

Using photography as my medium, I enjoy making connections with new people and capturing their spirit within a portrait. I try to seek out unique individuals that create a story through their personality and appearance—it can be humorous and oftentimes quite insightful. By getting to know others with different lifestyles and hobbies, I've learned to appreciate the individuality that comes with different cultures and environments.

ROSLYN YEAGER

