A YEAR IN OBJECTS

Objects in my life over the past year of the pandemic. Mostly some recent and significant materials I use in my artwork, as well as one of the first sculptures I had made in the time being that broke. The old and the new within a year, and personal growth as an artist. Graphite 16"x20", 2021

LAURYN SUGAI

VALLEY

As a child I would visit my grandparents, passing a sunny and continuous landscape on the drive to their home. Being older, I now recall these scenes with a sense of nostalgia, associating aspects of the natural world with memories of my childhood and of being with them. Within this piece, and throughout my work, I explore the relationships between the physical landscape, memory, and ancestry.
