"Ag" is the newsletter of Compassion in World Farming and is published, as far as possible, bi-monthly. The work is concerned with the agricultural aspect of the total environment. It seeks to introduce non-violence into our relationship with farm animals, wildlife, the plant kingdom and the soil itself.

In the short term it campaigns against the cruelty of factory farming. Mandatory standards are called for in order to get a square deal for livestock during rearing, transport and slaughter.

The long term programme calls for less reliance on animals. This will release available food resources to a greater number of people, particularly in the Third World. It is recommended that the best agricultural land be progressively switched from animal feed production to the growing of crops for direct human consumption.

C.I.W.F. also has documentary films, teaching kits and other educational materials available in the school circuit.

Subscriptions are £4.50 per year.
