

4-1-2003

Contributors

Follow this and additional works at: <http://digitalcommons.calpoly.edu/moebius>

Recommended Citation

(2003) "Contributors," Moebius: Vol. 1: Iss. 2, Article 22.

Available at: <http://digitalcommons.calpoly.edu/moebius/vol1/iss2/22>

This Back Matter Article is brought to you for free and open access by the College of Liberal Arts at DigitalCommons@CalPoly. It has been accepted for inclusion in Moebius by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@CalPoly. For more information, please contact mwyngard@calpoly.edu.

CONTRIBUTORS

Kate E. Asche is an English junior. She is currently working on her senior project, a debut chapbook called “Electric Dresses.” She will be applying to graduate programs in the fall and will receive her Cal Poly diploma in June 2004.

Odile Aryal-Clause is a Professor of French and the Humanities. She is a dual citizen of France and the United States.

Emmit B. Evans teaches Contemporary Global Issues and World Food Systems in the Political Science Department. He has conducted research in Kenya, Mexico, and the Scripps Institute of Oceanography. He is currently focused on building a global civil society.

Susanna Farber will graduate this June with a B.A. in Political Science and a minor in Spanish. She is a member of the Moebius Editorial Board and writes a political column for the Mustang Daily. She plans on attending U.C. Hastings College of Law this fall.

Philip Fetzner is on sabbatical Spring Quarter. He is Managing Editor of Moebius.

Lynne Gamble is the Reference/Intellectual Property Librarian at the Cal Poly Library. She has also served as the Reference/Subject Librarian for many of the Liberal Arts departments. A “court order” will be required to find out how long she has been at Cal Poly.

Mary Kay Harrington directs the Writing Skills Program. She no longer lives near big trucks or big flags.

Nishan Havandjian is a Professor and Chair of the Journalism Department. He is currently studying the role of Arab ethnic media in the United States post 9/11. He has taught courses in international communication, newswriting, and reporting.

David Hennessee is a Lecturer in the Department of English where he teaches British literature and composition. He has publications forthcoming in Dickens Studies Annual and Nineteenth-Century Contexts.

Kathryn K. Logan will graduate this June with a B.A. in Political Science and an international relations concentration. This fall, she hopes to participate in a Masters’ program at the Brussels School of International Studies.

Laura Newman is a third year Journalism major and Mustang Daily staff writer. She will be interning this summer in Washington, D.C. for Senator Dianne Feinstein.

Malia Spencer is a Journalism senior and managing editor of the Mustang Daily. She hopes to graduate in December of 2003 and pursue a career in print journalism.

Michael Stanker is a Political Science sophomore who plans on attending law school. He is skeptical of most everything, and tries to avoid any ideological bandwagon.

Ashley Wolf is a Journalism sophomore who plans to pursue a career in public relations or advertising. She plans on graduating in 2006.