No. 14

DON'T MISS THIS MISS

"Miss Cherryblossom," of course. Join us tomorrow evening (Friday, April 13) at the Elmo Theatre at 8:15 o'clock.

We assure you that you will be delightfully entertained by this musical comedy which is to be given by our own students.

When the curtain rises and the play begins, your emotions will carry you far away in dreams, as you gaze upon the beautiful Oriental ten garden, where fluttering about you will see the brilliantly costumed Gaijin Girls and hear the wonderful voice of Miss Cherryblossom, combined with the soft and flickering light of the Japanese lanterns.

The story of the play goes something like this: Miss Cherryblossom, a beautiful young girl, is brought up as a Japanese maiden. Her childhood is a mystery to her and she knows nothing of her real identity. Her parents die of fever when she is yet very young, and her father's private secretary, Worthington, uses her property to better his own ends.

When Cherry is about eighteen, Worthington returns to Japan on his yacht with a party of Americans, who are his friends. Among them is a young New Yorker, John Henry Smith, who immediately falls in love with Cherry and who wishes to marry her. But Kokemo has brought her up as his own daughter and wants her to marry Togo, a wealthy politician. The whole action of the play centers about this whirling romance; in due time all ends happily.

Now a few words must be said about those who are taking part. Of course you will be pleasantly surprised when you find that you do not recognize Muriel Sellers, dressed in a dainty Japanese kimono, as Miss Cherryblossom, while Dutch Somers, as John Henry Smith, will be equally effective. Tommy Tomasini as Kokemo will afford much amusement, and Palmer Powell as Togo will prove himself a lively suitor. The love affair between Henry Jones, otherwise known as Albert Hankenson, and Dorothy Lebo, who in the play is called Jessica, is exciting and well arranged. But we could scarcely get along without the two secretaries, Worthington (Eddie McNish) and Worthington's private secretary (Ver-non Eastin). Members of the Girls' Glee Club will represent the Gaijin and American girls, while the parts of the American men will be played by the members of the Boys' Glee Club.

Miss Bell, who is directing the piece, has put in a great deal of time and deserves much credit. The least that we can do is to attend one hundred per cent and help her to make it a sweeping success.

MAY 5 BIG DAY FOR POLY—BIG COUNTY TRACK MEET HERE

All indications point to a big day for Poly on May 5 when a track meet will be held for the grade schools of the county in conjunction with the Annual Farmer's Day.

Invitations have been sent to every grammar school in the county with a list of the various contests and the prizes to be awarded for each. It is estimated that at least one hundred and fifty boys will be entered from the six school districts of the county.

Through the hearty co-operation of the merchants and business men of San Luis Obispo enough money has been raised to defray the expenses of all the various medals and cups. A list of contributors and contributions will be published later, the present ones being incomplete.

The management of this meet is entirely in the hands of the Athletic Committee, and in order to put it over big it is going to necessitate some good hard work on the part of the student body.

As soon as the weather permits the Freshmen will be asked to help get the track in shape and the upper classes will have work to do getting the apparatus lined up, etc. On the day of the meet every one is going to do something, such as have charge of some event, keep time, measure jumps, so when the call comes, be ready to help one hundred per cent in making this the biggest, best and most successful day Poly has ever seen.

The eighth period class in occupations visited the various business men in town last Tuesday afternoon under the supervision of Miss Pendry, the instructor. The men visited gave a complete discussion of their various occupations, telling the history of their ventures, the outcome, and why it had been profitable.

CONSTITUTION DRAWN FOR DRAMATIC CLUB APPROVED BY S. A. C.

With the appointment of temporary officers and a committee to draw up a constitution, the Dramatic Club has begun as a regular organization in the school. Under the conditions stated in the constitution this club becomes more or less of an honorary society, the idea being that the student must be carrying the equivalent of four solids and doing at least passable work in each in order to be an active member.

With the next meeting will come the election of the regular officers for the remainder of the school year, as the constitution was approved at the last meeting of the Student Affairs Committee.

So that all may understand more fully the proposed working of the organization the constitution is herewith published.

ARTICLE I—Name.

The name of this organization shall be the Dramatic Club of the California Polytechnic School.

ARTICLE II—Purpose

The purpose of this organization is to further the dramatic interests of the school and the student by the study and production of plays.

ARTICLE III—Membership

Section 1. The membership shall be made up of both active and associate members.

Section 2. The membership shall be limited to twenty-five per cent of the student body, which percentage shall include both active and associate members.

"A TAILOR-MADE MAN" WILL BE PRESENTED

Now comes the grand final of the dramatic work in Poly for the year.

Immediately following the closing of the rehearsals for "Miss Cherryblossom" rehearsals will start for "A Tailor-Made Man," the play finally chosen by the committee. Last week tryouts for this were held, and the student body responded gloriously. Up to the present writing the cast has not as yet been fully decided, but will be announced soon. This play will be presented at the Elmo Theater on May 20.

PICNIC COMMITTEE

Polytechnic will have another school picnic May Day this year. The Student Affairs Committee will supervise it but the following committee will be in actual charge:

favorably by two-thirds of the active membership.

(c) He be carrying the equivalent of four solids and doing at least passable work in each.

Section 4. Active members are the members whose grades in four solids are passable for a period of nine weeks. If the grades of any active member are found to be below he is then put in the class of associate members.

Section 5. Should the grades of a member of this organization be below passing for a period of eighteen weeks, his membership is canceled. He is then eligible to membership on the same basis as new members.

ARTICLE IV—Power to Vote

Section 1. Only the active members have the power to vote.

Section 2. Only active members are eligible for nomination to office.

ARTICLE V—Officers

Section 1. The officers of this organization shall be a president, vice president, a secretary and a treasurer. These officers shall be elected by the vote of the active membership.

Section 2. A regular meeting shall be held bi-weekly during the school year. The dates of these meetings shall be set as the occasion arises.

ARTICLE VIII

Student body credit shall be given for the work done in the club at the recommendation of the adviser of the club, subject to the approval of the Student Affairs Committee.

COME OUT FOR TEAMS

Poly's baseball and track season is on—but where are the teams that are to bring victory to our school? Six or eight men for track do not make a fair representation for Poly, and fifteen men trying out for baseball will not make a team as there was in 1922; that team won every game played. Where are last year's baseball men?

After running through a good season in football and basketball, against college opponents, what would be thought of the school if a high school should win even a game in baseball, or run a lead on us in the track meet on May, 14?—especially when the material is here. Any number of men could be named that would be good for two or three points in any county track meet, and it is up to these students to see that they are out every night, and to build up a track spirit in the Polytechnic School.

The track men will get greater kick this year than ever before as there are four track meets in sight. (1) Inter class to be held April 17; (2) A meet at Santa Barbara, April 22; (3) a county track meet on the Polytechnic field on May 14; (4) the big college meet in Modesto the end of April.

Then why not be a loyal supporter of the school and appear on the field in a green and orange track suit, tomorrow.

When Wisdom Speaks

When a wise man speaks it's wise people who listen. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University is probably the wisest man in the United States to-day. When he speaks statesmen, educators and men of affairs listen. In an article entitled "America's duty in the Near East" Mr. Eliot tells "how the United States could end the international problem that has convulsed Europe for centuries, and could benefit the world by assuming a mandate for the troubled lands that border on the Bosphorus". He says in concluding "The assumption of this mandate will cost the United States a considerable sum of money, but nothing like what postponement of the pacification and stabilisation of Europe and the Near East will cost from year to year, and nothing like what another war, either in Europe or the Near East, will cost the United States." And finally he concludes, "Abstention from going to the help of Europe during the past four years has cost the United States something much more precious than money or goods, namely, a serious impairment of self-respect, a relapse into selfishness, after a glowing outburst of unselfishness and zeal for liberty and justice among men, and a miserable period of discontent with itself, mankind and the world."

The article may be found in the World's Work for February. It will interest you.

WORK FOR SUCCESS
OF OUR OPERETTA
SELL MORE TICKETS

The success of the operetta not only depends on the cleverness and cleanness of the character but largely on the amount of seats sold. It should be the spirit of every student to sell at least five tickets. Every student should and could do his share, you owe it to the student in the operetta, to the director and to the school. Nothing better could show the spirit of the student body than a full Elmo Theater Friday night to see Miss Cherryblossom.

Your co-operation is needed, lend a helping hand—everyone.

ON THE RIFLE RANGE

The students are missing a good sport and also an opportunity to learn to handle a large rifle when they do not go out for target practice on Saturday.

The freshmen students are the only students who seem to take an interest in rifle shooting and at present a freshman holds the high point score. Why is not an upper class man in the lead?

Nearly every boy in Poly intends to get a deer this year, and if he can learn to shoot more accurately, at the government expense, it may mean coming home with the meat instead of without it.

Captain Deuel is trying to build up this sport and would like to see more upper classmen out as well as freshmen. It is a sport worthy of your time, has its physical development and is part of military training.

In accordance with this, six .22 caliber target rifles have arrived for the use of the student who will take the proper care of the gun he borrows.

As a suggestion for the years to come why couldn't a rifle team be organized in each class, then have a meet at the end of the year, and a prize be given by the rest, to the winner of the meet?

A WORD FOR POLY
DESK WHITTLERS

H. S. P.
E. O. R.
Ted Evans
T. L. F.

These are some of the carvings on the study hall desks.

Some people do get a thrill out of seeing their names in print, on the blackboard, or even on a school desk.

If the name appears in the daily news, it is soon forgotten; if it is written on the board, it is easily erased; so the student who would be famous (or infamous) neatly carves his "John Henry" in the most conspicuous part of his desk at school so that all who follow will know that he has lead.

Now, why should not Poly have a post, or better, a tablet, placed in the backyard where all students who would have fame may leave their names so that all who come may know these persons have passed before?

'KING TUT' NOT ONLY
NEW DISCOVERY

The other day a Freshman became seized with a sudden interest in the derivation of a word—"Sophomore." He found after an exhaustive search among some "American Indian" dictionaries, just what he was looking for. It seems that Sophomore is a misconstruction of the word "sofa," which means a long flat animal, with its top stuffed with hair. These animals originated in Bulgaria. Only a few hundred years ago these animals were partially paralyzed and rested on four legs. Natural evolution has given us the modern "sophomore" seen on Poly campus.

One defect that evolution failed to eradicate from the Sophomore is its squeak. Our Glee Club teacher, Miss Bell, has patiently worked to do away with this terrible thing in a few of the most promising Sofas. But five months of intensive training and association with Freshmen who can sing have failed to produce anything but a terrible noise. They go to Glee Club and squeak and groan until one wishes to offer them a can of "3-in-1" oil to drink.

Their remote ancestors were very inoffensive animals, allowing small children to tramp on them at will, and they have been known to allow several people to sit on them at once offering no opposition except a squeak or two. One "Sofa" with an Angora hair top became imbued with the idea that he could play ball, in fact pitch. Some of the others thought they could catch or play first base, but anyone can plainly see that an animal whose arms originally stuck out behind him could never learn to use them to any advantage in front, without losing a spring somewhere.

Some of them have learned to talk quite good English, but are seen often in Miss Hayslip's room trying to learn how to spell "all right" as two separate words. Evidently the hair top doesn't retain things very long, so two days a week are set apart for the spelling of this word.

A few of the male "Sofas" object to anyone saying that the "female" is wiser than the male, and insist on arguing the question to everyone's entire dissatisfaction. We have reasons to believe this defect will be remedied soon after they commit matrimony.

One great objection to the Sophomore is that he doesn't cut his hair, and it has been whispered that he is afraid to wash his top because it fades so easily. A bag of water is known to be the fairly good cure for a dusty top. Anyone seeing a Sophomore with his top off is requested immediately to secure a bag and wash him.

The End of a Lent

I lent a book to him;
He lent it to a friend;
The friend may take a whim
The favor to extend!
He'll lend it to another,
His sister or his brother,
And one of these days, maybe,
My book will be lent to me!

In a Los Angeles paper I see they have a woman Bluebeard. Hurrah for Dorothy Lebo!

A LETTER

Polytechnic, April 10, 1923.

Mr. C. L. Slusher—

Dear Sir: Owing to the fact that you are living in the Dorm and have not as yet paid your Dorm dues, we will cancel the dues if you will be kind enough to see that the supply agent, or in other words, the man that is supposed to do the buying for the Dining Hall, would be so kind as to purchase some glasses.

I would like to state that any person entering the Dining Hall would think that we were all babies. The reason for this is that we are all drinking milk from bottles.

I would like to see you take some action on this matter at once.

I remain,

Yours till the Eskimos wear

When to my bed last night,
The mattress looked so neat and nice;
'Twas filled up with that strange device—
EXCELSIOR.

After tossing long and fighting fleas,
I got down on my bended knees
And gave thanks unto the Lord
That I was through with that shredded board—
EXCELSIOR

Next morn I to my breakfast went
My knees were weak, my purse was bent.

The waiter brought me on my tray,
A bowl containing a bale of hay—
EXCELSIOR

I took a stroll out on the street,
A banana peel lay at my feet;
The fall I got sure was no myth
I wish I had been padded with
EXCELSIOR

A bakery shop next door did take my eye,
With coconut cakes and lemon pie—
I ordered cake and bacon raw—
The cake was sprinkled with broken straw—

News of Oil Magnates

As all of you who notice things have probably observed, there have been some promotions among the Standard Oil heroes. Peaches and Forrest have graduated from the ranks of the khaki-donned water boys to the white uniforms of the regular service station men. That's what we call service.

As there must always be something to fill up a place when something has been removed we now have Hubert Patchett joining the ranks of the Standard Oil Company, taking Peaches' place as a water boy at the station at the corner of Monterey and Santa Rosa Streets.

So far we know we have taken care of all our oil magnets of the service stations with the exception of Dick Wilson, and there is not a thing to say about him in regard to his work at the station, since he is still in the same position. As yet he has not been made manager of the Associated Oil Company's branch here, but just give him time.

BUSY SESSION FOR BLOCK "P" CLUB

The Block "P" Club held a regular meeting in the physics laboratory after school Thursday, April 5, and arranged for an assembly to be pulled off by them on April 25. Their's will be an original program so the rest of the student body and the faculty may look forward to the coming event.

"Coming events cast their shadows before, but you can't always tell the shape of an event by the shape of the shadow—so watch and wonder.

A vote was taken to determine in what way the club would be represented in the Journal this year, and it went for individual pictures.

Now that they have resurrected King Tot, Bud Coyner should get over his old and grown-up ways.

DORM DOINGS

We have all survived our week's vacation in fine shape, although some were delayed by an extended tour of the great southwest.

Morrison and Clements are the guilty parties. They left here on a motorcycle (the motor that held all dorm records) which they rode as far as Las Vegas, where it went on the bum. They then boarded a side-door Pullman and finally arrived at Caliente, Nevada. Morrison had his machine there, and they started back to school. After several mishaps and one last chuck hole, the machine broke down. This was in the desert. After two days of hunger and thirst, they were rescued by a tow wagon that pulled them to Las Vegas again where they again boarded the Pullman of their special design. They finally arrived in Los Angeles where they got Clements' food and came back to school a week late. On the whole they had a good time and lots of experience.

Two of our members are "doing campus" for some unknown reason.

Getting into jail in the '49 Camp was one of our most popular hobbies over the last week-end.

Pfeiffer seemed to be on hand every night at the '49 Camp. We cannot imagine his being so bold as to try a hold-up on a Klondike dealer. He wasn't.

Farmer—"Hey, there, young feller, what are you doing in my henhouse?"

Hank—"Oh, one of the hens fell off the roost and I'm just trying to put it back on, that's all."
