Loneliness is a strange sensation. A Cal Poly English professor once told me I had better get adjusted to feeling like an outsider because that is easier than fighting it. Loneliness is a strange sensation.

I've been trying to use my self-portraits as a way to be more vulnerable in front of the camera. This was done all in-camera with a long exposure.

In my black and white photography class I had a lot of fun exploring and capturing nature in a new way. I really love how simplistic and calm black and white landscapes can be. It really brings the focus to the rich textures and the diversity of nature here in California.
