnie Guevara
SUMMER MUSTANG STAFF WRITER

After serving the Cal Poly campus for more than 20 years, 2nd Edition has closed its doors as of June 30. In its place PostNet, a postal and business center, will open in the University Union in mid-August to offer Cal Poly students and faculty copy services.

"There are two reasons for the change," said Michelle Beem, Associated Students Inc. public relations assistant. "One, we want to bring more services to the hub of campus, and two, ASI has a partnership with Cal Poly's Housing and Residential Life to provide a larger mail service to the students than what is currently available.

PostNet's worldwide franchise program has licensed more than 400 PostNet centers in the U.S. PostNet offers postal, business, communication and personal services. These services include copying, packaging, and shipping, mailing and laminating. There will also be new color copiers, stamps and mailboxes that students can rent out.

As an added service, the architecture department and other interested students will be able to print out official blueprints.

"We are looking forward to providing students and faculty with new established art technology," said PostNet owner Randy Miller.

To maintain excellent relations with the students of Cal Poly, Miller guarantees that all former 2nd Edition employees will have the opportunity to work for PostNet.

Miller currently owns three PostNet franchises in the area. Since the Cal Poly PostNet is different from his other stores, Miller looks forward to the new twist on the business that the Cal Poly location offers. It will be able to be accessed by all students, not just the students with self-transportation, he said.

"PostNet will be a great edition to the UU," said economics junior Maria Mehegan. "I know I'm not the only person who lives within walking distance to campus. It is so much more convenient to walk to the UU opposed to driving my car to" talk. As told to the Mustang Daily, the police officers were unaware of this particular incident. The vandalism was covered by Tuesday night. If the perpetrator is caught, they could get a one year jail sentence and/or a fine.

Petition finds its way to Poly

Written by CSU faculty, the petition brings attention to the injustices in the Middle East

By Bonnie Guevara
SUMMER MUSTANG STAFF WRITER

After serving the Cal Poly campus for more than 20 years, 2nd Edition has closed its doors as of June 30. In its place PostNet, a postal and business center, will open in the University Union in mid-August to offer Cal Poly students and faculty copy services.

"There are two reasons for the change," said Michelle Beem, Associated Students Inc. public relations assistant. "One, we want to bring more services to the hub of campus, and two, ASI has a partnership with Cal Poly's Housing and Residential Life to provide a larger mail service to the students than what is currently available.

PostNet's worldwide franchise program has licensed more than 400 PostNet centers in the U.S. PostNet offers postal, business, communication and personal services. These services include copying, packaging, and shipping, mailing and laminating. There will also be new color copiers, stamps and mailboxes that students can rent out.

As an added service, the architecture department and other interested students will be able to print out official blueprints.

"We are looking forward to providing students and faculty with new established art technology," said PostNet owner Randy Miller.

To maintain excellent relations with the students of Cal Poly, Miller guarantees that all former 2nd Edition employees will have the opportunity to work for PostNet.

Miller currently owns three PostNet franchises in the area. Since the Cal Poly PostNet is different from his other stores, Miller looks forward to the new twist on the business that the Cal Poly location offers. It will be able to be accessed by all students, not just the students with self-transportation, he said.

"PostNet will be a great edition to the UU," said economics junior Maria Mehegan. "I know I'm not the only person who lives within walking distance to campus. It is so much more convenient to walk to the UU opposed to driving my car to"

see POSTNET, page 2

When teacher's pet goes beyond office hours

By Caroline Lindahl
SUMMER MUSTANG STAFF WRITER

From plagiarism to vandalism and underage alcohol abuse to drug use, most universities enforce long established policies concerning inappropriate behavior. But defining such inappropriate behavior recently led to the instatement of a controversial law at Ohio's Wesleyan University.

Last March, the university's faculty approved the new policy banning relationships between students and professors. Wesleyan's has joined dozens of universities across the nation creating guidelines for improper relations. Cal Poly has a similar rule, the Academic Policy, which governs faculty and student relationships and pushes for avoidance of such associations.

According to an article on CNN.com, professors at Wesleyan currently faced sexual harassment complaints, including dismissal if they date students they supervise, advise or evaluate.

Duke University and the College of William and Mary have also embraced comparable courses of action for instructors. Cal Poly's policy has never been put to the test.

The policy is overseen by the Student Grievance Board of the Academic Senate. "I've been a member (of the board) since it's inception, and there has never been a case brought before it," said George M. Lewis, chairman of the Student Grievance Board. "When the Amorous Relationships Policy was proposed in the Academic Senate, I opposed it because it seemed to me that any such abuse would be covered under sexual harassment.

However, there is a difference
CRIME ROUND-UP

July 5 - At 11 pm a 31-year-old man was arrested for indecent exposure and public intoxication after knocking on a woman's door and pulling down his pants. The woman was able to slam the door and call 911. After a brief pursuit by the SLOPD the flasher was booked into SLO County Jail with a bail set at $2,500.

July 6 - At 10:30 pm a 21-year-old man was arrested for battery, driving under the influence and evading arrest following a police pursuit reaching 70 mph on Ramona Drive in San Luis Obispo. The pursuit began after a fistfight in the Albertson's parking lot, allegedly started by the man, involving about 10 people. He was booked into SLO County Jail with a bail set at $20,000. All three misdemeanors could carry a sentence of one year in jail and up to $1,000 fine.

POLY calendar

• Natural San Luis Hikes - July 13 - Explore Reservoir Canyon 9 a.m.-12 p.m. For more information call 544-1777.
• Rec Sports - July 15 - Youth and High School Water Polo Clinics Mon.-Thurs., ages 10-13, 5:30-6:30 pm Mon.-Wed., boys (14-17), 6:30-8:30 pm Tues.-Thurs., girls (14-17), 6:30-8:30 pm For more information see Rec Review.
• Poly Escapes - Tuesdays-Poly Escapes Mystery Trips Includes hiking, beach walks, rock climbing Meet 5:30 pm at the admission building flagpole. For more information contact Rod Neubert at 720-1132.

Summer Mustang

News

Poly crime decreases, police work together

By Laura Dietz

Despite a steady population increase in San Luis Obispo, the crime rate at Cal Poly has declined.

The number of burglaries on campus decreased by half from 2000 to 2001, and vehicle thefts dropped from 12 to five. The Cal Poly University Police and the San Luis Obispo Police Department attribute a large part of this success to community-oriented policing.

This particular philosophy of policing is behind every decision made, and all of it is done with the intent of making the community a safer place.

“Community-oriented policing doesn’t affect what our job is as police (officers),” said Fred Mills, University Police communications and records supervisor. “What it changes is how we do our job.”

For the University Police, this has entailed several small changes over time, such as a design change to the police cars to increase visibility and writing “police” on escort vans. The total number of major crimes, according to the FBI Crime Index for Cal Poly, has decreased from 267 in 2000 to 215 in 2001, as reported in The Tribune.

“Every place you go (online), from the student schedule to the information in the application packet and the housing website, there is a link to our website and crime prevention,” Mills said.

The University Police have also been working more with students to address safety issues. One of their joint projects resulted in the blue light phones. A technical writing class was assigned to come up with a plan for locating some of the emergency phones, in response to student survey concerns.

The San Luis Obispo Police Department has been working to accomplish similar visibility in the community, through their four-point prevention strategy.

“The issue is that we are a safe community but we aren’t an immune community,” said Rob Byrn, neighborhood services manager in the operations division of the San Luis Obispo Police Department. “There is always a threat regardless of where you are.”

Part of the problem is that many Cal Poly students don’t take the necessary safety precautions, Mills said. This is especially true with theft, the biggest category of crime on campus.

For example, some students leave their laptop computers in the campus library while they leave for lunch, and are surprised to find them missing when they return. He said that both University Police and the San Luis Obispo Police Department consider it a priority to inform residents of the measures necessary to protect themselves and their property.

“We do more outreach, delivering the message to people,” Mills said. “If you put your backpack in a locker and take the key, it doesn’t get stolen. It’s not a statistic, and we never hear about it.”

This strategy is more complicated for the San Luis Obispo Police Department, which has a larger audi-

see CRIME, page 7

CRIME, page 7

POLY calendar

• Natural San Luis Hikes - July 13 - Explore Reservoir Canyon 9 a.m.-12 p.m. For more information call 544-1777.
• Rec Sports - July 15 - Youth and High School Water Polo Clinics Mon.-Thurs., ages 10-13, 5:30-6:30 pm Mon.-Wed., boys (14-17), 6:30-8:30 pm Tues.-Thurs., girls (14-17), 6:30-8:30 pm For more information see Rec Review.
• Poly Escapes - Tuesdays-Poly Escapes Mystery Trips Includes hiking, beach walks, rock climbing Meet 5:30 pm at the admission building flagpole. For more information contact Rod Neubert at 720-1132.

Summer Mustang

News

Poly crime decreases, police work together

By Laura Dietz

Despite a steady population increase in San Luis Obispo, the crime rate at Cal Poly has declined.

The number of burglaries on campus decreased by half from 2000 to 2001, and vehicle thefts dropped from 12 to five. The Cal Poly University Police and the San Luis Obispo Police Department attribute a large part of this success to community-oriented policing.

This particular philosophy of policing is behind every decision made, and all of it is done with the intent of making the community a safer place.

“Community-oriented policing doesn’t affect what our job is as police (officers),” said Fred Mills, University Police communications and records supervisor. “What it changes is how we do our job.”

For the University Police, this has entailed several small changes over time, such as a design change to the police cars to increase visibility and writing “police” on escort vans. The total number of major crimes, according to the FBI Crime Index for Cal Poly, has decreased from 267 in 2000 to 215 in 2001, as reported in The Tribune.

“Every place you go (online), from the student schedule to the information in the application packet and the housing website, there is a link to our website and crime prevention,” Mills said.

The University Police have also been working more with students to address safety issues. One of their joint projects resulted in the blue light phones. A technical writing class was assigned to come up with a plan for locating some of the emergency phones, in response to student survey concerns.

The San Luis Obispo Police Department has been working to accomplish similar visibility in the community, through their four-point prevention strategy.

“The issue is that we are a safe community but we aren’t an immune community,” said Rob Byrn, neighborhood services manager in the operations division of the San Luis Obispo Police Department. “There is always a threat regardless of where you are.”

Part of the problem is that many Cal Poly students don’t take the necessary safety precautions, Mills said. This is especially true with theft, the biggest category of crime on campus.

For example, some students leave their laptop computers in the campus library while they leave for lunch, and are surprised to find them missing when they return. He said that both University Police and the San Luis Obispo Police Department consider it a priority to inform residents of the measures necessary to protect themselves and their property.

“We do more outreach, delivering the message to people,” Mills said. “If you put your backpack in a locker and take the key, it doesn’t get stolen. It’s not a statistic, and we never hear about it.”

This strategy is more complicated for the San Luis Obispo Police Department, which has a larger audi-

see CRIME, page 7

CRIME, page 7

POLY calendar

• Natural San Luis Hikes - July 13 - Explore Reservoir Canyon 9 a.m.-12 p.m. For more information call 544-1777.
• Rec Sports - July 15 - Youth and High School Water Polo Clinics Mon.-Thurs., ages 10-13, 5:30-6:30 pm Mon.-Wed., boys (14-17), 6:30-8:30 pm Tues.-Thurs., girls (14-17), 6:30-8:30 pm For more information see Rec Review.
• Poly Escapes - Tuesdays-Poly Escapes Mystery Trips Includes hiking, beach walks, rock climbing Meet 5:30 pm at the admission building flagpole. For more information contact Rod Neubert at 720-1132.
HIV Infection Among U.S. Infants Significantly Reduced

Barcelona - Physicians have reduced the number of U.S. infants born with HIV infections by 80 percent since 1991, but experts cautioned Tuesday that the number might start growing again. About 1,760 HIV-positive infants were born in the United States in 1991, but only an estimated 280 to 370 in 2002, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention told the 14th International AIDS Conference.

The reduction is attributed to widespread treatment of pregnant women with AIDS drugs. In general, only about 2 percent of infants born to HIV-positive women contract the virus if the mother is diagnosed before birth and receives a cocktail of anti-AIDS drugs. If the diagnosis is made only after birth and the mother receives no therapy, the transmission rate jumps to 25 percent.

The number of infected babies is likely to grow in the future because of the rise in new infections among women.

BUSH UNVEILS ANTI-CORRUPTION PLAN, DRAWS CRITICISM

New York — President Bush, launching a new effort to combat corporate corruption, demanded on Tuesday longer prison sentences for convicted business executives who commit fraud and announced the creation of a federal task force to pursue and prosecute such criminals.

Bush vowed to end the days of cooking the books, shading the truth and breaking our laws during the 27-minute speech, which was designed, in part, to restore investor confidence.

Bush was among a generation of post-war actors, including Marlon Brando and Paul Newman, who eschewed traditional acting styles for more intimate interpretations. "The lions are leaving the circus," said director Norman Jewison, who worked with Steiger on three films. "Boy, Rod was a lion if there ever was one."

Steiger also appeared in "Patton," "On the Waterfront," and "The Hurricane." He is survived by his fifth wife, Joan Benedict Steiger, a daughter; Anna; and a son, Michael.

NEW YORK PORT AUTHORITY FACES LAWSUITS POST-SEPT. 11

NEW YORK — The Port Authority is facing potentially hundreds of lawsuits stemming from the collapse of the twin towers in the Sept. 11 attacks.

Lawsuits by more than 500 victims and family members were filed Tuesday in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York.

The Port Authority said it has received more than 2,500 notices of claim ahead of the 10-month deadline, which expires in early March.

The majority of the claims allege negligence surrounding the collapse of the authority's World Trade Center. Some victims asked public-address announcements that told people to return to their desks in the south tower after the north tower had been hit by the first of the hijacked jets.

Other claims allege security lapses at Newark International Airport, which is operated by the Port Authority, and the decision to allow the takeoff of Flight 93, which crashed in Pennsylvania as passengers struggled with hijackers.

The Port Authority said it has received 450 claims.

Afghan Leader Slain, Killers' Identities Unknown

KABUL, Afghanistan - The Afghan flag flew at half-staff Tuesday during a national day of mourning for slain Vice-President Haji Abdul Qadir, as many Afghans expressed doubts that his killers will be caught.

Qadir was slain Saturday by a pair of gunmen as he drove away from his office in the Afghan capital. They were not apprehended.

Possible suspects include ethnic rivals who lost money as a result of Qadir's policies; outside provocateurs, former Taliban members and warlords; and members of the Northern Alliance, who helped oust the Taliban from Kabul last year.

The Northern Alliance had been critical of Qadir in the past. Although Qadir was a member of the Northern Alliance, he sought to limit their influence in eastern Afghanistan.

Afghan Leader Slain, Killers' Identities Unknown

New York — The Port Authority is facing potentially hundreds of lawsuits stemming from the collapse of the twin towers in the Sept. 11 attacks.

Lawsuits by more than 500 victims and family members were filed Tuesday in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York.

The Port Authority said it has received more than 2,500 notices of claim ahead of the 10-month deadline, which expires in early March.

The majority of the claims allege negligence surrounding the collapse of the authority's World Trade Center. Some victims asked public-address announcements that told people to return to their desks in the south tower after the north tower had been hit by the first of the hijacked jets.

Other claims allege security lapses at Newark International Airport, which is operated by the Port Authority, and the decision to allow the takeoff of Flight 93, which crashed in Pennsylvania as passengers struggled with hijackers.

The Port Authority said it has received 450 claims.

Afghan Leader Slain, Killers' Identities Unknown

KABUL, Afghanistan - The Afghan flag flew at half-staff Tuesday during a national day of mourning for slain Vice-President Haji Abdul Qadir, as many Afghans expressed doubts that his killers will be caught.

Qadir was slain Saturday by a pair of gunmen as he drove away from his office in the Afghan capital. They were not apprehended.

Possible suspects include ethnic rivals who lost money as a result of Qadir's policies; outside provocateurs, former Taliban members and warlords; and members of the Northern Alliance, who helped oust the Taliban from Kabul last year.

The Northern Alliance had been critical of Qadir in the past. Although Qadir was a member of the Northern Alliance, he sought to limit their influence in eastern Afghanistan.

Afghan Leader Slain, Killers' Identities Unknown

JERUSALEM - Armed Israeli police stormed the University of Al-Quds on Monday, August 6, and three Palestinian students were wounded in clashes that erupted.

Isreali policeampaign

JERUSALEM - Armed Israeli police stormed the University of Al-Quds on Monday, August 6, and three Palestinian students were wounded in clashes that erupted.

Other claims allege security lapses at Newark International Airport, which is operated by the Port Authority, and the decision to allow the takeoff of Flight 93, which crashed in Pennsylvania as passengers struggled with hijackers.

The Port Authority said it has received 450 claims.

Afghan Leader Slain, Killers' Identities Unknown

KABUL, Afghanistan - The Afghan flag flew at half-staff Tuesday during a national day of mourning for slain Vice-President Haji Abdul Qadir, as many Afghans expressed doubts that his killers will be caught.

Qadir was slain Saturday by a pair of gunmen as he drove away from his office in the Afghan capital. They were not apprehended.

Possible suspects include ethnic rivals who lost money as a result of Qadir's policies; outside provocateurs, former Taliban members and warlords; and members of the Northern Alliance, who helped oust the Taliban from Kabul last year.

The Northern Alliance had been critical of Qadir in the past. Although Qadir was a member of the Northern Alliance, he sought to limit their influence in eastern Afghanistan.

Afghan Leader Slain, Killers' Identities Unknown

JERUSALEM - Armed Israeli police stormed the University of Al-Quds on Monday, August 6, and three Palestinian students were wounded in clashes that erupted.

Isreali police campaign

JERUSALEM - Armed Israeli police stormed the University of Al-Quds on Monday, August 6, and three Palestinian students were wounded in clashes that erupted.

Other claims allege security lapses at Newark International Airport, which is operated by the Port Authority, and the decision to allow the takeoff of Flight 93, which crashed in Pennsylvania as passengers struggled with hijackers.

The Port Authority said it has received 450 claims.

Afghan Leader Slain, Killers' Identities Unknown

KABUL, Afghanistan - The Afghan flag flew at half-staff Tuesday during a national day of mourning for slain Vice-President Haji Abdul Qadir, as many Afghans expressed doubts that his killers will be caught.

Qadir was slain Saturday by a pair of gunmen as he drove away from his office in the Afghan capital. They were not apprehended.

Possible suspects include ethnic rivals who lost money as a result of Qadir's policies; outside provocateurs, former Taliban members and warlords; and members of the Northern Alliance, who helped oust the Taliban from Kabul last year.

The Northern Alliance had been critical of Qadir in the past. Although Qadir was a member of the Northern Alliance, he sought to limit their influence in eastern Afghanistan.

Afghan Leader Slain, Killers' Identities Unknown

JERUSALEM - Armed Israeli police stormed the University of Al-Quds on Monday, August 6, and three Palestinian students were wounded in clashes that erupted.

Israeli police campaign

JERUSALEM - Armed Israeli police stormed the University of Al-Quds on Monday, August 6, and three Palestinian students were wounded in clashes that erupted.

Other claims allege security lapses at Newark International Airport, which is operated by the Port Authority, and the decision to allow the takeoff of Flight 93, which crashed in Pennsylvania as passengers struggled with hijackers.

The Port Authority said it has received 450 claims.

Afghan Leader Slain, Killers' Identities Unknown

KABUL, Afghanistan - The Afghan flag flew at half-staff Tuesday during a national day of mourning for slain Vice-President Haji Abdul Qadir, as many Afghans expressed doubts that his killers will be caught.

Qadir was slain Saturday by a pair of gunmen as he drove away from his office in the Afghan capital. They were not apprehended.

Possible suspects include ethnic rivals who lost money as a result of Qadir's policies; outside provocateurs, former Taliban members and warlords; and members of the Northern Alliance, who helped oust the Taliban from Kabul last year.

The Northern Alliance had been critical of Qadir in the past. Although Qadir was a member of the Northern Alliance, he sought to limit their influence in eastern Afghanistan.

Afghan Leader Slain, Killers' Identities Unknown

JERUSALEM - Armed Israeli police stormed the University of Al-Quds on Monday, August 6, and three Palestinian students were wounded in clashes that erupted.

Yesterday's events in a series of Israeli showdowns of Palestinian institutions and organizations operating in the mainly Palestinian-inhabited eastern part of Jerusalem, which was captured from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war and subsequently annexed into Israel.

Tuesday's action was criticized by Palestinian organizations, peace groups and some Israeli officials who view Al-Quds as a moderating influence in a Palestinian society radicalized by the 23-month-long uprising against Israeli occupation in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Briefs are compiled from Washington Post and Los Angeles Times wire services by Summer Mustang writer Andrew Parker.
The image contains a document with various articles and sections. Here is a structured representation of the content:

Arts & Style

Summer Mustang

4 July 4 - July 11, 2002

Film

"Do It Yourself" Danes Create Dogme Style of Film

By Andrew Parker

The image shows a page of a magazine article titled "Do It Yourself" about Danish filmmakers creating a Dogme style of film. The article discusses how these filmmakers reject conventional subject matter and instead focus on real people and events to tell stories from their own point of view. The text mentions films like "Festen" as an example of Dogme films and highlights the importance of the Dogme 95 movement in returning filmmaking to its origins.

Leaping Lipizzans Mix Military Moves

By Heather Zwarenak

The article about a Lipizzan horse show at Cal Poly describes the unique blending of equestrian and military moves. The show features Lipizzan horses performing in a circle, rising on their hind legs, and executing various maneuvers. The horses are known for their grace and beauty, and the show is a combination of military precision and traditional equestrian artistry.

500 Words or Less Needed for Night Writers

By Laura Dietz

The article titled "Writers for Fun and Profit" discusses the Night Writer contest for short stories. It mentions that the contest has grown from 10 to 115 members, including a critique group. The article highlights the importance of the contest in encouraging people to write and published a critique of a story by Night Writer Denise Westley.

Leaping above the Ground

By Barbara Wolcott

The Night Writer contest received 125 entries, which consisted of a broad spectrum of story genres, including mystery, suspense, and heart-warming stories. The article mentions that the contest has spread across the country and beyond. In the past, there have been entrants from places such as Amsterdam, New York, and Minnesota. It also notes that 25 percent of entrants are from the Central Coast region, which stretches from Melbourne to Lagos. Many are also from the northern Los Angeles area.

Summer Mustang

By Andrew Parker

The image shows a page of a magazine article titled "Summer Mustang". The article discusses various topics related to the arts, style, and summer events. It includes a section on film with an article about the Dogme style of filmmaking. The text refers to the Dogme 95 movement and its influence on film critics and filmmakers. It also mentions films like "Festen" and talks about the importance of the filmmaking process.

"Italian For Beginners" exempifies the Dogme style of film

By Andrew Parker

The article "Italian For Beginners" exemplifies the Dogme style of film. It describes how the film is concerned with pleasing or entertaining viewers, choosing artistic expression over box-office returns. The text mentions that when a film is concerned with pleasing or entertaining viewers, choosing artistic expression over box-office returns.

Leaping above the ground, the gray horses kick out their hard legs at the peak of their jump, appearing to be flying across the night sky.

By Heather Zwarenak

The article about the Lipizzan horse show at Cal Poly describes the unique blending of equestrian and military moves. The show features Lipizzan horses performing in a circle, rising on their hind legs, and executing various maneuvers. The horses are known for their grace and beauty, and the show is a combination of military precision and traditional equestrian artistry.

Leaping above the Ground

By Barbara Wolcott

The Night Writer contest received 125 entries, which consisted of a broad spectrum of story genres, including mystery, suspense, and heart-warming stories. The article mentions that the contest has spread across the country and beyond. In the past, there have been entrants from places such as Amsterdam, New York, and Minnesota. It also notes that 25 percent of entrants are from the Central Coast region, which stretches from Melbourne to Lagos. Many are also from the northern Los Angeles area.

Leaping above the Ground

By Barbara Wolcott

The Night Writer contest received 125 entries, which consisted of a broad spectrum of story genres, including mystery, suspense, and heart-warming stories. The article mentions that the contest has spread across the country and beyond. In the past, there have been entrants from places such as Amsterdam, New York, and Minnesota. It also notes that 25 percent of entrants are from the Central Coast region, which stretches from Melbourne to Lagos. Many are also from the northern Los Angeles area.

Leaping above the Ground

By Barbara Wolcott

The Night Writer contest received 125 entries, which consisted of a broad spectrum of story genres, including mystery, suspense, and heart-warming stories. The article mentions that the contest has spread across the country and beyond. In the past, there have been entrants from places such as Amsterdam, New York, and Minnesota. It also notes that 25 percent of entrants are from the Central Coast region, which stretches from Melbourne to Lagos. Many are also from the northern Los Angeles area.

Leaping above the Ground

By Barbara Wolcott

The Night Writer contest received 125 entries, which consisted of a broad spectrum of story genres, including mystery, suspense, and heart-warming stories. The article mentions that the contest has spread across the country and beyond. In the past, there have been entrants from places such as Amsterdam, New York, and Minnesota. It also notes that 25 percent of entrants are from the Central Coast region, which stretches from Melbourne to Lagos. Many are also from the northern Los Angeles area.

Leaping above the Ground

By Barbara Wolcott

The Night Writer contest received 125 entries, which consisted of a broad spectrum of story genres, including mystery, suspense, and heart-warming stories. The article mentions that the contest has spread across the country and beyond. In the past, there have been entrants from places such as Amsterdam, New York, and Minnesota. It also notes that 25 percent of entrants are from the Central Coast region, which stretches from Melbourne to Lagos. Many are also from the northern Los Angeles area.

Leaping above the Ground

By Barbara Wolcott

The Night Writer contest received 125 entries, which consisted of a broad spectrum of story genres, including mystery, suspense, and heart-warming stories. The article mentions that the contest has spread across the country and beyond. In the past, there have been entrants from places such as Amsterdam, New York, and Minnesota. It also notes that 25 percent of entrants are from the Central Coast region, which stretches from Melbourne to Lagos. Many are also from the northern Los Angeles area.

Leaping above the Ground

By Barbara Wolcott

The Night Writer contest received 125 entries, which consisted of a broad spectrum of story genres, including mystery, suspense, and heart-warming stories. The article mentions that the contest has spread across the country and beyond. In the past, there have been entrants from places such as Amsterdam, New York, and Minnesota. It also notes that 25 percent of entrants are from the Central Coast region, which stretches from Melbourne to Lagos. Many are also from the northern Los Angeles area.
Walks offer a bit of everything

Corallina Cove hosts tide pools, crabs, and knowledgeable tour guides interrupted by chatty hikers.

By Rebecca Howes

Random Events

July 11 Thursday: The Swords Project and Windsor for the Derby @ 2. Pier 1060 Osgo St. SUO 10 p.m. Windsor for the Derby weave an organic soundscape of guitar, tinted soundtrack music, augmented with vintage key­board tone and complex patterned drumming by the Sheepshanks. Whatever that means. Check them out tote.

July 12 Friday: JND as part of "Concerts in The Plaza" 5:30 to 7:30 in Mission Plaza call 541-0286 for info

July 13 Saturday: WWP! Rocky! A theatrical presentation of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" by the Zen Room at the Downtown Centre Cinema 546-8600

CRITICAL MYERS SUMMER MUSTANG

Knapp educated us on the types of sea life that call Corallina's Cove home. Riley and Knapp took turns talking and at times would interrupt each other, which made for a lot of movie critic Ebert and Roeppe.

"Sea urchins chew holes with their teeth," Riley said, "They make grooves so that they can withstand breaking waves."

For 20 minutes we learned about the cove and were able to touch shells, sea stars, and Coralline alga, which carries the name is named after.

"Algae produces oxygen," Knapp said. "We couldn't live without algae, so you see why sea life is crucial. Sea stars' favorite food is mussels. Take away the sea stars and the mussels don't do well. It is all a balance."

I found myself taking notes. Class dismissed. My editor had told me to enjoy the hike so I put my notebook to bed. At least one of us would get our beauty sleep.

Once the introduction to the cove was complete, Riley and Knapp reminded us that the rocks were very slippery and that we should all be wearing sturdy shoes.

The walk down to the cove was beautiful. The sky was filled with fog and the sun was trying to break through. Birds were singing, líards were doing push ups and this damn woman in front of me wouldn't shut up.

Apparently Riley and Knapp got two thumbs down for knowledge. This woman, I'll call her Gerty because that is a cruel name, thought that she knew more about our hike than both of our guides put together.

If you ask me, Gerty needed a time out in a big way. Maybe Gerty is paying for college; that would be the only acceptable excuse in my book.

Gerry had stories about every piece of dirt and every weed that we passed. She had something to add to every comment that Riley or Knapp made. I appreciated her knowledge — yeah right — but it was getting in the way of my alone time with nature.

I took this opportunity to peel myself away from the group without actually abandoning it; I turned over, I yelled. There are many words to describe how I became the invisible woman.

Arriving at the tide pools. I was afraid to step anywhere because they were so alive and I was afraid I would kill something. There were clusters of leaf barnacles that were pearly white.

I decided to take it upon myself and renamed them, Pintos' Booty. This is my story.

A sea anemone that had opened up looked like a beautiful flower. It was lime bean green with lavender tips. Hermit crabs, sea snails, acorn barnacles, California mussels, and Keyhole limpets were just a few of the other treasures that I observed in the cove.

Walking on the slippery rocks was tricky. I wondered who would fall first, the young, the old, or me. Thankfully, no one fell. It was funny to watch our group traverse the landscape because we all looked drunk stumbling around from rock to rock trying to find proper footing.

I spent an hour exploring Corallina Cove, and decided that I should head back to Cal Poly for my class at noon. As I moved my foot to leave, a crab came towards me.

At first I didn't think she saw me. I squatted down to look at her and I swear she gave me a dirty look. I laughed to myself and proceeded to leave. Darcy, that is what I named her, decided that she was the one who determined that I would leave when she let me leave. I tried to step around her without falling.

She didn't like the commotion that I was causing and came at me with her silver dollar­-st Ned green body and her little purple claws snapping. It was then that I knew that my tide pool experience was complete, that and the fact that I was afraid of her.

I decided to walk back on my own in order to enjoy the peaceful mood that the tide put me in. I had made a deal with Darcy in order to escape my untimely death and her menacing claws.

Before I left, I gave Darcy a full description of Gerty as well as a help sculpture in Gerty's likeness, so that she could take care of the situation and no other hiker would have to put up with the know-it-all again.

I promised Darcy a reward for any efforts on behalf of those of us who need to have peace and quiet to go along with our morning trek in nature. But just to be on the safe side, I suggest that instead of going on the hike in a group you brave it alone.

Murry Street is the latest release by Sonic Youth, their 18th since first releasing Confinement in 1983. "The Empty Page" starts the album off with a slow pop-rocking gem with a serious fun groove, and then flows into a classic Neil Young/ Cray Horse mid-tempo rock­-expansive, large, and growing. Lee Ranaldo says "Karen Revisited," an eleven minute track, is almost an old school college rock song with early shades of REM, but still has new school influence. On "Plastic Sun," the album's early NYC no-wave track, Kim Gordon presents an atonal bounce with sinister purpose before she takes us home with the ethereal and majestic album closer "Sympathy for the Strawberry." Overall, Murray Street is a varied and full Sonic Youth release, a great introduction for the first time listener as well as a satisfying interesting listen for the steadfast fan. - Patrick Gispert

Movie Listings

Palm Theatre 541-5161

Nine Queens 1:30, 4:15

The Importance of Being Ernest 1:30, 7:00, 9:15

Monsoon Wedding 4:15

The Dangerous Lives of Altar Boys 9:15

The Emperor's New Clothes 1:30, 7:00, 9:15

Fremont 546-8600

Men in Black II 11:30, 1:30, 4:15, 6:00, 8:15, 10:40, 1:15, 4:45, 7:00, 9:15

Crocodile Hunter 11:20, 1:45, 4:15, 7:00, 9:15

Halloween: Resurrection 4:00, 6:15, 8:20, 10:30

Powerpuff Girls Movie 11:45, 2:00, 5:00

Downtown Centre Cinema 546-8600

Road to Perdition 11:00, 1:45, 4:30, 7:15, 10:00

Mr. Deeds 12:45, 3:15, 5:45, 8:15, 10:35

Lilo & Stitch 12:30, 2:45, 5:00, 7:15, 9:30

Minority Report 1:00, 4:10, 7:30, 10:45

Reign of Fire 12:30, 3:00, 5:20, 8:00, 10:40

The Bourne Identity 11:20, 2:15, 5:10, 8:00, 10:30

My Big Fat Greek Wedding 11:30, 2:00, 4:20, 6:45, 9:10

Call to Confirm Times
Opinion

Summer Mustang

Music television, more commonly known as MTV, has been around since the year I was born and I have loved it ever since. With shows such as "The Real World," "Road Rules," "Singled Out," and plentiful music videos, who wouldn't like to be entertained by this network? MTV has always catered to the young-adult culture. It isn't about making a point, but about bringing fun to your television.

When I was a little girl, I had lots of boring summers filled with classes. After school, I would always come home and watch MTV "Spring Break" and wish that I were one of those college kids having fun in the Florida Keys.

Now I watch "Cribs" and aspire to be one of those celebrities (or at least have as much money as they do) who has a five-bedroom, four-bathroom guesthouse in the middle of Malibu. Some people would say that all the glamour and glitz is far from reality. However, let's think about this: if you got paid $100,000 per episode what would you do with it?

Another complaint is that MTV doesn't focus on music anymore. I can always watch MTV for the latest music, because here in Los Angeles and almost a year behind New York, it is nice to see what music is out there.

"MTV is about the same age as most Cal Poly students. It has entertained, educated, and influenced us all in some way." - Harvey, a junior graphics major

I have never done any drugs in my life. So when someone tries to pressure me into doing the new exciting drug, I think about what show I saw last week where some girl almost died from heart failure.

Instead of playing music videos, MTV is a corporation and they are looking to make money as well. It is sad to say that they have put in more violence and sex for the ratings to go up, but that's the game they must play. I didn't make the rules, but I understand them.

MTV is about the same age as most Cal Poly students. It has entertained, educated, and influenced us all in some way. So, before criticizing every rating-building promotion MTV does, think about what you would be watching if it wasn't around.

Nadea Mina is a journalism junior and Summer Mustang staff writer.

Letters to the editor

124/7 services needed

Editor, Summer Mustang:

It is so compelled to echo Bonnie Guevara's sentiment on the subject of the lack of 24-hour services available in this area. I personally am fortunate enough to have a fax machine at home that can make copies and a friend who allows me open access to his blueprint machine.

However, one of my classmates, in the midst of a class-wide all-nighter made two round-trips to Santa Barbara for large-format copies at Kinko's. With the wealth of student labor, it seems that there should be no difficulty in keeping the San Luis Obispo Kinko's open 24/7, at least during the nine-month academic year.

They may not make any money during the bulk of the quarter, but when any class in the College of Architecture and Environmental Design has a deadline, there will be about 40 people forming a line out the door.

Scott Weseli is a landscape architect, "super" senior.

Anger at U.S. hypocrisy

Editor, Summer Mustang:

It is ironic that as the Bush Administration continues its so-called "war" on terrorism against Osama bin Laden's Al Qaeda terrorist organization, it continues to operate a more substantial terrorist school, the School of the Americas (renamed Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation) in Columbus, Georgia. SOA graduates continue to be implicated in acts of terrorism. Such hypocrisy!

Seventy-one people have served a total of over 40 years in prison for engaging in non-violent resistance in a broad-based campaign to close the school.

Meanwhile, a clergy, students and grandparents are about to stand trial for trespassing, SOA-trained torturers and assassins operating with impunity. The SOA/WHISC, also known as the school of the assassins, has trained 60,000 Latin American soldiers in combat skills and psychological warfare and currently trains scores of future terrorists yearly. In 1996, the Penagos Bill was forced to release training manuals used at the school that advocate torture, false imprisonment, extortion and executing civilians.

These tactics have been cited for some of the most horrific atrocities in Latin America, including the El Moncada massacre of 900 people in El Salvador and the recent massacres in Colombia.

Dr. Richard J. Kreps is founder of raison d'etre for Peace and a member of Central Coast Peace & Environmental Council.

Make Spinner editor-in-chief

Andra Cohen - news editor

Dena Horton - opinion editor

Bryan Dickerson - art & features editor

Malia Spencer - managing editor

Matt Szabo - sports editor

Dena Horton - copy editor

Crystal Myers - photo editor

Brian Kent - photograher

Mark Arnold - faculty advisor

SUMMER Mustang

Opinion / Counterpoint

MTV programming: True Life vs. truly undone

Where have all the music videos gone? For a cable station that prides itself on being more than a music channel, MTV seems to be missing the basis for its name.

Instead of playing music videos, MTV is now saturated with reality shows, including "Real World," "Road Rules," "Tough Enough" and their newest show at the 10-spot, "Sonority Life!"

Initially, MTV's purpose was to bring music videos to life (again, see the full name). However, they have violated their contract to bring fun to your television.

"Instead, hours and hours are allotted for the overdramatized, over-the-top and unrealistic reality shows." - Bryan Dickerson

Let's take, for example, MTV's "Sonority Life," which hooks its viewers by promising a glimpse into the life of a 'sister' from day one of ruffles. Not only does it show the "behind the scenes" process of the Sugar activities, but it also follows the lives of the ladies selected to be their "sisters." For the additional ratings push, six of these newest members are picked to wear a "sister" shirt this situation sound familiar? and undergo the sorority process together. Of course, this dream house, huge pool and matching Yukon are conveniently all provided by MTV. This alone destroys the show's already diminishing credibility.

You can imagine all the bickering and fighting that is contained in the walls of their pledge house, just like the "Real World" show, MTV markets this action to its drama-hungry audience. It seems to me that if you pick any six individuals, regardless of Greek affiliation, to live in a house together, problems are always going to arise.

The situation is a rehashed boring formula: take one foster child, one homosexual, one minority representative, throw in a "first boy," and a member of Alcoholics Anonymous, put them in cramped yet excessively plush quarters and give them a video camera. Voilà! A show that can be run five or more times in one week.

First off, I really don't have time to watch these shows. Secondly, I don't care to watch six strangers fight over who gets what room, who spoke behind who's back, or who hooked up with who. Honestly, who cares?

I also don't see where the music content lies in any one of these shows. Oh, that's right, they don't have any. Sure, there's some kind of music content in the background of the drama-filled scenes, but that is really enough to appear on a music-television show!

In an effort to cater to the needs of both the music-loving individuals and drama queens, MTV should make its second channel, MTV2, available on regular cable. Currently, this all-music channel is only available to those who want to shell out a chunk of change for Charter Cable channel 115. This hardly fits within a college budget. So along with many other college students who can't afford MTV2, I demand my old MTV back.

However, as MTV changes its ways, I am only left to wonder: where have all the music videos gone?

Bonnie Guevara is a journalism senior and Summer Mustang staff writer.

Dr. Richard J. Kreps is founder of raison d'etre for Peace and a member of Central Coast Peace & Environmental Council.

Letter policy

Mustang Daily reserves the right to edit letters for grammar, profanities and length. Please limit length to 250 words.

Letters should include the writer's full name, phone number, major and class standing.

By mail: Letters to the Editor, Building 34, Room 226, Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, CA 93407.

By e-mail: mustangdaily@hotmail.com

Letters must come from a Cal Poly student. Letters must be hand-delivered to the editor or by email.

By fax: (805) 756-7874

By e-mail: mustangdaily@hotmail.com

Letter policy

Letters to the Editor

Building 34, Room 226
Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo
CA 93407

These letters must be hand-delivered to the editor.

By fax: (805) 756-7874

By e-mail: mustangdaily@hotmail.com

Letters must come from a Cal Poly student. Letters must be in the correct format.

Attention: Your letter will not be printed unless you submit it in the correct format.

Brett Heliker

web & technology manager

Letters to the Editor

Building 34, Room 226
Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo
CA 93407

These letters must be hand-delivered to the editor.

By fax: (805) 756-7874

By e-mail: mustangdaily@hotmail.com

Letters must come from a Cal Poly student. Letters must be in the correct format.

Attention: Your letter will not be printed unless you submit it in the correct format.

Mark Arnold

faculty advisor

Malia Spencer - managing editor

Brian Kent - photographer

Crystal Myers - photo editor

Dena Horton - copy editor

Bryan Dickerson - art & features editor

Malia Spencer - managing editor

Matt Szabo - sports editor

Dena Horton - copy editor

Crystal Myers - photo editor

Brian Kent - photographer

Mark Arnold - faculty advisor

Printed by University Graphic Systems

They doubted the power of pop and they shouldn't have.
Who let the dogs out?

Cal Poly policies unfriendly to pets on-campus, in classes

By Sierra Z. Fish
SUMMER MUSTANG STAFF WRITER

It is a common sight on campus: owners playing frisbee with their dogs on Dexter Lawn or people petting their furry companions in the University Union. There is even the occasional pet that makes its way into a classroom, with its collar jingling every time it moves. While these pets might be good for classrooms entertainment, Cal Poly policy has no tolerance for classroom pets.

According to the University Police Draft Policy number 357, pets are not allowed in any campus building, including a classroom. The exceptions are seeing-eye dogs, service dogs or dogs signaling disabilities. Students involved in authorized research or instruction programs, including social dogs. The policy also states that an owner must valid a license that is also proof of a current rabies vaccination.

In the quarterly class schedules there is a policy about pets in small print. "Seperatu Lori Hashim of the Cal Poly University Police said, "It is the kind of thing where you expect everyone to heed it, but then again not everyone does. Some people really just don't know what the rules are when it comes to having pets on campus."

Several students do bring their dogs to school and enjoy having a companion on campus.

"I've taken my dog into all of my classes, the library reserve room and the agriculture computer lab," said Kari Bluff, a graduate and former student teacher on campus. "I chose not to ask anyone for permission before bringing her because I didn't want a negative experience before they had a chance to see how well-behaved the really is. So far, I have received positive comments from professors, librarians and lab monitors. In fact, the only negative comments I have received from students were, "Go figure."

"I think one of the greatest attributes at Cal Poly is the relationship between students and faculty outside of the classroom," she said.

But intimate relations with a professor may interfere with student goals, said liberal studies senior Chad Athorne.

"I wouldn't get involved with a teacher," he said. "I think there should be a strict separation between students and teachers."

While enacting policies over the years, colleges are ushering in a new era of campus politics as they change to balance student and teacher rights. Ironically, these faculty/student relationships can result in success.

"I recall thinking that under the terms of my policy, my wife, whom I met in 1996, could file a complaint against me because I am a faculty member and she was a student in the early 1970s," Lewis said.

LIFEGUARD II/SEASONAL TEMPORARY
San Luis Obispo County
1 $82.80-10.72/Hr. II $10.72-12.41/Hr.

American Red Cross Lifeguard training certicate/card required at time of application (title 22 Emergency response). Current valid proof of CPR for the Professional Rescuer. Social Security Card required at time of appointment. All lifeguard personnel must pass both a written and physical performance test. Beach and lake lifeguards have additional testing.

In addition: Swim instructors are required to be American Red Cross Water Safety Instructor (WSI) certified and be able to show proof at time of appointment.

NOTES: Employees in these classifications are required to work irregular hours, holidays and weekends. New employees are required to complete INS Employment Eligibility verification forms to certify citizenship or legal residency and authorization to work. These are temporary appointment without benefits or tenure. Must also pass County pre-employment medical exam. All prospective employees must submit to and pass fingerprinting under Public Resources code section 5164 in regards to criminal offenses.

Please request Continuous recruitment forms # 02-935. Submit County appointment form to personal office, Room 384, County government center, San Luis Obispo, CA 93408. DEADLINE: Continuous. Completed forms must be returned to: Personnel Department, 700 Hollister Ave., Room 601, San Luis Obispo, CA 93405. Fax: (805)781-5958. AN EEO/AA EMPLOYER.

CRIME continued from page 2

"We buy advertising, and not too many jurisdictions are doing this," Bryn said.

This includes the commercials on MTV, Lifetime and CPTV about being drunk in public and fake IDs. Their website also has one of the only interactive sites for the neighborhood watch; it allows residents to inform themselves by downloading posters and brochures.

"We tell you this is what you need to protect yourself," Bryn said. "But there is no law that says you have to.

PETITION continued from page 1

"We should hope that average citizens again rise to the occasion, since the obstacles to a renewed movement are surpassed only by its moral urgency," Tatu said. "Divestment from apartheid South Africa was fought at the grass roots. Religious leaders informed their followers, union members pressured their stockholders and consumers questioned their stockbrokers."

Since the petition came to Cal Poly this summer, the word is gradually spreading throughout the campus about the petition's intentions.

"It is a good example of all faculty from all CSUs coming together as a single voice," said Philosophy senior Greg Segars. "It is a voice to fight injustice, a voice to fight inequality and a voice to bring peace. One of the most important things to note when bringing about change any other change towards injustice is that it requires all of us to work together.

Although only a few Cal Poly students have signed it, there is hope for justice and peace in the world."

Though the petition is focused on the actions by the Israeli government, it does recognize the recent events on "the Palestinian" side of the Israeli occupation of Palestinian land.

"We should hope that average citizens again rise to the occasion, since the obstacles to a renewed movement are surpassed only by its moral urgency," Tatu said. "Divestment from apartheid South Africa was fought at the grass roots. Religious leaders informed their followers, union members pressured their stockholders and consumers questioned their stockbrokers.

Since the petition came to Cal Poly this summer, the word is gradually spreading throughout the campus about the petition's intentions.

"It is a good example of all faculty from all CSUs coming together as a single voice," said Philosophy senior Greg Segars. "It is a voice to fight injustice, a voice to fight inequality and a voice to bring peace. One of the most important things to note when bringing about change any other change towards injustice is that it requires all of us to work together."

Although only a few Cal Poly students have signed it, there is hope for justice and peace in the world.

Though the petition is focused on the actions by the Israeli government, it does recognize the recent events on "the Palestinian" side of the Israeli occupation of Palestinian land.

"We should hope that average citizens again rise to the occasion, since the obstacles to a renewed movement are surpassed only by its moral urgency," Tatu said. "Divestment from apartheid South Africa was fought at the grass roots. Religious leaders informed their followers, union members pressured their stockholders and consumers questioned their stockbrokers.

Since the petition came to Cal Poly this summer, the word is gradually spreading throughout the campus about the petition's intentions.

"It is a good example of all faculty from all CSUs coming together as a single voice," said Philosophy senior Greg Segars. "It is a voice to fight injustice, a voice to fight inequality and a voice to bring peace. One of the most important things to note when bringing about change any other change towards injustice is that it requires all of us to work together."

Although only a few Cal Poly students have signed it, there is hope for justice and peace in the world.

Though the petition is focused on the actions by the Israeli government, it does recognize the recent events on "the Palestinian" side of the Israeli occupation of Palestinian land.

"We should hope that average citizens again rise to the occasion, since the obstacles to a renewed movement are surpassed only by its moral urgency," Tatu said. "Divestment from apartheid South Africa was fought at the grass roots. Religious leaders informed their followers, union members pressured their stockholders and consumers questioned their stockbrokers.

Since the petition came to Cal Poly this summer, the word is gradually spreading throughout the campus about the petition's intentions.

"It is a good example of all faculty from all CSUs coming together as a single voice," said Philosophy senior Greg Segars. "It is a voice to fight injustice, a voice to fight inequality and a voice to bring peace. One of the most important things to note when bringing about change any other change towards injustice is that it requires all of us to work together."

Although only a few Cal Poly students have signed it, there is hope for justice and peace in the world.

Though the petition is focused on the actions by the Israeli government, it does recognize the recent events on "the Palestinian" side of the Israeli occupation of Palestinian land.

"We should hope that average citizens again rise to the occasion, since the obstacles to a renewed movement are surpassed only by its moral urgency," Tatu said. "Divestment from apartheid South Africa was fought at the grass roots. Religious leaders informed their followers, union members pressured their stockholders and consumers questioned their stockbrokers.

Since the petition came to Cal Poly this summer, the word is gradually spreading throughout the campus about the petition's intentions.

"It is a good example of all faculty from all CSUs coming together as a single voice," said Philosophy senior Greg Segars. "It is a voice to fight injustice, a voice to fight inequality and a voice to bring peace. One of the most important things to note when bringing about change any other change towards injustice is that it requires all of us to work together."

Although only a few Cal Poly students have signed it, there is hope for justice and peace in the world.

Though the petition is focused on the actions by the Israeli government, it does recognize the recent events on "the Palestinian" side of the Israeli occupation of Palestinian land.

"We should hope that average citizens again rise to the occasion, since the obstacles to a renewed movement are surpassed only by its moral urgency," Tatu said. "Divestment from apartheid South Africa was fought at the grass roots. Religious leaders informed their followers, union members pressured their stockholders and consumers questioned their stockbrokers.

Since the petition came to Cal Poly this summer, the word is gradually spreading throughout the campus about the petition's intentions.

"It is a good example of all faculty from all CSUs coming together as a single voice," said Philosophy senior Greg Segars. "It is a voice to fight injustice, a voice to fight inequality and a voice to bring peace. One of the most important things to note when bringing about change any other change towards injustice is that it requires all of us to work together."

Although only a few Cal Poly students have signed it, there is hope for justice and peace in the world.

Though the petition is focused on the actions by the Israeli government, it does recognize the recent events on "the Palestinian" side of the Israeli occupation of Palestinian land.

"We should hope that average citizens again rise to the occasion, since the obstacles to a renewed movement are surpassed only by its moral urgency," Tatu said. "Divestment from apartheid South Africa was fought at the grass roots. Religious leaders informed their followers, union members pressured their stockholders and consumers questioned their stockbrokers.

Since the petition came to Cal Poly this summer, the word is gradually spreading throughout the campus about the petition's intentions.

"It is a good example of all faculty from all CSUs coming together as a single voice," said Philosophy senior Greg Segars. "It is a voice to fight injustice, a voice to fight inequality and a voice to bring peace. One of the most important things to note when bringing about change any other change towards injustice is that it requires all of us to work together."

Although only a few Cal Poly students have signed it, there is hope for justice and peace in the world.
Updated 2002 Cal Poly Football Schedule:

Date Opponent Time (PDT) Location
Sept. 7 N. ARIZONA 6:00 pm at Toledo
Sept. 14 at Kent State 11:00 am
Sept. 21 at Sac St. 6:00 pm
Sept. 28 N. IOWA* 6:00 pm at Sacramento
Oct. 5 off
Oct. 12 at S. Utah 6:00 pm
Oct. 19 at St. Mary's 1:00 pm
Oct. 26 UC DAVIS* 4:00 pm
Nov. 2 off
Nov. 9 HUMBOLDT ST. 1:00 pm in Arcata
Nov. 16 at Idaho St. 1:00 pm
Nov. 23 WEBER ST. 1:00 pm in Pullman
* Hall of Fame Game
* Homecoming

Mustang Memorial Stadium will be a lonely place on Nov. 2, 2002. A scheduled football game between Cal Poly and Alcorn State has been cancelled, and efforts to find a new opponent were unsuccessful.

Correia goes to Giants

Senior right-handed pitcher Kevin Correia was drafted by the San Francisco Giants with the 177th pick overall in the fourth round of the Major League Baseball Amateur Draft on June 4. Correia, a native of San Diego and graduate of Grossmont College, was 11-5 last season for the Mustangs with a 4.63 ERA in 130 innings pitched. He led the team with 99 strikeouts and just 39 walks allowed.

This season, he threw a five-hitter in a win over Long Beach State and also limited league leader Cal State Northridge to five hits in an 8-2 Cal Poly win.

Correia led the Mustangs to a third-place finish in the Big West Conference (15-9 BW C, 30-29-1 overall).

Correia posted a 17-10 record and 3.53 ERA with four saves in his three-year career with the Mustangs after transferring from Grossmont College. He appeared in 66 games at Cal Poly, tied for No. 2 all-time with Mike Zemlak.

This season, his 99 strikeouts is tied for No. 7 with Zemlak, his 24 appearances matches the number he had as a junior and his 130.1 innings is second best.

Correia's 17 career wins is tied for No. 9 all-time and his 180 career strikeouts is tied for No. 9 with Greg Paxton.

In last year's draft, Correia was selected in the 23rd round by the So. Louis Cardinals but elected to return to Cal Poly for his senior year.

Right-handed pitcher Greg Davis was selected by the San Diego Padres in the 36th round.