Thomas confirmed in close vote, 52-48

Senate vote sets off mixed bag of student reactions
By Lori Cheeseman
Staff Writer

After experiencing a weekend of dramatic televised testimony, Cal Poly students shared their views about the Senate's 52-48 confirmation of controversial Supreme Court candidate Clarence Thomas.

Tuesday afternoon in the University Union, students watched the television in Bishop Lounge to see the final votes cast on Thomas.

"Why did we pick someone so uncontroversial?" said Marcus von Engel, an electrical engineering senior. "This whole thing has to be better than a soap."

I think he is going to have lots of problems because he's going into this with so many eyes on every move he makes."

Abdulkadir Farsh, an accounting senior, said that Thomas deserves to be on the Supreme Court and that the issue of sexual harassment only prolonged the process.

"I thought that none of the Senate was seeing it all as 1," von Engel said. See REACTION, page 12

Speakar announces new political party, denounces Bush's policies
By Tracy Clandon

Cheers and shouts were the response Monday night when lawyer and lecturer Daniel Sheehan suggested President George Bush be removed from office.

All Speakers Forum and Students for Social Responsibility co-sponsored the presentation that packed the Cal Poly Theatre.

Sheehan went on to announce that on Sept. 15, the National Organization for Women voted to form a new political party under the name, the Commission for Responsive Democracy.

"We need to build together a road to a new country away from becoming a nation free of military spending."

"We have the opportunity to move to a new road not characterized by military spending."

"General Security at a Crossroads," was the theme of Sheehan's speech.

Sheehan is a co-founder of the Sheehan said. "We have the opportunity to move to a new road not characterized by military spending.

In discussing the Gulf War, Sheehan said 200,000 Iraqis

The new party is an independent, political movement that would focus on health care, education and the production of peaceful commodities.

The single most important aspect about this party, Sheehan said, is the drive to redirect this nation away from becoming a major national security state dominated by the military.

Despite charges, Thomas receives Senate's approval
WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Clarence Thomas narrowly won Senate confirmation for the Supreme Court Tuesday night, overcoming 11-hour accusations of sexual harassment that nearly doomed his nomination.

The 52-48 vote was the closest in this century for a successful nominee to the high court. It ended one of the angriest, most emotionally charged confirmation battles in recent history and made him only the second black ever to sit on the nation's highest court.

Thomas' confirmation strengthens an already solid conservative majority on the court, where liberals will be outnumbered seven to two. The court is likely to continue moving to the right on issues such as abortion, the required separation of church and the rights of criminal suspects.

With the outcome in doubt until the final hours, Vice President Dan Quayle rushed back from a political trip to Ohio to sit as the presiding officer and cast the deciding vote.

China plans to restore rail links to Vietnam

BEIJING (AP) — China has begun work on restoring rail links with its longtime enemy, Vietnam, in anticipation of relations being normalized next month, according to an official report seen Tuesday.

The China News Service said workers began Friday to rebuild the track that crosses the border at the Friendship Pass, named when the two countries' Communist parties were close.

The report said the track should be ready in two months to be linked up with the Vietnamese side, which has already been restored. The tracks were destroyed during the 1979 Sino-Vietnamese border war.

China attached Vietnam in 1979 in retaliation for Vietnam invading Cambodia and ousting the pro-Chinese Khmer Rouge.

Dairy firm discovers AIDS-killing material

TOKYO (AP) — The stock of Japan's second largest dairy food producer jumped today after the company announced it discovered a substance that kills AIDS-infected cells in the test tube.

However, Meiji Milk Products Co. did not release any details, and a leading financial daily newspaper, Nikkei Keizai Shim bun, said the substance had not been tested on animals or humans.

Many substances have been found to kill the AIDS virus in test tubes but proved unworkable as a treatment for humans.

Meiji Milk said only that the substance it found was an antigen of the AIDS virus.

Swaggart steps down because of scandal

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Jimmy Swaggart is relinquishing leadership of his evangelical empire following allegations he picked up a prostitute, an official in Swaggart's organization says.

The 56-year-old Swaggart will "step down at least temporarily," said J.R. Heisch, administrator of a Swaggart-run school.

Heisch said the evangelist's son, Donnie Swaggart, will assume leadership of Jimmy Swaggart Ministries.

Wilson vetoes state job discrimination bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Pete Wilson, saying he was worried about employers leaving the state, vetoed a bill Monday that would have restored a state agency's authority to award damages to victims of job discrimination, including sexual harassment.

The bill, SB827 by Sen. Morton Bergman, R-Newport Beach, would have restored the power of the Fair Employment and Housing Commission to award actual damages and damages for emotional injuries up to $150,000 to victims of employment harassment or discrimination.

"SB827 may be the answer, but at this stage too many questions remain honestly unresolved for me to be comfortable in signing this bill, particularly at a time when California's competitiveness in attracting and even retaining employers and jobs is such a serious concern," the Republican governor said in his veto message.

Wilson downs bill for park improvements

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Pete Wilson has vetoed legislation which would have appropriated $38.6 million for 42 state and 161 local park improvement projects.

The vetoed projects range from a high of $1.86 million for improvements at Mount Diablo State Park in Contra Costa County down to local park projects of as little as $5,000 to rehabilitate wading pools and play areas in some local parks.

Wilson said there are not enough funds in the state budget for spending to adequately review all of the proposed park improvements in SB402.

Exceeding Expectations

It's a big decision, choosing where to begin your career.

Community cooperation event promotes neighborhood peace

By Lorri Cheeseman

"Do yourself a favor and be a good neighbor" is the theme for the week of Oct. 24-31, and with a little cooperation, organizers believe the week will be a success.

Marquita Piree, a business administration junior, is heading the first-ever Neighborhood Cooperation Week with enthusiasm and a whole lot of optimism.

"This project came out of last year's Student Relations Sub-committee," said Piree, who is chairman of Neighborhood Cooperation Week and the sub-committee. "We asked ourselves, 'How can we start to fill the gap between the students and the community?' And we decided the students and the community needed to start interacting on a more social level, so they could really talk and get to know each other."

Neighborhood Cooperation Week incorporates existing programs, such as Cal Poly's Homecoming Parade, the Cuesta College Blood Drive and the Rec Sports Halloween Fun Run, into a schedule of events designed to get community members to interact.

"We will be promoting the idea of what it takes to be a good neighbor and go the Fun Run. With a little effort and some respect, the entire community can become aware of each other's needs," Piree said anyone interested in helping out with Neighborhood Cooperation Week can meet at Meadow Park on Sunday, Oct. 20, between 9 a.m. and noon. A group of students and community members will pass out 15,000 door hangers with a calendar of the week's events. The door hangers are emblazoned with a blue ribbon, the symbol for the week.

Neighborhood Cooperation Week will officially kick off on Thursday, Oct. 24, at Farmer's Market. Community members will pass out flyers with tips on how to be a good neighbor.

"I encourage students and residents to attend these events together," Piree said. "Grab your neighbor and go the Fun Run. Hopefully, we will all get a lot of satisfaction in participating in the first annual event," he said. "And we will begin to break two stereotypes of students and residents."

San Luis Obispo Police Chief

"The United States military came in there and slaughtered them," Sheehan said.

Sheehan also touched on the Clarence Thomas nomination for the Supreme Court.

"The man is a moral dead end," Sheehan said. Reflecting on Sheehan, simply said, "This is the Sonic Boom generation."

"Doesn't this (the standing ovation) say it all?" Sheehan said. "I suggest to you that time is up for these people," Sheehan said.

In conclusion, Sheehan recognized the college students interested in this movement.

"We, the Baby Boom, are joined by an entirely new generation," Sheehan said. "This is the Sonic Boom generation."

"Sheehan received a standing ovation upon concluding. A spectator, asked to comment on Sheehan, simply said, "Doesn't this (the standing ovation) say it all?"
Should the athletics referendum be passed?

By Peter Hartlaub

Before I pledge my impassioned support toward Cal Poly athletics, there is an anger I have to get out of the way.

The first one that we are told we are going Division I with a football stadion that I could tear down with 30 minutes and a boltcutter. We have been granted a mandate for new facilities.

This is a genuine fear that during the summer, the athletes and coaches, the administration would have little idea about what they were doing. They are not going to be able to do new facilities.

Now, we have a chance to tell them that we want to see the infrastructure in place for a football stadium.

You can hate the sports themselves, but there is something about them, they still are an important part of Cal Poly's recognition as a campus in this nation.

The worst thing is that we are sending to the students is unacceptable: sports are a class act.

There are many cogs in the Cal Poly machine, and many have nothing to do with one another, but together they make Cal Poly a respectable institution.

The media are right of its athletes and coaches of the Cal Poly athletic department. The worst thing that is bound to happen during the “discussion” of this referendum is dragging the athletes down.

This criticism will not be deserved. Under the current $50 fee increase, the Cal Poly athletic department has $1 million to spend.

The athletes and coaches are a class act. Many people do not realize that athletes gives good public relations for Cal Poly.

Every time Los Angeles Rams right end Dave Johnson scores a touchdown or Ozzie Smith wins a gold glove exposure for Cal Poly.

The administration would say all this is true, but they are not going to support a move to Division I from Division II standing.

This first increase in fees will be $14 per quarter beginning in the summer of 1992. The student fees toward the referendum will offset the current debt to Instructional Related Activities, budget reductions, additional staffing in IRA, coaching staff, athletics staff and travel costs.

According to the athletics department, the move to Division I is in response to the rapid depletion of Division II programs.

In football alone, over half of the league has moved or announced intention to move to Division I.

With a move to Division I, there is a greater chance to play with local teams instead of the present inter-conference games against such teams as Nebraska at Kearney and Portland State.

Presently, Cal Poly has 16 sports, with two men's wrestling and women's volleyball) at a Division I level. If the referendum fails, there would only be enough funding for eight sports at Division II. Men's and women's track, x-country, tennis and basketball would probably be the surviving sports.

Included in the assumed cuts would be men's football and baseball, two sports which have sent players to professional arenas. There has been no official date given for the referendum.

Cal Poly Sports

The future of Cal Poly sports is in question. In response to the 20 percent cut to the athletics budget in May, athletics is turning to the students.

Students will be asked in a referendum to pay $43 per quarter by 1994 to support a move to Division I from Division II standing.

This referendum is all a joke, right?

The university, in an attempt to save the existing sports program and move it to Division I, is proposing a referendum which asks students to shell out an additional $43 a quarter.

By David Bock

This is all a joke, right?

Through all this, I still urge you to support this referendum.

The administration has initiated this severe cutbacks to many departments and schools, including canned classes, faculty and staff layoffs and reduced library hours and services.

If that wasn't enough, students this fall began paying an additional 20 percent demanded of us by the California State University System. And of course, we're still paying for construction of the Food Center.

With these recent cutbacks and fee increases in mind, the message this referendum special interests are sending to the students is unacceptable: sports are a class act.

Why not, after all, offer the students a referendum to prevent classes from being canceled? Or offer off-campus members to keep their jobs? Or to retain library materials and improve library hours?

Good question.

Historically, Cal Poly has always placed academics as its highest priority. Indeed, the university's reputation is based on this fact.

But during the last decade in America where educational standards are abysmally poor — and still falling — the idea of spreading education funding in this way is undoubtedly misguided. The referendum is the wrong solution.

"It happens every day," says Kathy Evans, shelter manager of the Woods Humane Society in San Luis Obispo. Homeless animals like Rye, a big brown and white St. Bernard, can be found in one of the shelter's 30 dog runs that hold up to three dogs each. Prospective pet owners come in to Woods, find a new friend like Rye and adopt him — saving him from his alternate fate at the shelter, death by lethal injection.

The population of homeless animals in San Luis Obispo County is too great, Evans said, and a major reason is because owners do not spay or neuter their pets. "It is something that is going to have to be realized. Animals have to be neutered," Evans said.

Not until owners are consistently neutering their pets, she said, will Woods be able to cut back on the number of animals it is forced to kill — the shelter simply has more pets than people want to adopt. "The more animals adopted, the less we have to put to sleep," Evans said.

Already this year, the agency has placed 79 percent of the 1,231 animals taken in. Last year, only 51 percent of 1,416 animals total were placed in homes, according to Woods' adoption statistics.

Since Evans began working at Woods in December 1990, the pet adoption rate has risen 28 percent. "We work very hard," Evans said, "because it's difficult to see all the sad animals." Woods' adoption-promoting events like Adopt-A-Pet and storefront window displays have been successful in giving shelter animals the exposure they need to get adopted, Evans said.

"The displays were a big success," Evans said.

The events put the animals in easy view of the public, away from the confines of the shelter, she said. Prospective buyers at these adoption events and at Woods must go through an adoption process.

During this process, Woods asks potential owners to fill out an application and questionnaire. "When the animal is actually adopted, a spay or neuter deposit is included in the adoption fee if the animal is not already fixed," Evans said.

"The deposits receipt is redeemable at a licensed veterinarian toward a spay or neuter," Evans said.

Saturday of every month, Woods employees and volunteers display shelter dogs, cats, puppies and kittens at a specified location in the county, Evans said. Like all animals available at Woods, she said those available at Adopt-A-Pet are not strays or lost animals, but were placed at Woods by owners who could no longer keep them.

At last month's Adopt-A-Pet, 21 animals were placed in homes, Evans said.

The next Adopt-A-Pet will be on Nov. 2 at Central Coast Plaza from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Rileys department store helped out Woods Humane Society last December and again the following July by donating a window for Woods to display puppies and kittens.

"The displays were a big success," Evans said.

Three surprised students win campus dining contest

Depositing cash into the Campus Express Club paid off for three Cal Poly students this quarter.

Anyone who made a deposit to the Campus Express Club by the end of September qualified for a drawing used to promote the program.

Names from the Campus Express Club were picked out of a brown paper bag last week, and three lucky students received prizes.

The Campus Express Club allows students and faculty to make deposits into an account and use the deposits to pay for food at eating locations around campus.

Juan Herrera, an architecture senior, was reimbursed for his fall quarter tuition.

“It was a total surprise to me,” Herrera said. “I was shocked, I had no idea about the drawing.”

Herrera said considering the amount of money he has in his savings account, the money is coming at a good time.

This is Herrera’s first quarter using the Campus Express Club.

“I don’t know how those things go, though,” Lawson said. “You never think that you’ll win.”

Lawson said this was a good quarter to get free books. He said he has a literature class which required him to buy several books.

“Ah, the joys of bookstores,” he said. “And gosh knows I needed the cash,” he said.

BOMB THREATS

DO YOU THINK THAT CALLING IN A BOMB THREAT IS FUNNY ... A CUTE PRANK?
THINK AGAIN

HERE ARE SOME OF THE CONSEQUENCES IF YOU ARE ARRESTED AND CONVICTED.

1. GUARANTEED JAIL TIME:
A CRIMINAL RECORD FOR LIFE; GREATLY DIMINISHED EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

2. LIABILITY FOR THE LOSS OF STATE RESOURCES:
Analysis of Cal Poly's budget shows that it costs the state approximately $10 per student per hour of lecture or per laboratory session. The bomb threat on Friday, October 11, 1991 caused evacuation of the Mathematics and Home Economics Building and the disruption of 10, 11, 12, and 1 o'clock classes. These classes and laboratories represent over $20,000 in state resource commitments. Can you compensate the state? Would you like to compensate students for their personal resource commitments toward a university education?

3. LIABILITY FOR PERSONAL INJURY OR DAMAGE TO FACILITIES:
It is dangerous to have to quickly evacuate any area, especially laboratories. Fires, accidents, and damage to equipment and facilities can result. You could be subject to both criminal and civil action.

BOMB THREATS ARE NOT FUNNY. YOU ARE CONTRIBUTING TO TERRORISM AND, BY PERPETRATING HOAXES, INCREASING THE POSSIBILITY OF DISASTER IN THE EVENT OF A REAL ATTEMPT. THINK BEFORE YOU ACT ... YOUR FUTURE IS AT STAKE.

City of SLO changes phone prefix numbers

The City of San Luis Obispo has changed its telephone prefix number from “549” to “781.” The change was necessary due to the city’s decision to convert its current telephone system to the Pacific Bell Centrex system.

The last four digits of city phone numbers will remain the same. The new telephone books currently being distributed reflect the prefix change.

Free AIDS testing available in SLO

The SLO County Health Department offers HIV/AIDS antibody tests. Free, anonymous testing is offered at 2191 Johnson Ave., San Luis Obispo on Mondays from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.; Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.; the second Wednesday of each month from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.; and the first Saturday of each month from 9 a.m. to noon.

Appointments are not necessary for free, anonymous testing. For more information about testing or HIV disease, call 549-4200.

Cuesta College Lively Arts series begins

Reservations for the Cuesta College Lively Arts, an annual series of six top performing arts programs, are now available to the public.

The series begins Oct. 19 with the Tony Award winner “ Barnett.” Series tickets are available and general admission tickets are $13 each. For information call the Cuesta public events office at 541-3131.

Small business workshop offered

An annual Service Corps of Retired Executives workshop will be held at Cuesta College Saturday, Oct. 19. Titled “Creating a Plan for Your Own Business,” the workshop will be held in the Cuesta College Business & Technology building, room 4110 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The cost of the workshop is $40 per person ($20 for students). Call Cuesta College at 546-3251 for more information.

Travel, routine immunizations available in SLO

The San Luis Obispo County Health Department holds immunization clinics for routine and travel immunizations throughout the county. Immunizations against diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough; polio; measles, mumps and rubella (MMR); and Haemophilus influenzae type b (HIB) are offered free of charge to low income families. There is a $12 charge for families above the income guideline. The state requires that these immunizations be completed before entrance into kindergarten. Immunizations for foreign travel are given only as recommended by the World Health Organization. Call 549-5500 for more information.

or neuter procedure. If the new owner does not use the receipt, the deposit is forfeited to the Humane Society.

"Taking a deposit helps the new owner remember it is their responsibility to neuter their pet," Evans said.

Anne Vernacchia, president of Woods board of directors, said in the Woods newsletter that Woods Humane Society is a non-profit organization, so a "drop-off" fee, required when an animal is brought in, is necessary in order to feed, care for and vaccinate the animal during its stay at the shelter.

Most animals are accepted by the society, but Vernacchia said the agency reserves the right to determine an animal unfit for adoption. Ill-temperament, poor physical condition and age are factors that sometimes require Woods to refuse an animal.

"We try to keep animals as long as we can," Vernacchia said. "Some animals are with us for six weeks or longer before we find a good home."

Sometimes Woods will even work with the county office of Animal Regulation in finding a home for an animal, Evans said.

"If they have a stray they think would benefit from our adoption events, they work with us," she said, although it is illegal for Woods to take in or adopt stray and lost animals.

Animal Regulation, as opposed to Woods, is a tax-supported organization which enforces animal laws, licenses animals, investigates complaints about animals and takes in stray and lost animals, said dispatching officer Susan Davis. Animal Regulation also provides adoption services, she said.

In addition to adoption, Woods provides euthanasia and cremation services as well as boarding facilities for dogs.

THOMAS

a tie-breaking vote if necessary. It wasn’t needed. The visitors’ galleries were packed but hushed as senators rose, one by one, to cast their votes. It was an uneasy decision for many senators, forcing them to judge between the irreconcilably different stories of accuser and accused. Thomas had been accused by law professor Anita Hill of making unwanted advances and humiliating her with lewd remarks a decade ago when she worked for him at the Education Department and Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Her surprise charges brought an abrupt halt to the Senate’s plans to vote on Thomas’ nomination a week ago.

Thomas emphatically denied the charges and complained he was the victim of a “high-tech lynching.” The nation was transfixed as the accusations were spelled out in explicit detail and debated in nationally televised hearings.

Hill came along 10 years after making unwanted advances and humiliating her with lewd remarks a decade ago when she worked for him at the Education Department and Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Her surprise charges brought an abrupt halt to the Senate’s plans to vote on Thomas’ nomination a week ago.

It all happened 10 years ago,” he said. “I don’t think we will ever know enough about Anita Hill and what really happened, but Thomas has really been under the gun. I doubt we will ever find out the truth.”

Accounting senior Amanda Blume supports the decision to confirm Thomas. “He has worked hard to get where he is now, and he really deserves the nomination,” she said. “It upsets me that Anita Hill came along 10 years after the fact.”

Jessie Ocampo, a forestry junior, hopes that something positive will come out of this weekend’s Senate hearings and the Thomas confirmation. “I feel that he (Thomas) will do better (as a Supreme Court judge) because he has been through so much,” Ocampo said. “These hearings have really enforced his character and I think he will pay special attention to his cases and individual’s rights.”

Business sophomore Dan Ryan smiled as the final vote of the day was cast and Thomas was confirmed. “Good. I’m glad it’s over,” Ryan said. “But his name was really dragged through the mud.”
