ONE HUNDRED AND ELEVEN DOLLARS AT IKEA, 2018

One-Hundred and Eleven Dollars at IKEA, 2018 is an installation made of two stools, two tables, one dresser, and paint, which explores the function consumers impose onto mass produced objects. I constructed the five objects with the intent to remove any intended function the furniture initially served. My aim was for viewers to visually explore the space and consider where their body would fit into this environment.
