Minors not bounced from bar

By Meredith Corbin

People between the ages of 18 and 21 can now hear house and trance music on Wednesday nights at San Luis Obispo Brewing Company hosts "Bounce Night."

This past Wednesday was the first time that SLO Brew attempted to attract a younger crowd through the new event. Mike Gallivan, promotion director of the restaurant, said that the goal was to encompass a dance and music culture that allured people of all ages.

"It is a good idea for the club, as a venue, to be able to feature a night or two of DJ's," he said. "There is a huge 21-under 21 market in town that likes to dance and listen to music with nowhere to go."

The bar on Wednesday is organized according to ages people under 21 stayed downtown with the music and those who wanted to drink alcohol had a bar on the second floor.

Mike Hoffman is the owner of SLO Brew.

"People that are under 21 deserve to have as much fun as those who are, without the alcohol," he said.

People who were underage were able to listen to the kinds of music that they enjoyed and enjoy the entertainment.

Guest student David Fuller, 19, said that Bounce Night is a good way to let the younger generation have a little fun downtown.

"This gives us a chance to go into a bar and listen to bands we would never get to see anywhere else," he said.

Grant McBride, 19, said that he had been waiting for the opportunity to see these DJs play.

"I am really glad that they decided to do this for kids under 21," she said. "Now we can enjoy the atmosphere without the alcohol,"

Students dance at SLO Brew's Bounce Night on Wednesday.

By Bonnie Guevara

Young at heart, a humorous spirit and a mind dedicated to journalism were just some of the words used to illustrate the life of journalism friends, colleagues and mentor Herb Kamm. Kamm, 85, died Wednesday.

"He had a wonderful sense of humor," Cal Poly President Warren J. Baker said. "He was a compassionate man with deep feelings for his colleagues and his students."

His wife, Phyllis, survives Kamm. The two were married for 66 years and had three sons.

The Cal Poly journalism icon spent the majority of his life writing, editing and teaching what he loved—journalism.

Kamm was a member of the editorial board of San Luis Obispo's Tribune and was named special assistant to Cal Poly's vice president for university advancement in 1998.

Tribune publisher Par Riddler said on the paper's four-member editorial board with Kamm and remembers the veteran journalist as both a professional newsman and as someone with a sharp sense of humor. When faced with a difficult decision, Kamm was often the one the board looked to for guidance.

"He was the guy we relied on for tough calls," Riddler said. "He's seen it all. When Herb spoke, everybody listened.

Kamm also served as an advisor, see SLO BREW, page 7

New LGBT center prepares to open

By Rebecca Howes

Pride Alliance, a lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender center, is now a reality on campus.

It has become a reality due to student activism and an administration that chose to listen after last spring's infamous "P" incident.

"The 'P' incident galvanized a lot of people separately and then as members of groups," said Patricia Harris, assistant director for Student Life & Advancement. "The 'P' incident showed how unwelcoming our campus climate was for students."

"The 'P' incident showed how unwelcoming the climate had become and brought it to the attention of those who had the power to change it.

Students, both gay and straight, organized forums focused on issues of sexual diversity and discrimination. Ultimately, they would be the wheels that put the Pride Alliance Center project into motion," Harris said.

"The whole reason we have a center is because there was a strong alliance of students last spring," she said. "They really got the ear of the administration and the campus at large."

President Warren Baker supported the project and appointed Robert Derwiler, then interim vice president for Student Affairs and currently a professor in the history department, to head the project.

"We need the center for two reasons," Derwiler said. "First, students who are confused about their sexuality can go there to talk to someone and get a chance to be heard.

"The second component is for those who areレンt confused but have deep feelings and join the Pride Alliance Center," Derwiler continued. "I hope the center will be a place to learn about diversity and provide a safe space for students."

What is the 'P' incident?

The Gay, Lesbian & Bisexuals United (GLBU) received permission to paint the Poly "P" to celebrate the Second Annual Community Pride Week that began May 13 and ended May 22. The group chose to use the colors of the gay flag, also the colors of the rainbow.

On May 12 the group painted the "P" but a few hours later it was repainted white. The GLBU repainted it on May 13 and by May 14 it was repainted again by two Cal Poly students. In all, the GLBU and painting the "P" four times. The parties responsible were finally caught, and the fourth time it would stay rainbow colored until Pride week was over.

Minors not bounced from bar

By Brenda Kimm

One of the main reasons for garbage cleanup and an educational fair. When people can get together and clean up, they will understand how garbage negatively impacts our environment.

"Creek Day is an opportunity for people to understand their day-to-day activities can impact the creek and the sensitive species that live there," said San Luis Obispo Brewing Company.

Central Coast Salmon Advancement worked together with the land conservancy of San Luis Obispo.

see CREEK, page 2

What is the 'P' incident?

The Gay, Lesbian & Bisexuals United (GLBU) received permission to paint the Poly "P" to celebrate the Second Annual Community Pride Week that began May 13 and ended May 22. The group chose to use the colors of the gay flag, also the colors of the rainbow.

On May 12, the group painted the "P," but a few hours later the it was repainted white. The GLBU repainted the it on May 13 and by May 14 it was repainted again by two Cal Poly students. In all, the GLBU painted and repainted the "P" four times.

The parties responsible were finally caught, and the fourth time it would stay rainbow colored until pride week was over.

The Gay, Lesbian & Bisexuals United (GLBU) received permission to paint the Poly "P" to celebrate the Second Annual Community Pride Week that began May 13 and ended May 22. The group chose to use the colors of the gay flag, also the colors of the rainbow.

On May 12, the group painted the "P," but a few hours later the it was repainted white. The GLBU repainted the it on May 13 and by May 14 it was repainted again by two Cal Poly students. In all, the GLBU painted and repainted the "P" four times.

The parties responsible were finally caught, and the fourth time it would stay rainbow colored until pride week was over.

The Gay, Lesbian & Bisexuals United (GLBU) received permission to paint the Poly "P" to celebrate the Second Annual Community Pride Week that began May 13 and ended May 22. The group chose to use the colors of the gay flag, also the colors of the rainbow.

On May 12, the group painted the "P," but a few hours later the it was repainted white. The GLBU repainted the it on May 13 and by May 14 it was repainted again by two Cal Poly students. In all, the GLBU painted and repainted the "P" four times.

The parties responsible were finally caught, and the fourth time it would stay rainbow colored until pride week was over.

The Gay, Lesbian & Bisexuals United (GLBU) received permission to paint the Poly "P" to celebrate the Second Annual Community Pride Week that began May 13 and ended May 22. The group chose to use the colors of the gay flag, also the colors of the rainbow.

On May 12, the group painted the "P," but a few hours later the it was repainted white. The GLBU repainted the it on May 13 and by May 14 it was repainted again by two Cal Poly students. In all, the GLBU painted and repainted the "P" four times.

The parties responsible were finally caught, and the fourth time it would stay rainbow colored until pride week was over.

The Gay, Lesbian & Bisexuals United (GLBU) received permission to paint the Poly "P" to celebrate the Second Annual Community Pride Week that began May 13 and ended May 22. The group chose to use the colors of the gay flag, also the colors of the rainbow.

On May 12, the group painted the "P," but a few hours later the it was repainted white. The GLBU repainted the it on May 13 and by May 14 it was repainted again by two Cal Poly students. In all, the GLBU painted and repainted the "P" four times.

The parties responsible were finally caught, and the fourth time it would stay rainbow colored until pride week was over.

The Gay, Lesbian & Bisexuals United (GLBU) received permission to paint the Poly "P" to celebrate the Second Annual Community Pride Week that began May 13 and ended May 22. The group chose to use the colors of the gay flag, also the colors of the rainbow.

On May 12, the group painted the "P," but a few hours later the it was repainted white. The GLBU repainted the it on May 13 and by May 14 it was repainted again by two Cal Poly students. In all, the GLBU painted and repainted the "P" four times.

The parties responsible were finally caught, and the fourth time it would stay rainbow colored until pride week was over.
News

Event showcases local female artists

By Meredith Corbin

San Luis Obispo’s American Association of University Women will host a Day With Creative Women, a project to raise money for the educational foundation branch of the organization.

The event goes from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. this Sunday at the Shore Cliff Ballroom in Pismo Beach.

Tickets are $30, and the money collected from the event goes to providing grants and fellowships in higher education for women and promotes equity for those who are looking for possible career opportunities.

Shirley Erickson, education foundation vice president of the AAUW in San Luis Obispo, was a member of the AAUW for five years before she joined the board two years ago.

Erickson said that she enjoys meeting women who share similar interests as herself.

"The organization allows women to be social while serving in their communities," she said.

This the first time they have had an event that features local artists and authors who will speak and present their work, Erickson said.

Becky White, a longtime local author, will present her book, “Double Luck, Memoirs of a Chinese Orphan,” at the event.

White said that she looked forward to attending because she enjoys speaking about her writing creatively and encourages her audience to do the same.

“So often we get wrapped up in our everyday work,” she said, “that we forget to find the creativity in our lives. This book is a combination of my dreams to be more creative and my work.”

The authors and artists are not the only women supporting the event. AAUW member Mary Howell is a strong supporter of the event.

“I think this particular event is a wonderful vehicle for the educational foundation (of the AAUW),” she said. “It is good to get public awareness about people who do interesting things.”

The excitement for other local artists came with the invitation to present at the event. Los Osos artist Fay Rene Parish will share her sculptures and oil paintings at the show.

She said that it was an honor for her, as a creative woman in the county, to be asked to represent the arts.

“I think this particular event is a wonderful opportunity to get more information out to the public about art,” Parish said. “It gives me a chance to share my enthusiasm about the mediums I work in.”

CREEK
continued from page 1

Obispo for garbage cleanup and to implement the second half of Creek Day, which is the Watershed Educational Fair.

Connie O’Herny, executive director of the agency, said that they did not have the educational facilities to offer to the public before the land conservancy implemented the second half of Creek Day, which is the Watershed Educational Fair.

"We are lucky to have a creek in San Luis Obispo," Stark said. "As a community, if we don’t take care of it, we are going to lose these values."
National/International News

Friday, September 26, 2002

National Briefs

One Night’s Use of Ecstasy May Boost Parkinson’s Risk

Even one typical night’s use of the club drug Ecstasy may damage nerve cells in the brain responsible for movement, increasing the risk of Parkinson’s disease and similar disorders, researchers reported Thursday.

The findings were based on animal studies in which monkeys and baboons were given the kinds of doses that users might consume at all-night dance parties. The animals suffered profound neurological damage, according to results published in the journal Science, and lost 60 to 80 percent of the brain cells that transmit dopamine, a brain chemical that regulates mood and behavior. This depletion may account for the emotional lability and habitual users often experience after weekend Ecstasy binges, experts say.

—Los Angeles Times

In Campaign Mailers, Davis Keeps Up Attack on Simon

After months of questioning Republican gubernatorial nominee Bill Simon Jr.’s business ethics, California Gov. Gray Davis is opening a new front of attack against his opponent—posing him as a right-wing extremist.

In a new multimillion-dollar direct-mail campaign launched this week, Davis accuses Simon of siding with the most radical members of his party and warns that the GOP candidate will try to overturn abortion rights—something Simon has said he will not do.

The tactic is one that Davis strategists indicated they would use when Simon, a conservative businessman, won the GOP primary last spring. But Simon stumbled badly throughout the summer, delaying the release of his tax returns and enduring a fraud verdict against his family’s investment firm—events that gave the governor material for a series of television commercials.

With the tax issue behind Simon and the verdict thrown out, the governor’s campaign is now going after Simon’s conservative stances, a theme Davis used four years ago against former Attorney General Dan Lungren.

The Simon campaign blasted the Davis mailers as "scare tactics."

—Los Angeles Times

Former WorldCom Official Pleads Guilty

NEW YORK — WorldCom Inc.’s former controller pleaded guilty Thursday to charges that he manipulated accounting to inflate profits and then tried to cover it up, moving federal prosecutors a step closer in their pursuit of senior company executives.

David F. Myers, 45, showed little emotion as he was sentenced to 30 months in prison after Simon’s conservative stances, a theme Davis used four years ago against former Attorney General Dan Lungren.

The vice president’s office and the Pride Alliance Center will host a series of teleconferences in the coming weeks, exploring the challenges and opportunities of working in a gay-friendly environment.

The center is open Monday through Thursday from 11:00 am to 12:00 pm, and Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Pride

continued from page 1

all forms of discrimination.

“The reason that people do things like paint over the ‘P’ and write homophobic things is because of fear,” Lam said. “The center will provide education so that these kinds of things don’t continue to happen.”

In addition to education, the center will host speakers and small gatherings, as well as providing a library with books and videos. The center is equipped with two computers, a small refrigerator, television and VCR.

The vice president’s office and Student Life & Leadership donates the computers.

The Pride Alliance Center will host its official opening on Oct. 11, National Coming Out Day. Guests will include Then Davis, the wife of Gov. Gray Davis, and gay Cuban author Christopher de la Huerta.

The center is open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is building 527 in rooms 104 & 105. For more information, call 756-PRIDE.

Weekly of Welcome

TEAM 2003

To find out more, visit one of our info sessions:

Tuesday, October 1 • Tuesday, October 3
8:10 pm - 9:00 pm building 10, room 220 11:10 am - 12:00 pm building 5, room 225

For additional information, call 756-2487 or stop by the WOW office in University Union 217

Have you been a WOW Leader before? Why not check out TEAM WOW 2003?!

MOST BURGLARS get discouraged quickly. Often, they won’t spend more than a minute trying to break into a home. That’s why it’s important to follow some simple security tips:

• Don’t leave a rear window unlocked as a precaution against getting locked out. If you can break in, so can a burglar.

• Doors leading outside must have sturdy dead-bolts.

• Sliding glass doors are a choice access for burglars. Properly secure them with pin locks.

• When you move into a new home or apartment, re-key the locks. Don’t change locks outside the home. Instead, give one to a trusted neighbor.

W I N D O W  O F  O P P O R T U N I T Y

www.slopd.org

SLOPD

National/International News

Friday, September 26, 2002

National Briefs

One Night’s Use of Ecstasy May Boost Parkinson’s Risk

Even one typical night’s use of the club drug Ecstasy may damage nerve cells in the brain responsible for movement, increasing the risk of Parkinson’s disease and similar disorders, researchers reported Thursday.

The findings were based on animal studies in which monkeys and baboons were given the kinds of doses that users might consume at all-night dance parties. The animals suffered profound neurological damage, according to results published in the journal Science, and lost 60 to 80 percent of the brain cells that transmit dopamine, a brain chemical that regulates mood and behavior. This depletion may account for the emotional lability and habitual users often experience after weekend Ecstasy binges, experts say.

—Los Angeles Times

In Campaign Mailers, Davis Keeps Up Attack on Simon

After months of questioning Republican gubernatorial nominee Bill Simon Jr.’s business ethics, California Gov. Gray Davis is opening a new front of attack against his opponent—posing him as a right-wing extremist.

In a new multimillion-dollar direct-mail campaign launched this week, Davis accuses Simon of siding with the most radical members of his party and warns that the GOP candidate will try to overturn abortion rights—something Simon has said he will not do.

The tactic is one that Davis strategists indicated they would use when Simon, a conservative businessman, won the GOP primary last spring. But Simon stumbled badly throughout the summer, delaying the release of his tax returns and enduring a fraud verdict against his family’s investment firm—events that gave the governor material for a series of television commercials.

With the tax issue behind Simon and the verdict thrown out, the governor’s campaign is now going after Simon’s conservative stances, a theme Davis used four years ago against former Attorney General Dan Lungren.

The Simon campaign blasted the Davis mailers as “scare tactics.”

—Los Angeles Times

Israel’s Missile Attack in Gaza Kills Two Militants, Injures Many

JERUSALEM — Israeli army helicopters launched a missile attack in a crowded neighborhood of Gaza City Thursday, killing two militants of the radical Islamic Resistance Movement and wounding about two dozen bystanders, including 15 who were under age 18, Palestinian officials said.

There were conflicting claims as to whether the apparent target of the strike, reputed bomb-making chief Mohammed Deif, was killed or escaped.

Israeli military sources said Thursday night that they were “99 percent” sure the strike killed Deif, who has long topped Israel’s “most-wanted” list and evaded Israeli attempts to arrest or Assassinate him. But the sources said they had no way to confirm his death in the attack, which demolished one car and set fire to another.

—Washington Post

SAFE CHILDBIRTH NOT YET ONE OF WORLD’S CHEAPEST

If you’re thinking about having a baby, you might want to think twice about the near future.

A new report from the United Nations says that the cost of delivering a baby has increased by 50 percent in the past decade.

The report, released Thursday, found that the cost of delivering a baby has increased by 50 percent in the past decade.

The cost of delivering a baby has increased by 50 percent in the past decade.

The cost of delivering a baby has increased by 50 percent in the past decade.

The cost of delivering a baby has increased by 50 percent in the past decade.

The cost of delivering a baby has increased by 50 percent in the past decade.
CAMPUS PROJECTS
QUARTERLY UPDATE FALL 2002

STUDENT HOUSING

Student Housing I - the first phase of Cal Poly's plan to ease the housing crunch - broke ground in 2001 and is heading toward 50% completion. Each apartment style unit is approximately 940 square feet and will house four students. The 804 new beds will increase student housing on campus by 30%.

ENGINEERING III

The 38,000 square foot new building with the sweeping front at the North West corner of campus will house facilities for Aeronautical Engineering, Civil/ Environmental Engineering, Material Engineering and Industrial & Manufacturing Engineering. The building, which stands next to the new Advanced Technology Lab, is now 65% complete with Phase One completion expected during Fall 2002.

TELECOMM

The Telecommunications Infrastructure Upgrade Project, known as Telecom, is a joint project between Information Technology Services and Facilities Planning & Capital Projects. All state-owned buildings on campus will be upgraded within two years. For further information on the project visit the Telecom website, www.calpoly.telecomm.edu. New and current information will be added to the website throughout the project.

FOR MORE INFORMATION ON THESE PROJECTS, GO TO OUR WEBSITE: www.facilities.calpoly.edu this department, I also found Mr. Bed City and Mr. Cousin. What’s going on?
To better understand this cultural phenomenon, I checked in with Cal Poly’s own John Thompson, professor of modern languages. Having lived and studied in France for a combined six years, he shed some light on some of the more bewildering things I saw.

• Ti Ti Shirt: "Ti Ti" sounds more high connotation with signs in English—a point illustrated by several Wall Street Journal ads I saw in the Paris Metro depicting a man in a suit with the quote "I speak English, Wall Street English."

• Mr. Bed City: "Signs like that appeal to French people," Thompson said. "English sounds more high class to them."

Thompson added that there’s a certain “business” connotation with signs in English—a point illustrated by several Wall Street Journal ads I saw in the Paris Metro depicting a man in a suit with the quote “I speak English, Wall Street English.”

• Texas Truck: "There’s a certain romance attached to the wide-open American Southwest, depicted in such films as “Baghdad Cafe” and “The Last Picture Show,” Thompson said.

"The Robert Altman films of the 1970s appeal to them—the big open highway, movies," Thompson said.

"They like that desolate desert scene. It’s really exotic to them." And looking up at a giant yellow sign that says "pain" is pretty exotic.

Feelin’ French?
Match the film or theatre title with its original American name.

A) Les Monologues Du Vagin
B) 7 Jours et une Vie
C) A L’ombre de la Haine
D) Les Monstres a Huit Pattes
E) Les Autres
F) Calculs Meurtriers
G) Crimes et Pouvoir
H) Ecarts de Conduite
I) La Famille Tenenbaum
J) L’homme Qui Vient de Loin
K) Mon Cher Ennemi
L) La Somme de Toutes les Peurs
M) L’homme qui N’etait pas la
N) Un Homme D’exception

1) Murder by Numbers
2) Riding in Cars with Boys
3) Life or Something Like it
4) The Sum of All Fears
5) A Beautiful Mind
6) The Vagina Monologues
7) Monster’s Ball
8) The Royal Tenenbaums
9) The Man Who Wasn’t There
10) Eight-legged Freaks
11) K-Pax
12) The Others
13) High Crimes
14) How Harry Became a Tree

To check your “Frenchability” score, turn to the bottom of page 4
Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo

Editor,

I am writing in response to Clayton White's letter, "War with Iraq means disaster. (Sept. 26)." War itself is a disaster, and if you can find any good out of going to war let me know. Everyone loses when it comes to war. The time has come for Saddam to do the world some good and if he does not then it is also time for his forced removal. As the leader of the world, it is our job to lead and not to follow as everyone else does.

When has this generation ever had to make a sacrifice for someone else we don't even know? Our grandparents gave their lives because they believed so strongly in the idea of freedom that they gave their blood so someone else they will never see can experience it. Clayton worries about losing their lives if we take on Iraq, but our problems are nothing compared to what are our forefathers and grandmothers had to face.

Mr. Clayton White, can you say the same for yourself? If my country called I would volunteer to fight, but our soldiers of the 1940s were afraid of Russia alone. The soldiers of the 1940s were afraid of dying, but they weren't afraid of fighting for what they believed.

Mr. Clayton White, can you say the same for yourself? If my country called I would volunteer to fight, but our soldiers of the 1940s were afraid of Russia alone. The soldiers of the 1940s were afraid of dying, but they weren't afraid of fighting for what they believed.

The people of our city may not be as vibrant as the cities we see in California, but it's all about perspective. Those die-hards are able to enjoy the laid-back feeling of summer classes where students can make decisions and go out in mid-August, instead of just before the beginning of Poly's fall quarter.

Stephen Harvey is a journalism junior and Mustang Daily staff writer.

Andrew Parker is a journalism senior and Mustang Daily staff writer.

Battle of the quarters: which one is the best?

Letters to the editor

Sacrifices of those before us should be considered before war e

Editor,

I am writing in response to Clayton White's letter, "War with Iraq means disaster. (Sept. 26)." War itself is a disaster, and if you can find any good out of going to war let me know. Everyone loses when it comes to war. The time has come for Saddam to do the world some good and if he does not then it is also time for his forced removal. As the leader of the world, it is our job to lead and not to follow as everyone else does.

When has this generation ever had to make a sacrifice for someone else we don't even know? Our grandparents gave their lives because they believed so strongly in the idea of freedom that they gave their blood so someone else they will never see can experience it. Clayton worries about losing their lives if we take on Iraq, but our problems are nothing compared to what are our forefathers and grandmothers had to face. Sixty million people died during the years of World War II, six million Jews alone and 11 million Russians alone. The soldiers of the 1940s were afraid of dying, but they weren't afraid of fighting for what they believed.

Mr. Clayton White, can you say the same for yourself? If my country called I would volunteer to fight, but our soldiers of the 1940s were afraid of Russia alone. The soldiers of the 1940s were afraid of dying, but they weren't afraid of fighting for what they believed.

The people of our city may not be as vibrant as the cities we see in California, but it's all about perspective. Those die-hards are able to enjoy the laid-back feeling of summer classes where students can make decisions and go out in mid-August, instead of just before the beginning of Poly's fall quarter.

Stephen Harvey is a journalism junior and Mustang Daily staff writer.

Andrew Parker is a journalism senior and Mustang Daily staff writer.
Welcome to college and financial freedom.

Check out Bank of America for all your banking needs. Our convenient Student checking account makes paying for everyday purchases easy, and includes free Online Banking with Bill Pay* and a free Photo Security® Check Card. With a Student Gold Visa® credit card you'll pay no annual fee*. When your credit card is approved we'll even send you a CD-ROM with credit education including Quicken® 2002 New User Edition! Software so you can make the most of your newfound freedom. With both accounts you'll get 24/7 Online Banking and access to thousands of Bank of America ATMs.

Establish your credit history, have anytime access to your money and be ready for whatever comes your way. It's easy to apply for a credit card and open a checking account, Just speak to an associate at a nearby banking center. For more information call Bank of America at 1.800.900.9000 or visit bankofamerica.com/studentbanking today.

---

SLO BREW continued from page 1

was cool," she said, "and because school just started and I had the opportunity to meet people my own age."

Bartenders at the restaurant did not mind serving alcohol for a night said Paul Conway, who has been bartending at SLO Brew for four years. He said that he appreciates that a bar is offering a place for people under 21 to hang out. "It is a treat for younger kids to have some fun downtown," Conway said. "Nowadays the demand for entertainment in town is bigger than it used to be."

Other employers looked forward to the evening because it was their own idea to have a night for individuals under 21.

Bartender Norm Blankski said that they wanted to provide a real club environment in San Luis Obispo because it doesn't exist anywhere else in town.

"A San Francisco-style club atmosphere in San Luis Obispo was the way I was thinking," Blankski said.

SLO Brew employees said that the night had a promising amount of students and they were hopeful that the idea was a success.

Hoffman said that an idea like Bounce Night was definitely needed in the market place.

"So far, we have heard a lot of good things about it," he said.

KAMM continued from page 1

tor in New Jersey Kamm went on to work for New York newspapers and later became executive editor of the Cleveland Press before serving as editorial director for a Cleveland television station.

Kamm's accomplishments seemed to never stop. He was elected to the Cleveland Journalism Hall of Fame and named "Mr. Cleveland" for his community involvement.

The Herb Kamm Journalism Scholarship is named in his honor. The scholarship awards students in financial need who excel in academics and show interest in media-related careers.

Despite his age, Kamm had a fire for journalism that never went out. "He is impossible to replace," Baker said. "His experience, perspective and commitment are extraordinary."

Kamm's memorial service will be held Sunday at 1 p.m. in Harmon Hall in the Performing Arts Center.
Cal Poly Women's Soccer

Senior Megan Schlegel has been one of the Mustangs' most consistent performers this season. The 5-foot-3-inch forward leads the team with three goals and an assist.

Shutting out the competition

By Christen Wegner

The Mustangs host UNLV 7 p.m. Friday and Fresno State 1 p.m. Sunday.

Admission is free for students with a Cal Poly I.D.

The Mustangs have won their last two matches.

The Mustangs have scored nine goals in their first seven matches.

By the numbers

However, the losses haven't dampened the team's spirit, since they have made it a point to learn from their mistakes. Flamson said the losses may have actually benefitted the Mustangs in a way.

The team's next match is against UNLV (6-2-1). The Runnin' Rebels have outscored their opponents 23-13 goals in their first nine games. They are 8-1-0, and have scored nine goals, with Schlegel and senior forward Becky Clark.

The Mustangs' losses to Santa Clara, Arizona, and Washington State were each by only one goal.

"The loss was hard on most of the team, since Santa Clara is ranked No. 3 in the nation," Crozier said. "We could have beat Santa Clara," Crozier said. "But now we look at the loss as a learning experience, so that we can improve with each game."

FILE PHOTO/MUSTANG DAILY

So far, the team has lived up to their expectations. Led by junior goalkeeper Greta Shirdon, all four wins were shutouts, including Detroit University and Wright State.

The team has the lowest among universities and colleges.

"We want to be more unpredictable and take risks to keep the other team second-guessing our moves," Flamson said.

The team's next match is against UNLV (6-2-1). The Runnin' Rebels have outscored their opponents 23-10 in their first nine games. They are 8-1-0, and have scored nine goals, with Schlegel and senior forward Becky Clark.

The team has the lowest among universities and colleges.

"We need to get more shots on goal and be more aggressive," Schlegel said. "We're just not capitalizing on our chances."

With that strategy in mind, the team knows they have a good chance at beating any competitor that comes their way.

Everyone as a team knows what we need to do to be successful, and because of that I think we are extremely competitive," Flamson said.

The Mustangs host a pair of games this weekend. They will face UNLV on Friday at 7 p.m. and Fresno State on Sunday at 1 p.m. at Mustang Stadium.

By Brad Bennett

The intramural fantasy football online is offered this year.

Unlike free Web sites, a $5 per-term cost is required by Rec Sports. The fee is designed to cover costs and administrative fees, Meyer said.

James Meyer, intramural coordinator for all four intramural fantasy football leagues for the past three years, cites competition among half the people in your league, when half the people in your league start losing and just give up," Meyer said. "If we require that people pay something, it gives them a reason to keep following their team."